

On Memorial Day, let us pause in solemn tribute to those who gave their lives that all may be free. And as we honor their great sacrifice for the cause of freedom, let us pledge ourselves to be ever vigilant that what they have nobly won shall ever be preserved.

The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

The parents were discussing their only daughter. "You know," said the father, "Sally is nearly seventeen years old so, today, I had a frank talk with her about the facts of life." "Ah," said the wife hopefully, "did you learn anything?"

Two scrub-women were talking in the building hallway. "Did your husband love you very much?" asked one. "Love me?" exclaimed the second. "He loved me so much he wouldn't even leave me to go to work."

We understand that one of the county bus drivers was having a time to keep his load of youngsters in their seats. The antics going on were dangerous and he just about lost his patience. Finally, he brought the bus to a stop, turned around to face his charges and calmly said: "The rules say that I have to deliver you to your school—but they don't say what day. Now we'll just sit here until you behave yourselves." It didn't take long.

Little Mary insisted that she be allowed to serve tea to her mother's guests one afternoon. Rather skeptical as to the outcome, the mother reluctantly consented. She waited and waited but no tea came. Finally, when the little girl appeared bearing the tray, her mother asked the reason for the delay. "I couldn't find the tea-trainer," Mary answered. "Then how did you get it strained so well?" was mother's puzzled question. "I used the fly-swatter," little Mary cheerfully explained.

Low-cut, strapless evening gowns really present a problem to florists. There's nothing to pin a corsage to but skin.

The young bank clerk had the audacity to propose to the millionaire's daughter. "You want to marry me?" she exclaimed. "Why, you've known me for only three days." "Oh, much longer than that, really," replied the unabashed young man. "I've been working for two years in the bank where your father keeps his account."

Two detectives were going over a murder report. "It says that the man was shot by his wife at close range," said the first detective. "There must have been powder marks on his body." "Yes," agreed the second detective. "They say that's the reason she shot him."

"Congratulations, Old Boy," was the way a fellow was greeted by a friend the other day. "I admire the backbone you displayed. I understand that your wife came to you on her knees yesterday. Real cave-man stuff, I'd say." "Yes," replied the meek and timid husband, "she was on her knees when she dared me to come out from under the bed."

Program Advocated By Cotton Council Directors

Adoption of 'Choice Plan' Designed To Provide Stabilization Of Price

A program for cotton that would give individual farmers a choice between higher acreage and a lower price or lower acreage and a higher price was advocated in a report to the cotton industry. The report was issued by the Board of Directors of the National Cotton Council.

In releasing the report it was pointed out that if legislation is not passed the industry faces a cut of more than 20 per cent in acreage allotted for cotton in 1959 from 17.5 million at present to 14 million.

The Board urged adoption of a "choice plan" as a "transitional" program pointed toward a competitive, one-price system, coupled with a permanent program under which the price would be at or move to a competitive level as soon as possible.

"It should avoid problems involved in the present law, which fails to take cotton's competition into account," the report added.

All elements of the industry were urged to unite in working with the legislative and executive branches of the government in the enactment of the necessary legislation immediately. The report also urged two other steps:

1. "In determining marketing quotas and acreage allotments, provision should be made for adequate supplies of cotton both in the U. S. and abroad, with due allowance for the quality requirements of the market and for the large margin of error which is inherent in forecasting production, consumption and exports a year or more ahead. Provision also should be made for increasing established allotments by administrative action in the event a quality shortage should develop after an allotment has been announced.

2. "Farmers should be permitted, under reasonable regulations, to transfer allotments within a county or state under a rental or purchase agreement."

The Board in its report pointed out that the delegate membership of the Council in January urged an "immediate increase in cotton acreage in 1958 sufficient to produce adequate supplies of all qualities of U. S. cotton needed to meet the requirements of our customers both at home and abroad."

The delegates had called for adoption of a long-range price and production program that would move as rapidly as possible toward: (1) expanded production and consumption of U. S. cotton; (2) competitive prices for U. S. cotton; and (3) a one-price system for U. S. cotton that maximizes the use of normal trade channels and minimizes the role of government in cotton marketing.

In its report issued today the Cotton Council's Board of Directors declared:

"Despite most strenuous efforts on the part of the industry and many Cotton Belt Congressmen and Senators, an increase in cotton acreage in 1958 was not obtained, due primarily to complications arising from the Soil Bank program.

"With regard to 1959 and thereafter, substantial progress has been made by producers and other segments of the cotton industry, as well as by congressional leaders from the Cotton Belt, in developing approaches generally in line with the objectives set forth in (Continued on Page 2)

Education Board To Construct Four New Classrooms

Resignation Of Oakland Principal Accepted; Board Buys Buildings

The Lauderdale County Board of Education held its semi-monthly meeting in its offices Saturday. According to Allen Thornton, county superintendent of education, the following matters were discussed and action taken:

The resignation of Floyd Parker as principal of Oakland School was accepted. The board voted to discontinue the Anderson Negro school and sell the two-acre plot at public auction on June 21 on site.

Final approval was given for the construction of two new classrooms at Wilson School and two new classrooms at West End High School.

Cooperation with the town of Killen in its plan for the construction of a water system for the school was agreed upon by the board.

Final approval was given to purchase of several framed buildings of the Phosphate Development Works, TVA, and early removal of buildings from government property is planned. Superintendent Thornton said that much of the buildings would be used for construction programs now underway and for projected programs.

Auburn Placed On Probation By SEC

Conference Upholds Penalties of NCAA On 1957 Grid Champs

In action taken last Thursday, the Southeastern Conference executive committee upheld the penalties slapped on Auburn, the national football champions of 1957, by the NCAA for violation of football recruiting.

Besides upholding NCAA's action, the committee turned down Auburn's request that the NCAA be asked to reconsider the case. It ruled Don Fuell of Guntersville, a freshman quarterback last season, ineligible for athletics in the conference.

