THERE'LL BE A NEW LOOK TO 86TH CONGRESS—Barring change of a seat or two, one way or the other, in the House, here's the make-up when the 86th Congress convenes.

The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

We have complained repeatedly over the failure of the qualified voters in Lauderdale County and the City of Florence to exercise their right of the ballot in recent elections. It seems, from the interest being shown in the forthcoming election on December 9th, that a record vote will be recorded. It has been said that voters are interested only in candidates, not issues. We believe that the coming election—strictly a matter of issue—will be the exception that proves the rule. More Lauderdale citizens are qualified today to vote than ever in the history of the county. Let's hope every single one casts a ballot on December 9th.

The other afternoon the six-grade-son of a prominent local mother came in from school with a black eye. Staring at him at the school, she exclaimed: "Why, in the world, did you get that black eye?" The boy pulled himself up to his full height and with some dignity explained: "Mother, they don't give you one of these—you have to fight for them."

No, Gwendolyn, Thanksgiving wasn't instituted originally for the prime purpose of observing football games.

When the gleam in your eye is from the sun hitting your bifocals—brother, you are not as young as you think you are.

It was a sad case. A movie fan, much concerned with his condition, visited a well-known psychiatrist the other day. "Doctor," he said, "I'm terribly worried. I have the entire ceiling of my bedroom covered with pictures of Brigitte Bardot." "That doesn't prove anything wrong with you, Miss Bardot is a delightful person to gaze upon," explained the doctor. "But there must be," insisted the patient. "I sleep on my stomach."

The restaurant patron had been waiting for service at his table for a full 15 minutes. Noticing a waiter standing nearby with folded arms, he thought he'd pass some time away with conversation. "Say," he inquired, "what was the score in the Alabama-Georgia Tech game last Saturday?" "Sorry," replied the waiter haughtily, "this isn't my table."

Jewell Archer relays a pet story of Emerson Lucas and we pass it on to you. It seems the elderly house servant had been ill for some weeks and when she returned to work was asked how she felt. "Well, I feel pretty good, Mr. Lucas—but I don't seem to have the duration I need."

Know what happened to all those children whose parents used to complain that they listened to the radio too much? They've grown up to be parents who complain that their children watch television too much.

The best football story we have heard this season was told us by Coach Joe Grant of the Coffee High Yellow Jackets. On Saturday morning, he was at the field house of Coffee stadium not feeling too happy over Coffee's defeat at the hands of the Walker County Vikings. The coach of Burrell-Slater's football team, that was tied 0-0 by Athens the night before in Coffee stadium, was there, too, directing the cleaning of the stadium as the result of Friday night's game. The two coaches apparently tried to console each other. Finally, Burrell-Slater's coach asked Coach Grant: "What would you say to an incident like this? We were fighting hard to break the tie last night, when Athens' quarterback attempted a lateral pass, which was fumbled. One of our ends picked up the ball and leisurely handed it to the referee." (The fumbled lateral was a free ball and, if the Burrell-Slater end had headed for Athens' goal, it would have been the game-winning run. The end had a clear field, it was pointed out.)

Kiwanis Club Is Host To County Farm Leaders

Sparkman Is Speaker At Dinner Wednesday Night At Hotel Reeder

Farm-City Week, Nov. 21-28, was inaugurated some five years ago and is sponsored internationally, in the U. S. and Canada, by the Kiwanis Clubs of the two countries.

In Florence Farm-City Week was observed by the Florence Kiwanis Club one week early with Senator John Sparkman, the speaker. The dinner meeting was held Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Hotel Reeder with farm leaders from throughout the county guests of the club.

In a discussion earlier this week with County Agent Wagon, a past lieutenant-governor of Kiwanis and Joe Locker, a county farmer, it was agreed that Farm-City Week itself is basically good but relations between urban and rural people should be carried even further so that it will be recognized not for just one week but for the entire year.

The idea that is to be instilled in people's minds is that only by working together and realizing each other's problems can the people enjoy the high standard of living of which we now enjoy.

County Agent Wagon said that in Alabama, and in the nation, agriculture and business are inseparably connected and mutually dependent. They are as Siamese twins. Into this combination goes commerce, banking, and other essentials. Let us be individually independent but let us join together to keep our standards the highest in the world.

And there is another basic purpose in Farm-City Week and that is the theme of Thanksgiving. This is emphasized especially since the official date of Farm-City Week includes the week in which Thanksgiving occurs.

Reynolds Metals New Mill Being Readied At Alloys

First Of Its Type To Be Installed Here For Cold Sheet Rolling

A new 66-inch mill with the latest refinements for high speed cold rolling of aluminum sheet is being readied for operation at the Reynolds Metals Company Alloys Plant near here.

Designed and built by E. W. Bliss Co., the new two-high, single stand cold mill is the first of its type to be installed by Reynolds for sheet operations.

Alloys Plant Manager D. H. Hipp said, "We feel the capabilities of this mill will be of particular interest to the automotive, aircraft, trailer and similar industries. The company has made a heavy investment in this new mill, but we feel it will aid our competitive position and so contribute to continuity of employment."

With a maximum speed of 1,000 feet per minute, the new mill can reduce sheet thickness approximately 50 per cent. It can handle a gauge of from .10 inch down to .006 inch. Maximum strip input width is 63 inches.

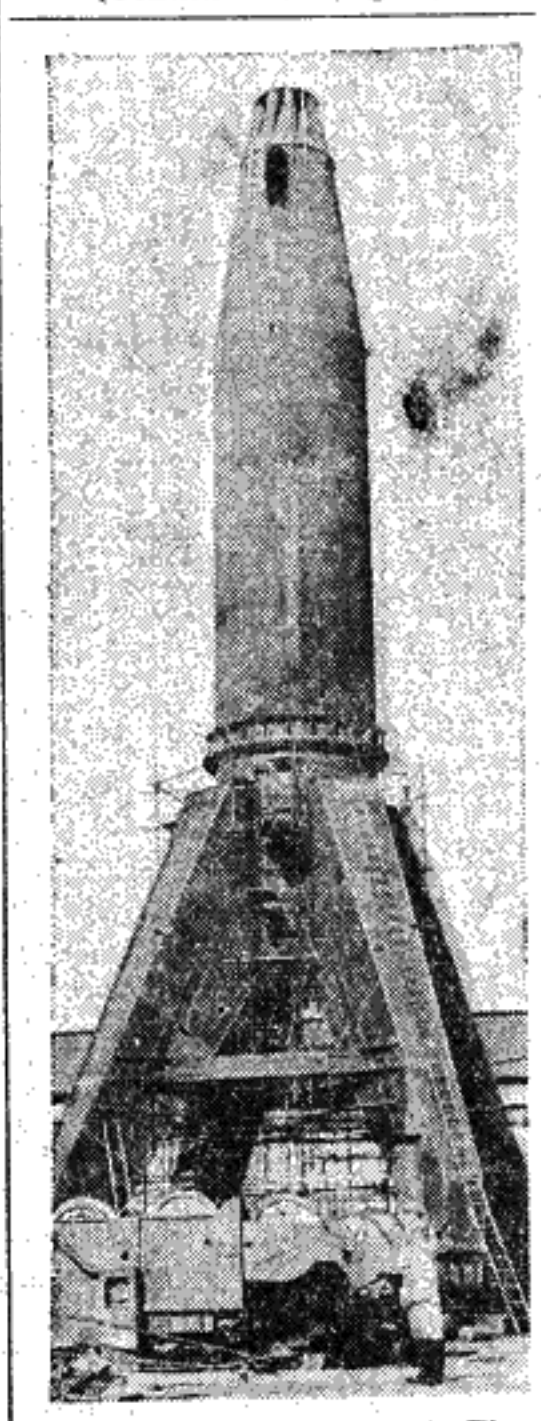

Work rolls are 36 inches in diameter. The mill is powered by a 1,250 horsepower Westinghouse electric motor.

