Hospital Board Studies Sorely Needed Addition

The Board of Governors of Eliza Coffee Memorial Hospital in session at Mitchell - Hollingsworth Annex Tuesday noon gave study to a proposal for a 15-room addition to this most valuable nursing home. The need is apparent when it is realized that today there are 27 applications for rooms which cannot be filled, R. C. Barnes, hospital administrator, pointed out.

Some time ago the board authorized preliminary sketches looking toward the addition of 60 rooms sometime in the future but the entire program must await the necessary finances not now available nor seen in the near future. However, an application for Hill-Burton funds was authorized to be presented when and if such funds, now exhausted, are made available by the Congress.

A progress report was heard on present construction on the two new wings to Eliza Coffee Memorial Hospital and it was announced that the work was on schedule. All contracts for equipping the new wings have been awarded and it is felt that with favorable weather the construction schedule might be bettered.

Governor Says Not In Favor Of Sales Tax Hike

The State Revenue Department's program of ad valorem tax equalization will bring upwards of $50,000,000 in additional revenue, it was revealed in Montgomery this week by state commissioner of revenue, Harry H. Haden.

"The program will mean the equalization of taxes within counties as well as between counties," Gov. Patterson said. He views the ad valorem tax as "the long-range solution to many of our school financing problems."

In spite of the need for more money for education, Gov. Patterson said he was "unalterably opposed" to any increase in the state sales tax.

Haden, who set 30 per cent of the "fair and reasonable market value" as a goal for equalization assessments indicated that 20 per cent would produce the 50 millions in additional revenue. It was revealed that there was not a single county in the state where there are not gross discrepancies with many pieces of property in each county in the state never having been placed on the tax books.

"Our figure of 30 per cent is aimed at only one-half of what the Alabama Legislature has decreed property assessments should be," Gov. Patterson said. "To give us a fair tax program in the state, the ad valorem tax certainly needs to be equalized with all property owners carrying their fair load and no more."

The governor pointed out that the state depends upon three forms of taxation for its revenue—the sales tax, which is already five cents on the dollar in many Alabama localities; the income tax, which compares favorably with that in other states; and the ad valorem or property tax, in which Alabama trails all other states.

The governor declared that "a sizeable portion" of property owners, particularly those who have built homes within the last few years, would receive reduced assessments under the equalization program. Approximately one-half of the state's property owners would be affected only a small degree either way.

Ad valorem taxes go principally to the counties and municipalities, mainly earmarked for education.

"If we are going to have good schools, we are going to have to pay for them," Gov. Patterson said. "Nobody likes to pay taxes, and I am especially opposed to any further increase in the sales tax."

Secretary Dulles Quits Post As Cancer Spreads

President Says Aide Unable To Carry On; To Name Successor

Announcing that he would name a successor to Secretary Dulles soon, President Eisenhower said the ailing secretary of state was now "absolutely incapacitated."

Dulles earlier in the week had flown to a Washington hospital for further treatment of cancer which was reported to have spread from the abdominal region to his neck.

The President was emotionally shaken when he told newsmen of Mr. Dulles' resignation from the post he has held since 1953. Mr. Eisenhower declined to say whether or not the post would go to acting secretary of state Christian Herter. When asked about Herter he said there were "all kinds of considerations" to take into account. He said there were a number of people with "particular talents" who could fill the top foreign policy post.

Mr. Eisenhower said he had talked to Dulles by telephone and that in view of the doctors' findings he, Dulles, had decided to resign. The President said he wanted to make it clear Dulles was not helpless but was unable to carry on the administrative load of his position. He asked that Dulles stay on in the capacity of consultant on foreign policy. He called Dulles one of the most able men in the country.

Mr. Eisenhower, on being questioned about Dulles' successor, said acting secretary Herter would be on hand at the April 29 meeting of foreign ministers in Paris even if the job does not go to him. He said Herter would also be on hand when a meeting is held with the Soviet foreign minister at Geneva on May 11. This latter conference is said to be the possible prelude to a summit meeting.

He said Herter would go to these meetings because he is familiar with the background and preparations. He said Dulles had developed a team that will be able to carry on the work of the department in a satisfactory manner.

While watching a well-known TV program recently, we heard Ingrid Bergman complain to a theatrical critic of the unfairness of the reviews he and his counterparts on other newspapers published. But Miss Bergman would have been more complimentary of this newsmen's efforts if previous reviews published back in the 19th century when critics were a lot rougher than they are today. Here are two reviews discovered by Columnist Sidney J. Harris recently:

● "In 1895 a critic reviewing a play, 'The Foundling,' starring Cissy Fitzgerald said: 'Cissy is not worth seeing. She is plain, cannot dance a step and doesn't pretend to know how to act.'

● 'Her chief talents are a preposterous self-complacency and well-made ruffles. As an artist, this contented kitten cannot be taken seriously, for she is awkward, unturned, does not know or take a tutored step. She is hopelessly ungraceful, has big ankles and bad shoulders.'

● 'The dress she wore last night was a nightmare of liver color streaked with brick-red, unbecoming and sufficiently English to kill even a handsome woman whom the Fitzgerald is not...'

● Harris also quoted a review on the Cherry sisters in an Iowa newspaper:

● 'Effie is an old jade of 50 summers, Jessie is a frisky filly of 40, and Addie, the flower of the family, a capering monstrosity of 35. Their long-skinny arms, equipped with talons at the extremities, swung mechanically and waved frantically at the suffering audience.'

