The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

We now add the third Adams to our list of U. S. Presidents, since Eisenhower has labeled Squirmy Sherman as the indispensable man of the administration. When the Chief Executive further belittles his position as President of the United States by expressing his inability to carry on the high duties of his office without the aid of his first lieutenant, it points up again the mistake the American voters continue to make when they select a military hero for the nation's top civil office. It seems that we learn little from history.

The preacher was finishing admonishing his flock on the evils of avarice: "And remember, my friends," he said, "there will be no buying and selling in heaven." Whereupon a man, who sat in the back row and apparently had been pondering over the recession, was heard to grumble: "That's not where business has gone anyway."

With a son soon to reach the ripe old age of eight, we worry about his constant desire to climb trees, ladders or anything else where there appears, to us, too much of a chance to get a mean fall. Possibly the best advice we could give him—and we wonder how many of you can remember the warning of our grandmothers—is: "Don't go where cobwebs grow." That advice, if adhered to, might keep him out of attics, barn lofts and other such fascinating places.

Nothing is gained without giving, and that holds true in the matter of gossip at the hairdresser's.

Why is it that no one gives a tinker's dam (and we are not cussing) when a man or a woman fails in business; but anyone who is completely successful in a business undertaking is certain to come in for all types of critical comment? Then, too, the man who barely ekes out a living from his business causes the comment: "Well, he just doesn't have what it takes."

The managing editor of a metropolitan tabloid was pacing the floor. "I'll be darn if I know what to put on the front page," he complained. "For 24 hours now there hasn't been a murder, scandal, graft, embezzlement—nothing." "Take it easy, chief," spoke up the city editor soothingly. "You haven't lost faith in human nature, have you? Just wait—you'll have your story. It is bound to happen, it always does."

We agree with the old boy who remarked: "What business needs today is fewer orders from politicians and more from customers."

When a youngster picks up everything he has dropped on the floor, replaces comic books and drawing paper in their designated places, eats everything placed on his plate without comment and says: "Yes Ma'am" and "Yes Sir" when spoken to—it means he's visiting in the home of a friend.

We wonder if they ever found Mwaubistia Nkaborui Kaustori. He's a member of the Ubangi tribe of French Equatorial Africa and had registered for the recent semester at the University of Arizona—but never showed up for classes. The police were called into the case.

A young college student got a job for the summer vacation months selling woolen yarns, calling on housewives throughout the city. One day, after having about given up because of the number of turn-downs he had received, he knocked on the door of a rather attractive new home. A gorgeous blonde came to the door. Although a bit startled, he began his sales talk: "Lady, I work for the American Woollen Company. Could I interest you in some coarse yarns?" Her face lighted up: "Gosh, yes," she said. "I love 'em. Tell me a couple."

Judge Jones Postpones Hearing Against NAACP

Attorney General Contends Body Functioning Under Another Name

Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones has postponed the contempt hearing against the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People that had been set for Wednesday. The postponement was made pending a higher court ruling on whether a circuit judge can try the case.

The NAACP appealed to the state Supreme Court in a renewed effort to force Jones to excuse himself from the case. Jones refused to step aside Friday, dismissing a complaint which accused him of demonstrated "personal bias and prejudice" against the NAACP.

Alabama Attorney General John Patterson had filed contempt charges against the NAACP stating that the organization still is functioning under the name of the Alabama State Co-ordinating Association for Registration and Voting.

The contempt hearing was begun Friday but recessed until Wednesday when state attorneys led by Patterson ran into difficulty in getting certain records they had asked for.

Judge Jones signed the injunction issued by Patterson in June, 1956, which charged that the NAACP never had registered under Alabama law as an out-of-state corporation. He also fined the NAACP $100,000 for refusal to produce membership lists and other records. This contempt conviction has been appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Patterson's complaint is directed also at two Negro leaders, W. C. Patton of Birmingham and W. P. Mitchell of Tuskegee, were among the organizers of the co-ordinating association. Patton is president of the group and also was state president of NAACP at the time of the issuance of the injunction against the organization in 1956.

Negro Atty. Fred Gray of Montgomery based his appeal that Jones step down in arguments before the State Supreme Court principally on a speech made by Jones during the recent election campaign. Jones promised in a radio-television talk that he would deliver a mortal blow to the NAACP.

Late News

An oil tanker was rammed by a Swedish freighter in East River Wednesday resulting explosion turning the river into a flaming inferno and setting fire to the famed Manhattan bridge. Three persons were reported missing and more than thirty were injured. Fire on the bridge was quickly brought under control and little damage was reported.

Wildcat strikers at the Chrysler Corporation's Jupiter-Redstone missiles plant just north of Detroit were threatened with expulsion Wednesday by the United Auto Workers executive board if the strike is continued. The strike was called by workers at the plant to protest what was termed as "discrimination against the union" during the present no contract period.

Waterloo Youths Compete In 4-H Essay Contest

Program Sponsored By Cooperatives, Extension Service

Imogene Irons and Don Bevis, both of Waterloo, were among the members of more than 60 Alabama counties who will compete in district 4-H cooperative essay contests this month.

The two youths competed in the District eliminations held at the Belle Mina Experiment Station on Wednesday. The Belle Mina contest was sponsored by local cooperatives including the National Farm Loan Association of Florence, the Colbert Farmer's Co-Op and the Russellville Production Credit Corporation.

Cooperative essay programs at county, district, and state levels were entered by over 2,500 4-Hers last year, says API Extension Marketing Specialist A. W. Jones, who supervises the statewide program.

These essay contests are sponsored by the Extension Service in cooperation with farmers' cooperatives for future cooperative leadership and to provide needed information about ways of doing business. By writing the essays and then presenting them orally boys and girls learn that cooperatives are organized, operated, and controlled by farmers for the purpose of marketing products, purchasing materials, and providing other business services farmers need.

Each entrant selects for the subject of his essay one of several phases of cooperative organizations, such as why farmers need cooperatives, public relations and community responsibilities and the place of cooperatives in the system of private enterprise.

Supt. J. W. Powell Retires After 30 Years Of Service

Much Credit For Great Progress Of System Is Given To His Leadership

Josiah W. Powell, who has served as superintendent of the Florence city school system since Jan. 1, 1933 and for five years prior to that date as head of the mathematics department of Coffee High School will retire from office on Tuesday, July 1. He will be succeeded in that exacting office by Rufus H. Hibbett, Sr., a former official of the school system.

Mr. Powell, who holds his B.S. and M.E. degrees from Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, came to Florence in 1917 when he established the Chero-Cola Bottling Co. He had served as principal of the District Agriculture School, now South Georgia College, Douglas, Ga., before leaving the teaching profession temporarily. It is of interest to note that one of the dormitories at this school is named Powell Hall in recognition of the fine leadership he gave the school.

