• The report that there is an increasing number of polio cases in Alabama prompts us to warn that we not get ourselves in the position that Tennessee now finds itself in. With a shortage of Salk polio vaccine at a time when polio is climbing, many families, who delayed having their children receive the shots, have become panicky and all because they put off this most necessary precautionary measure. Apparently, too, many have been lulled to "sleep" believing that polio had been defeated and all is well—but all is not well for the youngsters unless they have four Salk vaccine shots.

• The biggest cheat we know is the woman who tampers with the bathroom scales so that she will weigh at least ten pounds less.

• We read where two farmers in a drouth-stricken area were engaged in conversation as they loafed around the village store. "If it don't rain pretty soon," said one, "guess I'll have to rob a bank." "If it don't rain pretty soon," said the other, "I've already robbed one."

• The good old days—if you can remember—were when a teenager went into the garage on Saturday morning, he came back with the lawn mower.

• And speaking of lawn mowing, the other Monday morning Mrs. Lili Schweibe, a clerk in the Savannah, Ga., municipal office was seen to bring a large sofa pillow with her as she arrived for work. As she moved from chair to chair, she carried her pillow with her. Finally she explained that, clad in "shorts," she was mowing her yard Sunday and ran her power mower over a swarm of wasps. She was stung 10 times while retreating.

• If you tell some people you can't get along without them, soon you won't be able to get along with them.

• The circus had advertised for a lion tamer and two persons applied, one a young man and the other a very beautiful woman. The superintendent said that he could not choose between the two until he saw them at work and decided that the young woman should enter the lion's cage first. Inside, she quickly threw off her robe and, standing scantily clad in a colorful costume, motioned to the lion. Obeyingly the fierce-looking animal crept toward her, licked her elbow and then rolled over twice. Much impressed the circus superintendent turned to the young man: "Well, do you think you can do any better than that?" "I'm sure I can, sir," replied the lad, "but first you'll have to get that lion out of the cage."

• Possibly the hardest thing we have to do is to discard a beaten up old hat.

• We know a couple of pretty good business letter stories but this one tops them all. The letters came from a new employee who apparently was becoming a real salesman. Here goes: "Dear Boss: I seen this outfit, they ain't never bought a dime's worth of nothing from us and I sold them a couple hundred thousand dollars worth of goods. I am now going to Chicago."

Two days later a second letter arrived at the home office: "I cum hear and I sold them half a million," it said. Both letters were posted on the bulletin board with a note appended by the company president: "We been spending too much time here trying to spel, instead of trying to sell. Let's watch those 's'ais. I want everybody should read these letters from Gooch who is on the rode doing a grate job for us, and you should go out and do like he done."

Work Order Issued For Survey Scenic Highway

Green Light Given Preliminary Planning On Waterloo Route

State Highway Director Sam Englehardt issued a work order Monday for the immediate survey of the proposed route of the Alabama-Tennessee Scenic Highway from Waterloo to the Alabama-Tennessee state line, a distance of slightly less than eleven miles.

This information was given to a committee headed by A. D. Ray, chairman, during a conference with Mr. Englehardt in his office Monday. The committee, composed of Leonard Johnson, Carl Pettee, Bob Statton and Hugh L. Robinson, were accompanied by A. L. Britt, local engineer for the State Highway department and Joe Kilgore, assistant director, State Conservation department.

In the discussion concerning the survey, Mr. Britt advised Mr. Englehardt that from his study of the aerial photos and the contour lines that it was his estimate that the highway could be built for $2,400,000, however the Decatur office of the highway department figures that the cost would be nearer $3,000,000, it was pointed out.

Mr. Britt told Mr. Englehardt that the cost of the highway would be increased because of the necessity of building two bridges, totaling 2,000 feet in length, and three bridge-type culverts in order that the highway might be constructed near the water's edge and so become the true scenic route that the area so richly promises.

Further discussion brought in the possibility of aid from the U.S. Interior Department and the State Conservation department pledged contact with that agency for possible assistance in financing the project while the survey is being made. Mr. Kilgore accepted that responsibility. This possibility was seen since the area traversed by the highway would be a part of the 28,000 acre wildlife preserve located in West Lauderdale county.