● 'The mouth of their rancid features opened like caverns, and sounds like the wailing of damned souls issued therefrom.'

● 'They pranced around the stage with a motion that suggested a cross between the danse du ventre and a fox trot—strange creatures with painted features and hideous mien.'

● 'Effie is spavined, Addie is straggling, and Jessie, the only one to show her stockings, has legs with calves as classic in their outlines as the curves of a broom handle.'

● Harris said that the Cherry sisters sued for libel and lost.

Two-Day Session Of Family Life Conference Set

Special Features Will Include Selection Of Family Of The Year

The Sixth Annual Muscle Shoals Family Life Conference will be held in Tusculum this year, beginning with a dinner at Desher High School Cafeteria on Monday evening, April 20. Meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday will be held at the Utilities Building and the First Methodist Church.

Dr. Evelyn Duvall, who will be the featured speaker, is a renowned authority on human relationships. The topics of her three lectures are: Family Life In Our Day, Growth Through Family Life, and Families Build America.

Dr. Duvall is only one of a number of stimulating personalities who will participate in the conference.

A special feature for the youth of the community has been added this year. The convocations in the high schools will be conducted by Dr. Edwin R. Hart, who is chaplain at Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida. In addition, Dr. Hart will lead in a special Young People's Inter-denominational Rally at Highland Baptist Church, in Florence, at four o'clock on Sunday afternoon, April 19.

Discussions and panels will be directed by well-known and qualified out-of-town leaders, as well as prominent local persons, with many pertinent questions and problems of to-day's home life being presented.

The program committee has endeavored to include a wider scope of interests this year by having four discussion groups as follows: 1. Pre-school age 2. School age 3. Teen-age 4. Adults. Since everyone falls into one of these groups, there should be food for thought for all.

A poster contest in the high schools is being held in connection with the conference, with worthwhile cash prizes to be awarded.

Everybody Can Help

Cancer research is on the march. The world never before has seen so many brilliant minds employed on a single health problem. The American Cancer Society is supporting more than 1,000 scientists in research centers throughout the country. Many other scientists, including young scientists trained since the war, have asked for Society support but funds are not presently available.

It is not very realistic to put a ceiling on dollars needed for cancer when 255,000 men, women and children die of the disease each year. Reduction of this loss of life is possible now. In view of what we know and can do about cancer, we should be saving the life of one cancer patient in every two. But we fall 75,000 lives short of this potential because existing medical knowledge and resources are not used to the fullest. Saving these lives is much more important than putting a ceiling on dollars needed for cancer.

Placing the objectives in human terms rather than dollar terms carries with it the full and true meaning of the April Crusade against cancer.

Gasoline Tax High Enough

According to Industrial News Review 42 cents out of every federal gasoline tax dollar originally intended for highway building goes into the general fund of the Treasury instead of the Highway Trust Fund set up in 1956 to finance the nation's network of interstate highways now under construction.

For every gallon of gasoline an automobile consumes the owner pays state and federal taxes that average more than 40 per cent of the retail price less tax. Yet Congress is being asked to increase the government's 3 cents a gallon tax on gasoline to 4½ cents. Those supporting the measure argue the increase is needed to prevent a deficit in the Highway Trust Fund. There would be no deficit, the report states, if the 42 cents were not diverted for other purposes. The diverted taxes would be "more than sufficient to make up any anticipated deficits in the highway program."

The combined national average of state and federal taxes on a gallon of gasoline now amounts to 80 per cent of the refinery price, 54 per cent of the tank wagon price and 41 per cent of the retail price, less tax. Any other increase is unjustifiable.

Where Education Begins

In these days of super governments and growing centralized authority over our lives, it is good to be reminded that in a few areas there still remains real old-fashioned local control. A good example of this is the local school board. Dr. Paul Woodring, a consultant for the Fund for the Advancement of Education, says that: "Voters ought to study the candidates for school boards just as carefully as they do candidates for Congress."

The Board holds the legal responsibility for public education, it hires the personnel and is responsible in the broad sense for school policy and has the final say on the budget within the limit of state laws.

A good board member has definite ideas on the subject of education. He knows the difference between policy making and administration. He doesn't try to tell the principal how to run the school.

Everyone should occasionally attend a school board meeting. Local control of the nation's schools is as vital as freedom of the press or any other freedom. Fancy school buildings do not make educated citizens. Education begins with qualified teachers, backed up by an able school board, elected by the people of each community. You owe it to yourself and your community to exercise your privilege of helping to elect the right people to run your local school system. No one else can do it.

Donations To USO Aid Armed Forces

Educational Campaign In April To Acquaint Public With Services

The primary purpose of April-USE-MONT is to interpret to the American public USO's function in the Cold War and its contribution to good morale in America's Armed Forces wherever they may be stationed.

Today 2½ million young men and women wear our country's uniform but the responsibility of meeting the threat to our free way of life is not solely theirs. It is the responsibility of every loyal citizen. Every American can't wear a uniform, but every one can help to make sure USO continues to provide hometown services for our young people in uniform on duty in all parts of the world.

As a kick-off for USO's April educational campaign, USO leaders and volunteers across the nation will meet in Washington the first week in April to discuss the challenge America and USO face today. George V. Allen, director of United States Information Agency, and Senator Jennings Randolph of West Virginia will be among the speakers. Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy will give the USO Annual Award.