It was while serving as principal of District Agriculture School that Mr. and Mrs. Powell were married. Mrs. Powell was a member of the faculty as head of the music department. They have two children, Mrs. John Laughter, of Birmingham, and Lt. Comdr. J. W. Powell, Jr., of Houlton, Maine. There are also eight grandchildren to add to the happiness of the family.

Mr. Powell is a charter member and past president of the Florence Exchange Club, a member of the Chamber of Commerce and former director, a Mason, a member of the ATO social fraternity and Phi Delta Kappa professional fraternity, an elder of the First Presbyterian church and is an Independent Democrat.

Following assuming the duties of superintendent of the city schools after the death of Supt. F. T. Appleby, Mr. Powell soon began plans for badly needed expansion. These plans shortly began taking shape and although the depression years were still affecting the expenditure of large sums of money, Mr. Powell was able to finance the steady improvement of the school plants, the teaching personnel and every facility for the betterment of education in the City of Florence.

Today, the Florence school system is recognized as one of the most efficient in the state. Its graduates stand high in every college they attend and the high quality of the curriculum and methods of instruction are copied in other school systems throughout the state.

Believing firmly in basic education, Mr. Powell has been able to impart to the teachers and on to the students that important foundation.

Explosive Lebanon Situation Seen Approaching Showdown

Hibbett Resigns From City Post; Darby Appointed

Former Commissioner To Fill Vacated Position Until September 30th

The Florence City Commission Tuesday accepted the resignation of Rufus G. Hibbett, Sr., who will assume his new duties as superintendent of Florence city schools on July 1. Mr. Hibbett succeeds J. W. Powell, who is retiring from the city school post July 1.

The city commission, Mayor E. F. Martin said Wednesday will appoint A. W. Darby, former commissioner, to fill Mr. Hibbett's unexpired term which officially ends on Sept. 30 of this year. It is understood that Mr. Darby will not seek another term on the commission at the end of the period to which he is appointed. The appointment of Mr. Darby will be made official by Mayor Martin and Commissioner Alvah E. Hall, at the next regular commission meeting, Tuesday, July 1.

Influencing the commission's decision to appoint Mr. Darby was his previous successful experience on the commission.

In a letter of resignation addressed to the commission Mr. Hibbett said he wished to thank the people of Florence for their excellent cooperation "during the two and one half years I have tried to serve them as a member of the City Commission. We have tried to give good service within the limits of the financial ability of the city. I am happy that we have accomplished many things and regret that there are other matters that have been deferred."

Mr. Hibbett also expressed his appreciation to the personnel of the engineering and street departments of which he was commissioner.

LESSONS TO BE LEARNED—Top Presidential Aide Sherman Adams confers with White House Press Secretary James Hagerty in Washington as Adams prepared to testify before the House subcommittee on regulatory agencies. The former governor of New Hampshire has become the most controversial figure in Eisenhower's administration and both Republicans and Democrats are pressing for his resignation. When questioned by the committee Adams admitted his indiscretions and commented: "I think there are some lessons we all learn—no matter how far along we get."

TVA Pays Sum Of $10 Million To Federal Treasury

Payments For Facilities Are Due In Forty Years; Ahead of Schedule

The Tennessee Valley Authority has repaid the United States Treasury another 10 million dollars bringing the total of repayments to more than 250 million dollars.

This payment reduced the amount unpaid to the Federal Government to one billion, 441 million dollars that has been invested in TVA's power facilities.

It was decided earlier this year by the TVA Board that this payment would provide funds for new generating units. The plan has not been authorized by Congress, but the payment was made with the expectation that it would be authorized.

For the past two years, TVA has been spending its net revenues to build new generating units to stay abreast of rising demands for power. Congress has denied appropriations for new power facilities and a self-financing plan. In order to construct these new units, TVA has reduced its payments to the Treasury.

TVA is required by Federal law to repay appropriations for power facilities within 40 years. Payments to date are well ahead of this schedule.

World Fair Honors State of Alabama

Folsom, McRae Guests Of Belgian Government; Troy State Choir Sings

The State of Alabama was saluted Monday at the Brussels World Fair.

Before the gold and grided Pavilion of the United States, the Alabama State flag was hoisted over the flag staff and over the public address system poured the recorded voices of the Troy State College choir, singing the state anthem.

Governor and Mrs. Folsom, along with Docks Director Knox McRae and Mrs. McRae, were guests at a brief ceremony with attending officials of the Belgian Government and the United States Fair Commission.

Two color films, one on the State's industrial growth and the other on the State's cultural activities, were shown later on in the Pavilion auditorium.

At the information desk at the entrance was literature on the state available to visitors to the Pavilion.

Bernard Goldfine once paid a $60 hotel bill for a Federal judge who later sat on a case involving a Goldfine firm Rep. John B. Bennett (R., Mich.) has disclosed.

Goldfine is the gift-giving friend of Presidential Aide Sherman Adams.

Bennett said he had information that Goldfine entertained Judge William T. McCarthy of Boston both before and after the jurist sat on the case. This incident was revealed as the Securities and Exchange Commission came under sharp criticism from congressional investigators for dropping criminal prosecution of the firm, the East Boston Co., and for granting it "unusual" treatment.

Bennett said he had information to the effect that Goldfine paid hotel bills for McCarthy, including one at New York's Waldorf-Astoria. He said Goldfine would be asked about it next week when the industrialist is scheduled to testify.

SEC Chairman Edward N. Gadsby has sworn before the House influence investigators that Adams has neither won nor sought any preferred treatment for Goldfine in the case. Gadsby said a telephone call made to the SEC at Adams' request had no effect on the commission's handling of the case.

Gadsby told the House subcommittee the SEC proceeded with firm and aggressive action against the Goldfine firm in 1956. "To put it bluntly, Gadsby said, "the commission could hardly have done more if Mr. Adams were Mr. Goldfine's worst enemy."

Bennett was not satisfied, however, and told Gadsby and other SEC witnesses they should have gone after Goldfine on criminal charges. He said the $3,000 fine paid by Goldfine amounted "only to the legal costs to the government for handling the case."

Other subcommittee members expressed surprise that the commission "took so long" to move against the Goldfine firm. The company was listed as delinquent in 1948 on its 1947 financial report. The SEC did not move against it until 1954.

U. S. Ambassador Has Close Squeak As Bomb Bursts

In Beirut Tuesday U. S. Ambassador Robert McClintock narrowly escaped injury when a bomb went off some 30 feet from his automobile. At least three others exploded in the city during the day, reports stated, one opposite the American University. A time bomb killed four persons when a bus was blasted near the mountain village of Zahle.

UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold conferred with Lebanon's President Camille Chamoun Tuesday night on the menacing prospects of an all-out rebel attack within the next couple of days, reports from Beirut stated.