To insure clean coolant at all times, the new mill features a continuous line-flow filtering process.

A specially designed heating system maintains proper shape of the work rolls, a major problem in mills of less advanced design. A similar system pre-heats rolls in an adjacent storage area, eliminating the need for a pre-production "warm-up" after a roll change.

The latest in electronic controls on the mill permit the operator to spot—through his complete control panel—difficulties at any point in the rolling operation.

Mitchell Named President; Long Board Chairman

First National Announces Promotions In Personnel During Reorganization

The Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Florence Saturday announced the promotion of Fred Long to Chairman of the Board of Directors to succeed the late Charles L. Haley, Jr., who died on November 1 after 54 years connection with the bank in a number of official capacities including President and Board Chairman. Mr. Long has served as cashier and assistant trust officer for the past 8 years. William H. Mitchell, Jr., prominent Florence attorney, vice president and member of the board was promoted to president of the bank and chief executive officer to succeed Thomas B. Harrell, who resigned recently to accept an important post with an out-of-state financial institution. Other positions filled by the board Saturday included the promotion of Edward H. Smoot to senior vice-president and Charles H. Peery to vice-president and cashier. Both Mr. Smoot and Mr. Peery have been vice presidents. There were no other changes in the officials of the bank, it was announced.

Harrell's Resignation
Mr. Harrell said that his resignation was to fulfill a commitment made some two months ago; and that while he regretted leaving Florence, his decision was made largely to fulfill family responsibilities in Georgia.

Bank officials stated that they keenly regretted the necessity for Mr. Harrell's resignation and wished for him much success at his new post. At the same time they stated that there would be no change in overall bank policy which will continue to be administered by officers long familiar with the operation.

Mr. Long has been associated with the bank since 1923. He was first elected a director in the bank in 1955.

A native of Florence, Mr. Smoot has been a Vice President of the First National Bank for a number of years. He has been associated with the institution since 1937 except for absences during World War II and the Korean War, in both of which he served as an Artillery officer.

Mr. Peery has served as Vice President of the local bank since 1954. Prior to that time, he was for a number of years Cashier and director of The First National Bank of Centerville, Tennessee. He is a certified public accountant.

In recent years Mr. Peery and Mr. Smoot have served primarily as loan officers of the bank. Both they and Mr. Long have been quite active in civic and religious affairs of the city, and are widely known, not only in the community but throughout banking circles.

Mr. Mitchell has been a director of the bank since 1954 when he succeeded his father in that capacity. He was Vice President of the institution from 1955 until January 1958. He is an active member of the law firm of Mitchell & Poellnitz of Florence who have been counsel for the bank for many years. He will leave his active practice to devote his full time to this work.

Police Seek Clues In Beating Of Boy

Child Claims He Can't Remember Anything About What Happened

As of yet, Florence police have been unable to learn what, or who, struck Jerry Smith Jr., 9, of 812 North Wood Avenue, who was apparently badly beaten up around 2 p. m. Friday as he was returning home from Appleby School.

According to Detective King the boy stated he recalled crossing the street at "The Triangle" but remembers nothing else until arriving at home. He apparently suffered injury from the time he left school until he arrived at his home two blocks away.

The child was taken to Eliza Coffee Memorial Hospital where doctors reported he suffered a concussion in the back of his head in addition to one broken tooth, his lips cut, head, face and chest bruises and a swollen eye. Detective Captain James Carter, who has been investigating the case, said it looked as if the boy had been dragged some distance, but the boy told Carter: "I can't remember anything about what happened."

The boy has been returned home where he was confined to bed recovering from his injuries.

Arriving on Friday, from Birmingham, Dr. and Mrs. David Donald and children, Jan and Ken, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. W. J. Callaway, 434 North Walnut.

Coliseum Plans Being Pushed As Site Is Approved

Committee Nominated To Be In Charge Of New Entertainment Facility

Following the formal approval by A. W. Todd, commissioner of agriculture and industries, of the Monumental Park site for the Lauderdale County Agricultural Coliseum, plans for the construction and operation of the structure have been moving at a fast clip.

Probate Judge Herman K. Longshore and Mayor E. F. Martin advise that approximately $150,000 will be made available for the construction and equipping of the coliseum, which will include the grant of $50,000 from the state and the remaining amount to be provided jointly by the city and county.

Upon the suggestion of Commissioner Todd, Judge Longshore and Mayor Martin will propose shortly to the two governing bodies of the city and county an operating committee composed of W. A. Barnett, chairman; Howard Jones, Robert L. Lewis, Charles P. Stewart and James M. Spain who will supervise the building program and be in full charge of the property after its completion.

Evan M. Terry, Birmingham architect, who has drawn the plans for the other coliseums constructed in the state under the present program, will design the coliseum, which is planned to seat 4,500 as well as provide every facility for holding all types of exhibits, shows of many natures, concerts and all types of entertainment.

Plans are also being made for providing adequate approaches to the coliseum site, which covers four full blocks, and the building will be so located so as to provide maximum parking areas.

The coliseum will provide long needed facilities for this area and it is certain that when completed it will be used constantly to meet the demand of the public for adequate entertainment space.

Florence Man Killed In Fight

Teddy Wood Dies From Knife Wounds Saturday In Hospital; Man Held

Teddy Ralph Wood, 22, a resident of 1150 1/2 p. m. Saturday at Hardin County Hospital some two hours after being allegedly stabbed by Lindsey Brown, of the Walnut Grove community six miles west of the Alabama line in Tennessee.

Brown although admitting to Sheriff Leon Colbert of Hardin County that he stabbed Wood, stated that it was done in self-defense. He was being held in Hardin County jail on a charge of first-degree murder. Sheriff Colbert said Brown surrendered voluntarily.

A call was made to Sheriff Earl Romine at 10 a. m. Monday to pick up Lawrence Hairrell who lives near Waterloo in connection with the killing of Wood, however he turned himself in at Savannah, according to the sheriff. He will also be charged with first-degree murder in the case.

Relatives of Wood claimed that Hairrell was brandishing a knife, however.

Sheriff Colbert said he first learned of the incident when he received a call on a wreck between the Walnut Grove Community and Savannah. Upon getting to the scene he found a wrecked vehicle being driven by Wood's brother-in-law, Gene Schott, who was rushing Wood to Hard County Hospital had run off the roadway.

Wood was taken on to the hospital, where he died two hours later.

The stabbing took place at 9:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Lilly D. Highland in the Walnut Grove community. Wood was stabbed once in the chest and once in the side with a small hunting knife in the hands of Brown.

Wood was employed as a truck driver for Ballew and Roberts Construction Company of Sheffield. He was a native of Lauderdale County and had previously been employed as a driver for Sealest Milk Company. He attended Coffee High School and was a member of Teamster's Local 402.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday from the Highland Baptist Church with Lamar Plunkett, minister of the Pine Street Church of Christ officiating, assisted by Rev. L. E. Kelley, minister of the Highland Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Scott Wood of Florence; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wood of Florence; five brothers, Billy, Johnny, Rexie, Jack and Jerry; Wood all of Florence; one sister, Mrs. Tommy Risner of Florence.

THE WET AND DRY ISSUE

By H.S.M.