As part of April visibility, Reader's Digest will carry a USO essay by Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., USO Chairman. Other national magazines and house organs have been asked to feature USO in their April issues. Railroads and Air Lines will display USO's poster in terminals during the month, and all first and second class Post Offices across the country will exhibit the poster in April.

USO receives financial support through contributions of the American people to United Funds and Community Chests and independent USO campaigns in some cities such as New York and Chicago. With the money and hours of time contributed by USO's 80,000 volunteers, the young people from every city, town and village in the country that make up America's defense force are served by USO during their off-duty hours.

Contributions should be mailed to Charles S. Peery, First National Bank, Florence.

Frank Lloyd Wright, 89, the rebellious "titanic force" who schooled the world toward modern architecture and left his mark on the 20th Century era of Building, died last Thursday from complication of major abdominal surgery. Japan Celebrates Wedding

All Japan turned out last Friday in joyous celebration of Crown Prince Akihito's wedding to the pretty commoner he met on a tennis court. The Japanese press called it "the event of the century." With the union Michiko Shoda was transformed from a commoner—daughter of a wealthy flour miller—into Crown Princess Michiko. Her rise from commoner status to the second ranking woman of the nation—unprecedented in Japan's 2600-year history—was heralded by Japan's youth as a sign of the nation's emergence as a modern democracy.

Former Prime Minister Anthony Eden has suffered a second attack of his long-time liver ailment since returning to London from a rest in Mexico last month. Physicians said it was not an unexpected sequel to his 1957 operation in which a bile duct obstruction was removed in Boston. Sir Anthony was ordered to take things easy, thereby dampening speculations he might re-enter politics as a member of the House of Lords.

WOWL To Receive Safety Awards

The National Safety Council announced Monday that television station WOWL is to be awarded its 1958 public interest award. WOWL-TV began telecasting November, 1957. This is the first entry for the Florence station and the first year to receive this award.

WOWL-TV, Channel 15, joins its sister station in this year-round safety promotion.

WOWL-Radio and TV were the only Alabama organizations to be honored with the 1958 Public Interest Award made each year to public information media for exceptional service to safety.

"The council is proud to recognize the outstanding leadership represented by these awards," said Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council.

WOWL-TV along with its sister station, WOWL-Radio, will be among those considered for the Alfred P. Sloan Radio-TV Awards for highway safety, to be judged later.

Clubs, organizations and individuals are invited to nominate a family for this honor by writing a letter, describing the family of their choice and giving their reason for thinking this family to be outstanding in their ability to live together, work together, play together, and above all to solve the problems that arise from day to day in a calm, co-operative family spirit. Entries should be mailed to Family Life Conference, P. O. Box 603, Sheffield.

Scientist Lauds Peace Research

Research for peace, largely ignored in a period of international tensions, may well be the key to survival, according to Gifford G. Quarles, chief scientist, U. S. Army Ordnance Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal.

Speaking at the University of Alabama before a meeting of the American Society for Engineering Educators, he told conferees we face four hurdles in "human engineering."

He named these as: 1. research in techniques of engineering education; 2. motivation; studies of engineering students; 3. means of wider utilization of personnel after graduation; 4. research for peace.

Parking Area Is Bought By Bank

The First National Bank of Florence has announced the acquisition of additional property adjacent to its North Florence Branch and the consequent improvement of customer parking facilities.

The house and lot at 110 Bank Street was purchased in late March from Mr. and Mrs. R. Curry to enable parking expansion. For the time being, the dwelling on the lot will not be moved, but will be rented for residential purposes. A parking lot sufficient to accommodate all employee vehicles has been constructed to the rear of the newly acquired land. Space previously used by employees on the drive adjacent to the drive-in windows is now available to customers. Additional parking places both in front of and behind the branch office also have been constructed.

L. C. Moore, manager of the North Florence Branch, in speaking of the new additions stated that a second drive-in window is now open to the public, further to serve the area's banking needs.

Organization Planned To Teach Illiterates

Twenty-Two Per Cent Of Alabama's Total Population Unable To Read

Some twenty Muscogee Shoals citizens have been meeting at the First Methodist Church in Sheffield the past two weeks for training in order to be able to teach the illiterates in this area.

Alabama has 352,050 persons who are unable to read—22.06 per cent of the state's total population. The exact number in the immediate area is not known, but is estimated to be at least as high as the state average, according to Alfred McCroskey, representative from the Florence area.

Mrs. Mildred Blankenship of Birmingham; Mrs. J. M. Massey of Florence; and Miss Nell Pearson from Florence, who is from the National Literacy Center in Baltimore, and who have had experience in this field, are directing the workshop classes.

Two actual cases have been brought before the group for practical work and in only one to two lessons they have learned to read simple stories.

Last Saturday an open meeting was held attended by Mayors C. L. Beard of Sheffield, and E. J. Henninger of Tusculum, at which time an organizational meeting was planned for April 26, at 2:30 p. m. in the First Methodist Church of Sheffield. Representatives from civic clubs and businesses, as well as all interested citizens are urged to attend. Mrs. R. E. Moore, Tusculum, was elected temporary chairman.

The organization, to be known as the Muscogee Shoals Literacy Council, will use the Laubach Method in teaching the illiterates to read and write.

No one can explore the subject of illiteracy even superficially without discovering one towering figure, Dr. Frank C. Laubach, a name synonymous with literacy throughout the world. For 29 years, working in 93 countries in 270 languages and dialects, Dr. Laubach has perfected the simple method to teach adults to read and write quickly and easily. It is known the world over as "EACH-ONE-TEACH-ONE." An estimated one hundred million adults have learned to read by the Laubach Method.

