Test Farmers Able To Meet Problems, Speakers Declare

TVA, Extension Service Workers Address Annual Meeting Tuesday Night

Lauderdale County's Test Demonstration Farmers Association members were declared able "to meet and defeat the so-called farm problem" by speakers at the annual dinner meeting of the group at The Shanty Tuesday night.

Praise for their accomplishments and the need for their program of planned farming were voiced by Howard Orr, of Athens, TVA-Extension Service analyst, and Hunter Stone, test demonstration branch, Tennessee Valley Authority. The demonstration farmers, who use TVA-manufactured fertilizers and follow Extension Service recommendations in their operations, also heard short talks by County Agent L. T. Wagoner and Assistant County Agent Sam Eich, in charge of the program in this county, who presided at the meeting.

The highest production possible from each animal and each acre is a primary goal of the test demonstration farmers, said Mr. Orr, who recognized Alex Thacker as the highest dairy producer in the Lauderdale County program. Mr. Thacker also had a cotton yield of two bales per acre in addition to his dairy income. Allen Behl and H. M. Yancey were recognized among the group as the top cow producers and O. W. Duke was pointed out as having the highest percentage of his farm in cover crops — 97 per cent of the acreage.

Mr. Orr asserted the test demonstration program was the most valuable tool with which better farming might be taught, and pointed to the great progress made in its 20-year history.

Mr. Stone said that 29 states now utilize the test demonstration program, embracing 3,500 farm families, of which 600 are in Alabama. In this area, he said, TVA makes a vital contribution to the program, and predicted that since the agency's new directors had become acquainted with its objectives and accomplishments it would receive their hearty support.

To Assess Firms Individual Fees In Garbage Handling

A garbage collection fee will be placed on business firms in Florence, with a fee to be set on an individual basis, the Board of Commissioners agreed Tuesday night.

A charge in the collection system will be instituted about April 1, when garbage - handling charges will be included in utility bills. Presently an employee of the city calls on business firms to collect.

The commission also agreed to place firemen and policemen under provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act after city Civil Service Board members appeared to request the action. It was brought out that inclusion of firemen and policemen was unanimously approved some years ago but effective action was never taken to make it operative.

The commission approved purchase of a street marking machine for $918.50.

Mental Health Needs Great

1 Of 10 Kids To Suffer Mental Ills, Club Told

Of Alabama's existing mental health facilities, the Muscle Shoals district is fortunate to have more than its share, but the need for increased funds for further development of the mental health program in this state is acute.

That was the impression gained by members of the Florence Exchange Club at their luncheon at Hotel Reeder Tuesday, when Dr. William Wells and Mrs. Grady Arnett of the Florence Mental Health Clinic gave the narrative accompanying colored slides depicting the Alabama mental health program. The slides contained views of the program as administered in this area and the state at large.