Hammarskjold just back from a conference with Nasser of Egypt in Cairo, made no comment to newsmen but Chamoun said rebel forces are massing in three areas leading to the speculation that a mass attack was in the offing.

Passed for further comment on his talk with the UN Secretary-General, Chamoun said:

"All I can tell you is the secretary general said he was optimistic. The secretary general has tried to do a good job here but we will wait and see whether his optimism is justified."

The Lebanese President charged that infiltration of men and arms from the United Arab Republic has been increasing since the UN decided to send in observers. He said he would deal with the rebels with his own forces if at all possible but if it became necessary would ask the UN to intervene with a police force.

Taas, the Soviet news agency in Moscow said it would be dangerous for the UN to turn its server force into a police force. The statement from the Russian capital charged that the U. S. and other Western nations planned to move troops into Lebanon "under the guise of the UN or without any cover at all."

Diplomatic sources in the U. S. and Britain are said in agreement that it would be better if Chamoun could settle his difficulties without outside intervention due to the hazard of creating "grave international dangers."

For more than six weeks the Lebanese rebels have sought to overthrow the pro-Western regime of President Chamoun. The rebels in this half-Moslem, half-Christian nation, are mostly from the moslem population, it was stated. They are said to favor a regime more favorable to Nasser's Arab nationalists.

Brutality, Incorporated

The execution of Imre Nagy, former premier of Hungary, and Gen. Pal Maleter should show the West that the Russians have still not departed from the old Stalinist line and that Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev does not differ from Stalin.

This sudden reminder of the tragic end of the Hungarian uprising of October 1956 has interrupted the hopeful belief of many that a new era of more liberty had begun not only in the Soviet Union, but also in the so-called "people's democracies." Today few people can refrain from pointing out the moral that the 20th Communist Congress of February, 1956, that criticized Stalin's methods of ruling, is now a dead letter. Furthermore, it is an illusion to expect more of Mr. Khrushchev than of Stalin.

The execution of Premier Nagy by Soviet authorities after firm promises had been given to Yugoslavia at the time he voluntarily surrendered, have been seen as a slap in the face of Yugoslavia's President Tito. This probably is a stern warning to the Soviet satellites that it would be best not to indulge in the forbidden joys of "Titoism." Although no one knows where or when the trial was held, it is significant that the world was told of the tragic example of Soviet brutality when the Kremlin was bitterly attacking Tito.

This revelation has also diminished greatly the chances for a summit conference. It is significant that this announcement came at this time when negotiations were in the process for a conference and also, that the fifth anniversary of the East German revolt was June 17, 1958, the day of the announcement. The postponement, definitely or indefinitely, of the summit meeting would be due to two factors—Western disgust with this new manifestation of Soviet treachery and disregard of the United Nations, and desires on the part of the Kremlin to show that a possible summit conference does not mean any possibility of a more liberal attitude inside the Soviet satellite zone.

The free world has unanimously condemned the Hungarian Communist Government for the execution of Imre Nagy, a man whom the world will remember despite all of the efforts of Khrushchev to erase him from its memory.

The London Times, in an editorial headed "Plain Murder" declared: "tricked and trapped, imprisoned and finally done to death, there is a brutal cynicism about the murder (of the rebel leaders)."

Robert Bratschi, speaker of the Swiss Assembly, said the action was greeted with a "feeling of absolute horror" by the Swiss people. Japan's leading newspaper, Asahi, denounced the executions as "an inhuman, atrocious act."

Feelings of most people probably can be summed up by the remark by the Vatican that declared: the execution of Mr. Nagy and the others, plus the "repression" of the 1953 East German outbreak and other incidents, demonstrates "the real meaning of communism."

School Aid Nothing New

The Federal Government has played an important role in the development of education in this country, although it is regarded basically as the responsibility of the 48 states. The Constitution of the United States as interpreted by the Supreme Court, has greatly influenced education policies directly and the United States Office of Education has rendered important services to the states in many ways.

Congress has enacted several laws bearing on education, most of which involve Federal appropriations. Even before the Constitution was adopted, the Ordinances of 1785 and 1787 provided for land grants to the states from the public domain for the maintenance of public schools.

The Morrill Act of 1862 provided for the establishment of the "land-grant" colleges to teach agricultural and mechanical arts in the various states. Federal aid to support vocational education in public secondary schools was begun in 1917.

During the depression Federal money was spent on educational activities in connection with such programs as the Civilian Conservation Corps and the National Youth Administration. Everyone is familiar with the educational aspects of the "GI Bill." Another example of Federal aid to education is the area that is burdened excessively by increases in enrollments due to concentrations of population brought on by war and defense activities.

No opinion bearing directly on Federal aid to education has been rendered by the Supreme Court, but there are several decisions that indicate clearly that such aid is not barred by the Constitution.

Those who argue that the Federal taxing power found in the Constitution pertains only to the specific legislative fields set out for Congress in the Constitution will do well to remember the series of cases in the mid-30's when this was struck down. In 1937 the Supreme Court said "Congress may spend money in aid of the general welfare."

The amount of control that is exercised by the Federal Government in the many activities concerning education ranges from no regulation at all in the 1785 Ordinance and almost none in the land-grant college appropriations to more extensive control in connection with vocational education and complete control of the National Youth Administration.

It seems that the question of Federal aid to education is a political rather than a legal one. The idea of spending Federal funds is not new, as it has been done and is being done. Issues such as those regarding funds for non-public schools and funds for public schools that are not racially integrated must be settled not in the court rooms, but at the ballot boxes.

Applications Must Be Filed By July 1

Since January 1, 1957 many disabled persons in this area have inquired about disability under the Social Security Law. Mrs. Mary King Temple, district manager of the Sheffield Social Security Office, said today:

A large number of claims have been filed by disabled workers and adult handicapped children to take advantage of the disability freeze and cash benefit provisions in the law.

Mrs. Temple stressed the fact that an application must be filed before July 1, 1958 in order to freeze a worker's Social Security record as of the time the disability started. Applications filed in July 1958 and later can freeze your Social Security account for a period beginning no earlier than 1 year before the date of your application.

If you are disabled call at the Sheffield Social Security District Office, located at 101 West Third Street, Sheffield, Telephone EV 3-4500, or have someone else call for you, and get information about making your application.

In The Week's News

Integration of the University of Florida graduate school was ordered by a federal judge last week. Governor Leroy Collins said he anticipated no difficulty in complying with the decree. However, State Sen. Randolph Hodges started a move in the Florida legislature to find some way to block integrating the school.

The execution of former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy and freedom fighter Gen. Pal Maleter, by the Reds, has reduced the chances of a summit conference in the near future, it was reported from Washington. Mr. Eisenhower told newsmen, "it is clear evidence that the intent of the Soviets is to pursue their own policies of terror and intimidation . . . to bring about complete subservience to their will."