Auburn also became ineligible to share in receipts of bowl games involving SEC schools and was placed on indefinite probation in the conference.

The NCAA placed Auburn on probation until Sept. 1, 1961, after a hearing held last month.

Legion To Hold Memorial Service Friday Afternoon

Unknowns To Be Buried At Arlington Cemetery In Services Tomorrow

According to Estes R. Flynt, Memorial Day Program chairman, Memorial Day services will be held at Florence cemetery Friday, at 2 p. m.

Sponsored by Florence Lauderdale American Legion Post No. 11, the service will consist of the decoration of veterans' graves with American flags.

The public is cordially invited to this service.

President Eisenhower and the members of his cabinet, together with representatives of various foreign governments, will participate in the Memorial Day ceremonies for the two Unknown Servicemen, from World War II and the Korean Conflict, who are to be interred at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington tomorrow. In addition, more than 60 veterans organizations and other civic and patriotic groups will be represented at the ceremonies.

Highlights of the Memorial Day program will include presentation by the American Legion's National Commander, J. S. Gleason, Jr., of a floral tribute depicting the Legion's emblem at the Rotunda of the U. S. Capitol Building at 11:50 a. m. where the bodies of the Unknown will lie in state.

Leaving the Capitol at 1 p. m., the funeral procession will proceed on foot to Arlington National Cemetery Amphitheatre. The National Guard of Honor of the District of Columbia Department of the American Legion, the Department of Virginia Guard of Honor, and the James Reese Europe Post No. 5 (D.C.) Guard of Honor will join the procession. The Unknown Servicemen will be buried with full military honors in the Tomb following the colorful ceremonies.

The Unknown Serviceman of World War II was selected by an enlisted Medal of Honor winner in a ceremony at sea aboard the U. S. S. Canberra on May 26. Selection of the Korean Unknown was from among the unidentified war dead of the Korean Conflict now interred in Honolulu.

The original Tomb of the Unknown Soldier has been enlarged to receive the additional bodies, who will not be called "soldiers" because their branch of service is unknown, but the original Unknown Soldier has not been disturbed.

'Cotton Takes Offensive'

Raymond Jones, member of the National Cotton Council, led a group of Lauderdale County farmers interested in the growing and processing of cotton in a discussion on "Cotton Takes The Offensive" Tuesday night in the courthouse.

Walker E. Brown, president of the Lauderdale County Farm Bureau, presided at the meeting which was one of a series of meetings being held throughout the state on cotton problems.

The discussion was divided into three parts, the first part being, Where We Are. At the present, American cotton now supplies less than a fifth of the world fiber market of 70,000,000 bales. Major competitors of our cotton are foreign cotton and man-made fibers which has increased five times since World War II to 5,000,000 bales a year.

There are three competitive factors, price, quality, and promotion, that determines who gets the markets. On price, in the United States, rayon is 6-10 cents a pound

France's Fate Hangs In Balance As Pflimlin Quits Premier Post

PRO-FRENCH DEMONSTRATION — Waving flags and banners, part of a crowd of some 40,000 French and Moslems gather in the main square of Algiers, Algeria, for a pro-French demonstration. The crowd was addressed by members of the "Public Safety Committee," a French military junta which assumed power in the country in a split with Paris government.

Candidates For Governor Enter Home Stretch

Patterson, Wallace Take Time For Handshakes And Informal Visiting

In a whirlwind finish for the state's top post, both Attorney General John Patterson and Barbour County Judge George Wallace, have appeared in many parts of Alabama in the past few days, this week finding time in opposite ends of the state.

John Patterson took his fight for the governorship to the Tri-Cities area Monday after spending Sunday in Birmingham. His trip was mostly a handshaking tour while Judge Wallace was in Mobile and points in South Alabama.

On his handshaking visit Patterson said "you've got to walk the streets and talk with folks" in order to find out what the people want in their state government.

He said he would oppose vigorously any efforts to "hamstring or hurt" the Tennessee Valley Authority. He said the TVA is responsible for many "magnificent economic advancements."

Patterson said he had been chatting with farmers about their problems, visiting workers in plants, talking with men and women who serve in stores, discussing the needs of state government with housewives.

In South Alabama, Wallace, who said he was once a truck driver, said he realized what the trucking industry means to Alabama. He promised to seek reciprocal agreements with other states so Alabama's truckers can operate without discrimination or fear of violating some rule or regulation. "We are not going to pester or harass the truck drivers by weighing their loads every few miles."

The Barbour County judge reiterated his stand on improved educational facilities for the state. His meet-the-people campaign began in Birmingham Sunday at two open houses in Homewood and Mountain Brook where he greeted hundreds of callers between 3 and 7:30 p.m. From Mobile he is working his way northward to Montgomery where he plans to stay for final returns.

Judge Wallace was recently in the Tri-Cities where he reiterated his stand on the issues of reapportionment, education and support of the Tennessee Valley Authority. He said he believed that segregation could be maintained in Alabama within the law and without violence.

Publication Of Sun Is Suspended After Meeting Of Board

Announcement has been made by Leroy Gore, vice president and editor of The Muscle Shoals Morning Sun, of the suspension of publication of that paper. The announcement was made after a board meeting of the Sun Publishing Company, lessee, and the Muscle Shoals Publishing Company, owner of the equipment.

The suspension which was effective with last Saturday's edition was due to a lack of capital. The Sun had been published Tuesdays through Saturdays of each week since Oct. 14, 1957, except for a brief period in March when publication was halted temporarily when the Muscle Shoals Publishing Company ran into financial difficulties and began leasing the equipment to the Sun Publishing Company.

De Gaulle Said Ready To Form New Government

Reports from Paris on Wednesday said that General Charles De Gaulle had been called to the French capital by President Rene Coty following Premier Pierre Pflimlin's resignation. This was held to mean that De Gaulle would be asked to take over the stricken government and form a new cabinet. De Gaulle previously had said that he would take over only by legal means since the French Parliament had given Pflimlin a 408-165 vote of confidence on Tuesday. The overwhelming vote for Pflimlin was said to have been a rebuff to De Gaulle after De Gaulle had announced that he was already forming a government.