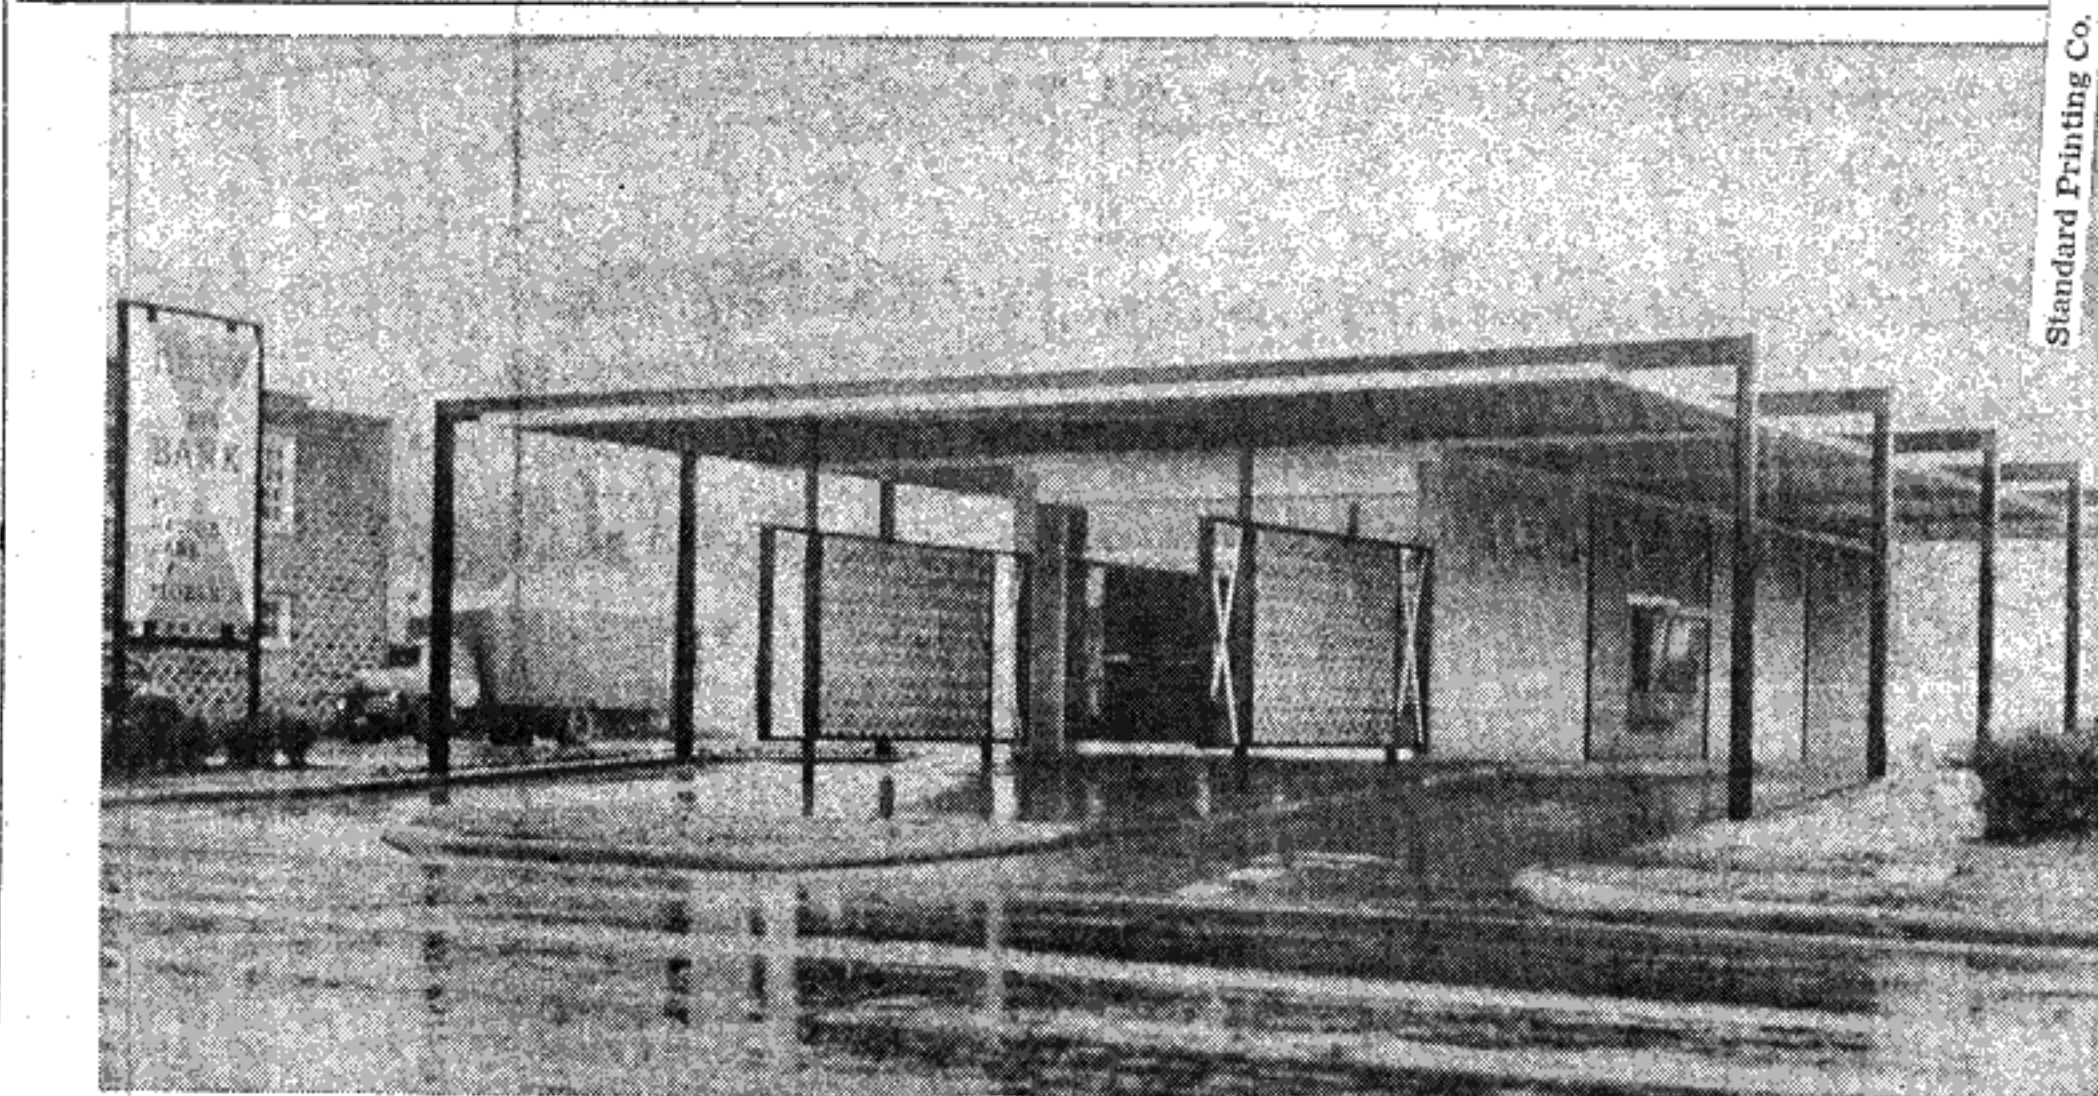

It was pointed out that one of every 10 children in the United States were destined to experience mental illness and that one of 20 would be a patient in a mental hospital sometime during their life.

And to meet this anticipated need and the present demands the clinic workers said, Alabama has but two mental hospitals — Bryce, for whites, at Tuscaloosa with 4,800 patients, and Searcy, the Negro facility at Mt. Vernon with 2,800 patients. For children there is Partlow School, also at Tuscaloosa.

Of the five mental health clinics in the state, two are in the Muscle Shoals district, Dr. Wells and Mrs. Arnett said, and declared that at least 60 are needed in Alabama. This area, they said, has 12 classes for retarded children, of which two are maintained in Florence and two in rural areas of Lauderdale County.

Pointing up the dire need for more funds for mental health work in Alabama, Dr. Wells and Mrs.

Congress Approves Soil Bank Funds; GOP Sentiment Shifts On Price Freeze

New Drive-In Bank Opened

The new $75,000 drive-in branch of the First National Bank at the intersection of Tennessee and Poplar streets was officially opened Wednesday as plans went ahead for a $300,000 improvement and enlargement program at the main Court street banking house of the First National.

The new banking facility at Tennessee and Poplar, first of its kind in the Muscle Shoals district, features two drive-in windows, two walk-up windows and a night depository. Raymond Raney and Mrs. Jacqueline B. Coons will staff the new branch.

The regular 9 to 2 banking hours will be observed by the drive-in bank as are in effect at the Court street main office and the North Florence branch, opened in the fall of 1954.

Work on the downtown bank is expected to get started shortly after April 1, and plans call for incorporation of the former Majestic Theatre site in the remodeled structure.

New Industry For Every City, Town Goal Of Wallace

Clayton Candidate Drawing Big Crowds, Support In District

Judge George C. Wallace told an overflow courtroom crowd at Florence last night that his goal was "a new industry for every city and town in Alabama."

"I want to devote three months each year to an industry-seeking tour," he said. Wallace repeated his promise to begin his "crash program" to attract new industry just as soon as "you people give me the prestige of the governor's chair."

In an earlier television address Judge Wallace, conceded a place in the run-off by nearly all political observers, pointed to the Styron Corporation plant in Florence as only one industry that had come to the Tri-Cities area as a direct result of his Wallace Industrial Act.

"Any man you elect governor is going to have to use this act to bring new industry to Alabama, so why not elect the man who wrote and sponsored it?" the Clayton circuit judge asked his Florence audience.

Wallace, gaining momentum for the stretch run for the governorship, on Tuesday addressed a crowd of more than 500 in Leighton, 600 at Falkville, 700 at Hartsville, more than 500 at Town Creek and an estimated 800 at Courtland before moving in to Tusculum in the afternoon and the Sheffield Community Center Tuesday night.

Wallace told the Sheffield audience, termed "large and enthusiastic" by a Shoals district newspaper supporting another candidate, he was "completely overjoyed by the wonderful response the people of North Alabama have given both me and my 'Forward Look' program." He was introduced by Sheffield Mayor Leonard Beard, who said, "We know this man's record and we are of the opinion that the people all over the state will show their approval of his record on May 6th by electing him as their choice to lead us during these trying times."

Judge Wallace was described by Mayor Beard as "a proven friend to the people of the Tennessee Valley area."

The candidate spoke yesterday at Rogersville and Lexington before arriving in Florence for his television appearance and speech at the Lauderdale County courthouse. Grand Ol' Opry entertainer Minnie Pearl kept the audience in high spirits during her appearance.

Prior to his invasion of Lauderdale County, Judge Wallace was cheered by news that two Alabama newspapers—one a weekly and one a daily, and in different sections of the state—had declared in his behalf. They were the Selma Times-Journal and the weekly Cullman Times.

Use Of Federal Funds Sought To Aid Unemployed

Congress Tuesday passed the compromise supplemental appropriations bill to provide $2,861,008,793 for various agencies and to boost Soil Bank payments by 250 million dollars.

Passage of the bill came as GOP senators displayed a change of sentiment on a one-year farm support price freeze. The Republicans voted 17 to 14 in a stormy closed caucus of their policy committee to let the President they hope he lets the freeze bill become law rather than veto it. They figure a veto would increase their reelection difficulties.

Action on the supplemental appropriations bill in the House came after that body abandoned its $3,000 limitation on Soil Bank payments to any one farmer. It voted instead 69 to 14 to accept a Senate substitute under which individual payments could run as high as $140,000, it was said.

Most of the money goes to the Commodity Credit Corporation to reimburse it for financing special farm programs. The bill also provides $1,100,000 for U. S. exhibits at the Worlds Fair in Brussels next month. The extra amount for the Soil Bank raises to $750 million that the farmers may claim this year for retiring surplus croplands to an acreage reserve.

Aid To Jobless President Eisenhower Wednesday asked Congress for authority to use Federal funds to extend the unemployment benefit period for jobless workers by 50 per cent. An estimated 2,000,000 workers would benefit.

The maximum period of payments would be raised from the present 26 weeks to 39 weeks in most big industrial states at an estimated cost of from five to six hundred million dollars for the one-year life of the special anti-recession program.

The President said it was his conviction that prompt action was called for to "temper the hardship being experienced by workers whose unemployment has been prolonged. He added however that he believed such additional federal aid would be of "relatively short duration."

Criticizing the President's program as "unfortunately conceived," Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said increasing the benefit period by 50 per cent would be of little help in states where the benefits were originally scheduled for a six-week period.

Senate Republican Leader William Knowland however predicted the plan would win Senate approval as there was a feeling it was the best approach so far to the problem. He said the Senate would push Federal purchasing during the rest of the fiscal year and in the 12 months after July 1st.

The Senate also pushed ahead with its highway construction bill which would cost an estimated five and a half billion dollars and also voted to ask the President to sign the bill designed to freeze farm price supports.

Man, Daughter Found Guilty In Distilling Case

Obie W. Clemmons, 48, and his 20-year-old step-daughter, Eunice, were found guilty Tuesday by a jury in Lauderdale County circuit court of possessing a still. He was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and the girl was given a term of a year and a day.

The father gave notice of appeal and Eunice Mae requested probation, which will be ruled on by Judge R. M. Hill April 5.

Charlie Jackson, Negro, was sentenced to a year and a day upon conviction of selling, removing or concealing personal property covered by a lien and asked probation.

A special venire was drawn to hear the case of William Herschel Smith, Florence white man, who was arraigned on a charge of having carnal knowledge of his eight-year-old daughter last January 4. He was furnished attorneys by the court and a plea of not guilty was entered by them for the defendant. The case has been set for trial Monday.

Seven Thousand Attend Annual AEA Convention

Magic City Is Scene Of Two-Day Meeting Of Educators, Teachers

By HAROLD S. MAY

We have just been informed that all ballots for the May 6th Democratic Primary have been recalled and will be reprinted because of the fear that there will be entirely too much confusion in an attempt to vote intelligently for the gubernatorial candidates. The new ballots, instead of listing the names of certain of the candidates for governor, will carry the names of the hillbilly bands, quartets or entertainers featured by said candidates. It is believed that by this method a truer picture of the voters' wishes may be expressed.

Baer's famed almanac, issued early last year, predicted a gloomy winter picture, weather wise. No truer prediction has ever been made in our memory. Hitting the nail precisely on the head this time, almost makes us believe in these ancient publications.