Mr. Englehardt advised Mr. Pettee and his associates in the operation of the boat dock at Waterloo that the work order for the paving of this area should be issued next Monday. This paving, which is authorized by the federal government and paid for by the State Conservation department, which actually does the paving work under the direction of Mr. Britt.

Mr. Englehardt discussed his recent air-survey trip over the proposed route and said that he had never seen a more beautiful area adding that he would do everything possible to bring about the construction of the highway in full cooperation with the State of Tennessee which has already approved the tie-in highway from Pickwick Dam. Governor Buford Ellington of Tennessee and Senators Albert Gore and Estes Kefauver have pledged their all-out support and the Tennessee Highway department has given its approval to the construction of the eleven mile section in Hardin county.

• Little Rock police clubbed segregationists Wednesday in a short violent battle over integration of Little Rock's public high schools. The violence came after a rally on the Capitol lawn where only a few minutes before Gov. Orval E. Faubus had told some 1,000 segregationists to avoid trouble. Some 200 began their march on Central High School soon after the rally broke up. It was at Central that mob violence erupted over integration in 1957. In contrast with the scuffle at Central there were no demonstrations earlier in the day when three Negro girls walked quietly into Hall High School.

Authority's Bill Ok'd By Eisenhower

Presidential approval of the TVA Self-Financing Bill ended a long period of uncertainty about the future economic growth of the Tennessee Valley, Congressmen Robert E. Jones said following the signing of the document by the chief executive last Thursday.

Presidential approval of the legislation, which caused some of the most heated controversy in Congress for four years, means the TVA now can issue its own revenue bonds for $750 million to finance power expansion. Senate and House approved the bill by substantial majorities. Speculation was rife on whether the President would sign the bill. Republican leaders who fought it strenuously in both chambers, publicly asked the President to veto it.

"This is a victory, not only for the TVA, but for millions of Tennessee Valley residents," Jones said. "Triumph did not come easy for there were four years of intensive effort and numerous legislative set-backs. There were four years of tantalizing uncertainty in the TVA areas. Industries there to avoid trouble. Some 200 began their march on Central High School soon after the rally broke up. It was at Central that mob violence erupted over integration in 1957. In contrast with the scuffle at Central there were no demonstrations earlier in the day when three Negro girls walked quietly into Hall High School."

"This reasonable and needed legislation was fought bitterly by TVA enemies. Their objective was to cripple or destroy it. The struggle to keep TVA the efficient servant of our people was one of the most strenuous I have experienced since I came to Congress. Every minute of the battle was eminently worthwhile and I would repeat what I had to do, if it was necessary. I had substantial and valued support from scores of organizations and thousands of individuals and for this help I shall always be deeply grateful."

House Version Of Cotton Acreage Passed By Senate

Hill, Sparkman Laud Efforts Of Delegation In Important Legislation

Sensors Lister Hill and John Sparkman, hailed the passage of the cotton acreage bill as a great thing for Alabama and the South generally. The House version of the bill was overwhelmingly passed by the House of Representatives and accepted by the Senate without a single dissent, they said they believed President Eisenhower would sign the bill.

Senator Hill paid high tribute to the Alabama Legislative Cotton Study Committee, which has made a three-year study of allotment problems and which helped draft the final legislation.

Senator Sparkman explained that the approval of the cotton acreage bill is a result of vigorous and sustained efforts by himself and other Senators and Congressmen from the Southeastern States. He pointed out that the Senate had passed earlier in the year a modified version of a cotton acreage bill which he introduced early in January of this year. He said that his vigorous support of such a measure was sparked by the attendance of growers and processors last February when he was in the State.

He listed the following advantages of the cotton acreage bill:

1. It incorporates a provision long sought by Senator Sparkman that is designed to prevent further loss of cotton acreage to Alabama and the South.