Independents Quit

Conservative Independents quit their cabinet posts after the vote and Pflimlin trying to save his government from De Gaulle supporters in Algeria and Corsica, met with the remainder of his cabinet and hurried to see President Coty at 3 a. m.

Pflimlin said the defection of the Independents from the government and their cabinet posts had weakened the government at a crucial moment and that he could not go on. However Coty refused to let the Premier step aside until a new Premier had been appointed and was ready to take over. Pflimlin accepted the compromise.

Algiers Pro-De Gaulle

The outcome of the French crisis was hopefully awaited in Algiers where a military junta of pro-De Gaulleists seized power in defiance of Paris. Demonstrations Tuesday in Algeria demanded of the home government that De Gaulle be installed.

Paris remained quiet although government buildings were ringed with police guards armed with tommy guns. Tension had mounted when there were rumors that paratroopers who sparked the Algerian uprising might move to force De Gaulle's installation.

Strikes were called by Communists as a show of their intense bitterness against De Gaulle but these lacked punch, reports stated. Former premier Guy Mollet was felt to be the man President Coty would call to form a new government in case he rejected De Gaulle. Mollet holds the postwar record for length of service and premier of France.

Late News

The second of the Navy's satellites has wound up like the first in the ocean. Launched shortly before Tuesday midnight by the Vanguard rocket, the 20-inch ball flew 2,000 miles out into space, then plunged back to earth. John P. Hagen, director of Project Vanguard, announced that the 21½ pound sphere did not go into orbit five hours after launching. It was the fourth failure in five tries since the Vanguard rocket first was fired as a complete three-stage vehicle.

The House voted Wednesday to make the Territory of Alaska the 49th state. This is the second time the House has passed the Alaska bill, the other being in 1950. Now, the battle scene switches to the Senate where the outcome is problematical. Before the final vote, the House twice refused to send the bill back to its Insular Affairs Committee.

President Eisenhower signed into law the biggest postal rate increase ever voted by congress Tuesday. The biggest postal pay increase ever voted is included in the bill, also. Most postal workers will get approximately a 10 per cent raise, retroactive to last Jan. 1. First class letters will require a 4-cent stamp, instead of 3, effective June 1. Airmail will go up from 6 cents to 7 cents; postal cards from 2 to 3.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn indicated Wednesday that he would go along with President Eisenhower's stand against tax reduction. He said that the Treasury, deep in red-ink financing, couldn't stand the loss of revenue. Under the Constitution, tax legislation must originate in the House, and is handled by the Ways and Means Committee, whose chairman, Wilbur Mills, is also against tax reduction. Against such opposition, a tax bill could hardly get off the ground.

In Their Memory

Once again we pause on this May 30th to pay tribute to the honored dead. On this day we salute those legion who gave their lives that we might live in freedom. Proudly we pay tribute. Humbly we pray that we may be worthy of their brave deeds and noble sacrifice. Solemnly, let us pledge that the freedom they won for our country shall be preserved through our vigilance, now and forever.

A Tax Cut Would Help

The President spoke to the nation last week in a manner calculated to allay fears that another depression might be lurking around the corner despite the well laid "plans of mice and men." He voiced optimism and pessimism in almost the same breath. He said he thought there was a definite slowing down of the current recession but admitted something would have to be done to turn it upward. We agree that public works alone is not the answer but we do insist that an increase in the purchasing power of the people by reducing the income tax of the great middle class of America (which is now bearing the burden) would cause an instant spurt of buying and a very fast recovery in employment in the mills and factories of the country.

Mr. Eisenhower has let it be known that he does not favor a tax cut at this time and that he believes a continuation of certain excise and other taxes to be necessary in view of mounting government spending.

Congress should remember that when the first minimum wage was put into effect the response was both instantaneous and tremendous. Millions were put into the hands of the people over night . . . people who previously had no money to buy even the necessities of life bought the things they needed.

Today wages are high but increased living costs have drained off much of the surface money and as a consequence there is not enough backlog to weather a recession without causing hardship for millions of unemployed. That is the reason the Congress must act and quickly to head off what could be more than an economic slump.

A tax cut might not be the whole answer but plain arithmetic tells us that it would help, both by increasing purchasing power and by restoring confidence.

Cotton Needs Help Quickly

How much worse can it get?
Cotton growers have had their acreage slashed drastically in five straight years of controls. Unless Congress does something this session, they face a further 20 per cent cut in 1959.

Agriculture Secretary Benson indicates he almost surely will be forced to cut allotments from their present 17.6 million next year—if present farm laws stand.

The result would be still more idle land, land planted to less profitable crops, and a further income cut for the farmer, whose income is already too low.

What's more, a small 1959 crop would aggravate the shortage of better quality U. S. cotton which is already forcing mills to use lower grades and encouraging substitution of rayon for cotton.

Cotton farmers need an acreage increase instead of a decrease. This means a lot to this area because when cotton is hard hit, we're all hard hit.

Our own representative and our two able senators have been making heroic efforts to get remedial action in Congress. They are joined in this effort by most of their colleagues in the cotton-producing states. Cotton growers can help by expressing their concern and by writing their senators and representatives their views without delay.

Every letter is a weapon in their hands in waging this fight against the virtual extinction of the small cotton farmer. Time for corrective action is short.

The Council's Board of Directors has carefully reviewed all these developments; and in addition has appraised the extremely critical situation which inevitably will confront the cotton industry if action is not taken by the present Congress to meet this crisis. Without adequate legislation this year, cotton faces further major declines in its markets and a resurgence of its competitors, both in this country and abroad—developments that unquestionably will mean drastic and permanent losses to the U. S. cotton industry.