Rioting crowds threw stones and broke windows at the Danish embassy in Moscow Friday in another round of the bitter controversy over the execution of Hungarian Imre Nagy and his collaborators. The demonstration was in reprisal for what Moscow Radio termed a "gangsterish attack" on the Soviet embassy in Copenhagen last week by Nagy sympathizers.

The President Friday signed a bill into law that will give some 1,021,000 federal civil service workers a 10 per cent pay raise, the increase being retroactive to January 1 of this year.

A satellite weighing approximately 1200 pounds will likely be fired into space this fall according to the magazine Aviation. It is described as the initial Piped Pier reconnaissance satellite . . . the first Air Force "spy in the sky." It is planned to fire the satellite from Cooke Air Force Base, Cal., in a southerly direction in an attempt to establish a polar orbit.

An injunction prohibiting Negro leaders from using force or intimidation to carry out a boycott on white merchants in that city was dissolved by Circuit Judge Will O. Walton. Walton ruled that Atty. Gen. John Patterson had failed to show that the Tuskegee Civic Assn. was sponsoring an illegal boycott or that its members used force to prevent others from trading at white stores.

UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld arrived in Cairo Sunday for talks with United Arab Republic leaders on the crisis in Lebanon. He conferred with President Nasser shortly after his arrival after talking for some 70 minutes with Egypt's Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi.

A UN watchdog team has been sent into the strategic Bekaa border area of revolt-torn Lebanon. There had been opposition to placing the team in that area according to published reports. However, one leader opposing the revolt against pro-Western Camille Chamoun, said the opposition is anxious to cooperate with the UN.

Two comparatively unknowns have been elected by the Soviet Communist Central Committee to the 15-member Presidium at the meeting last week. The two men, N. N. Podgorniy, first secretary of the Ukrainian Communist Party, and B. B. Polyanski, premier of the Russian Republic of the Soviet Union, were probably handpicked by Nikita S. Khrushchev to add to his backing in the Presidium.

Textile Industry Can Look Forward To Regaining Role

Dr. Soday Reveals This In Speech At Southern Textile Association Meet

The textile industry can look forward again to resuming its historic role as the South's growth industry as individual expansion continues at an unprecedented pace in the area during the next decade. This was stressed in an address at Asheville, N. C., by Dr. Frank J. Soday, of the Chemstrand Corporation, Decatur.

"The textile industry, as a whole, is in an excellent position to expand its operations and to develop new markets," he said. Dr. Soday, vice president and director of research and development for the chemical textile fiber manufacturer and chairman of the board of the Southern Association of Science and Industry, was featured speaker at the golden anniversary convention of the Southern Textile Association.

"The southern textile industry, the South's fourth largest industry and eleventh in the nation, includes 2400 mills, 600,000 employees, and produces goods valued at $7.1 billion.

Dr. Soday said the productivity per man-hour of the textile industry has risen since World War II, that today's equipment is vastly more productive than in the past, and the capacity of the industry is virtually in balance with normal demand.

However, Dr. Soday cited the need for expanded research and development facilities in the textile industries to meet the challenges of a growing population eager to adopt new concepts in standards of living.

Interest Rate To Change July 1

Action Of Regional Federal Home Loan Bank Is Explained

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Greensboro, N. C., announced on Monday, June 23, that effective July 1, 1958, the interest rate on time deposits will be reduced from 2% to 1 1/2%.

This action was taken, according to John A. Fogarty, bank president, because of the continued reduction in present and prospective yields on short term governmental securities, the softening of interest rates on prime mortgages, and the cost of money secured by sale of the Federal Home Loan Bank's consolidated obligations.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Greensboro is one of the 11 regional banks of the FHLE System, and its scope of operations covers the southeastern states from the District of Columbia through and including Alabama. The action of the Greensboro Bank is well in line with the national trend of general reductions of interest rates paid on government and corporate securities, and interest or dividends paid on savings. Government short term bills and paper that yielded somewhat better than 4% in the latter part of 1957 is now yielding less than 1%.

All thirty six of the Federally and State Chartered Savings & Loan Associations, doing business in Alabama are members of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and savings accounts are insured up to $10,000 for each account member of the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation.

Rain Replenishes State Moisture

Soil moisture was replenished in all parts of the State last week as adequate to excessive rainfall prevailed throughout. The lightest rain was received in northern counties, while heavier precipitation fell in the southern part of the state. Haying and harvesting of small grains were temporarily halted in all areas. Soils were too wet for field operations in many central and southern counties.

Early cotton is fruiting well over the State and growth is good. Blooms are now appearing in central Alabama. The recent wet period increased boll weevil activity, and many farmers are applying insecticides in an effort to control the pests. Much of the crop is late in North Alabama and stands are poor on many of these late planted fields.

The European corn borer is damaging late planted corn in northern counties. Stands are also below normal, but recent rains contributed to rapid growth.

Redstone Begins Reading Course

Designed To Increase Reading Efficiency Of The Staff Members

The Army Ordnance Guided Missile School at Redstone Arsenal has placed added emphasis on the first of the "three R's", reading, the basic learning tool.

This "University of the Space Age" is answering the challenge of our modern missiles by offering a course in reading improvement designed to increase the efficiency of its staff and faculty of more than 1,500.

Mr. Jimmy L. Hinton, chief of the school's Research and Curriculum Division, has organized the course in hopes that it will increase the reading efficiency of the staff members to whom it is offered by about 50 percent, so they can read in one hour what it now takes two to read.

No new skills are taught. Anyone can increase his reading rate by developing skills he already possesses, since the average person reads at only 20 percent of his capacity.

Leo Views the College Campus

By Dottie McRae

We came into Bibb Graves Hall, and there he was. Thursday morning, everyone who came into Bibb Graves hall was confronted by a friendly, if somewhat timid and forlorn looking collie pup.

How he got there, and where he came from is still a mystery, at least to most of us; he was there, looking hopefully out from under a bench, and I, for one, fell in love with him.

There's more to the story than that, however, because Joanne Harvey, a Florence State day student, took him home, fed him, and found a home for him. He now has a one-year-old mistress to play with.

Dr. Gerald McMurtry, an authority on Abraham Lincoln, was brought to FSC last week by the Danforth Committee. During his two day visit on the campus, he informed us of many little known facts about the life of Lincoln.

After hearing Dr. McMurtry speak for the third time, I finally got to meet him and ask for his answer to a question that has been bothering me for some time. Why are so many people so interested in Abraham Lincoln?

"Because he is a paradox," A good answer, I suppose, but it seems to me that there are many men in history who present just as much of a paradox and who aren't nearly so studied, so talked, or so written about.

The Honor Roll and the Dean's List have been released—nine students made 3.0 last semester.