Two East Kentucky mountaineers sat on the steps of one's one-room shack and discussed their problems. One remarked that he was tired of the food he had been eating all these years, that what he cooked didn't tempt him anymore and he just didn't know what to do about it. His buddy asked if he had ever bought a cookbook. "Yep, so did, but everyone of those recipes began in the same way: 'Take a clean dish—and I never got no further.'"

It is our belief that a new ruling should be made that would require the sale of motorcycle tags for these small foreign cars. We are afraid that some day a gust of wind will get under one of the regulation size auto tags now being used by these meddlets and the first thing you know said car will take off "into the wild blue yonder."

We learn of a little Hollywood girl who was asked by her teacher to fill out a blank on which information was asked that would enable school officials to make plans for the closing of the present school term. The little girl sat puzzled as to what to put on the line that asked: "Father's name." Finally she took the questionnaire to the teacher and asked: "What should I put here? Do you want the name of the man my mother's divorced from, or the one she's married to now, or the man she's going to marry after she gets her divorce next week?"

An old farmer who lived back in the hills was induced to attend a tent meeting sometime ago. After the sermon, the elderly fellow congratulated the evangelist on his sermon. "What denomination do you belong to?" asked the evangelist. The farmer didn't reply directly, but said: "There are three roads leading from my place to town. There's the river road, the main highway and then a back road—but when I get to town with my load of wheat, they don't ask which road I come by—but 'How good is your wheat?'"

It may be questioned, but a friend of ours, just up from a siege of the flu, said that his doctor filled him so full of drugs that his sneezing spread so much of their health giving properties that he cured every other member of the

A two-day holiday started today for school children of Lauderdale County and throughout the state of Alabama as 7,000 of their teachers and educational leaders gathered in Birmingham for the Alabama Educational Association's 76th annual convention which will last through Saturday.

This year the attention of the convention will be focused on higher professional standards and the current national interest in a stepped up educational program.

Beginning at 9 a. m. Wednesday secondary school principals met at the First Christian Church social hall. The pre-convention meeting featured a symposium on "New Techniques for Old Tasks." A second symposium in the morning was held on "What the National Honor Society Means To the High School Program."

Other pre-convention features included a meeting of supervisors and directors of instruction at the Y.W.C.A. Dr. Esther Swenson, University of Alabama, spoke on "A Look at the Community School Program." Miss Louise Comer of Florence presided.

Beginning at 10 a. m. Wednesday the administrators met at the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce with Joe M. Dawkins addressing the meeting followed by a panel discussion during the afternoon on "The American High School."

Attendance supervisors met for luncheon at the Y.W.C.A. and heard Clarence M. Danahy, Montgomery school superintendent, speak on "Good Schools in the Space Age."

Starting at 2 p. m. Elementary School principals met at the First Methodist Church for a panel discussion on "Crisis in Education," moderated, Dr. Houston Cole, Jacksonville State. At this meeting the supervisors also made their annual plans.

Dr. Frank Rose, University of Alabama president, spoke at the meeting of secondary school principals meeting at Shades Valley High School at 6:30 p. m.

A dinner meeting will follow an afternoon discussion at the Fairfield High School on "Problems in Curriculum Development and Teacher Utilization."

The administrators also met for dinner at the Tutwiler Hotel where the speaker was Dr. Howard Phillips, president of Alabama College.

Today the first general meeting was scheduled for 10 a. m. at the Municipal Auditorium with the second general session set for tonight at 8 o'clock at the auditorium. The third general meeting will be held Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock also in Municipal Auditorium.

Meetings of the four AEA divisions will be held this afternoon and will include administration supervisory and school-room personnel, classroom teachers and principals.

Report Show Of Gas In Well At 1,375 Feet

A show of gas at 1,375 feet in the Hollis Well No. 1 in north Lauderdale County was reported by the Candif Oil Company Wednesday morning.

Company officials said an electric log will be run on the well, from which it is hoped gas or oil will be produced in commercial quantities, Friday morning. The log, it was said, determines the type of structure being drilled through, the rate of drilling and other pertinent data.

Mike Todd Philosopher

Those who never knew Mike Todd except through his stage presentations and one hit film nonetheless were shocked and saddened by his tragic death in a plane crash Saturday in New Mexico. The flamboyant showman had made and lost millions in his comparatively brief career, and earnings now being piled up by his spectacular "Around the World in Eighty Days" were becoming so large that even the "last of the great spenders," as Todd was justifiably called, encountered difficulty in disposing of them.

We never suspected Mike Todd was any part of a philosopher but he expressed an eternal truth when he said, "I have been broke, but never poor. Being poor is a state of mind; being broke is a temporary thing."

Although Todd made that remark in answer to a question about his up-and-down financial status, we imagine he applied this philosophy to other aspects of his mercurial life and career.

Mike Todd was no faint heart, and observed an unwritten eleventh commandment, "Thou shalt not quit."

A Suggestion To Be Heeded

If a public works program to revitalize this country's sagging economy is adopted—and chances are good there will be—Alabama cities might well heed the advice of Senator Sparkman, a sponsor along with Senator Hill and others of legislation providing loans to communities with which they may finance needed public improvements.

The junior senator from Alabama has requested mayors of all towns and cities in the state to submit a list of projects in their respective cities which could move forward under this legislation. The bill would provide $2 billion for low-interest loans for local projects which can be started quickly to help offset the current economic recession.

There is hardly a town or city in Alabama that doesn't need street paving, sidewalks, bridges, parking lots, airports, recreational facilities, hospitals, garbage disposal plants, water and sewage facilities, libraries or schools. All of these things are eligible for loans under the Sparkman-Hill measure, which sets the interest rate at one-fourth of one per cent above the average rate on the government debt, or 3 per cent repayable over periods as long as 50 years.

Alabama cities which do study their more pressing civic improvement needs and submit such a list to Senator Sparkman will have taken a wise preparatory step toward the day when a public works program is instituted.

Not Working For A Song

Regardless of which one of the Alabama gubernatorial candidates now on the Hit Parade is elected, one thing is certain: He won't be working for a song.

In fact, the man who takes office next January to succeed James E. Folsom will receive, in salary, more than twice as much as the tall Cullmanite—or $25,000 per year. That's a $13,000 raise over the annual salary paid Governor Folsom, and more than four times that paid Alabama chief executives up to 10 years ago, when they received $6,000 per year. Of course, the governor is also furnished an expense-free mansion and other perquisites of office.

In voting salary increases last year, the legislature somehow overlooked (or perhaps intentionally slighted) the Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries and the Superintendent of Education. The next occupants of those offices will receive $6,400 and $10,000, the same as paid Commissioner A. W. Todd and Supt. A. R. Meadows.

All judges of circuit court rank or higher benefitted by the last legislature's generosity. Beginning next year circuit judges will be raised from $8,500 to $10,000; circuit solicitors from $7,000 to $8,500; Supreme Court justices, $12,000 to $14,000; Court of Appeals judges, $11,500 to $13,500, and attorney general from $10,000 to $12,000.

Three constitutional offices of the state—auditor, secretary of state and treasurer—will receive increases from $6,000 to $8,000 per year, while two members of the Public Service Commission will be raised from $9,400 to $11,000.

Alabama may be near the bottom of the scale economically, but the salaries paid its officials will compare favorably with those of the richest states.

No More Limited War

Limiting the war of the future will be difficult if not impossible in the eyes of today's experts. The reason is virtually simple since there can be no limiting the effect of a hydrogen bomb once one is dropped by an enemy or on an enemy. Every country in possession of atomic knowhow is concentrating, not only on weapons and anti-weapons, but on the ability for mass retaliation in case of attack.

To put it bluntly the effects of an atomic attack would call for total retaliation in order to survive. Total retaliation would mean total war until one or both countries at war are destroyed.

It is true the Korean conflict was a small "contained war" but that was because there was no inclination and no preparation on anybody's part for a larger involvement. The action of President Truman in limiting the scope of the UN attack against the Red Chinese at the Yalu River line doubtless did much to assure the Reds that we had no intention of engaging in a large scale war.

It is hard to realize how much progress has been made in rocket and missile development since the Korean War. Today's artillery will fire atomic shells while pilotless planes and rockets of every known range will carry atomic and hydrogen warheads into all sectors of the enemy's country and defenses. Even a small war such as the Korean conflict will become a war of total annihilation.

War indeed is no longer limited. Our chances of survival in the next one are not too encouraging and the sad part of it is we are doing so little to avoid it.

in the Week's News

Public attention for the past week has been focused on an appeal by the Court of Last Resort to the Alabama Pardon and Parole Board to free Ellis Fewell who is serving a 30-year sentence for the murder of Phyllis Dean Carver on April 10, 1949. The Court said it was certain now that Fewell is innocent. The state Board has promised prompt action.