Telephone Patrons Get New Numbers

System Will Go Into Effect On June 15 In Rogersville

F. A. Reynolds, manager of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, announces that on Sunday, June 15, at 1:01 a. m., all telephones served by the Rogersville exchange will get new numbers. This change is being made to conform to a new uniform nation-wide telephone numbering plan.

The mass number change is the first step in the Bell System's long range program to eventually provide customer direct distance dialing throughout its territory. Adoption of the new numbering plan will make possible further improvements in the speed and accuracy of long distance service, according to Mr. Reynolds.

Each telephone number served by the Rogersville exchange will consist of an office name—Chapel—and five numerals. To call the new number, a person has to dial the first two letters of the office name and then the five numerals as listed in the new telephone directory, which will be delivered to the patrons before the change.

When placing long distance calls, persons must give the operator the office and five numerals when she asks for the number.

In The Week's News

Arch Ferrell, disbarred Phenix City lawyer and former Russell Circuit solicitor, has been committed to the State Mental Hospital at Tuscaloosa by Probate Judge Shannon Burch of Birmingham who said the commitment request came from Ferrell's family.

Strong backing for better safety measures was given impetus by recent plane crashes in the form of congressional action on a new federal air safety agency, Washington reported Saturday. Sen. A. S. Monroney (D-Okla.) said, "we have far more support than we thought we would have. Monroney is chairman of the Senate Aviation Subcommittee."

The automotive industry's "Big Three" announced pay increases Saturday for 173,000 salaried employees and non-union hourly paid workers. Ford, Chrysler and General Motors have contracts with UAW unions which provide cost of living allowances and an improvement factor pay increase to members. These companies traditionally make the same benefits to employees not represented by a union.

Twenty-two of the 1,100 persons aboard the river steamer Avalon were injured Saturday when the big excursion boat rammed the gates of the Amsworth lock on the Ohio River. The bow of the boat was only slightly damaged and it was readied immediately for its regular moonlight cruise. None of the injured were seriously hurt, it was stated.

Burning rocket propellant caused a spectacular fire at the Thiokol Chemical Company Redstone Division plant Saturday and while it was seen for miles around Huntsville it was confined to one of the plant's 10 or 15 bays. Only one man was slightly injured when sprinting away from the fire. An automatic deluge system turned torrents of water on the blaze putting the fire out in a matter of minutes.

Struggles of a drowning child caused the death of six would-be rescuers at Rockport, Texas. Among those drowned were, an Air Force chaplain, the little girl's mother and four other children. The drownings took place in sight of more than 3000 persons at the small beach resort.

Ernest Green, a 16-year-old Negro student at Central High School in Little Rock, was the first of his race to receive a diploma at the former all-white school, the scene of rioting last September when Green and eight other Negro students entered the school. The service went smoothly at the school but seven Negroes were arrested a block away and booked for disturbing the peace. Two concealed weapons were found, a gun and a knife. A white youth was also arrested for spitting at a Negro visitor.

Investigators were searching this week for causes of an explosion that destroyed eight fully armed Nike missiles at Middletown, N. J. Thursday, killing ten persons and scattering the explosive warheads over a wide area. The multiple explosion was apparently set off when a single missile exploded.

A full scale rehearsal was held Thursday for the May 30 ceremony at Arlington Cemetery when two unknown fighting men who died in America's two latest wars will be buried in two crypts carved into the marble plaza at the famous burial place. Medals of Honor will be conferred on the two unknowns by President Eisenhower at the funeral ceremony before the burial.

SARA SAZE

Dear Sara Saze,

My Husband thinks there is something wrong with my judgement because I am so wrapped up in a woman who lives down the block from us. He says she is the ugliest woman he ever saw and he can't see anything attractive at all. I thought she was ugly when she first moved in there, but now I have changed and sometimes I think she looks nearly pretty. And it looks like when she's around things just move along better.

Is there something wrong with me that makes me have this opinion? I have begun to wonder if I am just plain goofy.

Dear Troubled,

Troubled,

Certainly there's nothing wrong with you. But there would be if you only admired those with pretty faces. This friend of yours is probably gay and kind and tolerant. She probably has a special charm and warmth, a beauty which is much more potent than mere regularity of features. When you first saw her you didn't know about the loveliness beneath the surface and now that you've seen it your whole attitude toward her has changed. That is as it should be and you're fortunate to recognize real values when you see them.

Don't be talked out of your pleasure in this delightful friendship by your blind husband.

I have received an invitation to tea from three hostesses and I want to write a formal reply. Should I write all three names, or just the first one which appears on the invitation?

Please answer soon.

Dear Unsure,

You should include all three names in your reply. Dear Mrs. Saze,

Would you advise me to moth-

proof Dacron and wool clothing for the summer, or will the Dacron serve as protection? A Reader.

Mothproof, by all means! While the Dacron itself will not be eaten, moth larvae will cut through it to get at the wool. The damage may be greater than to an all wool garment.

Navy Program At Exchange Meeting

"Nuclear Power for Peace" was the subject of the illustrated talk presented before the Exchange Club at Hotel Reeder Tuesday noon. George A. Porter had charge of arrangements and presented Chief Joel H. Salter, Jr., and Q/M 1st James N. Jackson of the Florence U. S. Navy recruiting station. Chief Salter explained that the color slides to be shown with the running comment of Jackson was designed to acquaint the public with the present day Navy and its program for the use of nuclear power to preserve the peace. The presentation proved most interesting.

With Mrs. Black at the piano using "Priests March" for the professional the following seniors, Larney Smith, Perry Levi Watkins, Nadine Harden, Edward Harden, Oliver Cunningham, Marvin Liles, Shelvey Harden and Lillie Pearl Harden, took their places to receive their diplomas. Dr. E. B. Norton, president of Florence State Teacher's College, addressed the class, being introduced by Rev. W. M. Ford, principal.