SARA SAZE

Dear Sara Saze,

My husband and I have been separated for several years but not divorced. I have grounds for divorce but have never wanted to start proceedings. Now, he wants to be free and is urging me to take this step and I can't make up my mind to do it. I wouldn't live with him again for anything, but I don't want this other woman to have him. And I know they'd sure marry if they could.

My family says I should divorce him and forget him, but that's not easy to do.

Please advise me. I am so very upset.

Unhappy

Dear Unhappy,
I'm quite sure you are just that. And you'll probably continue so for many a long day. It's the usual consequence of a marital break, whether it be separation or divorce.

Am I correct in assuming that you believe your husband to have been unfaithful? And is this something you only think to be true, or do you know it to be a fact? Also, in spite of everything, do you still love the man? If so, I suggest that you let things ride. There can always be a chance for the sun to shine tomorrow, and the day may come when you'll change your mind about "never living with him again for anything."

On the other hand, if you're sure that you no longer have any depth of feeling for him, and if you can honestly give an affirmative answer to the first question in the above paragraph, I suggest divorce. Get a legal separation, give an occasional moment of sympathy to "the other woman," (she'll need it), and start the long, hard pull

WASHINGTON LETTER

Eighth District
REPRESENTATIVE

America's future is tied up with its waterways. To us in North Alabama, who have the world-famous TVA as the supreme example of what benefits man can get from wise use of water, there is hardly room for argument against water resources development. At the request of the Legislatures and Governors of Alabama and Mississippi, each member of the Alabama Delegation this week introduced a resolution asking Congress to approve of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway Compact between these two states.