2. It will assure fuller utilization of planting of acreage allocated to Alabama and other Southern States.

3. It will result in increased farm income and make for a more stable farm economy.

Senator Sparkman lauded the efforts of the entire Alabama Delegation in getting the bill through Congress. He also said that the active support of the Alabama Legislative Cotton Study Committee was extremely helpful. He pointed out that among other groups and individuals that endorsed the bill were the Alabama Farm Bureau; ginners, processors, and other organizations that make up the cotton industry. He also praised Governor Patterson, Commissioner of Agriculture "Red" Bamburg, and the Senate Majority Leader, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, and members of the Senate Agriculture Committee for their cooperation.

"I believe," said Senator Sparkman, "that the bill will prove very beneficial to all elements of the cotton industry. Certainly it should make for a great improvement over the existing situation."

Farmers Warned To Poison Weevils Attacking Cotton

Importance Of Control Pointed Out; Fields Should Be Checked

By L. T. Wagon, County Agent

The cotton crop in Lauderdale County is above average because of the later than usual attack by boll weevils. In spite of the fact that we have a good crop it can be lost within a short while.

Boll weevil infestation has increased from practically nothing two weeks ago to dangerously high at present. Field checks by extension workers and reports by farmers show high infestation due to boll weevil migration.

A good crop of cotton is apparent in most fields but it may not stay there unless weevils are controlled. This can be done by keeping a close check on the infestation and properly applying a sufficient amount of poison when 15 or more squares per 100 examined are punctured. This is an old story but it is still true and will work. Check each field by pulling 100 squares at random. Examine each square and separate the punctured squares from those not punctured. Count the punctured squares and if you have 15 or more apply poison.

As late in the season as it now is, and cotton as large as it is, it will be a good idea to use 15 to 20 pounds of poison per acre. If dust is being used apply it late in the afternoon when the air is still. Make three applications four days apart. After the third application begin checking cotton again within about five days. If the infestation is 15% or more make three more applications of poison four days apart.

The importance of controlling boll weevils and protecting the good crop that is now on cotton cannot be stressed too much. Use any of the recommended poisons.

Area Re-Zoned By City Commission

Wood Avenue Area Near Wilson Park Affected By Board's Decision

The Florence City Commission has re-zoned five of six areas that were being considered for such action at its meeting Tuesday.

The committee voted unanimously to rezone approximately two blocks E. of Seminary Street and South of Tusculooa Street, lying West of Walnut Street from R-3 Residential to B-2 general business. The action followed hearing of seven oral protests, plus 18 standing protests at the meeting attended by some 50 persons.

Six residents of Florence including several property owners within the area being re-zoned spoke in favor of rezoning to general business, also.

Those stating their protests orally at the meeting included John S. Kernachan of Shade Avenue; Henry Cromwell, a resident of North Wood; Rev. Hiram K. Douglas, Tusculooa Street; Jess Keller, attorney, representing the First Baptist Church of Florence; Robert O. Cox, attorney, representing Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosenbaum; Harold May, a resident of North Wood; Mervin Koone, attorney and J. Roy Taylor, brother of a property owner.

Principal objections to the rezoning included such statements as "the rezoning will be a desecration of the park," "We believe the move doesn't preserve property values," "We believe homes in the area have prevented blight and outsiders would not recommend any change."

It was also pointed out that any additional business on Wood Avenue at this time would make the already bad traffic condition worse.

C Of C Building Fund Growing

Funds continued to roll in for the new Chambers of Commerce building on South Pine Street Wednesday. To date, a total of $4,814 has been pledged by 86 out of 88 members who have responded to the plea for funds.

The amount of $4,814, added to the $8,000 Chamber surplus put into the lot-building fund, makes a total of $12,814 for the project.

The Chamber's new building must be available by next February because it has to vacate its present quarters on East Tennessee Street by that time to make way for a new business development at that and an adjoining point.

Legion Kicks Off '59 Member Drive

Membership Committee Of Over 100 To Handle County-Wide Campaign

The 1959-60 membership campaign of Florence-Lauderdale American Legion Post No. 11 will open Thursday night, August 13, at the Post Home on South Court Street. Under the leadership of the new officers headed by Frank V. Potts, Commander, the big job of enlisting the membership for the new year is getting underway with the organization of a membership committee of over 100 members of the Post from all over the county. It is the aim of the membership committee to get the membership drive going so that it can be completed at an early date.