Southern Bell's Employees Granted Pay Increases

The Southern Bell Telephone Company and the Communications Workers of America Thursday reached agreement on revision and modification in their contract. Subject to ratification by C. W. A. membership, the new contract became effective May 22.

The contracts affects some 56,000 employees of Southern Bell over the South. Bargaining on modification has been in progress since April 21. The agreement is for an initial period of one year, after that to continue in effect until either party gives 60 days' notice of termination.

Wage increases ranging from $1 to $3 per week, depending on job and town classification of the employee, are included.

"The wage increases granted are necessary," Personnel Vice president W. A. Thompson said, "to keep our people's pay in line with those prevailing in communities where they work and live, which is our policy. In order to carry out this policy, we make regular surveys of wages and other conditions of employment in communities throughout our territory. These surveys, including one made just recently, showed some increase justified to keep our employees' pay in line. The new contract is fair and just to all employees."

Mary Emily Broadfoot, Central High School, and Wayne Wright, Coffee High School, were winners of the two watches given away by downtown Florence merchants for registrations on Downtown Florence Days.

Promote Alabama's Segregation Leader

ALBERT BOUTWELL to Lt. Governor to Continue His Fight for Our Way of Life

Since 1953 Albert Boutwell has been Chairman of joint Senate-House Committee to preserve segregation.

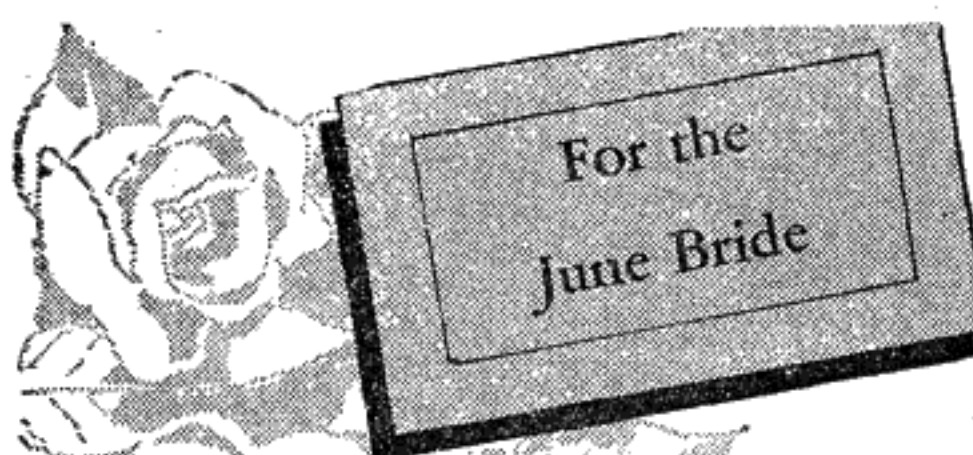

Boutwell was co-author, sponsor and campaign leader for adoption of Alabama's School Placement Law and constitutional amendments to prevent race mixing in Alabama.

Our School Placement Law was upheld by three Federal Judges in a unanimous decision on May 9th. This was the greatest victory for segregated schools ever won in the South!

But the task is NOT done. Enemies of the South will continue their fight. Albert Boutwell's leadership will be needed more than ever in the period ahead.

Vote to promote ALBERT BOUTWELL to Lt. Governor so he can continue to serve as leader of the Legislative Committee that planned the fight and won the victory.

College Grants Degrees To 140 Spring Graduates

Malone Delivers Major Address To Seniors In Memorial Amphitheatre

Frank M. Malone, operating vice-president of Southern Bell Telephone Company, delivered the commencement address to 140 Florence State College seniors Monday night in the amphitheatre.

Mr. Malone is a native of Florence and a graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. He has held a variety of important executive assignments with the Southern Bell Company and is interested in and actively engaged in many civic organizations.

He is married to the former Mary Evans Bales of Florence. They have two sons, Frank Jr., a senior at the University of North Carolina, and Bob, a high school senior in Atlanta.

"Being mediocre and average is not enough in this atomic age," stated Mr. Malone. "We have to go beyond the average and we have to be responsible citizens because of the challenges presented to us in this modern age."

"You, who are graduating, are only beginning your education, not ending it."

Dr. Hudson R. Baggett, pastor, First Baptist Church, delivered the baccalaureate address on Sunday in Coffee Auditorium.

Dr. Baggett is a graduate of Howard College and the Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville. He received his Doctor of Theology degree from the latter institution with a homiletics (writing of sermons) major.

"Education never ends," stated Dr. Baggett, in his sermon titled, "School of Life." "As members of the graduating class you look back today over a long road of education which you have travelled to arrive at this time of college education. Though you have come a long way, the journey of education never ends."

Immediately after the program on Sunday, a reception was given by Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Norton in the president's mansion for all graduating seniors and members of their families.

Included in the program on Monday night was the commissioning of 17 Florence State seniors as second lieutenants in the United States Army by Col. Philip W. Merrill, professor of military science.

A list of the Florence State graduates is listed elsewhere in this paper.

In speaking of success, Mr. Malone remarked that "the common threads in the fabric of success" are dependability, willingness, cheerfulness, efficiency, and integrity. "The only way to get a better job is to become so proficient in the one you are doing that those overseeing your work become conscious of the fact that you are ready for more responsibility."

Mr. Malone went on to speak of government and business, economic conditions, freedom of opportunity, the predicted growth in population and personal income in the South, and the opportunities and rewards of the teaching profession in the years to come.

You are driving blind when you allow some discourtesy from another motorist to upset you or make you so angry that you retaliate with blind madness, one of the greatest contributing factors in highway accidents.

Well, it's all over. Friday night, the Junior-Senior Prom was the first of the graduation-weekend events.

The theme for the dance was "Springtime in New York"—the setting, a park with sidewalk cafe the color scheme, lavender and pink. The music was provided by Edsel Holden with special vocal selections by various college students.