The Senate rackets committee probers said Monday that some $10 million in union funds have either been stolen, embezzled or misused in 15 years by officials of five labor unions. A spokesman for the committee said it averaged $5 out of the pocket of every member of the unions uncovered in the report listed as the Teamsters, Bakery Workers, United Textile Workers, Operating Engineers and Allied Industrial Workers Unions.

Last rites for producer and TV personality Mike Todd, husband of actress Elizabeth Taylor, were held in Chicago Tuesday in Jewish Waldheim Cemetery at Forest Park, Ill. The actress, suffering from a severe cold flew to Chicago with singer Eddie Fisher, one of Todd's close personal friends, her physician and brother and Todd's executive secretary. The funeral cancelled Miss Taylor's appearance at the Wednesday presentation of Academy Awards.

Opposition to any tax cut is said to be gaining ground in administration circles despite intensive efforts to sponsor such a cut by members of both parties. Vice President Richard Nixon said he did not speak for the party when he said last week it would be good "Republican philosophy" to reduce taxes if the business recession continues.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) said Tuesday that the highway construction speedup bill now pending before Congress would constitute a "major step" toward putting Americans back to work. He said in addition that funds spent for roads represent a "sound investment which will pay ever-increasing dividends in years to come." Gore said the bill would result in a $5,400,000,000 highway construction program this year, including matching state funds.

Nomination Date For Trustees Set

Board Of Education Asks Patrons To Pick Nominees On April 8

Patrons of the Lauderdale County school system will meet at 7 p. m. April 8 to nominate six persons from each school to serve as trustees, and from each six names submitted to it the Board of Education will choose three to serve four-year terms.

Setting of the date for the nomination of trustees by the patrons was the first piece of business taken up by the board at its meeting Saturday morning.

Its members and Supt. Allen Thornton agreed that graduation exercises for the senior high schools will be held as planned, although the current term will extend one week longer than the originally set closing date of May 16. The extra week of school was dictated by the week of classes lost to the cold weather of early February, when heating and plumbing systems were knocked out by the sub-zero temperatures.

Dates of the graduation exercises had not been received by the superintendent's office Tuesday.

The education board approved the employment of Miss Mary Catherine Benson on the office staff to replace Mrs. Della Brantley, who resigned. Miss Benson began work Monday.

14 Conventions Set By Baptists

Fourteen district conventions will be held throughout the state during April for the more than 198,000 Training Union members of the Baptist churches of Alabama, according to an announcement by George Caldwell, Montgomery, secretary of the State Training Union Department.

"Our Baptist Heritage" will be the theme for the conventions. Each convention program will include inspirational speakers, conferences on the best methods of Training Union leadership, and district eliminations in the Junior Memory Drill, Intermediate Sword Drill and Young Peoples Speakers' Tournament.

Mr. Caldwell and his associates Gerald Blackburn, George Ricker, and Mrs. Maurice Williams will lead the one-day convention programs. They will be assisted by state and south-wide Training Union personalities.

Baptist of this area will attend the convention at the First Baptist Church, Russellville, on April 10, according to Rev. Elmer Fowler, director of the Colbert-Lauderdale Associational Baptist Training Union.

Believe Arrest Solves Burglaries

22-Year-Old Negro Held On Three Counts After Missing Loot Found

Arrest of a 22-year-old Florence Negro, who tried to hang himself in the Florence jail Monday night, is believed to have solved the series of recent burglaries of Florence business firms.

Chief Noah Danley said the man, Henry T. Summerhill, of 406 East Limestone St., has been charged with burglary, grand larceny and receiving and concealing stolen property after his arrest at 10 p. m. Monday at the intersection of the Savannah Highway and Gunwaleford Road.

Summerhill, for whom officers had set a trap, was taken from a 1950 Chrysler loaded with weapons stolen in various downtown Florence burglaries in recent weeks, including those on South Court street. The driver of the Chrysler was believed to be innocent of complicity in the break-ins and was released.