On Thursday night a large membership is urged and expected to be present along with the newly-selected membership committee. It is very urgent that all members who were notified by letter be present, as we plan to have photographers from both papers present to get pictures of the committee.

Florence-Lauderdale Post has had the honor of being the largest Post in the State several times in the past, and we hope to do this again this year. There will be a short program beginning at 8 o'clock. Charles Edgar Young is membership chairman and Lavern Tate, co-chairman.

With issues very much in doubt, a tight vote on labor control legislation was predicted in Congress today as a bloc of Republicans and Southern Democrats strongly opposed a bill supported by President Eisenhower.

Northern Democrats launched a counter-attack of a rival bill backed by AFL-CIO segments of organized labor, while other groups argued that House passage of a labor control bill advocated by Mr. Eisenhower might limit chances of labor legislation at this session.

In support of this argument they produced a letter from Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel of the Senate probers. The letter to Rep. Lee Metcalf (D-Mont.) repeated the argument already voiced by Kennedy's brother, Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) author of a Senate-passed bill on labor control.

Backers of each bill prepared Wednesday to line up their forces for a showdown vote on Thursday.

Kennedy wrote Metcalf that the Democratic-backed Labor Committee bill would "carry out all the recommendations" of the Senate group headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) He said passage of the President's bill could provoke a deadlock between House and Senate that could result in no labor legislation at this session.

Eisenhower's bill is sponsored by Reps. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga.) and Robt. P. Griffin (R-Mich.).

Backers of the Landrum-Griffin bill were said to be counting on some 153 and possibly 80 southern and mid-western Democrats. It was expected that 200 or 215 votes would win in the House where a majority is 218 votes.

Before the House met backers of the Eisenhower measure told the President the bill he wants will win out. It calls for stricter controls on unions that the two other proposals under consideration by Congress.

House Working On Appropriation Bill For Schools

BULLETIN
The Alabama House Ways and Means Committee began work Wednesday on the largest education appropriation bill in the State's history. The budget is expected to surpass the $150 million mark by end of the special session. Members of the committee are confident that they can give Alabama teachers a minimum 10 per cent salary increase plus other benefits.

A bill to hike the tax on cigarettes by two cents a pack and raise some $5.5 million for education was passed Tuesday in the Alabama House of Representatives.

If passed by the Senate, this would bring the total new money for education to about $28.7 million. A sales tax bill, knocking off most exemptions, has passed both houses of the Legislature and is awaiting signature of Gov. John Patterson.

The sales tax bill will raise some $23.2 million for education.

Administration leaders have made it fairly clear that the cigarette tax would be the last tax measure for schools to come up in this special session of the Legislature.

If, however, the two-cent-a-pack raise on cigarettes is cut to one cent, as has been predicted, more tax measures might be approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bill passed Tuesday levies two additional cents tax on cigarettes, and about 50 per cent more tax on other tobacco products. One amendment was passed in the House, exempting sales of chewing tobacco and snuff from the tax, which will knock some $100,000 from the expected revenues of the bill.

The vote on the tobacco tax bill was 64 to 31 in favor of it in the House. Long of Lauderdale voted for it, while Broadfoot voted against it.

An amendment by Rep. Hugh Locke of Birmingham was adopted which would allow the cigarette-smoking public to deduct the new tax on Federal income tax returns.

Rep. Joe Smith of Phenix City announced that the Ways and Means Committee would meet Wednesday at 10. He said the committee would consider the education appropriation bill. Some observers told Smith's announcement to mean that the Patterson administration had passed all the school taxes it had wanted to, and now would get busy to allocate the new money.

Negro Loses Leg From Gun Blast

Willie Gilbert Jailed After Shooting Scrape Friday Near Oakland

A feud between two Negroes has cost one of them his leg. Clyde Gilbert, 46, of the Oakland community was arrested and jailed without bond on charges of assault with intent to murder in the shooting of Frank Russell, 45, of Oakland in an incident Friday night.

Sheriff Roy Call said the two men were at the home of Pret Cole, another Negro, Friday night when Cole's wife walked out onto the porch, where Russell was standing. Gilbert came out and told her to come back inside. At that time, according to Call, the woman told Gilbert she was on the porch because PREYTON PIERCE, Gilbert reportedly ran back into the house, picked up the shotgun, came back out and shot at Russell from a distance.