It is the opinion of this newspaper that on December 9th the voters of Lauderdale County will go to the polls and cast a majority vote in favor of keeping this county in the dry column. The last time local voters had the opportunity to voice their preference was 25 years ago and, although the county has grown in population and some think its opinion has changed on the wet-dry issue, it is our belief that the vast majority will vote to maintain our present status.

While the great majority of our people will cast a "dry" vote, still there is none among us who will admit that the present situation is a wholly desirable one. When state law enforcement officers can come into our midst, as they did a few days ago, and arrest bootleggers within a stone's throw of the Florence post office, we must admit that there is something amiss in the practical administration of the dry law. Whether it is because the people, themselves, do not want the law enforced or it is because the law is impossible to enforce, is a matter that might be debated for hours on end.

The proper enforcement of the dry law is strictly up to our own citizens. Law enforcement officers can not go it alone. If, after December 9th, Lauderdale County chooses to stay in the dry column—and we firmly believe that this will be the case—those who now vote to maintain that status should band themselves together in one great law enforcement brigade to see that the bootlegger and liquor racketeer are driven from our midst. This can be done, if the people will it, but these same people must not be satisfied with their victory and sit back in complacency as the result of the victory won, or else the same conditions as now exists will remain with us forever.

Vigilance is the price that must be paid if those now seeking legal control will not be in position, in a very few days, to say: "We Told You So!"

Late News

A death-dealing, paralyzing blizzard crossed the nation's northern border into Canada Tuesday, leaving vast areas buried under heavy snows or scarred by tornadoes. At least 14 persons were known killed and 16 persons missing. Hope was all but forsaken for four of the 16—three Boy Scouts lost in the hip-deep snow of Arizona's Santa Rita Mountains, and the last of eight airmen who parachuted into the freezing Magpie Flat area near Huntsville, Utah.

Harlon Hill, former Florence State College football player, was named Monday to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' Hall of Fame. All was not rosy though because the same day he found that he was finished for the final four games of the National Football League season due to a torn tendon in his left ankle incurred during Sunday's game with the Baltimore Colts.

Gov.-Elect John Patterson this week made his eighth appointment, that of Claude D. Kelley as director of conservation. Kelley, a long-time ardent conservationist and former president of the Alabama Wildlife Federation, comes from Amore where he is part owner of an oil firm.

Sen. Dennis Chavez (D.N.M.), chairman of the military affairs appropriations subcommittee, warned the Pentagon Tuesday "there are liable to be repercussions" if it goes ahead with a planned $5,000-million slash in the Army and Marine Corps.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy announced last week that reductions of 30,000 men in the Army and 25,000 in the Marine Corps will start now and be completed by June 30.

Crisis Said To Be Most Grave Since Blockade

The Western Big Three today were getting ready to cope with Soviet withdrawal from the four-power control by the German capital, now considered a certainty in diplomatic circles. However authorities had no idea how soon the withdrawal would be made.

The impending transfer would transfer control over surface supply across 110 miles of East German territory. Russia's action was admittedly the most serious crisis since the 1948-49 blockade.

The latest indication of Russia's move toward withdrawing was a hint dropped by Communist East Germany Wednesday that it expects to get control over the Allied air corridors leading to isolated West Berlin. These are the Allied garrison's only life-lines.

The hint in the form of a newspaper blast in the East Berlin Neue Zeit, declared the United States and France are violating a four-power agreement that the air-corridor agreement between Berlin and Frankfurt and between Hamburg and Hanover, would be used only for Allied military purposes.

Pan American, Air Force and British European Airways are using the corridors for daily flights for passenger service, it was declared. In addition they carry thousands of refugees that stream into West Berlin every month from East Germany.

The Red newspaper also declared the Western "Big Three" were using the corridors for "purposes of the cold war." The article followed a similar blast by Russia's Premier Nikita Khrushchev last week when the Soviet leader demanded in so many words, that the Allies get out of Berlin.

The United States, France and Britain were said to have decided what steps to take in case East Germans begin controlling Allied truck convoys or trains. The East Germans already regulate civilian traffic from West Germany.

Experts believe the Allies will react with the following steps:

1. Formally refuse to accept East German control.
 2. Protest against a Russian withdrawal from the four-power occupation agreement drawn up after World War II.
 3. If left no choice, yield to East German controls while making it clear that this does not constitute recognition of the Communist regime. East Germans manning checkpoints would be regarded simply as agents of the Russians.
- An alternative would be for the Allies to attempt another airlift similar to the one that broke the Soviet blockade in 1948.

Donation Asked For City Float

Board Asked To Help Send Coffee Band To Inaugural Parade

The City board was asked Tuesday by Joe Kilgore for a donation to help send the Coffee band and a float representing Lauderdale County to the inaugural parade for Governor-elect John Patterson on Jan. 19.

It was stated by the board after conferring with the city attorney that the only way a donation of the type requested would be legal was as advertising for the city. The mayor indicated that the board would make the donation if the words "City of Florence" could be used on the float.

It was announced that the final assessment cost of the O'Neal Street sanitary sewer project would be $3.95 as compared to the estimated cost of $4 per foot. The sewer project hearing was held in conjunction with the regular commission meeting.

The board awarded to Campbell Motors the bid for a truck bed for the street department at a cost of $694.70.

Rev. E. M. Barnes, pastor of the North Wood Methodist Church opened the meeting with prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Bowling, 403 Lewis Avenue, spent the past week-end in Memphis.

Farm-City Week

Farm-City Week inaugurated four years ago by Kiwanis International in cooperation with farm groups throughout the United States and Canada and designed to improve city-farm relations, has become a phenomenal success. In fact it was awarded the Distinguished Service Award by Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge which carries the same distinction as an "Oscar" in the motion picture field or the "Emmie" in the TV industry.

Kiwanis clubs throughout the nation have invited as special guests to their weekly luncheons during Farm-City Week, Nov. 21-28, members of their local Farm Bureaus, Future Farmers and 4-H leaders, Vocational Agriculture directors, County agents and farm leaders and others interested in fostering better relations between rural and urban people.

Coming during Thanksgiving Week we are reminded that under our system of free choice we have developed an unprecedented supply of goods and services, supported an outstanding educational system and facilitated the development of our charitable and religious institutions. No socialist or communist system based on government direction or dictatorship can equal the results of our free competitive capitalism.

Rural and urban people have a joint stake in the production of high quality food efficiently marketed. Some ten million persons are presently engaged in this task. Over nine million work on farms and millions of others work indirectly with products of the farm. Farming is big business and important business. As responsibilities increase agriculture cannot fulfill its obligations properly without its problems are understood and appreciated by the urban population.

Farm-City Week should be the inspiration of such get-togethers the year around. Properly done they should pave the way for a better understanding of the common interests involved.

Wonder Metal Of The Age

Back in the early "twenties" manufacturers of lush automobiles like the famous Jordan "Silhouette," the Peerless V-8, the ponderous but fast Locomobile, and the 16-cylinder Marmon, used aluminum generously to lighten their five to six thousand pound juggernauts, Marmon using perhaps more than the others in that it cast a complete motor, crankcase, clutch and transmission case from aluminum and stamped body components less fenders from the same metal. This gave the big car surprising lightness and sprightly performance but also a prohibitive price. Marmon, like many others of its day, folded in favor of the lighter, more economical makes, leaving the field to a few such as Packard Twin-Six, Cadillac and Lincoln to satisfy the needs of those in the higher income brackets. Pierce Arrow was the favorite of government officials and the diplomatic corps for many years but the extent of the use of aluminum in the manufacture of this car was not known. Aluminum at that time was an expensive metal and the use of aluminum alloys practically unknown.