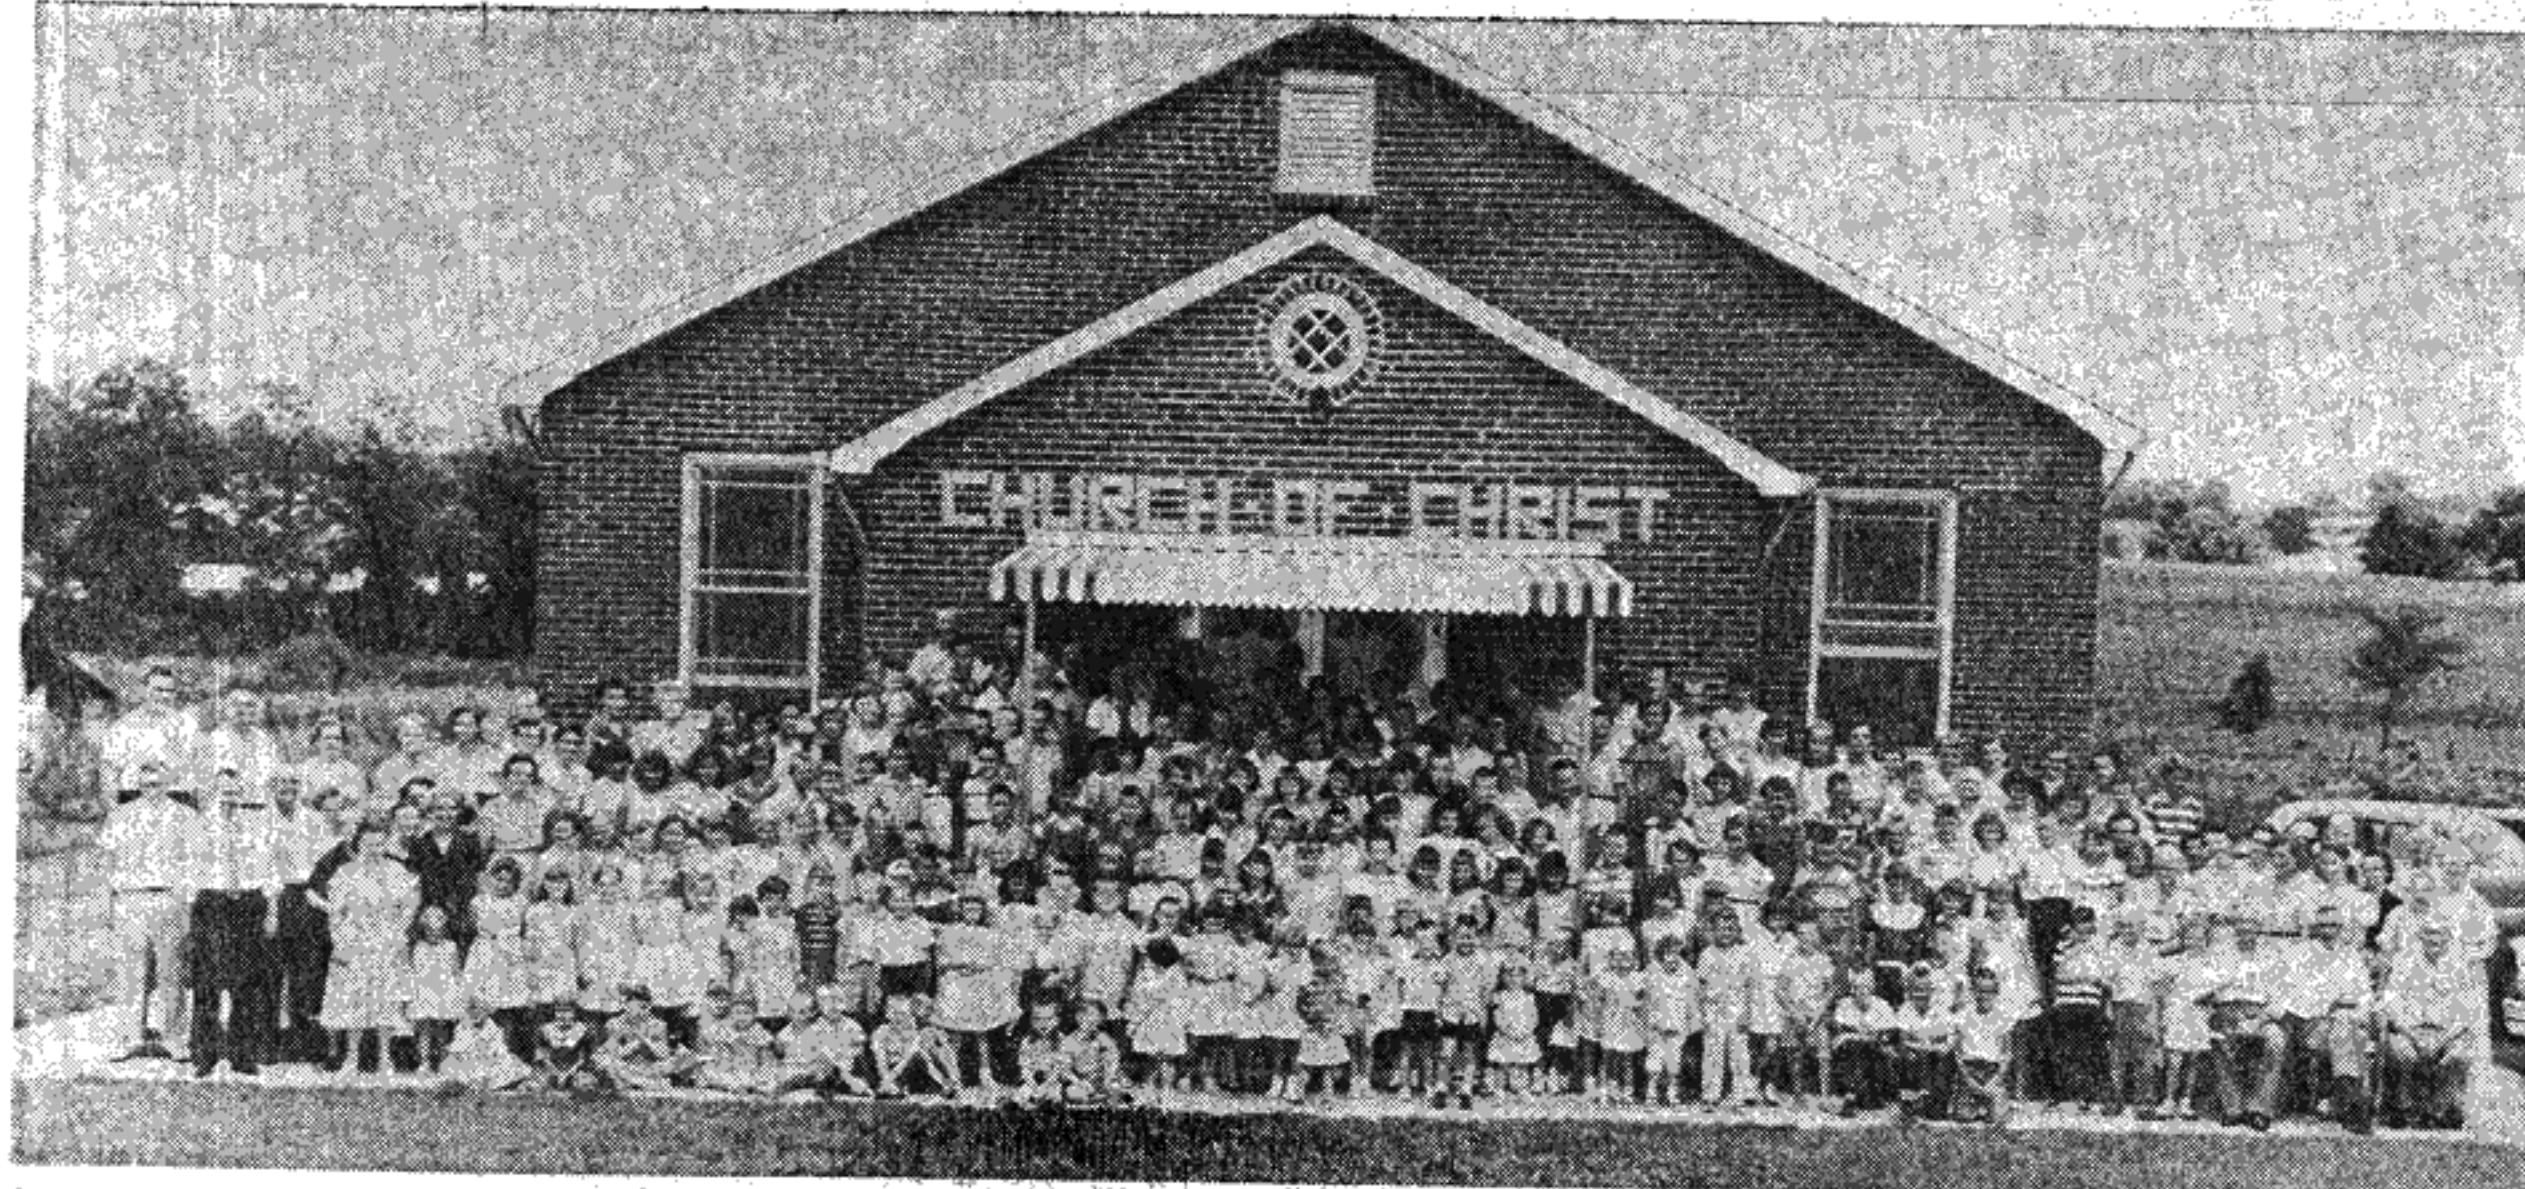

Briefly, the authorized project provides for a 260-mile channel, 9 feet deep cut from the Tombigbee at Demopolis, Ala., to the Tennessee at Pickwick Pool in Mississippi. The U. S. Corps of Engineers got $160,000 in 1957 to study what effect this new waterway would have on our area and the country. Their report will be made sometime later this year.

We have ample proof of what good navigable waterways bring to us in new industries, better incomes and living and fine recreation. Waterways are easily a leading asset of Alabama and we must develop them to the utmost. This proposed improvement to the Tennessee-Tombigbee rivers should be regarded as a part of an overall plan to make the most of what we have, including a new Mobile-Tombigbee route.

Work on building the new, modern lock at Wilson Dam will continue without interruption because the House Appropriations Committee has approved the sum of $8,978 million for the 1959 fiscal year which begins July first. Work on this much-needed lock began in 1957 and when finished will have cost about $35 million. Getting the needed money this session of Congress was easier than in previous years. The new lock will increase river traffic by decreasing shipping time and more river traffic can help all of us.

Our federal government has deep responsibilities and solemn obligations to our war veterans and to the widows and orphans of men who died for the country. But the trend in the past five years has been to decrease the budget for the Veterans Administration. For some time, it has been expected that the President would deliver a message to Congress on veterans' affairs, based on recommendation of the Bradley Commission.

Proposals of this Commission have caused concern and even alarm among veterans and their organizations. This is justified, for the Commission recommends deep cut-backs in every segment of the Veterans' program. However, this 85th Congress has shown that it does not intend to go along with such a program and the stingy trend toward veterans and their dependents or survivors is being revised. An appropriation of $4.9 billion is asked for the 1959 fiscal

Dr. S. S. Norvell, a member of the Exchange Club, addressed the members at Hotel Reeder Tuesday noon on his hobby, coin and paper money collection in which he has been able to gather in a brief two years some rare issues of both types.

Dr. Norvell said that the issuing of paper money was started by the U. S. Government in 1861 in the form of demand notes; coins, however, has been issued since 1793.

The "shin plasters" that Dr. Norvell exhibited dated from 1863 to 1929, at which time the present smaller size paper money was issued. From 1862 to 1929, eleven types of paper money had been issued but, today, only three types are issued: (1.) Silver certificates—the $1.00 bill, (2.) Legal tender in the forms of $2, and $5 bills, and (3.) Federal Reserve Notes. Guests of the club were Dr. O. L. Burton, county health officer, and Harvey Jones, of Colorado Springs, Tex.