Sunday morning, the graduates met at the Reeder Hotel for their Senior Breakfast; Sunday evening the baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Dr. Hudson Baggett, and followed by open house at the president's home.

Monday evening, the graduates culminated their college careers and received their diplomas at the commencement program in the amphitheatre.

The Keller Key and Turris Fidelis awards were made Monday evening. The Keller Key is awarded in memory of the late President James Albert and Mrs. Mari-glen Keller, to the graduating senior who has the highest four year average.

The Turris Fidelis Award is conferred upon not more than two members of the senior class. Service to the college and scholastic standing are considered in selecting the recipient of this highest award bestowed by the student body.

Seniors receiving the awards this year were Keller Key—Henry Vernon Mobbs, Lawrenceburg, Tennessee; Turris Fidelis—Bettye Gentry, Moulton, and Jane Mills, Vernon.

Plans for Homecoming, October 25, are already underway. The first meeting was last week and committees and members were appointed.

I have finally gotten it straight—the baseball team won 10 out of 18 games and the tennis team won 10 out of 13 matches.

JOIN THE SWING TO WALLACE

ON JUNE 3rd.

George Wallace is the only candidate in the Run-Off Primary for Governor who offers an experienced background of public service to the South on a National level and to the people of Alabama in their executive, legislative and judicial branches of State government.

GEORGE WALLACE FOR GOVERNOR

Every day since the first Primary thousands upon thousands of people over Alabama from every walk of life have joined in the swing to George Wallace for Governor. They have compared records and qualifications of the two run-off candidates and have chosen George Wallace for his distinguished background of governmental experience, his rugged honesty, and his positive forward thinking approach to the governmental and social problems within our state. They like his full and frank discussion of the issues in this campaign. They believe that if there is widespread graft and corruption among our departments of State government, as has been said by some, that George Wallace will give us immediate, aggressive action against it instead of speeches about it. He is that kind of man. His record proves it.

Alabama's Rivers

Navigability Of River Has Multiple Benefits

NEW WILSON DAM LOCK—This is an artist's conception of how the big lock will look when completed at Wilson Dam. Wilson Dam, oldest in the TVA system was completed in 1925. The power house has an installed capacity of 436,000 kw.—(TVA photo)

The Corps of Engineers, when they improve a river for navigation, kill a whole flock of birds with one stone. The farmers are protected against flood and drought. New water areas for recreation and wild life are created. Manufacturers are assured a steady supply of essential industrial water. And these things, plus low-cost barge transportation, attract new industries to the areas adjacent to the rivers.

In Alabama there are two outstanding examples of what happens when streams are improved for navigation. Along the Tennessee in North Alabama hundreds of new and expanded industries are located, employing many thousands of workers, largely because of barge navigation and plentiful industrial water.

A less-publicized but remarkable development has taken place along the Warrior - Tombigbee Waterway.

At Tuscaloosa there are a large paper mill, giant chemical works, a major tire factory, foundries, fertilizer and concrete manufacturers. The growth of Tuscaloosa is indicated by the announcement of a new multi-million dollar shopping center, including department stores and specialty shops, to be built in the city. One of the nation's finest small hotels has been erected in Tuscaloosa recently. It is a prospering Alabama community.

Much of this growth is attributable to the navigable Warrior River which flows through the industrial heart of Northport-Tuscaloosa. Heavy industries like barge transportation, and they must have plentiful industrial water. The Warrior at Tuscaloosa has a minimum daily flow of 113,700,000 gallons.

Downriver, at Demopolis, where the Warrior flows into the Tombigbee River, there is more industrial growth. Gulf States Paper Company of Tuscaloosa has recently opened a fine new paper mill at Demopolis where it is producing the finest white pulp for sale to paper processors. Lone Star Cement has a large installation at Demopolis. Lumber continues an important manufacturing endeavor in Marengo County, but it is no longer the leading industry. Diversification and expansion have resulted from the modernization of the waterway by the new Demopolis and Warrior Locks.

Another modern lock and dam, replacing three small obsolete ones, is under construction near Jackson, Alabama. On down the river other new industries have been built along the river . . . to produce chemicals, rayon and other products. Two enormous steam power plants of the Alabama Power Company are on the water at Mobile, where coal can come down from the Warrior coal fields by rail or barge. At the other end of the waterway, near Birmingham, the coal is loaded in the barges and iron ore is unloaded for the steel mills. Soon Walker County, where a new Alabama State Dock is to be erected at Lynn Park, will be getting additional benefits from the navigable channel.

What is happening on the Warrior-Tombigbee is typical of industrial development in America today. It is estimated that some 20 million dollars is being invested every 24 hours for industrial development at riverside sites.

During 1958 more people from various parts of Alabama will be pushing for action to start development of their rivers for navigation, so that all of Alabama's rivers may enjoy the benefits that have come to Warrior-Tombigbee and the Tennessee. These benefits already are beginning to be enjoyed on the Chattahoochee.

Some of the specific projects for which appropriations will be sought are pre-construction planning money for Millers Ferry Lock and Dam on the Alabama, funds for fiscal 1959 to continue work of Jackson Lock and Dam on the Tombigbee, money to continue work on Fort Gaines Lock and Dam on the Chattahoochee, and $65,000 for a re-survey of the Choctawhatchee and Pea Rivers. Determined groups will be presenting facts, figures and resolutions during May to get action on these programs in Washington.

(This is the seventh of a series of articles on Alabama rivers appearing in The Herald. The eighth story will be on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway. The series was prepared by the Alabama River Development Authority.)

MOTELS COLLECT MILLION DOLLARS FOR TEACHERS

Alabama's three per cent state lodgings tax charged by hotels and motels realized no less than $826,001.65 during the first three years of its operation, State Publicity Director Birt said this week. Birt pointed out this tax, authorized by the 1955 legislature, is " earmarked " exclusively for teachers' salaries. He said the increased tourist trade and rising industrial activity in the state is responsible for this bonanza for teachers.