Today mass production of aluminum has made the uses of the metal not only tremendously diversified but economical as well. Uses range from the housewife's pots and pans, radio, TV, vacuum cleaner, washer, and other appliance parts to important parts of her automobile.

Recent announcements have been made by Reynolds Metals Company, one of the world's largest producers of aluminum and the Ford Motor Company now operating the World's largest aluminum casting plant at Listerhill, Ala., that more and more uses for this wonder metal will be found in making automobiles, eventually producing an all-aluminum car, with the exception, of course, of such parts as batteries, tires, brake linings and upholstery.

This wider use of aluminum will make for greater economy of operation and very possibly, lower-priced motor vehicles. And this, we are told can be possible without sacrificing safety because aluminum alloys can be made as tough as they need to be without losing the essential lightness of the metal.

To give one an idea of how tough aluminum can be made it is used to make such items as heavy-duty truck axles, airplane bodies and missile casings, all of which must withstand terrific stress and strain. Aluminum is a major defense item as well as a major peacetime metal.

Aluminum has come into its own.

Barnett Leads Walker Co. To 40-21 Conquest In Offensive Show

Sparked by a one man offensive show, in the form of Halfback Chesley Barnett, a 150 pounds of speed and power, the Walker County Vikings sprang the upset of the season Friday night by downing the Coffee Yellow Jackets 40-21.

Barnett hit paydirt for four touchdowns and three extra points in knocking Coffee out of the Tennessee Valley Conference lead. The contest was a sea-saw affair at first. Walker took the opening kickoff, drove and scored for a 7-0 lead. Coffee came right back to tie the contest 7-7, but Walker struck again for a 13-7 lead.

The Jackets forged back into a 14-13 front, but Walker added 13 additional points in the first half for a 26-14 edge at the intermission. Late in the third conti, the Jackets reduced the margin to 26-21, but the Vikings came roaring back for a 33-21 edge after three. The final tally came during the last minute of the game.

Yellow Jacket touchdowns belonged to Jimmy Olive, Hoyte Staggs and Donnie Cook.

Klaus Fuchs, convicted Atomic scientist who gave the A-bomb secret to Russia, announced in an interview last week from his prison cell in London, that he will go to Red Germany when he is released sometime next year. Fuchs said he is a converted Marxist.

In addition to studying another mail rate hike, President Eisenhower said he would also seek another hike in gasoline tax so super highway construction won't strain the budget. Officials expressed hope that the President's budget which he will present in January will have a smaller deficit.

The United States Friday assured NATO nations that it will stand by promises to supply them with nuclear missiles against Soviet might. General Maxwell D. Tyrone Power, star of stage and screen, died Saturday of a heart attack. He was stricken while playing the role of King Solomon in his latest movie "Solomon and Sheba." Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, May 5, 1913, he was the third in a line of actors named Tyrone Power. His great-grandfather was an Irish comedian and his father a Shakespearean actor. He took his first stage part at 7. Tyrone Power, in Madrid for his shooting of "Solomon and Sheba" made his last appearance before Hollywood cameras making an appeal for aid in the fight against heart disease, the malady which claimed his life.

The season's first snowstorm, rapidly approaching blizzard proportions and kicking up tornadoes along its edge, howled across most of the nation's West Monday. Seven persons, including three Boy Scouts and three airmen, were lost in the snow-whipped wastes. At least five deaths were blamed on wind and snow, schools were closed in some areas, and drifts mounted rapidly along the highways.

The government Tuesday disclosed two recent Soviet fighter attacks on U. S. planes and strongly implied American pilots would be ordered to shoot back if such "dangerous tactics" continued. Both American planes escaped unscratched and neither fired back despite the "dangerous, offensive and provocative actions of Soviet fighter aircraft," stated a U. S. note delivered to Moscow last Thursday.

George L. Simms, general manager of Reynolds sheet division, said the installation of the new bright mill was part of the Alloys plant's $65,000,000 modernization and expansion program.

"One feature of this program is the installation of the world's largest aluminum hot rolling mill," Mr. Sims said. "This 170-inch-wide giant is expected to be in operation in about a year."

"Another well advanced phase of the expansion and modernization program is the installation of new heavy presses for blanking operations."

POWER INTERRUPTION DUE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The Florence Electricity Department this week announced the following power interruption on Friday afternoon, November 21, if the weather is favorable for working:

Approximately three hours on all rural lines on, and feeding off of Old Jackson Highway from the St. Florian substation to state line, including communities of Greenhill and Center Hill, from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. If the weather is not favorable for working, this interruption will be made on the first fair day thereafter. The interruption is due to the enlargement of facilities on Old Jackson Highway, the department said.

Mayor Martin Is Honored In Ties

Southern Railway Organ Devotes Article To Life And Work Of Employee

Mayor E. F. Martin, chairman of the Florence city board of commissioners, has been signally honored in the November 15 issue of Ties, the official publication of the Southern Railway, for his forty years of faithful service with the railroad and for his civic accomplishments. Approximately 40,000 issues of the magazine is circulated throughout the South and the nation.

Excerpts from the article follow: Ellie Martin has a vital interest in his city, its future and the well-being of its citizens. More important, he tackles every job head-on with vigor and dedication—whether it's railroad, civic administration, business or church work. "If there were 48 hours in a day," Ellie says, "I could use them."

As it is he manages to pack about 48 hours' worth of activity in a day's standard 24 hours. For eight hours a day, five days a week, he's all railroad—meeting travel needs for Southern's customers at the ticket office on East Tennessee Street. In his "spare time" he manages the affairs of an agricultural and industrial city of nearly 35,000; serves his church as a deacon and chairman of the building committee; and is part-owner of a hatchery and two chicken farms.

Though he seldom appears hurried, he's always busy. Even the few evenings he spends at home are constantly interrupted by incoming telephone calls.

Of the many progressive changes that have taken place and new municipal facilities built in Florence during Mayor Martin's administration, he's perhaps proudest of the city hall. With an eye to the future, he and the other commissioners insisted that the building be modern and spacious, designed to serve the city's continuing growth.

He married a local girl, Ida Mae Freeman, not long after the ink was dry on his high school diploma. In Florence he and Ida Mae raised their four children who, though all are now married, still live close by the huge, rambling house the mayor designed and built on a hill overlooking the city.

Ellie's first full-time job was in the Southern's city ticket office at Florence, starting in February, 1918. And, with the exception of a brief stay with the railway's freight agent there, he has been in the passenger traffic department ever since.

Sheets won't wrinkle when drying if you hang them on the line dripping wet. The weight of the water pulls them down and practically does the ironing and straightening for you.

VA Asks For Prompt Reports

"Promptness" and "accuracy" ought to be the rules for all school-going veterans this fall, not only in their classroom work but also in their monthly GI training reports, the Veterans Administration suggested.

The monthly certifications of training, signed by the veteran and a representative of his school, are keystones of the Korean GI Bill, the VA explained. Under the law, the VA must have a certification each month before it can pay a veteran his GI allowance.

Harley A. Smith, Manager of the Montgomery VA Regional Office, offered veterans this advice about their monthly certifications:

First, they should be submitted to the VA promptly, as soon after the end of the month as possible. Late certifications inevitably mean late checks, the VA said.

Second, Smith advised veterans to be sure the certifications are accurate; any changes in training status should be noted and absences must be reported for some types of courses.