Russell was wounded in the right leg just below the knee and later the leg was amputated at ECM Hospital. He was rushed to the hospital by a neighbor.

Sheriff Call indicated that the two men possibly had bad feeling between them over Cole's wife bringing about the trouble.

Let's Watch Our Step

Vice President Nixon is to be lauded for his conduct during his recent visit to Russia. There is little doubt that the Russian people and officials as well were impressed by his frankness and sincerity and that much of the tension between the East and West has been eased, temporarily at least, as a result of this nation's gesture in sending one of its top officials for a tour behind the Iron Curtain.

The Iron Curtain has been aptly described as being more of a curtain to keep the Russian people from learning about the world outside than for keeping people out. It has not hindered the dissemination of Russian propaganda abroad but it has definitely succeeded in the past in warping the truth to its own needs. Men like Nixon, with his astute grasp of politics and attitudes, cannot help but impress even the Russians with some of the truth about the free world, and the visit of Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviets' top ranking official, to the United States, should further lessen the tension.

It is not that Khrushchev will go back and tell the people he has changed his mind about anything because he won't change. However there is a foregone conclusion he will learn. He is not stupid. The time has passed when we can call any Russian stupid or the country weak and under-privileged.

Attesting to the man Khrushchev's cleverness is his assertion that he was not interested in seeing U. S. military bases or installations. He said he wanted a pleasant visit and wanted to see "interesting things". "One need not go anywhere to know how strong the United States is. Even a stupid man would know that the United States is strong and rich."

The tone of Khrushchev's remark, sharply contrasting his usual sabre rattling, was not so much a concession as good propaganda.

We do not need to like Nikita Khrushchev to accord him the same politeness vice president Nixon received in the Soviet Union. It will be well to remember that he, more than any other at the moment, holds the fate of the world in his hand.

Germany: 'Question of Questions'

After what Senator Mansfield well described as "a distinguished public service" at the foreign ministers conference in Geneva, Secretary of State Herter could find only intangible progress in the accomplishments of that meeting. He reported factually a "lack of agreement on the basic issues of a divided Germany and of Berlin."

A day earlier Premier Khrushchev had held a significant press conference in Moscow, consisting not of questions and answers but of an hour-long statement to nearly 300 Soviet and other newsmen. The tone of the Communist leader's remarks was dignified, serious, and such as to give the forthcoming exchange of visits between himself and President Eisenhower a favorable setting.

Mr. Khrushchev properly specified that whatever talks he may have with officials in the United States will be "unofficial discussions" and not "negotiations."

Nevertheless, it is evident that if in the next few months any progress is made toward an understanding on points at issue in Berlin or in Germany it will be made chiefly through contacts between the two heads of state and their advisers.

Adopting President Eisenhower's phrase, Mr. Khrushchev said he is willing to discuss "any questions that will help to melt the ice." He added, "The German peace treaty of course is the question of questions—the problem of problems."

His approach to this German problem is no more helpful than was that which Foreign Secretary Gromyko took at Geneva under his direction. This approach Mr. Herter described as aimed at easing the Western powers out of Berlin.

Secretary Herter said at Geneva, "We are determined that adequate Western forces will stay in Berlin as long as they are wanted by the people of West Berlin and are essential to their protection."

Mr. Khrushchev said, "The best solution is that West Berlin should become a free city with guarantees of noninterference in its internal affairs or in its communications with the rest of the world." But Communist diplomacy has refused so far to spell out those guarantees with anything approaching adequacy.

There is also the impasse over whether the Big Four—Britain, France, the United States, and the Soviet Union—should seek their originally pledged goal of a unified Germany or should ratify its division by recognizing the puppet government of East Germany.

On these points it may well prove that the most the East and West can do for some years is to agree to disagree. Premier Khrushchev has shown more disposition than some Communist leaders might have shown to seek solutions by peaceful means and to permit communication between Russia and the outside world. Impressive Western unity has deterred him from pressing to an explosive point the crisis he provoked last fall about Berlin.