"The need for such a project here in the Muscogee Shoals area has long been recognized by those acquainted with Dr. Laubach's work," says Mr. McCroskey. "The work shop, presently being held to train teachers is only the beginning of a training program for non-reading adults. More than teachers will be needed. The resources of the whole community must be brought together to achieve the solution to the problem of illiteracy that confronts us."

The U. S. and Britain insist on controls set up on an international basis and organized to operate with little governmental interference. The U. S. denounced the Russians veto plan as one that would leave the way open to block operation of controls and allow a possible sneak attack.

We Do Not Need A Complete Change In Our City Government Only An Amendment Allowing The Mayor To Serve Full Time

FLORENCE has prospered under the splendid administration of able businessmen who have the progress of the community deep in their hearts. The financial condition of the city has been repeatedly acclaimed as the best of any municipality in the state—something in which every citizen has a right to be proud.

FLORENCE'S city government has been economically conducted under its present system, however, more time of the principal official is required today and an even finer job could be done if the Mayor was on a full-time basis. Although additional salary would be necessary, (but not nearly as much as a city manager), still the watchful eye of a dedicated citizen who would devote his full time to the office would certainly reap greater economies for the people.

FLORENCE has done so much under its present form of government, an amendment allowing the mayor to serve full time would assure an even greater growth and every possible economy. No outsider, no matter how specifically trained, would have the complete support of the people as would a voting citizen.

FLORENCE is proud of its wonderful schools, great recreational program, splendid hospital facilities, modern housing and slum-clearance projects, nationally acclaimed fire department, well-trained police department, mile after mile of well-paved streets, beautiful municipal buildings and other advantages of much larger cities—that needs ONLY the full time of the Mayor, the directing head, to accomplish even greater things for all of us.

Betty Jean Pickens Weds Benjamin C. Ferguson, Jr.

Myriad candles marked the setting in Highland Baptist Church for the half past seven o'clock ceremony on Friday evening, April tenth, as Miss Betty Jean Pickens exchanged nuptial vows with Benjamin Crawford Ferguson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Crawford Ferguson of Mobile.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Pickens of 624 Howell Street, Florence.

The Reverend Lewis E. Kelley read the vows before an altar arranged with standards of pink gladioli and white stock interspersed with wrought iron candelabra of pink tapers against a tracery of Southern smilax. Cathedral candles at the altar-side completed the decorations.

Nuptial music was presented by J. B. Webb, organist, Miss Ann Johnson of Birmingham and the Reverend Charles Morris, vocalists.

Wearing a gown of hand-clipped imported Chantilly lace over satin, the bride was given in marriage by her father. A Queen Anne collar and sleeves which tapered to points over the wrists distinguished the fitted bodice, and the full-length skirt featured a cascade of alternating lace and tulle ruffles which extended into a chapel-length train.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught to a queen's crown, jeweled with pearls and rhinestones, and with her prayer book she carried a pearl-embroidered handkerchief given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Burt Webb, and a white orchid showered with stephanotis and white satin streamers.

Miss Janice Jones and Mrs. Max Burleson served as honor maid and matron and bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Taylor, Miss Martha Hensley, Miss Martha Williams, Miss Becky Blair, all of Florence, and Miss Barbara Tompkins and Miss Pat Nichols, both of Birmingham.

Their identical Paris pink frocks featured rounded front necklines which extended to deep V's in the back, and the floor-length skirts were complemented by chiffon cummerbunds with full-length floating panels. Their jeweled halos were in matching shades and worn with tiny veils and their cascade bouquets were of pink roses and white carnations.

Carrying a basket of pink rose petals, flower girl Beth Flippo of Decatur, wore a floor-length dress of pastel pink net over taffeta.

Mr. Ferguson was best man for his son and ushers included Lyman Holland, Jr., Robert Blackwell and Lloyd Screven, all of Mobile, and Scottie Lee of Florence. Junior ushers were Jimmy Jones and Johnny Potts.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Pickens were reception hosts in the church parlors. White satin overlaid with net covered the bride's table and nosegays of stock florets and sweet-heart roses marked the table corners. The tiered and decorated wedding cake was flanked by branched silver candelabra holding burning pink tapers.

Assisting were Mrs. C. C. Conner, Mrs. H. G. Williams, Mrs. John McDonald, Sr., Mrs. J. E. Weeks, Mrs. L. Winfrey Sasser, Mrs. C. L. Mann, Mrs. Winfrey Sasser, Mrs. Nell Flippo, Miss Marie Webb, Mrs. Clifford Farmer, Miss Lillian Pickens, Mrs. George McGlamery, Mrs. Cecil Potts, Mrs. James Vinson and Mrs. Howard Jones.

A musical background was furnished by Mrs. Ralph Wilson and Miss Bettye Lynne Miller, pianists.

For travel, the bride changed to a brown dress with full-length matching coat. Beige accessories and the orchid from her bouquet completed her attire.

After April 17, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson will be at home at 2002 Porter Court, Mobile.

Following the rehearsal of wedding plans on the evening preceding the wedding, the bridegroom's parents honored their son and his bride-to-be with a party at The Town Club.

Spring blossoms fashioned the flowering background, with Mrs. Neil Flippo and Mrs. John McDonald assisting the hosts in entertaining their forty guests.