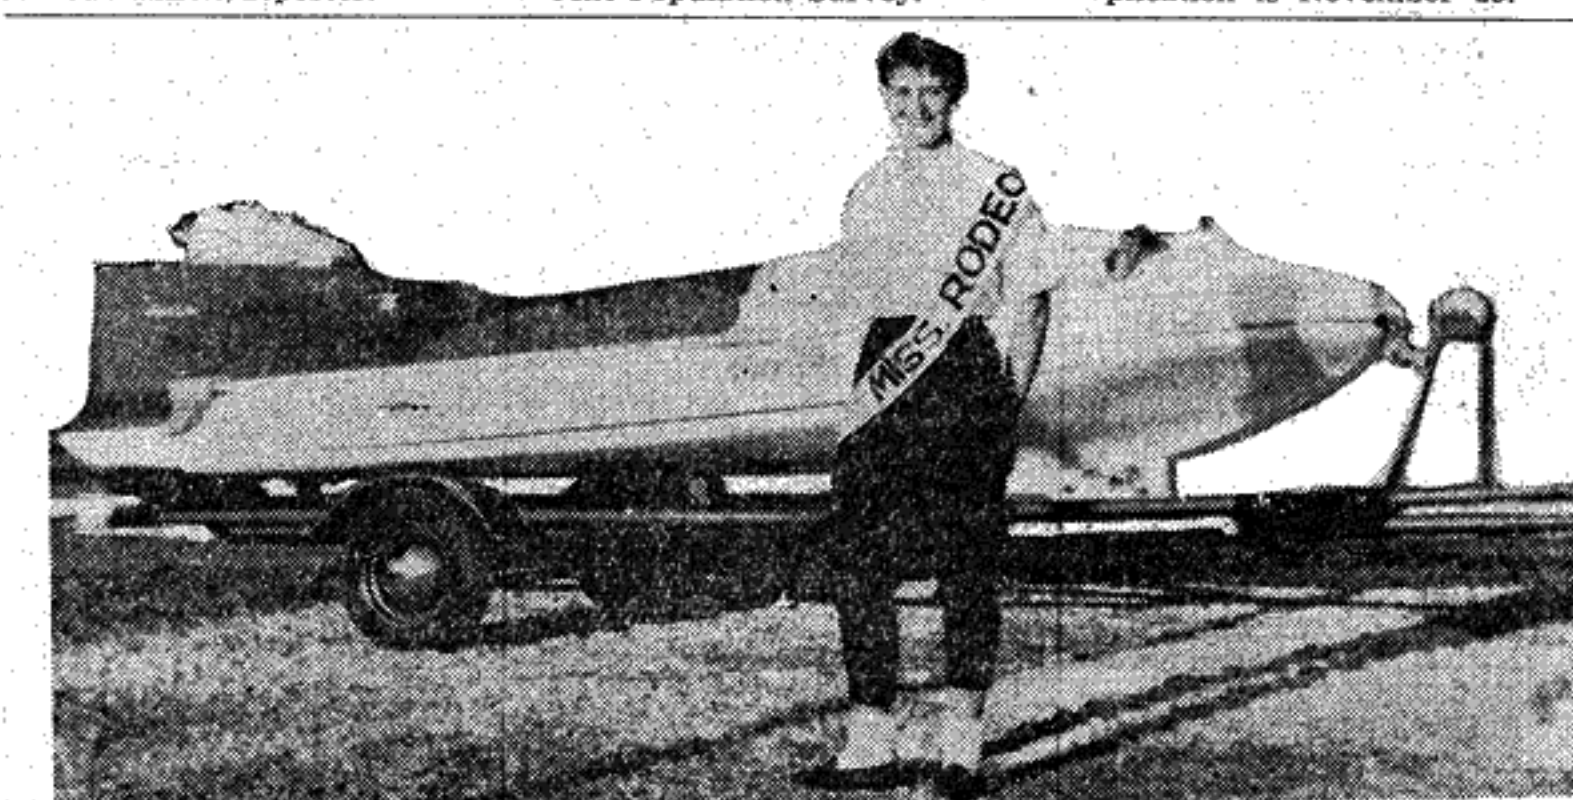

For veteran-trainees who adopt "promptness" and "accuracy" as by-words, monthly GI checks should come regularly as clockwork, Smith said.

Dry Forces Meet Discuss Plans

Lauderdale County Group To Have Parade Meetings Open To Public

A meeting was held on November 12 by the United Dry Forces of Lauderdale County to discuss plans for keeping Lauderdale County dry.

Organized some months ago to carry the fight against the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages, whether legal or illegal, are businessmen, teachers, craftsmen, white collar workers, members of the labor organizations, ministers, attorneys, clerical workers, and citizens from every walk of life.

It has been usual in Alabama and throughout the south for the vote in general elections, other than presidential election years to be light and this was the case in the general election of Nov. 4. In view of the light turnout a comparatively small number of qualified voters can petition for a referendum inasmuch as the requirement by the state code is 25% of the number of votes cast in the last general election. In this instance a mere 1,062 signatures from the total of over 16,700 qualified votes was all that was necessary to call for the referendum.

Leaders of the Dry Forces were quick to point out, however, that any apathy of carelessness on the part of citizens of Lauderdale County would be a vote to lower the high standards that have been maintained in this county throughout its colorful history. Rev. L. E. Kelley, chairman said, "We know that the vast majority of our people do not want whiskey or beer or any other alcoholic beverages sold in any of the communities of this county, but we must encourage them to demonstrate their convictions by soundly defeating this move at the polls."

Plans made call for an orderly effort to encourage citizens to go to the polls on Dec. 9th to vote against the sale of alcoholic beverages. There will be rallies in each of the incorporated communities and a massive parade on the Saturday before the election calling attention to the issues contained in the effort.

Further plans will be made public as the campaign progresses and meetings of United Dry Forces of Lauderdale County are open to public attendance and interested citizens are encouraged to attend.

West End Gets Shopping Center

Dr. R. G. Hightower, Dr. L. M. Jester, and Barksdale Jordan announce the initial stage of Greenmeadows Shopping Center located along West College Street in Florence.

The first building, Fuller's Super Market operated by M. P. Brothers Company, Nashville, Tenn., is presently under construction.

Mack Brother, president of this fast growing grocery chain in the Southeastern states hopes to have this newest addition to his stores open by the middle of December. Mr. Brother feels that the ever expanding economy of the Tri-Cities prompted establishing the Tusculumbia and Florence stores to better serve the people of this great area.

The developers are now negotiating to secure a department store, variety store, drug store, gift and floral shop, and appliance store. When completed, the Center will afford parking for approximately 250 cars.

The public health examination will be held at the State Bureau of Laboratories building, 434 Monroe Street, Montgomery, Alabama.

In compliance with Title 46 of the Code of Alabama, 1940, candidates must have completed one year of college training, with credits in bacteriology, biology and chemistry, plus one year spent in an approved training school for medical technicians.

Application blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Ruby J. Atkins, 434 Monroe Street, Montgomery, Alabama. Deadline for making application is November 29.

THE SPILLWAY

WHEN WORDS AND PHRASES slip your tongue...
(And well you know they do)...
We recommend a "thoughty" gent
Who'll coin one new for you...

AND IT'LL PROBABLY be more apt... and much more expressive... than those which have eluded you... We offer... as an example... the coinage which popped forth just after our ten-year-oldster (who's a great lover of animals and an avid reader of ALL animal stories) had completed the last paragraph of a typical tear-jerker... Happy and buoyant Johnny... momentarily wistful... was heard to wonder aloud about the why's of such "sadful" stories...

AND WE WONDER that mister Webster overlooked this descriptive word which came easily to Johnny Bellis... nephew of Addis (and Otis) Peacock... of 1002 Olive Street...