Folsom Praises Patrol's Record

Accidents Are Reduced By 799, Deaths By 68, 3-Month Report Shows

Gov. James E. Folsom has praised the Alabama Highway Patrol for its "very fine record" during the past three years.

The governor's remark came after he had received a complete report on the patrol for the period January 1955 through April 1, 1958 submitted by State Public Safety Director W. V. (Bill) Lyerly. Here are some of the highlights of that report:

"Progress was made in 1957 compared with 1956, in that Alabama had 799 less accidents, 68 less fatalities, 817 less injuries, and $240,635 less property damage." Comparative figures for the first three months of this year and the January-through March figures for 1957 show there have been 136 road traffic deaths noted by the Highway Patrol this year, compared with 168 in the same period

Bank Resources Show Increase

Total Of State-Chartered Banks $546,703,000, Superintendent Reports

"During the past three years, Alabama's 170 state-chartered banks have increased their total resources by no less than $112,550,000," State Banking Commissioner Lonnie Gentry has reported to Gov. James E. Folsom.

"The aggregate total resources of such banks," Gentry said, "has thus increased to $546,703,000."

Other highlights in the report include the rise in state-chartered bank deposits during the past three years by $101 million, bringing the total of such deposits to the new record total of $497 million.

"The capital accounts of the banks likewise reflect a substantial increase of $10,535,000 and an aggregate of such accounts is now in the amount of $46,236,000," Gentry said. It was also pointed out the loan volume of these banks has increased from $144,200,000 in January 1955 to a current $190,308,000.

Another healthy sign was seen in that part of the report covering the seven state-chartered savings and loan associations whose resources increased over this period from $23,399,000 to $38,192,000.

Governor Folsom, in an off-the-cuff appraisal, said "this report, like those of the State Revenue Department and others, proves once again that Alabama has had an excellent business climate during the past three years."

last year.

Official records show that in the period between Jan. 1, 1955 and April 1, 1958 the Highway Patrol carried out 1,618,704 weekend courtesy checks, welcomed 3,324 incoming motorists at the state lines and gave them information and a road map; delivered 190 safety talks, and passed out 2,518,000 pieces of safety literature to motorists.

The service division of the patrol showed films, assisted 54 teen-age road-cops, assisted the State Truckers' Association and military personnel with their safety programs, worked with four radio stations in Safe Teen-Age Driving contests, took part in all national safety drives and programs, and assisted different groups in the state by acting as counselors and resource people in community safety programs.

Director Lyerly also pointed out to the governor that the patrol has had booths at the state fair and "several county fairs" during the past three years, and has "assigned six men to safety education" and these have travelled 413,553 miles and worked 7,162 man-days during this period.

In the 39 months under review, the patrol logged 26,626,274 miles of travelling during 248,011 man-days. They made 233,866 arrests, issued 89,942 written warnings, recovered 649 stolen cars, and assisted 20,411 drivers who were in difficulties.

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER—STAYS TOGETHER"

"KNOWN BUT TO GOD"

Thousands flock every year from all corners of our nation to stand in hushed reverence before the tomb of the soldier "known but to God."

To all others, he is labeled "Unknown." And in this fact alone, there is tremendous significance. No man knows who this boy really was—but God knows!

God knows you, too, as he knows every man, every woman, every child in the world. That means that no matter who you are, no matter what you do, you can never be really "unknown."

You might ask yourself, "Do I know Him?" If the answer is negative, remember that your first step in finding Him is the step that takes you through the door of His house on earth.

Start going to church!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Fishing Is Late But Very Good

The fishing season seems to be late this year, says API Extension Fish and Wildlife Specialist Earl Kennamer.

However, the specialist pointed out that the time is here when the most fish can be caught per hour of fishing time. "I saw the first spawning," he reported. "But that doesn't mean you can't have good fishing."

"People have been making big catches of bream and bass lately. Bream won't start spawning heavily until May, but look for them next month and catch them off the beds. "Start on top of the water and fish down," Kennamer advised. "See what they'll bite at." He reminded fishermen that they'll catch more fish per hour of fishing during the next months than at any other time during the season.

June Is Time To Plan Fall Garden

Preparation Of Soil Is Important To Growth Of Late Vegetables

According to many successful vegetable growers, preparation for the fall garden should begin this month.

Garden experts point out that there is not likely to be space in crowded gardens for fall vegetables unless a definite planting plan is followed, with release of space when spring vegetables have been harvested.

It is not enough, however, just to have space for planting crops in July, August, and September, warns API Extension Horticulturist John Bagby. The soil must be conditioned by early preparation if late growth is to be satisfactory.

The garden specialist pointed out that the most common risk in late summer planting is shortage of water in the soil. He explained that summer heat dries the ground quickly and early crops and weeds further reduce water supplies. Most seasons in late years have shown long periods without rain.

June preparation of soil for late crops cannot produce favorable weather, of course, but it can help gardens make best use of rains that fall before mid-July.

Soil preparation in June is designed to provide a reservoir of soil water, because all rain is caught and most of it is held in well-prepared soil.

Weed destruction is provided by weekly cultivation of fall garden land between now and late summer planting. Bagby pointed out that there can also be some measure of insect reduction if soil is kept free of all crops between June and late July or early August.

Destroy Nest To Eradicate Ants

The large, varied, and highly adaptable family of ants all have one thing in common—they build nests or colonies where a great number of them live together and raise their young.

So in getting rid of these pests around your home and garden, the job is much easier if you can locate the nest, explains Extension Entomologist W. A. Ruffin. Unless you wipe out the entire colony, the adaptable ants may simply change their travel routes, and possibly their sources of supply, and leave you to carry on a more or less losing campaign against the pests.