The bride's courtesy to her attendants and a few additional friends was a luncheon at noon-time Friday when she entertained at Hotel Negley.

A white linen-covered table was centered with an arrangement of white stock and pink carnations and name cards marked places for Ann Johnson, Barbara Tompkins, Pat Nichols, all of Birmingham, Nancy Taylor, Becky Blair, Martha Williams, Martha Hensley, Pat Burleson and Janice Jones, Florence.

Town Club Setting For Study Club Meet

Florence Study Club members gathered at The Town Club on Tuesday afternoon, April 7, to hear a guest speaker, Mrs. W. T. McElheny, review Jan Hilliard's "Dove Cottage," a light escape story about a man who has inherited great wealth and the account of what he does with it.

Mrs. Burr Bassel was the afternoon's hostess and additional guests were Mrs. Theodore Hub-buch, Mrs. Wesley Patton, Mrs. J. Helton, Mrs. Floyd McCoy, Mrs. Leroy Doster and Mrs. Russell Hightower.

Mrs. Henry Cheney and Mrs. Hub-buch served coffee and salad from opposite ends of the teatable following the program.

Double-Ring Ceremony Marks Wade - George Vows

Against a background of greenery, the altar of First Methodist Church, Hamilton, Alabama, was centered and flanked by floor baskets of white gladioli and Easter lilies for the wedding occasion of Miss Ann Carol Wade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wade of Hamilton, and Alexander Larimore George, Jr., son of Mrs. Alexander L. George of Florence, and the late Mr. George.

Pledges were heard by Edsel Burleson, minister of Hamilton Church of Christ, at half past seven o'clock in the evening of Saturday, March twenty-eighth.

Wedding tapers glowed from seven-branched candelabra on the altar and nestled 'midst ivy in the window recesses, and clusters of Easter lilies tied with white satin ribbons marked family pews.

Nuptial selections were by W. M. Harris, pianist, and Misses Mary Ann and Martha Clark and Billie Ballard, vocalists.

Mr. Wade gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of bridal taffeta was designed along princess lines with Chantilly lace delineating the neckline and, in medallion inserts, enhancing the skirt which was floor-length and swept into a chapel train. Re-embroidered with seed pearls, a cap of matching lace held her fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of white stock centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Bennett Spratlin, Jr., was honor attendant and bridesmaids were Miss Ruthie Ragland of Cullman, Miss Shirley Cooper of Decatur, Miss Janet Craddock of Russellville and Miss Patsy Purvis of Corinth. Taffeta in rainbow hues fashioned their waltz-length frocks which were designed with streamers falling from a front waistline bow. Mrs. Spratlin wore pink and the 'maids wore soft shades of lilac, turquoise, green and yellow, with matching band-deaus. Their bouquets were nosegays of white pompons with ribbon streamers.

James George served his brother as best man and usher-grooms-men included Joe Wade, Hamilton, brother of the bride; Frank Armstrong, Jr., brother-in-law of the bridegroom; John Archer and William F. Boone, all of Florence.

Candlelighters were Ann Mor-decai and Mike Harris.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wade were reception hosts in the church parlor where arrangements of Spring blossoms furnished the flowering background. Pink satin ribbons criss-crossed the lace-veiled bride's table and ribbon bows marked the corners.

Assisting the hosts were Mrs. Carmack Clark, Mrs. Paul Clark, Mrs. J. M. Shotts, Mrs. John W. Gann, Mrs. M. R. Fox, Miss Donnie McDonald and Miss Wanda Shotts. Background music was by Mrs. Buford Jennings.

Upon leaving for their coastal honeymoon the bride was attired in a black sheath with matching coat complemented by white accessories. The orchid from her bouquet was her corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. George have returned and are now at home in Florence.

Barbara Frances Franck Weds John Robert Moore, Jr.

St. Michael's Catholic Church of St. Florian was the setting for the afternoon wedding on Saturday, April fourth, of Barbara Frances Franck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Edward Franck of Chisholm Road, Florence, and John Robert Moore, Jr., of Iron City, Tennessee, son of Mr. Moore, Sr.

Father Sylvester Fangman, O. S. B., pastor of the church, officiated at the four o'clock ceremony.

Arrangements of Easter lilies decorated the altar and nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Theresa Myers and Miss Mary Ann Franck.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white tissue satin and chiffon designed along princess lines. Her fingertip veil fell from a cap of satin and pleated tulle and, with her Bible, she carried white cymbidium orchids and her mother's rosary.

Miss Jacqueline Schmidtkofer of Florence was the bride's only attendant, wearing a waltz-length frock of pink antique taffeta with matching headress and carrying a nosegay of white carnations.

The bridegroom chose David Berrens of St. Florian to serve him as best man.

Leaving later for their wedding trip, Mrs. Moore was outfitted in a blue costume with which she wore white accessories and, at her shoulder, the orchid from her bouquet.

They have now returned and are at home at 429 North Walnut Street, Florence.

Passover Services At Temple Apr. 22

Week-Long Observance Tribute To Jews Struggle For Religious Freedom

By DR. J. S. GALLINGER, Rabbi Temple B'nai Israel

"And Pharaoh rose up in the night—and said: 'Rise up, get you forth from among my people, both ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve the Lord, as He hath said.—Be gone; and bless me also.'—Exodus 12: 30-32

Following the urging of their heart, heeding the call of God, the children of Abraham thus set out upon their long journey through history. This exodus has been memorialized ever since each year by the Festival of Passover. For a full week each Spring, the Feast of Exodus reminds the world that with their sacrifices of security, with their trust in God's providence, the children of Israel have purchased for mankind the inalienable right of freedom of worship.