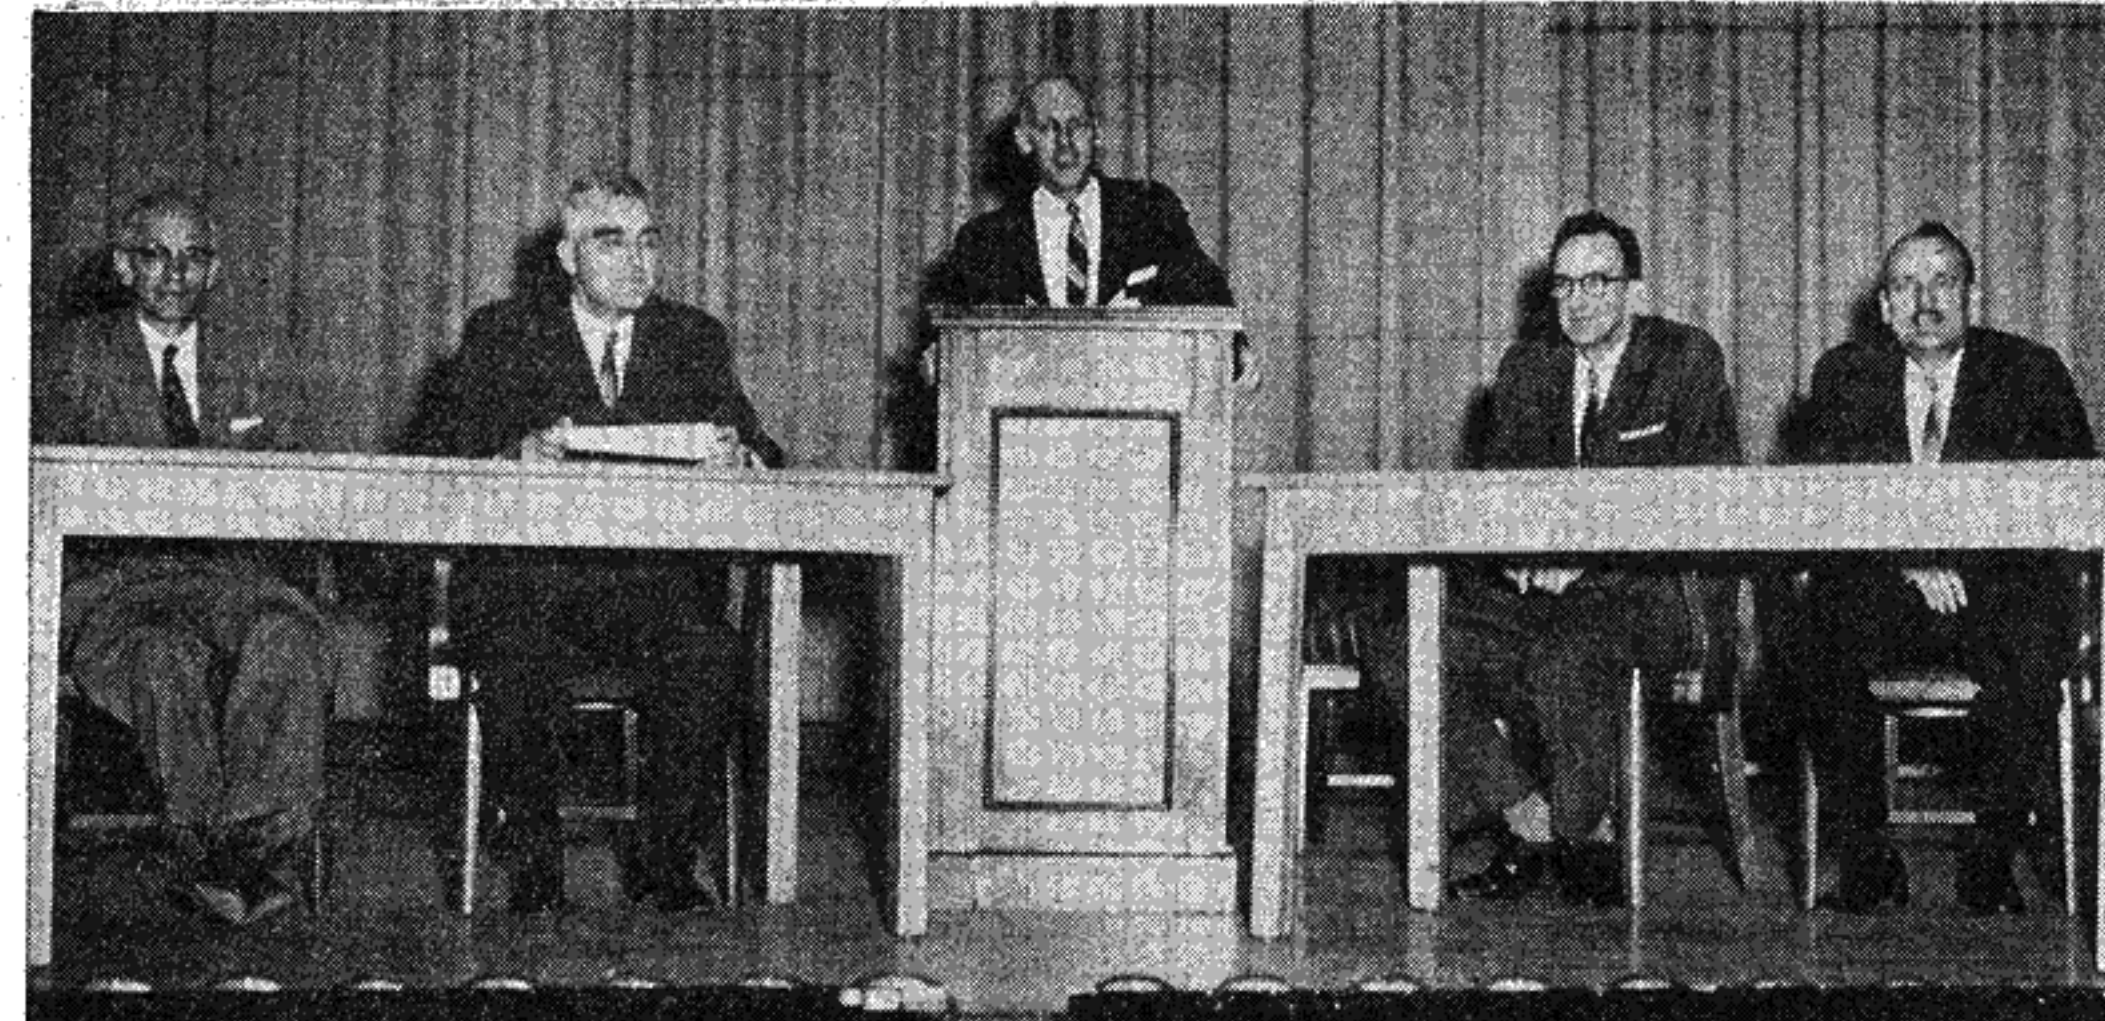

Danley said Summerhill is known to have changed quantities of silver into currency recently and has tried to sell cigarettes. Coin machines boxes and cigarettes have been a principal loot of the burglar who has plagued Florence merchants and city police.

Police officers cut down Summerhill when he attempted to hang himself in city jail Monday night following his arrest. He will be taken to county jail to await preliminary hearing.

Science Panel Scores With 'New Frontiers'

Danforth Committee Presentation Warmly Received Thursday Evening

A crowded auditorium at Coffee High School Thursday night greeted four distinguished members of a panel who discussed "New Frontiers in Science" under auspices of the Danforth Committee of Florence State College.

Dr. Gilford G. Quarles, scientific consultant to the commanding general of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal, was a wholly creditable substitute for his superior, Major General John B. Medaris, who was called to Washington for his appointment as head of all rocket, and missile projects of the Army. Other members of the panel were Dr. Frank J. Soday, vice-president of research and development, Chemstrand Corp.; Dean R. L. Sweigert, graduate division, Georgia Tech, and Dr. Langdon B. Gilkey, professor of theology, Vanderbilt University.

Dr. Quarles declared that the new frontiers of science are limitless, and that what may be frontiers today are fields of achievement tomorrow. He illustrated the never-ending search for more scientific knowledge by indicating some things learned from the artificial satellites now in orbit about the earth.

Explorers have extended their searches in the intellectual as well as the physical realms, said Dr. Soday in discussing the application of scientific knowledge to industries and the industrial advancement of this region.

A new approach to education is needed, said Dean Sweigert, in finding answers to the yet unsolved problems of science. Education must take the lead, he said, in finding and developing new creative talent.

Dr. Gilkey warned that man will rule the world of nature only so long as God's will is dominant in man's life, and declared that knowledge is good for its own sake but particularly as it leads to a realization of God's will for us.

The panel, presided over by Dean Turner W. Allen of FSC, was showered with stimulating questions from the audience after their talks.

COLLEGE STUDENTS' S TEST IS SET FOR MAY 1

State Director James W. Jones said today that the 1957-58 Selective Service College Qualification test will be given to college men on May 1.

Jones emphasized that the May 1st test will be the only test offered for the 1957-58 school year. Scores made on the test are used by Selective Service local boards as one guide in considering requests for deferment from military service to continue studies.

Application cards and instructions are available at all Selective Service local boards. Jones urged all men planning to take the test to make early application at the nearest local board for detailed information, as well as the necessary forms and materials.

$91,000 Allocation For MS Airport

Program Of Expansion May Start After July 1 At Tri-Cities Field

Prospects that a major improvement program will get under way at Muscle Shoals Airport shortly after July 1 were enhanced the past week by a federal allocation of $91,000 for the project whose estimated overall cost will be $350,000.

The grant from the federal government is more than half its share of $175,000 of the total estimated expenditure to be required, and is earmarked $20,000 for land acquisition and $71,000 for a terminal building, W. F. Baker, Florence, secretary of the Airport Authority, said this week.

The secretary said that with the federal allocation, announced in Washington Friday, plus $25,000 of local (Lauderdale-Colbert, Florence-Sheffield-Tusculum) participation funds, the authority was now preparing its project application. Upon its completion work will begin on plans and specifications for an expansion program at Muscle Shoals Airport long sought and badly needed.

All local participants have budgeted their proportionate share of an additional $75,000 needed before work can begin some time after July 1, when an expected grant agreement should be forthcoming from the federal sources.

In addition to land needed for "clear zones" and a new administration-terminal building, the airport expansion envisions extended runways and other improvements.

The second week's winner in the current snapshot contest sponsored by the Family Life Conference is Mrs. J. D. Anyone who has a suitable family snapshot or can take one that depicts some family activity is invited to submit his entry in this contest, P. O. Box 773, Sheffield. Agent Urges Care In Seed Purchase

Wagon Warns Farmers Only Reputable Dealers Should Be Patronized

By W. T. WAGNON
In view of the fact that unfavorable weather has caused a great amount of poor quality seeds, farmers should be very careful in purchasing planting seeds this year.

Farmers should buy seeds from reputable dealers and to be certain they are high in germination. Unless the germination has been determined within the last few weeks it will be wise to send a sample to a reputable laboratory for analysis. This should be done at once. It is advisable to buy seeds from a local dealer so that you can check back with him in case it develops that they are not the quality purchased.

A rumor is circulating that fly-by-night salesmen are on the road offering so-called seed bargains that are not being recommended by our experiment stations. Be careful about who you buy seeds from because misrepresentation about seeds is the same, in principle, as counterfeit money. This is the year when it will pay to buy and use certified seeds of all kinds.

Below is an alphabetical listing of corn and cotton varieties recommended by Alabama's experiment stations for North Alabama:

Corn
Early Season: Funk's G-95A (Y), Funk's G-134 (Y), Funk's G-704 (Y), Pfister (P.A.G.) 403 (Y), Pfister (P.A.G.) 631 (W), Pfister (P.A.G.) 636 (W), Pioneer 301A (Y), Pioneer 302 (Y), Pioneer 309A (Y), U.S. 13 (Y), Wood V-30 (Y).
Full Season: Coker 911 (W), Dixie 22 (Y), Dixie 29 (W), Dixie 33 (W), Dixie 35 (W).

Cotton
Wilt Resistant: Dixie King, Plains, Empire, Coker 100 Wilt Auburn 56, All-in-One, Fox, Hale 33, and Stoneville 7.

Seed Certification
Farmers who planted crimson clover, white clover or small grain last fall and used breeder seeds are eligible to have the seeds from these crops certified through the Alabama Crop Improvement Association, provided the crops pass field inspection.

Farms to be used in making application for membership in the Alabama Crop Improvement Association and for field inspection are available at his office. The closing date for filing application for the above crops is April 1.

Bring a certification tag from a bag of seed used in planting the crop to be certified to my office before April 1 and I will assist you in applying for certification.

The closing date for filing of certification of cotton is June 15; sorghum and millet July 1, soybeans July 15, and open-pollinated corn August 1.

GOLDEN BEARS SHOW UP GOOD COACH SAYS

Coach Raymond McMeans said he was well pleased with his 1957 grid prospects as his Lexington Golden Bears closed their spring practice session Tuesday afternoon. The 1958 club slugged the Senior 38-0 in an intra-squad tilt.

Grant Is Named To Succeed Riley

Glasscock Is Appointed Basketball Coach, Brewer To Direct Baseballers

Joe Grant, for 11 years a member of the athletic staff at Coffee High School, has been named head football coach to succeed Hayden Riley, who resigned to accept an assistant coach's post at the University of Alabama.