This delay is hopeful. It should not be mistaken for settlement or for true peace. But every month of it creates more opportunity for peaceful and freeing forces to work.

Mrs. Steiner Reviews At Current Book Club

Mrs. Maurice F. Cox was hostess to the Current Book Club meeting of Monday evening, August third, at her home, 2287 North Randolph.

For the program, Gerda Weissman Klein's "All But My Life," a true and deeply moving account of a young girl who emerged from the Ghetto of Poland and the slave-labor camps of Nazi Germany during the War years to find happiness and great peace, was interestingly retold by Mrs. Russell E. Steiner.

THE SPILLWAY

WE HAD SUCH FUN just recently
We thought that you should know
We sat outside one eve and watch'd
A jillion stars . . . or so . . .

A FAVORITE FUN-TIME with us has always been Summer evenings . . . 'twixt twilight and bedtime . . . the family sprawled in easy chairs on the backyard lawn to munch a sandwich and sip from tinkling glasses of tea . . . neighbors joining the group and adding "homey" chit-chat . . . No cooling invention (wonderful tho' they be) can ever equal the light breeze that begins to stir somewhere 'round eight . . . and no other experience ever produces the delightful WARMTH of this good ole Southern custom . . .

NOTABLE AMONG FLORENCE'S out-of-doors living rooms is the spacious . . . tree-shaded lawn which surrounds the home of Jo and John Brabson on Fair Grounds Road . . . bordered on the one side by a de luxe vegetable garden . . . on two sides by natural woodlands . . . and a velvety green carpet covering the length and the breadth . . .

FROM HERE AND THERE . . . Katherine and Fred Bitters and (their daughter) Maureen have returned from a two-weeks' stay at their lakeside cottage near Newberry, Michigan . . . where a fireplace blaze was an evening necessity and boating and fishing were daily pastimes . . .

YOU'LL THINK YOU'RE in old Williamsburg when you cross the threshold of the recently purchased home of Maud and (Doctor) Tom Cloyd on North Pine Street . . . With built-in window seats in both living and dining rooms . . . tremendous kitchen with almost room-size pantry . . . old brick walk out-back . . . leading to a brick smoke-house on the one side and branching off to a servants' quarters on the other . . . it's surely one of our town's most MUST SEE spots . . .

THE HAPPY HUM of activity which you may've heard in the 400 block of North Wood during the past week could have originated at the Kathleen-and-Andrew Darby home . . . where preparations were under way for the presently enjoyed visit of their daughter . . . Mary Alice Lanier . . . (her Pa, D. hubby) Charles . . . (their daughters) Ginger and Andrea . . . all of Newark, Delaware, where Ginger was a recent University graduate . . . They're dividing their time between North Wood and the Frank Smith cottage on the lake . . . directly across from Lauderdale Beach . . . Family members

LATE NEWS NOTE . . . You won't want to miss the "What's Your Problem?" TV program on Channel 13 at 1:30 p.m. Sunday . . . Florence's and FSC's (Doctor) Elbert Norton will be a panel member and we look forward with eager pleasure . . . ## Garden Clubs To Beautify State

Plans are being made for Alabama women gardeners to call upon their husbands and other men in the state to join them in making Alabama a more beautiful state. At a meeting of the executive committee of The Garden Club of Alabama plans were made for the women gardeners to address meetings of civic clubs on the importance of cleaning up and beautifying Alabama and how the club members can help.

Civic clubs interested in garden club members speaking to their clubs on beautifying the state are being advised to contact the presidents of their local garden clubs.

Mrs. Lewis Easterly, Hayneville, president of The Garden Club of Alabama, hopes that all civic clubs in the state will arrange for local garden club members to address local clubs on this subject.

Presidents Washington, Jefferson, and Madison, all appeared before early sessions of the American Congress to make unsuccessful pleas for a system of Selective Service, in order to prepare the nation for adequate military protection.

Let's
Talk
Over

By
SARA SAZE

Dear Sara Saze,
I want to tell you what my two-year old has done recently and hope you'll tell me what to do about it.