INTERESTING AND VEREE enjoyable visitors here during the week-end were Elizabeth and James Jackson... now of Memphis... and a party including (their daughter) Charlotte Lunsford and her (Doctor) hubby of Atlanta (his niece) Allee Mitchell... who's with the State Department and has recently returned to Washington after a three-year assignment to Saigon, Indo-China, where she was our vice-consul... Similar posts in Cairo and in Paris had preceded this... The group... with other Memphis friends... was domiciled at "The Forks of Cypress"... lovely architectural gem built by a Jackson forebear... Many smiling faces 'bout town... when news of their visit spread... attest to their continued popularity 'mongst local folks...

WE READ WITH INTEREST in Sunday's Commercial Appeal that "The Little Singers of Paris" who appeared before a packed Coffee Hi Auditorium recently... also received applause that rocked the rafters in Memphis... Included in the appreciative Florence audience were Cheri and Eddie Shipper... who stepped backstage after the final curtain to express heart-felt "thank-yous" which ended much later in their delightful Hickory Hills home when "thank-yous" were said to Jerry's hometown (Chicago)...

Right there... only an arm's length away... was a glamorous mixture of them all... A MEXICAN FIESTA setting... with a fountain in the foreground (real running water... believe it or not) was delightfully achieved by Celia Heil and her committee to delight Trinity Bazaar-goers on Tuesday... Madam makes a sweeping curtsy to the artistry of this competent group of church women...

AND NOW... CHEERIO and goodby... until more news comes through The Spillway...

ham and turkey... lobster and shrimp... dips and dippers... One hundred guests... more or less... filling plates and milling about in surrounding long accustomed to large groups and festive feasts... It'll remain a conversation piece for many a day to come...

IN BIRMINGHAM for a presentation of "The Diary of Anne Frank" on Thursday... we kept an eye peeled for our fellow townsfolk and spotted Martha Rose and Stanley Robbins... Molly and Julian Nance... Cissy and Norman Coleman... Eloise Tomlinson... Betty Zeif and Jeanna Tauber and others...

SOME OF OUR LOCALITES report dashing out to Mountain Brook after the show to spend a charming evening with former Florentines Polly (Irvine) and Turner Rice... Magic Citizens for the past several years... whose lovely home is a favorite gathering spot for their host of friends...

REVERSING THE PICTURE is delightful Carol Binford... getting a whirl of red carpet treatment since arriving from Birmingham for a visit to (her cousins) Julia Walker and Jo Penney... who'll host a tea tomorrow afternoon at their home on West Tusculoosa Street... (Their niece) Billie Penney... recently arrived from Corinth en famille to make her home in our midst and to quickly become a favorite addition to an admiring group... will share honors with Carol...

A BEST-BIG-AND-TUCKER affair was the STYLE SHOW and LUNCHEON at the Town Club on yesterday... when 'twas next to impossible to tell the exquisitely gowned models from the exquisitely gowned luncheon guests... Bringing our eyes to rest at the table where Marguerite Jackson entertained in honor of her houseguest... Jerry Stewart... we thought of smart cafe society of Paris... of tres gal gatherings along the Riviera... of groups we've glimpsed at The Purple Room's hometown (Chicago)...

Right there... only an arm's length away... was a glamorous mixture of them all... A MEXICAN FIESTA setting... with a fountain in the foreground (real running water... believe it or not) was delightfully achieved by Celia Heil and her committee to delight Trinity Bazaar-goers on Tuesday... Never again will I spend 18 hours on a bus. Not even for something that was as much fun and as interesting as the ACP conference. Chicago is a mighty long way off—and it's even farther if you are on a crowded bus, quite sick, and unable to sleep.

I don't mean to make the trip sound like a flop—it wasn't. On the contrary, it was a lot of fun. Not only that, I learned something. We had a lot of free time Thursday so we went to the museum. I've never seen so much art, and so much of what pretends to be art in one place. By the time I left I was practically cross-eyed from so much looking.

Friday night, was free and "My Fair Lady" was wonderful—practically no plot, but absolutely bubbling over with good music. However, next time I intend to stay a little closer to the street level than the second balcony—it's rather dizzying if you are afraid of high places.

The speakers for the convocations—the picture editor of one of the Detroit papers, Clark Molenhoff (newspaperman of the labor scandal and Pulitzer prize winner), and Al Capp all gave extremely interesting talks.

All in all it was a good trip and the meetings about problems and policies and general college newspaper work were very helpful.

At home there was probably a good deal of activity that I haven't tracked down but I do know that several representatives of the FSC Circle K Club went to Gunter'sville for the Sneed Circle K charter party. The Florence State club, its sponsors and the Sneed club, with Billy Joe Camp, who gave the official greeting, were Ben Peete, George Nix, and Dwight Coffey.

Even though we lost, I understand the team played a good, hard game. The winning TD for TPI came in the last few minutes of the last quarter. Oh well, one more to go.

Officers elected were: Vonda Broadfoot, President; Sandra Smith, Vice President; Francine Witt, Secretary; Linda Murphy and Virginia Fuener, Song Leaders; Peggy Townsend, Reporter.

Senator Lister Hill of Alabama was made an honorary member of the American Dental Association during its 90th Annual Convention in Dallas, Texas.

Temple Sponsors College Night

Second Annual Event
Scheduled For Tonight
At Temple B'nai Israel

Are religion and science compatible? This question will be discussed at a symposium marking the second annual College Night, beginning at 8 p. m. tonight at Temple B'nai Israel, Florence. The symposium will be part of a worship and discussion session dedicated to the faculty and student body of Florence State College by the North Alabama Temple which serves Jewish families in Florence, Sheffield, Decatur, Moulton and Russellville as well as Iuka, Miss., and Savannah, Tenn. A question and answer period will follow the opening assembly, and will lead to a social get-acquainted hour.

The event is sponsored by the Temple B'nai Israel Sisterhood, headed by Mrs. Harold A. Weinbaum. Sam J. Israel will welcome the guests and Dr. E. B. Norton will respond.

Dr. J. S. Gallinger, Rabbi of the Temple, and Dr. H. H. Floyd, Chairman of the college Department of Science, will be the discussants. The Rabbi in announcing the program said: "We are aware that, for many students, the college years pose a soul-searching problem. Through home and church, the student in his earlier year, has been imbued with the convictions of his faith. In higher education he is exposed to the discipline of facts. At times this faith and these facts, religion and science, seem to contradict each other. This symposium may help him in his struggle toward finding his individual solution."

In addition to Drs. Norton, and Floyd the college will be represented by Dr. Turner W. Allen, Dean of the college and Prof. Abel F. DeWitt, Dean of men, Miss Pauline Graylee, Dean of women, and Douglas Crawford, Student Government Association president. All students and faculty families are cordially invited to attend.

These annual college nights are sponsored by the Sisterhood to afford an opportunity for the college family (for some of its students the first opportunity) to form an impression and, it is hoped, an appreciation of Judaism, the spiritual mother of Western civilization. "We hope," said Mrs. Maurice Etman, chairman of the committee in charge, "to make this collegiate worship service expressive of our gratitude for having Florence State College in our community and symbolic of the brotherhood of the followers of the Word of God." Mrs. Harold S. May and Mrs. Morris Shipper are members of the committee.

SARA SAZE

Dear Sara Saze,
Though you're sometimes addressed as "Mrs." we in our family had decided that you're really an "old maid." Then, in answering "Peeping Tommie" last week, you said, "Believe me divorcees have their problems," so now we just don't know.

We're all interested. Which group do you belong to?

Neither of the two you have in mind. I was rescued from the "old maid" status twenty years ago come December. At the ripe old age of twenty-two. And I'm still hanging onto my rescuer.