At the same time Grant was named the head coach's job on the gridiron, Harold Glasscock, present B team coach, was appointed head basketball coach, and Joe Brewer, now track coach, was named baseball coach.

The announcement of the new appointments was made following a meeting of the Florence Board of Education attended by J. W. Powell, retiring Superintendent of Education, and Rufus G. Hibbett, Sr., who will succeed him on July 1. The appointments became effective with the start of the fall term.

New Head Coach Grant came to Coffee in 1947 following graduation from Auburn and a hitch in the Army. He is a native of Andalusia.

Glasscock, a graduate of Coffee and one of the school's outstanding football players, had his collegiate career cut short by a knee injury. Following graduation, he went to Lauderdale County High at Rogersville where in four years he produced top-grade football and basketball teams.

Brewer, a Decatur native, was one of FSC's great quarterbacks, and was catcher on the baseball team all four years. He was employed in private industry for a year before going to Coffee in 1956.

A new line coach for the football team is being considered by the school board but no action has been taken toward hiring one.

Pat Springer and Virginia Lamperch led the Loretto sextet to a 57-45 victory over Litton High of Nashville before 3,500 fans. Loretto went wild in the fourth quarter, scoring 23 points in this final canto, but held the upper hand throughout the game. Springer counted 20 points and Lamperch 25, and Litton was never in the lead but once, and that only briefly in the third quarter.

Loretto took home the title by whipping Soddy-Daisy and New-Range before sinking Litton in the finals.

Let's Talk It Over

By SARA SAZE

Dear Sara Saze,

I know I am the one that "R. B." wrote you about last week and I want to thank you for answering her like you did. I have been left very much alone and I certainly have been restless. It's just like she said, I do keep moving about and it looks like it helps mighty little. I guess I might say not at all.

But one thing that keeps me upset is just like you told her, all the advice I get. Everybody has a different idea it seems like. And all I know is that I can't stay in that house now.

I'm not going to burn my bridges. I love my home and am only trying to rent, not sell, it. And they all want me to tell them why I have that feeling. Well, I don't know why.

Do you think I can ever overcome it?

A Confused Reader.

Dear Reader,

Others do. Why not you? Have any of your "friends" stopped prodding you long enough to mention that TIME is the great healer. It seems to turn the tide when nothing else can.

I shouldn't be surprised if loneliness is the factor you have to combat. If you can take a small suggestion along with that quantity of advice I'd like you to think about a trip. New faces and new scenery could be very helpful in giving you a different perspective.

Dear Sara Saze,

Every Spring and Summer we keep busy digging after moles in our yard and we hardly ever catch one. But it keeps holding all over everywhere. Isn't there a spray you can use that kills them out and can you tell me what it is?

Mary R.

Cloverdale Road.

Dear Mary R.,

I do not know a spray that will kill moles but there are commercial products on the market that kill the grubs which attract such marauders. Ask at your seed store for advice. Or speak to our Farm Agent.

Dear Mrs. Saze,

What are "cypress knees?" I have heard them mentioned several times recently.

Just Curious.

Dear Curious,

Cypress "knees" are the exposed portions of cypress roots which are cut, polished and used for ornamental purposes in the same ways as driftwood. The pieces are sometimes graceful, very unusual and often greatly admired by many.

Leo Views the College Campus By DOTTIE McRAE

Despite the cold weather, the campus is beginning to take on that look (and feel) of soft, fresh greenness. Sooner or later, every conversation gets around to the warm weather that will be here soon and is taking so long getting here. At any rate, Florence State is on its way to being enveloped in a coat of chlorophyll.

Nature is getting a little help—brand new bushes and shrubs are popping up everywhere, especially around the library and Wesleyan Hall.

Monday night I went down to get a sneak preview of "Stunt Nite"—I got my preview all right, a preview of two stunts. Monday was the date set for the screening of those stunts which were to compete in the event set for Tuesday, March 25. Unfortunately, not very many students were—for some reason or other—interested in competing.

Powers Hall had worked on a short skit based on the plight of a bird watcher who got side-tracked into the confusion of registration day at Florence State. Student imitations and interpretations of faculty members and their favorite expressions were extremely good and highly amusing.

The "Diorama" staff had done their own choreography on a real-life descriptive dance routine using "Steam Heat" for background.

Opening by introducing six completely different student personalities, the dance ended by bringing them together in their common lack of heat.

Since there were only two stunts, the originally planned version of "Stunt Nite" didn't come off; instead, the two groups performed Thursday morning. Each was awarded ten dollars.

Tuesday and Wednesday the campus was flooded by musical contingents from the local high and junior high schools and from schools as far away as Huntsville, Fayette, Decatur, and Scottsboro. For two days Kilby Auditorium emitted a continuous strain of music.

Saturday, the local music clubs sponsored their music festival and occupied the second floor of Wesleyan Hall all day.

The high-light of the week came Thursday when Florence was visited by a panel who discussed the subject of "New Frontiers in Science" from four points of view. Members of the panel were Dr. Quarles, substituting for General John R. Medaris of Redstone Arsenal; Dr. R. L. Sweigert, Dean of the Graduate Division, Georgia Tech; Dr. Frank J. Soday, vice-president of Chemstrand, Decatur; and Dr. Langdon Gilkey, Professor of Philosophy and Religion at the Vanderbilt University School of Religion.

After four extremely pertinent and thought provoking talks, the members of the panel answered questions from the audience. Of course, there wasn't nearly enough time to cover even part of the subject and its various aspects, but the evening was certainly one-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

Florence got a preview of next

At the festival, the instrumentalists will vie for first and second "chairs" in their groups, and medalists will be announced in the final concert. The giant concert Wednesday night climaxes the three days of rehearsals under guest conductors for all divisions of the festival.

SPRINGTIME COLORS: It's the season for the buds on some of the trees and bushes around here to begin to show their colors. Right in tune with Nature are the new extension phones in delicate pastel shades: aqua blue, rose pink, light beige, light gray, and white. (We still have cherry red, yellow, moss green, and ivory, too!) They're all pretty as they are practical. Even the cords match! And since a lot of you will be painting and papering come spring, why not select extension phones in lovely springtime shades to match or contrast with your new decorating colors. For further details, just call our Business Office.

HANDWRITING EXPERT: Seems like everywhere you look today machines are getting almost smarter than people. Right now at Bell Laboratories they're developing a little machine—"bout as big as a portable typewriter—that can read and identify handwritten numbers. One day we'll be using it right here in our telephone office to record Long Distance numbers automatically. That'll mean saving a lot of extra work and cutting down costs. It's nice to know little machines like this are constantly being developed by telephone folks to help keep costs down and speed up service. It's one way we help keep your telephone the big bargain it is today.

LOVE THAT PHONE... Proud as a two-year-old honey child should be, isn't she? Answering the phone for the very first time. Whether you're going on two, or half past forty, your telephone brings a heap of pleasure and satisfaction. (There's even something exciting about its ring!) For fun, for friendship, and for more good livin' than you can shake a stick at—just reach for your phone.

News Of ROGERSVILLE
By Mrs. Oswald Waddell
Phone 2681

The Civitan Auxiliary met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Reynolds Thornton with Mrs. Rex Robinson as co-hostess. At this meeting a circular letter was prepared to be put into the hands of all parents, to be read in the churches, and announced at all meetings. It contained information regarding the property of Mrs. Trowbridge (Grace Williams) which is to be used at her permission for a playground for the town under the sponsorship of the Civitan Auxiliary. The regulations are that it be kept clean, well supervised, to be closed at 9 p. m., and to be used in such a manner as not to be disturbing to the people living in that area.

Volunteers for supervision, for the building of equipment, such as sandboxes, grills and swings, were requested, and for donations to buy equipment. The town council has pledged cooperation and financial support. The Pastor's Association also pledged their help with the program.

The success of this project depends on the cooperation of everyone in the Rogersville community. This adds another link to the chain of worthwhile projects fostered by the Civitan Auxiliary through the years.

Miss Bess Crow was responsible for a most interesting review of some of the work done by UNICEF. She stressed the medical relief given, stating that for every dollar given by the fund the benefitted country gave two. She brought out the fact that most of the countries of the world were being helped by the fund, but probably the most good had been done in Libya where the treatment of yaws, a disease in which the victim is covered with open sores, has been successfully accomplished through the use of penicillin.

A contest completed the program, after which a salad course was served. Mrs. C. J. Pennington presided.

Guidance Study
A vocational guidance study has been conducted by the Training Union of the Baptist Church, whose director is C. J. Pennington.

The adult study, "Jesus Calls," was led by a different adult each evening with pastor Rev. Ralph Wilson, concluding the series.

Intermediates, whose subject was, "Is This My Life?" by Ruby Treadway, was led by Mrs. C. J. Pennington. Ten juniors were enrolled in the study, "When I Grow Up," by Harvey G. Albright.