McCarty Chosen To Lead Veterans

Franklin McCarty, 35-year-old Russellville veteran of combat in World War II from 1942-45, was elected new Commander of the Department of Alabama Veterans of Foreign Wars Sunday.

His election climaxed the annual encampment held at the Thomas Karg VFW Post 4919 in Sheffield.

McCarty promised to work for adequate hospital facilities for the disabled veterans and for increased pensions and compensations for World War I veterans and their dependents. He also pledged to work for increased community service participation, cooperation with civic clubs and to combat juvenile delinquency.

SIV MEN FROM COUNTY IN JULY CALL FOR ARMY

State Selective Service Director James W. (Jimmy) Jones said today that Alabama's July call for Selective Service inductees will total 319, toward a national quota of 10,000 men for the army.

In June, Alabama's call was for 337 men, and the national need was for 10,000 men. Lauderdale County will supply six men in the July call.

Registrants in the 23-year old bracket, volunteers, postponed registrants and delinquents will make up the call, Jones said.

Projects Stimulate New Hope For Coosa River

Dams Under Construction Will Reduce Costs To Government

Flying over the Coosa River above Wetumpka, one may still see the old dams and locks that served river traffic on this river in steamboat days. The traffic from Rome, Georgia, down into Alabama was extensive in the early days of the steamboat, and continued into the present century. Although traffic to Mobile was never established, an important river commerce developed on the Coosa.

Soon these old dams and locks will be covered by new lakes behind the Alabama Power Company dams, creating 275 miles of 9-foot plus channel from Rome down to Wetumpka—only requiring the construction of locks in the dam structures to open this whole stretch to modern barge transportation.

The first of these dams, Weiss Dam near Leesburg, is now under construction, and the entire construction project will be completed within ten years under the Alabama Power Company permit.

This activity on the Coosa, greatly reducing the cost to the Federal Government of actually opening this part of the river to navigation, has given new impetus to demands for immediate action toward opening the waterway on the Alabama River, to meet the completed Power Company lakes with a completed lower river channel by 1968.

On this lower river, too, there was formerly a very heavy river traffic. Steamboats began moving out of Mobile into the river as early as 1821, and the first capital of the State was Cahaba on the Alabama River, built on the bluff below the mouth of the Cahaba where steamboat traffic from two rivers would pass the city. Part of Cahaba's decline, aside from the flood hazard, was the fact that nearby Selma became the river port of Dallas County, eclipsing the older town commercially.

Montgomery grew and flourished because the cobble river front was shipping point for thousands of bales of cotton each season, plus goods shipped by Montgomery wholesalers to towns and river landings in a dozen counties along the Alabama. Montgomery was also a port of entry for goods transhipped from ocean-going vessels at Mobile. It became a major distributing point for Central Alabama because of the river commerce which reached it, and because it was the western terminus of three railroads, the southern terminus of a fourth, and an important way station on two other railroad systems.

Now these cities, and others along the Alabama and Coosa Rivers hope to see river commerce restored. The first step toward the realization of a navigable waterway on the Coosa-Alabama River is the construction of Millers Ferry Lock and Dam, to be located in Wilcox County near Camden. This lock and dam would have a lift of 50 feet and would generate some 394 million kilowatt hours of energy each year. No flood control benefits are assigned to this structure.

The reservoir behind the dam would cover 22,000 acres and extend a nine-foot navigation channel to a point near Benton in Lowndes County. Here the Jones Bluff Lock and Dam would have a lift of 45 feet, extending the navigation pool past Montgomery to the Wetumpka Dam of the Alabama Power Company.

A smaller dam at Claiborne would complete the construction required to open the river to Wetumpka, except for some dredging operations in the reach below Claiborne.

Estimated annual tonnage on the Alabama River would be in excess of two million tons. Tonnage for the entire river system to Rome, Georgia, would be more than double that amount.

This idle river, then, could be expected to carry barge tonnage almost as great as that which has been developed on the Warrior-Tombigbee Waterway.

Industrially, the basin would flourish. It already contains numerous heavy industries which normally make use of barge transportation where it is available. Iron and steel and rubber at Gadsden, iron and steel products at Anniston, marble and newsprint and pulp in Talladega County, fertilizers, sand, gravel, pulpwood, petroleum products and other commodities would move up and down the river. Ores and raw rubber would move to the industries upstream as finished products moved downstream to be transhipped at Mobile or New Orleans.

Some observers have said this Coosa-Alabama River System could rival the TVA if we could get it improved and into full use for the benefit of Alabama and Georgia. Its power potential is now being developed by the Alabama Power Company in such a way as to provide for flood control and prepare the dams and lakes for navigation.

The logical next step is for the development of the Alabama River to get started—at Millers Ferry Lock and Dam. Editor's Note: This is the 11th in a series of stories on Alabama's Waterways. These stories were written for Herald by the staff of the Alabama River Development Authority. Next: "River Improvement and the Corps of Engineers."

This is Texas Eastern...

12 trillion cubic feet of gas on tap for tomorrow

More than 12 trillion (12,158,200,000,000) cubic feet of natural gas—under contract in hundreds of oil and gas fields—represents, as of now, Texas Eastern's reserves for the future. It is a figure that is continually being revised—upward—and for good reason.

New oil and gas fields are constantly being discovered to keep pace with ever-increasing demand for this clean, economical fuel.

Back in the company's first year, 1947, when deliveries amounted to a modest 40 billion cubic feet, reserves were estimated at 2.336 trillion cubic feet.

Today, with annual sales topping 500 billion cubic feet, reserves exceed sales by more than twenty to one.

These reserves are located in oil and gas fields in the picturesque parishes of northern and southern Louisiana, in historic East Texas... offshore in the Gulf of Mexico... in the prolific fields of South Texas... and across the border in northern Mexico.

And as new fields are found in Texas Eastern's pipeline area, gas is contracted for to meet today's needs, and tomorrow's, and those 20 years distant.

As demand has grown, Texas Eastern has widened its search for new and better natural gas sources. With what is now under contract—and what we can be certain of acquiring in the future—you can be sure that you will be able to cook with gas for a long, long time.

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER—STAYS TOGETHER"

this is no Steeple!

The Army calls it "Nike," an anti-aircraft weapon that is vital to our defense.

And you and I bought it! Yes—gladly!

Every week a part of our earnings is withheld for our nation's needs. In addition, many of us buy a bond a month to invest in America's strength. We want forever to be free. That's why we bought "Nike."

But a land born of the Pilgrim's devotion needs more than rockets to defend its soul. America needs steeples—steeples strong and sure in their upward aim! It needs steeples that call men and women to the quest for God's peace ... that lead boys and girls in the search for God's way.