This year this memorial will be observed in Jewish homes and Temples beginning with the Seder supper service on Wednesday, April 22.

A brief glance into history shows that the Jews were not the only ones who have set out on similar migrations. Professor Arnold Toynbee, famous British historian, reminds us of the diaspora of the Parsees, the Greeks and the Armenians. Others come readily to mind: the Germanic Voelkerwanderung, the Asian movements under Kubla Khan and Genghis Khan, and—perhaps most pertinent in our Anglo Saxon civilization—the transmigration of the Angles and Saxons from the Rhineland to the British Isles.

Yet, obviously, there is a difference between those migrations and the original Hebrew exodus. All these peoples who set out to find "greener pastures," after settling in their new domiciles, merged with the original native populations or with later conquerors and in the process lost their specific identities. The followers of Moses and their descendants through 2,500 years have refused to do so. They were successful in their refusal because they set out not only "to find greener pastures" but specifically "to serve the Lord." The first commandment given them as they traveled from Rameses to Succoth has been their lodestar ever since: "And the Lord said unto Moses and Aaron: 'This is the ordinance of the Passover . . .'"

The basic ordinance of the Passover is to sacrifice, to fight even unto death, for religious freedom. Thus was the foundation stone laid for the immortality of those who follow the word of God, both physically as a distinct body of believers and spiritually as messengers of God's will.

As blessed heirs of the great Judaic civilization, we Americans might well be proud of this trust. May God grant us that we may live up to His blessings.

Passover services will be held at Temple B'nai Israel, Florence, on Wednesday, April 22, at 6:30 p. m. As the religious center of the Jewish families of Florence, Sheffield, Tusculum, Athens, Decatur, Haleyville, Iuka, Moulton and Russellville, it also offers services every Friday night at 8:00 p. m. Dr. J. S. Gallinger, as Rabbi, cordially invites the general public to visit the Friday night Sabbath services.

Sixty-One Compressor Stations Now Serve Our Gas Transmission System

A brand new compressor station—our 61st—has boosted the total horsepower of our natural gas transmission system to a sizeable 739,000.

This tremendous amount of horsepower is enabling us to deliver increasing quantities of gas from the Southwest to our customers, some of whom are as far away as the New England states. Our delivery capacity is now more than two billion cubic feet of gas per day.

Back in 1947, when there were no compressor stations in operation on the system, natural gas flowed through the system's 3,182 miles of pipeline under gas field pressure at the rate of some 138 million cubic feet daily.

Today our compressor stations—spaced every 50 to 75 miles—are pushing a lot more gas through a lot more pipe—more than 6100 miles of it. They speed gas to distributing companies serving millions of homes and thousands of factories in Midwestern, Appalachian and Eastern Seaboard states.

And, newest of all, Texas Eastern now has a number of "satellite stations," which are operated by remote control from other stations on the system.

About a third of Texas Eastern's stations have gas-driven reciprocating compressors. These compressors are large machines—that feed on the gas they push. Other stations have electric motor-powered centrifugal compressors, pioneered by Texas Eastern.

A newer type of power plant is the high speed gas turbine which drives centrifugal compressor units. These new units are so powerful that they can do the work formerly done by a number of smaller ones. Each station is under the supervision of a chief operator. He is assisted by a mechanic and four operators. Each operator is in charge of an eight-hour period—with one to four others assisting him. Thus, a compressor station can develop into a community of from 15 to 20 families.

Regardless of the type of installation—large or small—all Texas Eastern compressor stations have one thing in common . . . they're immaculate. Bright and gleaming, they usually stand in park-like settings of well trimmed grass and in the background, neat modern company cottages add a domestic note to it all.

At each station, continuous operation—24 hours a day, 365 days a year—is standard practice.

This is one of a series of monthly reports on the diversified activities of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation.

Rogers High Students Observe Library Week

WHY I USE THE LIBRARY

JANE BLAIR, 11th Grade
I use the library as my friend. It answers my questions simply or in detail.
The library is my best friend in helping me with my school work. The library also helps in giving ideas for social gatherings among my friends.
What pleasure and quiet it offers as one sits down with a good book to read for his own enjoyment.
Then there are questions that arise that one wishes to know just for curiosity or perhaps to prove his point.

The library can answer one's personal questions, questions that one doesn't even ask his best friend. Or does he ask his best friend? I do, the library is my best friend and it can be yours too if you wish it to be.

WHY DO YOU USE THE LIBRARY

By MARTHA ALLEN, 11th Grade
Do we ever stop to think of all the advantages we have over some other students? All students do not have the privilege of a library with such a variety of good books to choose from as we do. Do we appreciate and abide by the rules of the library as we should? If not, we should consider these things and then think of the pleasures we get from reading books from the library.

First, we may read for curiosity. When we read, do we want to find out all we can on that subject? Does it arouse our interest so that it may bear on our minds? Some books will leave us curious, but the authors have their own reasons. Some books keep us wondering what will happen next. If we read because we want to know more about a specific subject, we are reading for curiosity and information.

Second, we may read for pleasure. How nice it is to sit down and read a good book, letting everything else leave our minds. Do we find ourselves reading during our spare time? A good book can be so relaxing and refreshing. When we feel like this we are reading for pleasure—and what a pleasure it is to have a good book from the library.