WCS
When the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church met on Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Bob Waddell, it was for the first portion of their new study, "Disciples To Such A Lord," which was given by Mrs. Cora Lewis, who also gave the devotional in connection with the study.

Mrs. J. R. Waddell assisted the hostess during the refreshment hour.

Circles Meet
The Eddie Dodson Circles of the Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Ben Fuqua on Wednesday afternoon for their program of letters from missionaries on the home mission field.

Mrs. Van Gribbs led the Dotson Circle, to which Mrs. Laxton was welcomed as a new member.

Prayer plans for the Easter revival were made. A refreshment was served by the hostess.

P-T-A
W. C. Hannah led the opening prayer at the Parent-Teacher meeting on Thursday evening. Mrs. Eddie Williams' room, third grade, received the attendance prize, and James Elkins, president, spoke in behalf of the park project sponsored by the Civitan Auxiliary.

The program, planned by Dr. Edith Ledbetter, Joel Brewer, Mrs. Robert Barnett, Mrs. Stanley Romine and Mrs. Kelmer Weathers, was a symposium in which Miss Louise Comer, supervisor of instruction for Lauderdale County, Miss Julia George, county attendance officer, Mrs. Mamie Jones special education teacher, and W. C. Hannah, principal, discussed "Special Education Of Exceptional Children."

Much of the procedure, study, planning and work which underlies this comparatively new field in Alabama, and is unknown to the parent, was discussed, each member of the symposium explaining the part he played.

Of the three special education classes in Lauderdale County, the one in the Rogersville Elementary School is the only one for very young children. Mrs. Mamie Jones is the teacher.

The work and material are designed to give special attention to children who require more personal help. They pointed out that school authorities are constantly in search of better ways of taking care of individual differences and in the 12 minutes per day which the average teacher has per child some children do not receive as much help as is necessary—thus the special education class. More time is then provided for the teacher of the average child.

An outright appropriation was made by the Board of Education for materials.

Mrs. Jones told case histories showing the progress in school work, personality, and individual development, showing samples of their work. She revealed her philosophy as a teacher in this statement, "A child deserves to be loved, a chance to be understood and to be given a feeling of security."

If any human really "ate like a bird"—like a parakeet, at least, he would stow away about eight tons of groceries a year! A parakeet eats nearly 100 times its own weight in a year. To equal this record, the average man would have to devour some 16,000 pounds of meat, potatoes, fruits, vegetables, milk and other assorted items annually, or over 45 pounds of food daily! Actually, the average American adults eats less than 1/10 that amount.

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER—STAYS TOGETHER"

MIRAGE

I sat on the sands, watching the palm trees, the city silhouetted against the sky. And as I did, suddenly the city wasn't there any more. I saw only the palms.

It was like being transported to another time and place. I felt as if I were in old Jerusalem. It was the day when He was entering the city, and His devoted followers had strewn palm leaves in His path. In church, that morning, our minister had told us the story of Palm Sunday. Now I realized how much this message meant to me.

Watching the palms, I realized that all of us need help in understanding life's basic truths. We find that help in the Church. Then we can dwell upon what we have learned until it has full meaning for us... as Palm Sunday, now, has for me.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Farm Review and Forecast

TWELVE NEW CASES OF CANCER IN LAUDERDALE

Cancer was reported in Alabama at a rate of more than 35 cases a day during February. The State Health Department said today that 1,026 new cases of cancer were recorded during that month. Every county in Alabama reported cancer during February. Lauderdale County had 12 cases.

Don't Lose Benefits

Self-Employed Farmer Who Nets $400 A Year Must File SS Report

For Social Security purposes, the self-employed farm operator must now report and pay taxes on net farm income above $400 a year.

A law passed in 1955 makes such reports compulsory. The law also gives the self-employed farm operator an opportunity to report his farm income under two optional methods, reports API Extension Farm Economist Foy Helms. For example, if his gross farm income was as little as $800 in 1955, he could report one-half of that amount, or $400. Since 1955, if his gross farm income is at least $600 a year he can report two-thirds of that amount, or $400, for Social Security purposes.

Since Social Security payments are based on earnings, Helms pointed out that it is important for the self-employed farm operator to get proper credit for his earnings. The maximum amount for which he can receive credit is $4,200 a year.

"It is, therefore, very necessary for the farm operator to keep sufficient records to enable him to file proper reports covering his farm income," explained Helms. "The records need not be elaborate or detailed. They should simply show what it cost him to operate during the year—including taxes, depreciation on equipment and what he received from the sale of farm products."

"Failure to file proper reports could mean that, when the time comes for a self-employed farmer or his dependents to file their claims for Social Security payments, they may not receive the benefits to which they are actually entitled."

New Plastic Film Proves Valuable Mulching Material

Through the years, many materials from straw to shredded newspapers—have been used fairly successfully for mulching.

However, mulching, which is a process of controlling weeds and conserving moisture, can now be carried out effectively with a new material called black polyethylene film.

The black plastic was tested on vegetable plots grown last year at the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Beltsville, Md., research center. It controlled all weeds except nut grass, which has sharp, pointed leaves able to pierce the film. Thus, only a small amount of hand weeding was necessary. Crops mulched with polyethylene during the dry 1957 season also grew faster and larger and yielded more than similar plants grown without mulch.

According to USDA specialists, soil should be fertilized and thoroughly worked into a friable condition before it's covered with film and the plants are set in place. Fertilizer can be poured into the opening around each planter, through holes punched in the film, or along the edges of the covered plant bed—where it will soak in as rain does when it falls on the film.

Mulched cabbage, broccoli and lettuce plants in the tests all out-weighted similar plants on clean, cultivated land. And cucumbers, lima beans, snap beans and tomatoes yielded heavier crops when mulched with film.

To cut cost of mulching home garden plots with plastic, strips of the film may be used, rather than attempting to cover the whole garden surface. Directions come with the packets of film, which are available from most local garden and hardware stores.

Reporting Farm Employees Vital

Farm operators or farm owners who have paid as much as $150 in cash wages to any farm worker in their employ during 1957 must file an employer's tax and information return for such farm employees. They must also report each farm employee who worked for them on 20 or more days during 1957 regardless of the amount of those wages if they were figured on a time rather than a piece rate basis.

For 1957, the social security tax is 4 1/2% (2 1/4% each for employer and employee.) This tax applies to cash wages paid to a farm worker up to a total of $4200 in the year. The tax amount must be entered on Form 943 (Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees) together with the total amount of cash wages paid to the farm worker. It is required that the farm employer do this and file the return with the District Director of Internal Revenue at Florence on or before the due date mentioned above.

When a farm employee meets the 20-day a year test the farm employer should count only days for which the employee works for cash wages figured on a time basis. However, if the worker meets this test, the farm employer must pay social security taxes on all cash wages paid the employee during the year (whether on a time, piecework, or other basis.)

Farm employees include household workers if they are employed on a farm operated for profit.

Pound Of Insects Damage Five Times Their Own Weight

How much damage do insects do? The amount of destruction is surprising.

For instance, each pound of insects causes the loss of five pounds of vegetation. Seventeen grasshoppers per square yard on an acre can eat one ton of alfalfa per day.

Insects in the United States cancel the labor of at least one million working men each year. More trees are killed by insects each year than are destroyed by forest fires. And, according to entomologists, there are 86,000 name species of insects in the U. S., 10,000 of which are considered public enemies.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
God's supremacy and all-power will be explained in the lesson-sermon entitled "Reality," at Christian Science services Sunday. From the Bible will be read the following (1. Chronicles 29:11): "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all."

Poor land needs not remain poor! It is both practical and profitable to build poor soils up to high yielding capacities—through the use of fertilizer.

Grazing Pastures For Hogs Reduces Cost Of Feeding

Alabama hog raisers can turn the grazing pasture into profitable acres.

Many hog growers aren't as sold on good pastures for swine as they should be, says G. B. Phillips, API Extension animal industry specialist. This is probably because they don't have very good pastures for their animals in the first place.

"There are several advantages to having good pastures when late spring and fall pigs are farrowed and reach the growing-finishing stage," Phillips pointed out. "One of these is saving feed. Concentrates for hogs on pasture can be cut 10 or 15 per cent."

"Rotated pastures can help prevent worm infestation and many pig diseases," continued the swine specialist. "Also, the fattening pig will produce about one dollar's worth of manure, helping to increase soil fertility."

"Investment in equipment as well as time can be saved when pigs are raised on pastures. A good pasture program will supply feed from early spring until late fall. And it need not fail during dry, hot spells."

"Hogs aren't choosy about their grazing," Phillips explained. "They will do well on most any kind, but while you're planting seed it's best to choose the crops they like and on which they'll grow best."