And as many as are conscious of this deep, spiritual need find joy in GIVING to our churches ... regularly ... generously.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Enlist In USMC And Serve Later

Buy now, pay later; join now, serve later or the 120-day plan; no matter what tag is used, it's the Marine Corps' way of telling about its new enlistment program.

The Marines are offering young men and women the modern way to enlist for military duty. It permits a person to join now and remain at home up to four months before reporting for active duty.

This plan offers the individual the opportunity to reserve a place in the Marines for future duty. It guarantees service with a volunteer military organization and at the same time permits a person to build up time in service toward pay and promotion while remaining at home. The plan also allows a young man or woman to make arrangements to enlist with a friend on the same date.

These are but a few of the many advantages of the Marine Corps enlistment program. Further details may be obtained at any Marine Corps Recruiting Office or from TSgt. Bill Ovey the Marine Recruiter when he visits the Tri-Cities, on Tuesday and Thursday from 9:00 a. m. until 2:00 p. m. He'll be pleased to talk to all interested parties.

On the future battlefield, junior commanders will have to be capable of shouldering great responsibility and exercising almost unlimited initiative.

SOIL SLIDE RULE—This slide rule helps farmers reduce soil loss from rainfall. Embodying research data compiled by the Department of Agriculture over the past 30 years, the rule makes possible fast and reliable soil loss estimates right in the field. Developed by Dr. J. J. Pierre of the Soil Conservation Service, the rule is field information concerning the amount of rain, type of soil and soil cover, length of slope and other factors. These are given numerical values and a trained technician can find the best combination of cropping system and conservation practices which meet the needs of a particular farm. Research information is being developed to make prediction estimates available to technicians in all parts of the United States.

Agricultural Reminders
By L. T. WAGNON
County Agent

Farmers and people with gardens who are not being bothered with insects are truly an exception. Most calls being received at the county agent's office at present are in regard to field crops and vegetable insect problems. Quite a number of visits are also being made to assist with insect control measures.

Many kinds of insects are among us and people who plant any kind of crops should realize that control measures must be followed if a harvest is to be expected. The following is given as a guide in controlling some of the more harmful insects:

BEANS — Dust underside of leaves weekly with 1% rotenone, 5% malathion or 20% toxaphene up to a week before harvest to control bean beetles. A mixture containing 20% toxaphene and 5% malathion is a good dust to control bean beetles. Use dusting sulphur to control rust on beans.

CABBAGE — Use all purpose garden dust or a dust containing 1% rotenone or 5% malathion to control Harlequin cabbage bug, aphids, turnip webworm, and imported cabbage worms.

CANTALOUPE — To control anthracnose, mildew and other leaf spot diseases, spray with 1% karathion wettable concentrate, or two pounds wettable concentrate captan or zineb to 100 gallons of water, or dust with 6% zineb or captan at weekly intervals and following rains. Use 1% lindane or 5% malathion as soon as plants are up to control twelve-spotted cucumber beetles. Begin dusting with the above materials when melons are the size of walnuts to control melon worms and pickle worms.

GREEN CORN — Control corn earworms by dusting with 10% DDT when silks are beginning to show. These worms may be controlled in stalks with 10% DDT or 20% toxaphene. Several methods of application can be used, such as using a dust gun, cotton dusting machine before stalks are too large or by dropping the dust in top of stalks and at the base of leaves with thumb and two first fingers.

CUCUMBERS — Dust or spray with 6% zineb plus 1% rotenone at 7 to 10 day intervals beginning with first true leaves. If leaf blights develop, dust at three to four day intervals until weather turns dry or diseases are controlled.

COWPEAS — Dust once a week with 20% toxaphene or 10% DDT to control worms and weevils in peas.

SQUASH — DUST plants with either 5% methoxychlor or 1% lindane to control squash bug, squash vine borer, melon worm, and pickle worm. This is a must for successful squash production. Use 20% sabadilla dust if aphids, squash bug or blister beetles become serious.

TOMATOES — Dust with 6% zineb, fixed copper, or 7% manzate or spray with two pounds wettable

Local Youths Go To Woodcraft Cam
Fifty-seven boys from Florence, Sheffield, Lexington and Anderson attended the Boys of Woodcraft camp at Gunter's State Park June 16-18.
This camp is sponsored by the Woodmen of the World, says Coleman Howard, Lexington agent.
In competition at the camp, Florence won the rifle contest and the bait-casting contest, and Lexington won the ball tournament.
Mr. Howard said that plans are being made for a similar camp for girls for next year.

Assistant Agent Added to County Extension Staff

Miss Anne Phillips Begins New Duties; University Graduate

Miss Anne Phillips, a graduate of Hamilton High School and the University of Alabama, is Lauderdale County's new Assistant Home Demonstration Agent. She will be working with 4-H girl groups.

Prior to coming to Florence as assistant agent, Miss Phillips was employed in Madison County at Huntsville in this same capacity. Miss Phillips was graduated from the University in 1956 with a B. S. degree in Home Economics Education. She received a month of training in Cherokee County at Centre, where she also served as an extra assistant agent before being employed in Madison County.

"My job is to assist the 4-H girls in planning their activities or projects through the monthly local school meetings, project visits, and through the special interest groups," Miss Phillips stated.

"The girls may choose from a variety of projects, ranging from clothing, foods, to home management, home improvement, to child care. Most of the projects come from these groups."

Since arriving in Florence last week to take up her new duties, Miss Phillips has been visiting throughout the county. She has been helping the girls get ready for the Lauderdale County 4-H Summer Camp which will be held at Tishomingo State Park, Tishomingo, Miss., June 30-July 2.

Miss Phillips has also been assisting the girls who will participate in the dress revue and yeast bread demonstrations at the district eliminations which will be held at Auburn, July 7-11.

During 1957, American farm exports were the equivalent of production of one out of five acres of cropland. About half our cotton and wheat and 85 percent of the rice is exported. Thus farmers understand the importance of overseas sales made possible by reciprocal trade agreements.

The farmer gets a smaller portion of the food retail dollar than he used to. Food processing costs have been shifted from the home to the processing factories, packaging is better, and distribution more efficient, says the Journal of Agricultural and Good Chemistry.

PEACE POWER
What it is...
How you can achieve it...

Peace Power is the strength to keep the peace, of course. But that's not all. Peace Power is also children. Because the child who today stands tiptoe, discovering the world, may tomorrow discover new wonders of science and outer space for all of us. If he has peace to grow in. But peace costs money. Money for strength to keep the peace. Money for science and education to help make peace lasting. And, money saved by individuals. Your Savings Bonds, as a direct investment in your country, make you a Partner in strengthening America's Peace Power. Are you buying as many as you might?