Then, too, we might just read for information. A lot of people in schools, businesses, homes and other places read to find out information on a subject that they are interested in. Information of all types is found in the library and is ready to be checked out to us.

Some people read for appreciation. Appreciation for some books can not be expressed in words. A lot of people read a certain author's book because he appreciates that author, or the subject he is writing on. We read about certain animals, people, or places because we appreciate them. A lot of people read because they appreciate different author's opinions on their favorite subjects.

Whether we read for curiosity, pleasure, information, appreciation or some other reason, we do it all for our own enjoyment and knowledge. We should greatly appreciate our libraries, and all the books that we have the privilege to read.

WHY SHOULD I READ

By LARRY MARTINDALE

The first question that comes to my mind about the library is "Why should I read?" There may be many answers to this question. One answer may be curiosity. When I find a book with a strange title, I wonder what it is about. For example, would one guess that the book "Flamingo Prince" is about flamingos, or that "Thunderhead" is about horses?

Now by these examples I don't mean that all books are like this because they aren't. Most books give one a good idea what they are about. But, too, some titles just don't give one a good idea what the book is about, and some books have misleading titles. Just to show you what I mean, what is the book "The Turning Point" about? Give up? It is a baseball story.

Then you ask "What pleasure does one get out of reading?" Well, if you like basketball, read either "Five Were Chosen" or "Phantom of the Foul-lines," and then see if you still have to ask me that question to know the answer to it. Now here are a few more good ones: If you like horses, try something by Walter Farley; or if you like sports stories, try something by Tunis, Scholz or O'Rourke; if you like science fiction, try something by Robert A. Heinlein, Asimov or Clark. Now you might think this is going to the dogs, you might be right, but if you like dog stories, you might read either "Old Yeller" or "Good-bye, my Lady." Also, Jim Kjelgaard writes some good stories about dogs.

What? Oh, adventure stories. Okay, if you like to read some good adventure stories, just about anything by Merritt Allen is good.

And remember, when you are reading, just because the first few pages aren't good, don't quit reading the book because (and most readers will tell you the same thing) you can't judge any book by the first few pages!

But I think I am getting off the subject of the library in general. Besides finding something good to read for pleasure, one can find just about any information in the library, provided he knows how to find the information he wants.

And as for reading, one never knows when something he has read will come in handy.

Plan For Medical Education Will Be Sponsored In May

A plan to encourage more young medical college graduates to settle and practice in Alabama's rural counties where they are needed most will be sponsored by Senator Walker C. Givhan, of Dallas County, during the regular session of the legislature which opens May 5.

Senator Givhan's bill would increase from six to eight the number of annual scholarships available, raise the maximum for each scholarship from $5,000 to $8,000, and give the State Board of Health more latitude in the selection of appropriate recipients. The measure, which has the endorsement of the Alabama Medical Association and the State Board of Health, would remove the requirement in the present law giving preference to students with the highest scholastic averages. Requirements of high integrity for the person receiving the scholarship, and a provision for aiding those already enrolled in the medical college would be added.

Authorities explained that medical students with highest scholastic averages might be better fitted for specialty training or research activities after graduation, and elect to enter such fields and repay the state the amount of their scholarships rather than practicing in rural areas.

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER—STAYS TOGETHER"

OUR FIRST PAIR OF SHOES

A great king, so the legend goes, once stepped on a thorn in his garden. In a rage he ordered his entire kingdom covered with leather. His wise prime minister suggested, "let me cover your feet with leather, and wherever you go you will be protected." And so the first pair of shoes was made!

The little fellow who wears these shoes has a long way to travel. His journey through life will not be free of thorns. And he'll need more than shoes to make that journey!

He'll need to develop a spiritual fiber which will strengthen his character. A man can't carpet the whole world — but he can acquire the faith and courage which will enable him to climb life's most rugged trails.

The Church brings such qualities to the life of man. The Church points the way to happy wholesome living — for the grown-up with the burdens of life on his shoulders — and for the little tot in his first pair of shoes!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Corner on Cotton

By BOB COLLINS

Will the new farm bill encourage blending of rayon with cotton? ... we think so ... look at it this way: Mills point out that excessive cleaning and too much heat lower spinning qualities of cotton ... some mills add up to 20% rayon to reduce these spinning problems ... in the past both the ginner and farmer could oftentimes sell above the loan by ginning for spinning quality instead of grade ... seems there is very little chance of "A" cotton selling above 110% of "B" supports this year ... so the farmer will gin "for the loan" and spinning quality will go out the window ... when "A" cotton gets to the mills, spinning problems caused by the excessive heat and cleaning will show up ... mills will be unhappy ... in will go rayon and there's another lost market for cotton ... all this points up need for better methods of measuring spinning quality of cotton ... and incentives to reduce for ultimate use rather than for support prices.

Check Seed
If your cotton seed has been stored for a couple of years, you better have a germination test run on a sample ... may save tears later on.

Skip Row Planting
Skip row planting is taking quite a hold in some spots over the country ... oh, yes, if you do decide to try some skip row cotton, be certain to check with your ASC committee to find how wide the "skips" have to be not to count in your acreage allotment.

Cotton Lunch
Cotton and cotton seed were quite apparent at some European luncheons recently ... they were present as, margarine, salad oil, tablecloths, napkins, cotton-content paper menus ... provided by Cotton Council International.

Split Grades
Bales of cotton graded "plus" or "light spot" will bring more money from government supports (either loans on "B" or purchase of "A") on this crop than in the past ... this will be the first recognized by government supports.