I did not intend to infer that I know about divorcees' problems from experience, but rather that we ALL have them, which includes that group.

Many thanks for your interest. Dear Sara Saze,
Something is worrying me just awful. I didn't know when I married that my wife's mother was a kleptomaniac.

I love my wife and I would certainly have married her in spite of this, but I think I'd feel better if she'd told me about it years ago. The reason she has told me now is this. We have several children and the youngest little girl. She's not much more than a baby but I think she should know right from wrong after it's explained to her. When I had my Summer vacation home all went for a visit to relatives in another state and this little girl liked some of the toys which belonged to her young cousins very much. And during the visit I found some of these toys packed into our suitcase.

This happened on three different occasions and each time I explained that these things did not belong to us, etc. I ended each time by telling her I'd try to find her something as much like it as possible.

But when we reached home and started unpacking we found a toy (not hers) hidden away in with our things.

Now, what to do? My wife thinks it will be embarrassing for us all if we return it because, you see, these folks know about her mother.

What do you think? Is kleptomania hereditary?

Worried Father,
Dear Worried Father,

I've never heard anyone express the opinion that kleptomania can be inherited. Embarrassing my foot. Step in right now and do what you both know you should. Send back the toy and follow up with a light hair-brushing, if you know what I mean. This is your golden opportunity to teach a lesson which we must all learn—that we can't always have everything we want.

History Told Of Florence Bridges

Editor's Note—Due to numerous requests for a re-run of some of the historical articles published in The Herald a few years ago under the writer's byline, this brief sketch of old Florence Bridges will be the first of several to appear in the near future.

Prior to the building of the first bridge at Florence in 1840 by the then newly organized Florence Bridge Company (James Irvine, president, and R. P. Patton, treasurer), there had been two others, one across the river at the mouth of Blue Water Creek and one at Bainbridge near the mouth of Shoals Creek. Both of these bridges were washed away shortly after being built by floodwaters.

The bridge at Florence, near the site of the present Southern Railway bridge, was built of heavy timbers in eight spans placed on wooden piling. This structure lasted until 1855 when a cyclone leveled two of the spans on the Colbert County side of the river. It was repaired but a year later a storm again damaged the structure and it was abandoned. During its operation it was a toll bridge.

In 1858 a new bridge was completed by the Memphis and Charleston, then the world's longest railroad, and the new structure was opened to the public for both trains and wagon travel. The railroad paid the Florence Bridge Company a handsome sum for use of the abutments, right-of-way, ferry rights and such as was left of the old piers. The Memphis and Charleston used the very first steam locomotives made in the United States, all engines prior to that time being imported from England.

This bridge too, met destruction, but in a different manner. It was burned by Confederate troops in 1863 to prevent the invasion of Florence from the south by Union forces and was not rebuilt until 1870. However in 1864 a pontoon bridge for military purposes was built by Hood's army being located between Patton's Island and the South bank of the river the channel between the island and the north bank being spanned by a light trestle. Another pontoon was thrown across the river at Bainbridge in that same year but both bridges were dismantled when they were no longer useful.

The bridge built some five years after the Civil War served the needs of commerce for some 26 years when at least one of the stone piers gave way beneath the weight of a train and the bridge was rebuilt in 1896, this time with concrete being used in constructing the piers. The superstructure of this bridge was replaced by the present double-decked drawbridge.

Florence was the gateway to all road traffic directed toward the south from Nashville and the east, just as it grew in importance in river traffic. The first steamer, the Rocket, was the first to reach Muscle Shoals from the Ohio in 1822. By 1830 the river traffic supported larger steamers that carried two to five thousand bales of cotton each and hundreds of passengers. The landing of a steamer in early days was an event of great moment. Many wagon loads of homesteaders crossed Florence's early bridges headed westward and merchants benefited from this almost constant trek by supplying these travelers with needed supplies. As many as eight large warehouses lined the bank of the river in the early 1800s the commerce of the town being largely concentrated in this area.

Canada's westernmost province, British Columbia, is almost half again as big as Texas.

Churches

There will be worship services in all churches of our community as usual on Sunday morning.

The Junior Class under the direction of Mrs. Edward Jones, teacher, had charge of the devotional services at the Methodist Church this past Sunday morning. They used as their theme "What Is In The Bible," and brought to us a very good devotional service.

Worship services are held twice each Sunday at the Methodist Church and Bro. Beasley is bringing to us very fine messages at each service. He used as his subject this past Sunday evening "When God Touches The World." We had quite a few visitors at the morning worship service, and would like to welcome them back at any time. It is always good to have visitors come and worship with us.

Chair rehearsal each Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. The Methodist Men's Club met on Monday evening at the school lunchroom. At that time ladies of the WSCS served a very good evening meal, after which a business meeting was held.

Circle one of the WSCS met at the Methodist Church on Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock for their study program.

UA Library Adds Gilmore Books To Collection

An Eddy Gilmore collection will be established within the Rare Book Room of the University of Alabama Gorgas Memorial Library.

UA Librarian Wm. Stanley Hoole said the collection will include personal scrapbooks and published works of the distinguished Associated Press writer and Pulitzer prize winner, who is a native of Selma.

At Dr. Hoole's request, Gilmore has contributed original materials from his library to be included in the collection along with published articles from the Saturday Evening Post, National Geographic Magazine, Look, and the European Press.

The Alabama writer holds the Pulitzer prize for interviews with Stalin, written during his long residence in Moscow as an AP correspondent. He is married to a young Russian dancer who was permitted to come to the United States with her husband only after Stalin's death.

THE FLORENCE HERALD, Thursday, Nov. 20, 1958—Page 7

During a visit to Selma late in October, Gilmore said he requested his publishers to send the manuscript to his book, "Me and My Russian Wife," to be added to the collection. He is now shaping material for a novel titled "Troika," a story set in post-war Russia, which will be published by Putnam.

Safety on her mind!

This mother never forgets about safety. When she crosses the street she looks both ways, keeps a firm hold on her daughter's hand. She knows the sure way to avoid injury and medical expense is to follow safe practices.

The same idea lies behind the safety program at ELECTROMET. The men and women of ELECTROMET wear safety goggles, work gloves, and protective clothing whenever necessary.

Being safety-conscious pays off: fewer injuries, less medical expense. Our safety record last year was approximately six times better than the record for industry as a whole.

It's a fact that people have more accidents on the highway and in the home than on the job. So we emphasize safe practices off the job, too. We've made caution around the clock our byword.

ter of Mrs. Johnson's in Detroit decided to see some other parts of the world and motored on into Canada and other points of interest in the Detroit area. They were visiting Mrs. Lora Downs there.

His own family members were present of course, with the exception of one son, Roger, of Grants Pass, Oregon and he had just recently visited in his fathers home, leaving on Saturday morning to return to his home. He arrived in Nashville by plane on last Sunday morning, and Mr. Bailey, himself and invalid accompanied two more of his sons to the Nashville airport to greet him.

A pink and blue shower was given honoring Mrs. Clifford Kelley at the Bethel Church on last Thursday night, with Mrs. Lila McDougal and Mrs. Flossie Gullett serving as hostesses. The honoree received a number of useful and lovely little gifts. Refreshments were served from the church kitchen.

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER—STAYS TOGETHER"

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sunday	Psalms	107	1-22
Monday	Proverbs	3	9-10
Tuesday	Psalms	136	1-5
Wednesday	Colossians	3	12-17
Thursday	Psalms	23	1-4
Friday	Philippians	4	4-7
Saturday	Philippians	1	3-11

When we pause to be thankful for God's many blessings, it isn't really a time of looking back.