A few crops recommended by the hog expert are alfalfa, white clover, crimson clover, Kudzu, vetch, timothy, sweet sudan grass and lespedeza.

Putting the hog herd on clean pastures means lower feed costs, more money saved, and better health for the animals.

GI Insurance Dividend Due

$32 Million To Be Paid World War I, II Veterans During April, May

A special dividend of $32 million will be paid between mid-April and mid-May to policyholders of U. S. Government Life Insurance (World War I) in addition to the regular annual dividend of $282 million already declared for 530,000 policyholders of World War I and II GI insurance. The regular annual dividend of $282 million is being distributed at the rate of $22 million a month. Payments were begun last January and will continue until next December, Harley A. Smith, manager of the Montgomery VA Regional Office, said today.

To avoid delays in processing these automatic dividend payments Smith requested participating policyholders not to make inquiry in advance of special dividend payment.

The payment of these two dividends from mid-April to mid-May will make $54 million available to policyholders for that month. For the remainder of the year, only the $22 million regular dividend will be paid monthly.

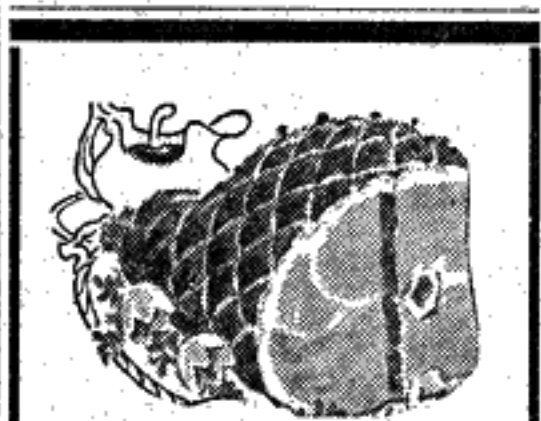

Smith said approximately 325,000 permanent plan USGLI policies will share in the $32 million special dividend. Approximately 44,000 policies will be excluded, including 19,000 five-year term, 8,000 extended term and 17,000 other policies for which permanent and total disability payments are being deducted from the face value of the policies.

USGLI policyholders who are drawing disability payments under a special rider for which they are paying extra premiums will not be excluded from the special dividend.

Safety Rules For Kite Fliers Cited

Gusty spring winds bring out kites and model planes. But even these sports may prove dangerous if safety rules aren't observed. Here are a few of these rules as listed recently by API Extension Engineer William Cox:

Never run across highways or streets while flying kites or planes. Do not permit them to soar over television or radio aerials. Never fly kites or planes near power lines, or in thunderstorms or rain. When a plane or kite catches in a power line, let go immediately. Don't try to pull it down or climb up to get it; just notify the power company.

A prominent banker and community leader tells you:

Why United States Savings Bonds are so important to your family and your own home town

Joseph C. Welman, President, Bank of Kennett, Kennett, Missouri; 1958 President, American Bankers Association

If you and your neighbors are spending and saving wisely today, tomorrow's economic problems will solve themselves.

That's true for your family, as well as the community in which you live. And that's why U. S. Savings Bonds are so important to every American.

The secret of saving is system. And for most Americans, Savings Bonds are the perfect solution for systematic savings. They're safe. They're sure. Easily bought. And easily converted into cash should an emergency arise.

And now every U. S. Series E Savings Bond pays a new, higher interest—3 1/4% when held to maturity! It matures faster, too, in only 8 years and 11 months. And redemption values are higher, especially in the earlier years.

Leading bankers and industrialists all over the country, realizing the importance of thrift and savings to a sound economy, are giving their wholehearted support to the U. S. Savings Bonds program. Why not start your Bond investment program today—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or by regular purchases where you bank.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Going Steady Popular With Teenagers

By Clare D. Smith

It must be exasperating to teenagers to have their parents continually saying: "Well, when I was your age I didn't do that." This seems to imply that if the parents didn't do it when young, then it's wrong for the offspring to do it. Several of my friends have exhausted my patience with their criticism of the teenage fad of going steady. Most of them never give specific reason, they just say "we didn't do it," thus implying their children shouldn't.

Personally, I can't decide whether this "going steady" is good or bad for the youngsters. But just because I didn't "go steady" when in high school, doesn't mean my son shouldn't.

It seems to me that the kids miss out on a lot of fun. I've known teenage boys to turn down invitations to dances and parties because their "steady" wasn't invited. The same is true of girls.

I believe this current trend confines youngsters to a narrow circle of friends, and I don't think this is good.

Also, 90 per cent of these friendships must be broken up when high school is finished. The boy goes to one college, the girl to another. There is likely to be a period of unhappiness in such cases.

I would like to hear other views on the subject, from both parents and teenagers. What do you think?

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Maybe I should be, but I'm glad that I'm not concerned this spring with the "sack look." Maybe I shouldn't be, for femininity's sake, more concerned about the yellow and green vegetables on my family's dinner plate than I am, the new colored hose which the more style-conscious women will wear this season. Maybe I should be sorry that I'm not concerned about these matters, either, but I'm not. In fact, I'm glad! Glad, that I, Farmer's Wife in a year such as the one just past and when the income is so low that there is no room in this year's budget for new spring styles, that I can be content with last year's. It is The Farmer's Wife's humble opinion that it might be good for all of woman-kind to be the wife of a farmer for a few years of her life.

We might, through such an experience, be more able to say with the Apostle Paul of the Bible—"that in what so ever state we find ourselves therein to be content."

Alumni Banquet Success

The annual Lexington Alumni Banquet was held in the Lexington School cafeteria Saturday evening, March 15. Some 300 alumni members and guests were in attendance.

Marvin A. Wilson, Florence attorney and 1957-58 president of the Alumni Association served as toastmaster. The invocation was given by Condred Joiner, 1957-58 vice-president of the association. Welcoming remarks were made by O. M. Bailey, principal of the Lexington School. Vocal selections were by James Joiner.

A special feature of the program was the inspiring address by Reeder Parker of Waverly, Tenn. Mr. Parker graduated from the Lexington High School in 1930 and was instrumental in organizing the Lexington Alumni Association. Mr. Parker, who has an outstanding war record, is a well known attorney presently serving as Attorney-General of the 21st Judicial Circuit of the State of Tennessee.

At the close of the address Mr. Wilson presided over a short business session during which time J. B. McCain gave the report of the nominating committee. The following were unanimously elected to serve as officers for the 1958-59 term: President, Alvin Braly; vice-president, Robert Belew; secretary-treasurer, Miss Jeanette Newton. Serving with the officers on the executive board will be O. W. White, Jr., Mrs. J. D. Porter, Condred Joiner and Marvin A. Wilson. Special guests included members of the 1958 graduating class and members of the Lexington School faculty.

Those in charge of arrangements for the banquet feel that its great success was due to the time and effort put forth by the more than 50 members of the Alumni Association who served on the various committees.

A dinner meeting for the members of the Lexington Civitan Club and their guests was held Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in the Lexington School cafeteria. Dudley Killen, president of the club, presided. The invocation was given by J. F. Phillips, minister of the Lexington Methodist Church.

Following the meal a musical program was presented by the "Jolly Five" quartette which is composed of the following members: Lamont Owens, T. W. Mosley, Johnny Ferrell and Robert Lee Townsend.

A short business session for the members of the club ended the meeting. More than 60 people were in attendance.

The club meets each fourth Saturday evening at the school.

Recent guests of the J. M. Thompsons included Mrs. Bill Bergin and children of Sheffield, Mrs. Mary Thompson, and Mrs. A. L. Thompson and daughter.

Vicki Dean Scott of Florence is a guest in the home of Mrs. George Newton in Lexington.

Herman Briggs of Killen, Rt. 1, is still in a very bad condition.

School About 75 pupils had their eyes checked last week through a testing program, sponsored by the Killen, Sheffield, and Florence Lions Clubs. It is planned to continue this important work until all the Killen School children have had this eye examination.

Our attendance is not good this week, due to colds and measles.

On Monday, there were 35 absences in the first and second grades alone.

Clarence Newbern, one of our last year's students, paid our school a visit on Monday. He is now a pupil at Coffee High School.

Jeanne Loveless and her family visited her sister in Gadsden during the week-end. They went on over into Georgia and saw some beautiful natural scenery.

We have several children, still out of school because of measles.

Peggy Dison, Shirley Ann Evans, David Melton and Linda Clemmon are back in school after a two weeks' illness.

Sondra Littrell, of Miss Harris' Seventh Grade, was surprised with a birthday party given by her mother in the room Friday. Cakes and cookies were served and the children enjoyed games during the hour.

Nina Lanier's sister and husband (Fay Gray) are at home with her parents again. They recently returned from Indiana, where he worked.

The absences in our group have been few this month, although one or two have been ill.

This group has done several weeks of hard study and have made some attractive booklets, for future reference.