Agricultural Reminders

By L. T. WAGNON
County Agent

Listed below are 12 items of interest based on questions that arise during the year. Further information can be obtained at the County Agent's Office.

1. It may be too late to take a soil sample and get a reply on fertilizer recommendations before planting time for such crops as cotton and corn. It is not too late to take samples from areas where alfalfa or permanent pastures are already growing or from fields on which these crops will be planted next fall. Take samples for soil testing before breaking the land.
2. Select land now for seeding to alfalfa and permanent pastures next fall, break it and keep it fallowed throughout the summer to control grass and weeds and to provide a good, firm seedbed.
3. Plant cotton and corn as soon as the weather will permit. Do not put seeds and fertilizers together. Fertilizer should be placed at least two inches below or to the side of the seeds to prevent damage to the seeds during germination. Get and keep a good stand of all crops by preparing a good seedbed, applying fertilizer properly, using good seeds and planting at proper depths.
4. Apply nitrogen to corn not later than 25 to 30 days after planting. Sidedress cotton with nitrogen at the first cultivation after chopping.
5. All alfalfa and sericea that was not fertilized early this spring should be fertilized immediately after the first cutting.
6. Gardeners who want to increase the size and quality of such root crops as beets, carrots, radishes and onions can do so by applying 10 to 15 pounds of basic slag or crushed limestone per 100 feet of row. A Good Gardening bulletin can be obtained (free) at the county agent's office. It contains a planting chart, control measures for many cotton insects and diseases and other helpful information.
7. Insects and diseases must be controlled if good fruit is to be harvested. Get a Home Orchard bulletin at the county agent's office and get the information needed to produce quality fruit.
8. Many insects can be kept out of homes by applying an insect barrier at the foundation of the house. Use such materials as DDT, lindane, methoxychlor, heptachlor and chlordane. If moles are burrowing up lawns or other areas around the home, broadcast 8 pounds of dieldrin or heptachlor per acre and get rid of these pests.
9. Get rid of lice on cattle and control horn flies throughout the summer months. Spray beef cattle and non-lactating dairy cows with 1 pound of 25% wettable lindane, 25 pounds of 50% wettable methoxychlor, 10 pounds of wettable toxaphene, or 7½ pounds of 5% rotenone in 100 gallons of water to control lice. For horn fly control on beef cattle and dry dairy cows, use one of the following in 100 gallons of water: 25 pounds of 50% wettable DDT, 20 pounds of 50% wettable DDT and 1 pound of 25% wettable lindane, 25 pounds of 50% wettable methoxychlor, or 10 pounds of 40% wettable toxaphene or chlordane. Do not use toxaphene or chlordane on small calves. Use only rotenone on producing dairy cows.

10. Within about 60 days small grain harvest will be underway. Too many farmers wait until harvest time to check the combine. Check every part of the combine, make necessary repairs, during rainy weather or at other slack periods, and have the machine ready to operate at full force when the time arrives. You'll be glad you did.
11. If your lawn is infested with wild onions and other undesirable broad leaf plants, you may wish to control them. A Chemical Weed Control bulletin is available at the county agent's office. Get a copy and follow instructions on the control of wild onions and other undesirable plants.
12. Be sure to provide plenty of good grazing for livestock during the summer months. Try some millet.

Running Water Can Save Work

Saving time and motion is as important in farming as in a factory or office.

Any device that saves steps, lightens labor, or increases efficiency is a profitable investment for the farmer. And according to Extension Farm Building Specialist Bill Cox, no other device is a more profitable farm investment than the electric water system.

Cox reports that the average family uses 65,000 to 75,000 gallons of water a year. If this were pumped or drawn by hand, it would take over 240 hours of backbreaking labor.

The story is the same in the farm service buildings. One hundred hens drink about 1500 gallons of water a year. Four milk cows need about 52,000 gallons, while four hogs require about 9,000 gallons. This would amount to 240 more hours of work.

Although these figures cover the labor - saving side of the electric water system, says Cox, they do not show the full value of running water on the farm. It means a bathroom for better health and easier laundering and cleaning in the home. A pressure water system can also give greater farm profits by increasing production. You can increase vegetable yields as much as 50 percent by watering the home garden.

Your livestock and milk production will also be higher if you have sufficient water. Twenty percent increases in milk production can be obtained when cows have plenty of drinking water. Also an animal, whether poultry, pork, or beef, will gain 10 to 20 percent more weight with an ample water supply.

Soil Program Builds Farm Land

Grassy Community Farm
Increases Corn Yields
Using Winter Legumes

A soil improvement program should bring a high production increase for Reeder O. Walker of Lexington Rt. 1.

In 1957 the Lauderdale County farmer purchased a farm in the Grassy community. The farm was in a low state of fertility and badly in need of terracing. Walker planted winter legumes on parts of the open land. He used crimson clover, but dry weather prevented good results. To overcome this problem, he plans to use vetch this fall.

Assistant County Agent Herman Marks reports that a complete system of terracing is being worked out. The terrace lines have been run and the Farm and Home Development demonstrator plans to complete them this spring. After the land has been terraced, it will be seeded to grazing crops for cattle.

According to Marks, Walker's corn yields have been increased by using winter legumes. "I believe my corn will yield one-third more with less work," says Walker.

Cotton is the main cash crop on the 80-acre farm, but Walker also raises small grains and livestock.