Just for a moment we survey the road we have travelled. We are grateful for the abundance we have received...for the strength and the happiness that have been given us.

But then we sense the real meaning of Thanksgiving. We look ahead along the road to tomorrow. We face all the uncertainties of the future with one supreme confidence; the loving God who has so blessed us in the past is our hope and strength and happiness through the years to come!

Faith more than gratitude is the spirit of Thanksgiving. When you come to your Church to thank God, you are taking another confident, faithful step toward life's spiritual goal.

More Profit In Fall Breeding

Fall-dropped calves are more profitable than those dropped in spring and early summer. Stockyard sales receipts indicate that Alabama cattlemen are still selling too many calves in the fall of the year, says API Extension Cattleman R. C. Farquhar. These calves are being sold when they weigh approximately 400 pounds, which shows that they are born in the spring and early summer.

Research from several Alabama experiment substations proves conclusively that fall-dropped calves are more profitable. Calves that are dropped in the fall months, explained Farquhar, are selling for $50 more per head than those born in the spring. When a calf is born in the fall and winter months, it is large enough to use the additional milk flow its mother gets from spring grazing. In addition, the calf is able to convert spring grass into pounds.

Fall-dropped calves are large enough to sell in the latter part of June or the first of July, when there is a strong demand for fat slaughter calves. Selling calves at this time also lessens the number of cattle grazing during summer months when the grass may be

Wallace Romine Has Good Soybean Crop This Year

Wallace Romine's soybean crop looks mighty good this year, says S. M. Eich, Jr., Asst. County Agent. When Romine reduced his cotton acreage, he needed another cash crop to supplement his farm income. The Lauderdale County farmer discussed his situation with Mr. Eich, who suggested planting soybeans. Romine followed his agent's advice and planted 12 acres of Lee soybeans.

Romine selected a low, fertile field which had been limed in 1956 with two tons of lime per acre. One-half bushel of seed and 200 pounds of 4-12-12 per acre were used.

Even though he expects to get about 40 bushels of soybeans per acre, Romine didn't get as good a stand as he wanted. Next year, the Rogersville Rt. 2 farmer plans to plant about one bushel of seed to the acre.

come short. Too, the cow can rebuild her body for the winter months.

There are numerous other reasons for a fall breeding program, noted Farquhar, such as the fact that cattle grow much better in cool months than they do in the summertime. There is also less danger of the cattle having external and internal parasites.

If you want September-dropped calves, Farquhar advises turning bulls in with the cow herd about the first of December. Or if you find October calves to be more profitable, breed in January.

Farm machinery prices show a steady increase since 1935-39. Yet, relatively, they are still lower than prices paid for all things farmers buy, and slightly lower than prices farmers get for things they sell.

Records Kept On Herd Pays Profit

H. A. Thacker Works Hard At Dairy And Poultry Enterprises

There will always be plenty of milk and eggs on H. A. Thacker's dinner table, because he works hard at his dairy and poultry enterprises.

Thacker is one of those fellows who believes "you can get the boy out of the country, but you can't get the country out of the boy." And it was love for the country and farm life that made this Lauderdale County livestock producer give up his vocational agriculture teaching job and move back to the farm.

Today he is neck-deep in the business of dairying and egg production. And the young farmer, who is a part of the county's Unit Test Demonstration program, is looking to the future. In September he started the Weigh-A-Day-A-Month method of keeping records on 16-cow grade-A dairy herd.

Here's how it works. Thacker weighs the milk of each cow—morning and night on the 15th of each month. This information is mailed to the County agent's office and final figuring is supervised by Sam Jones API Extension assistant dairyman. Then the Extension agent takes the production figures of each cow and a feed chart and, together with the farmer, works out a grain-to-milk ratio for each animal, based on her production.

Assistant County Agent S. M. Eich Jr., who works closely with Thacker, says the records Thacker gets back on his cows are a good basis for a culling program. Animals are culled when the returns in milk are not enough to pay the board bill.

Thacker has a good poultry project going, too. He has a contract with a feed company whereby he furnishes housing, equipment, management, and labor. The company furnishes chicks, medication (when needed), feed, and a market for the eggs. Thacker gets 15 to 20 percent of the profits.

The farmer told Agent Eich he likes the setup so well, he is planning to extend his present building to house 2,000 birds instead of the 900 he now has.

Thacker produces the corn used in both dairy and poultry programs.

Tourist Inquiries Continue To Soar

Interest in Alabama as a vacation area continues to rise in the nation, judged by the continuing upward spiral in the number of tourist and vacation inquiries being received by the State Bureau of Publicity and Information.

State Publicity and Information Director Geoffrey Birt reports his agency received 1,389 inquiries during the month of October, compared with the 972 received during October 1957.

Birt also reports that from January 1 through October 31 this year, the State Publicity Bureau has handled 29,546 tourist inquiries compared with the 18,683 received during the same period in 1957.

During the entire year of 1957, the Bureau received 19,531 tourist inquiries "and this year we should exceed 31,000," Birt said.

"Our special Fall and winter advertising campaign aimed at prolonging our season after Labor Day, and keep it rolling through winter—especially in the coastal area of the State—has already brought us almost 4,000 inquiries," he added.

PORT BLISS, TEX. (AHTNC)—Army Pvt. Horace B. Wilson, 18, son of Mrs. Mary Christine Berry, 230 N. Franklin St., Florence, recently completed the final phase of six months of active military training under the Reserve Force Act program at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Wilson worked for Hunt's Digging Company before going on active duty. He attended Rogersville High School.

Soil Test Pays In Cotton Yield

R. L. Weigart of the Minor Hill community in Lauderdale County is convinced that soil testing is the thing that upped his cotton yields this year.

On 16 4/10 acres Mr. Weigart picked a bale and a half per acre, compared to a half-bale average in previous years. He says this is the best cotton he has ever made, and he doesn't intend to take any credit from the ideal weather. However, without proper fertilizer the weather wouldn't have helped much, he said.

Soil test results called for 350 pounds of 4-12-12. He also found he needed two tons of lime. The cotton was side-dressed with 150 pounds of ammonium nitrate.

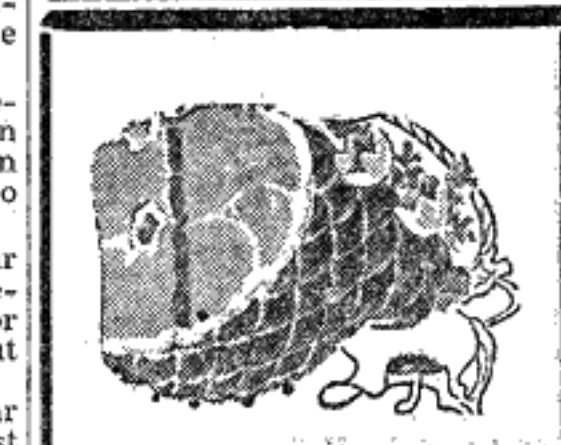

in alfalfa. Something like five times that acreage would be more in line with needs, Andrews believes.

BROTHER AND SISTER SING IN CHORAL GROUP

The music department of Magic Valley Christian College, Albion, Idaho, announced last week that Jesse Thompson, Jr., and Pat Thompson, of Florence have been accepted as members of the a cappella chorus. This outstanding singing group has established itself this Fall as one of the most promising choral organizations in the inter-mountain west. Donald Sauter, chorus director, states that membership in the a cappella requires both musical talent and scholastic rating and that it is a high honor to be admitted. Jesse and Pat are the son and daughter of Mrs. Inez Thompson, 116 Simpson Street.