Finding an ant nest in the house is not always easy, however, Ruffin warns. The ants' home may be behind a wall, under the foundation, or between the floor and subfloor. If this is the case, the next best thing is to find the crack or outlet through which the ants travel and treat this area thoroughly with a long-lasting insecticide.

Chlordane is recommended as an effective insecticide for ants, though there are a number of other chemicals that can be used, such as dieldrin or lindane. They may be applied as sprays, dust, or granules.

Ruffin urged farmers to be sure and follow the directions of the manufacturer in using these insecticides, and in preparing sprays from wettable powders or emulsifiable concentrates.

Your county agents can supply information on specific problems and other recommended insecticides.

Record Keeping Vital To Dairymen

About 10 per cent of U. S. dairy cows are enrolled in one of the three official record-keeping plans of the National Cooperative Dairy Herd Improvement Program.

This figure was taken from a recent report by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, giving total enrollment through 1957 by states under the standard Dairy Herd Improvement Association plan, the Owner-Sampler plan, and the new Weigh-a-Day-a-Month plan. DHIA and WADAM plans are available to Alabama dairymen through their county agricultural agents.

Among Alabama dairymen, API Extension Assistant Dairyman R. Sam Jones, Jr., said the per cent of cows on record is lower than the national average. Of a total 344 thousand cows in the state, only five and a half per cent are enrolled under one of the three DHIA plans. Included in the standard DHIA plan are 252 herds consisting of 15,627 cows. The new WADAM plan attracted sign-ups among owners of 3,312 cows in 120 herds in the state during its first year of operation.

Nationally, enrollment under WADAM, a less expensive and simplified record-keeping system designed especially for small herds, reached nearly 80,000 cows last year. Enrollments were also up under the two older plans, according to the USDA report.

The DHIA is a national cooperative effort to improve the efficiency of dairy operations, regardless of size of herd or level of production. Information obtained through any one of the three record-keeping plans is helpful to dairymen in making management decisions that lead to more profitable operation, Jones observed.

Don't Over-Cook Fresh Vegetables

Fresh green vegetables need not take on a washed-out look when cooked properly. If they are cooked until tender, but still slightly crisp, and cooked under cover, they can look and taste good enough to bring calls for second helpings.

"Boiling is a very familiar and easy way to cook green vegetables," says API Extension Foods and Nutrition Specialist Mary Hulsey. "But to keep fresh color and flavor, care needs to be taken not to overcook. For boiling, use lightly salted water brought to a boil before adding the vegetable. Cover the pan and allow water to boil again, then reduce heat."

"Some green vegetables, such as shredded cabbage or spinach leaves, may require as little as three minutes to cook tender," Miss Hulsey declared. "Green lima beans may take 20 to 30 minutes, snap beans 15 to 30 minutes."

"When boiling leafy greens, such as spinach, the water clinging to the leaves after washing them may be all that is needed in cooking. Put the greens into the pan, adding salt in layers throughout. Reduce heat after steam begins to escape and cook slowly to prevent sticking."

"Serve the vegetables promptly," Miss Hulsey advised. "Flavor will suffer," she said, "when they are allowed to stand."

FARMERS SHOULD WATCH OUT FOR LEPTOSPIROSIS

Now that baby pig season is in full swing, farmers should be especially careful about leptospirosis.

API Extension Animal Husbandryman G. B. Phillips said this week that the disease causes cattle and swine to lose their unborn offspring. If the infection strikes swine during mid-pregnancy, it can cause the birth of weak pigs. Phillips advised vaccination against the disease and the quarantine of newly purchased animals.

Keep Records On Milk Production

Efficient Bookkeeping Will Pay Off; See County Agent For Plan

Many cows on Alabama farms don't produce enough to pay for the feed they consume, and the hours they require, and the hours of labor spent in taking care of them.

API Extension Assistant Dairyman Sam Jones Jr. said that many dairy herds would produce better if the poorest cows were eliminated. A herd of 12 cows, for instance, might produce more milk if a poor producer were culled and her feed divided among the better ones.

The only reliable way to find low producers that pull down a herd's efficiency is to keep some kind of records, Jones suggested. Of course, record-keeping itself doesn't increase production, but it provides information needed for efficient operation. On the basis of records, a dairyman can identify unprofitable cows that should be culled and do a better job of feeding and managing those left in the herd.

Several types of record-keeping plans are available to Alabama dairymen through county agents. The simplest and least expensive of these is the new Weigh-A-Day-A-Month plan, especially designed to meet the needs of the small operator who cannot afford to invest much time or expense in record-keeping.

Dairymen who keep records just naturally become better farmers because their records reveal possibilities for improvement. Last year, records were kept on five and a half percent of Alabama cows. Average production for all cows in the state was 3,500 pounds, while production of DHIA cows in Alabama was 6,754. The national average per cow in the U. S. was 6,162 pounds of milk in 1957; cows under the Dairy Herd Improvement Association plan produced an average of 9,713 pounds of milk.

This is Texas Eastern...

Exploring today for tomorrow's reserves

Texas Eastern not only transports natural gas and petroleum products from producing areas to consumers, but is also active in the exploration for and production of crude oil and natural gas.

The company's exploration and production activities began in 1950 along the Texas and Louisiana Gulf Coast. Since that time efforts have steadily expanded until today, exploration and production by Texas Eastern is being carried on in Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Alabama, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Kansas.

A significant advance in exploration and production by the company came during 1957 with acquisition of La Gloria Oil and Gas Company. This company is a major oil and gas producer and holds extensive leases covering areas of developed and potential oil and gas production. By the end of 1957, Texas Eastern's combined holdings totaled more than 375,000 acres of developed and undeveloped oil and gas producing properties.

Combined production of Texas Eastern and La Gloria during 1957 totaled 3,091,727 barrels of crude oil and products and 35 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

Texas Eastern is proud that it not only supplies petroleum products and natural gas to consumers via its pipelines, but is playing a significant part in uncovering new reserves of oil and gas faster than they are consumed by home and industry.