I took him with me on an out-of-town visit to a friend who also has a two-year old, a boy. My baby was real excited about all the toys, since they were new to him, and fell in love with one in particular. We couldn't get it away from him without a real scrap.

Then one day I found this toy in my traveling bag and, when I asked him about it, he said right off that he wanted to take it home with us. I said all the no-nos I thought necessary and replaced it where it belonged.

Well, we're now at home. And when I unpacked, out popped the little toy. So, what to do? The truth about it is, it's almost worthless. My husband says it cost about a dime and why make a fuss about anything so small? But I want to return it, regardless.

Sincerely,
Just Wondering.

Dear J. W.,
Stop wondering and ACT. By all means return it, and immediately. And let your baby see you wrap and post it. Also explain to him in kind and simple words that he must NEVER take things from others without their full knowledge and consent.

Many of our wisest thinkers tell us that a child's character is formed in the earliest years, and you can't start too soon to impress upon them the importance of the basic virtues.

The value of the article is unimportant, but the lesson to be learned is of inestimable worth. I can't for the life of me imagine why you were ever unsure of your course.

SHRINK RESISTANT COTTONS
Most cottons now are treated to resist shrinkage. You can easily recognize famous trade names guaranteeing shrink resistance. Many cotton knits are given special finishes to make them resistant to shrinking or stretching. The tag will tell you if the knit has been specially treated and if it can be machine washed and dried.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By

BOB JONES

Eighth District
REPRESENTATIVE

A long period of uncertainty about future growth of the Tennessee Valley ended yesterday, when the President signed the TVA Self-Financing Bill, of which I was a co-sponsor, with Rep. Clifford Davis, D., Tenn.

This is a victory, not only for the TVA, but for millions of Tennessee Valley residents in seven states. It comes after four years of intensive effort and numerous legislative set-backs. There were four years of tantalizing uncertainty in the areas served by TVA. Industries there now and others anxious to come looked towards 1963 ominously, because the present power facilities would be short for the needs of that year. With the Presidential signature, the entire region can move forward with the assurance of having sufficient electrical power up to 1968.

This reasonable and needed legislation was fought bitterly by enemies of TVA. Their objective was to cripple or destroy it, despite its proven usefulness for decades.

The struggle to keep TVA an efficient servant of millions of our people was arduous, but eminently worthwhile. Congressman Davis and I are deeply grateful for the help we received from so many organizations and individuals during the four years we battled for the eventual result we saw Thursday afternoon.

Why Our National Highway Law
When the Interstate Highway System began functioning in 1956, a Trust Fund was set up. Taxes on motor fuels, trucks, tires and tubes and recap rubber were earmarked for the fund and were expected to pay for the $24 billion project over a 13-year-period. Now we find that the Trust Fund is not sufficient to carry out the scheduled program.

The increased cost of the highways is $2.5 billion, but the Trust Fund is about $4.5 billion in arrears. The shortage is caused by three factors:

1. The Administration in 1957 diverted $1.9 billion to the General Fund from the Highway Trust Fund to balance the budget.

2. The States were carrying out their highway schedules faster than anticipated.

3. Costs of highway construction went up 15 percent.

To meet this crisis in the national highway program, the Ways and Means Committee reported out a bill, designed to raise sufficient revenues to carry the program forward, without interruption. The House Public Works Committee, of which I am a member, has agreed with Ways and Means to an increase of a $2 billion authorization annually.

Up to now, 35 states have discontinued plans for constructing their segments of the Interstate Highway System, since finding out that the Trust Fund is delinquent. This bill now goes back from our Committee to Ways and Means for further consideration.

Congress Approves Cotton Plans
Without a dissenting voice, the Senate this week passed the Cotton Acreage Preservation Bill, with all the features and provisions I had written into the legislation early last March. Previously, it passed the House by a 307-90 vote. The House passed the bill on Wednesday and the Senate on Thursday and I am happy to report that I got the speed I was asking for. Repeatedly, I pointed out in the Agriculture Committees that to know what government plans were, so they could confidently look ahead to their next crop. Our local businessmen, who supply farms and farmers, also needed this assurance.

Above all, passage by Congress of this legislation promises that we in Alabama shall continue to keep the status of a ranking cotton-producing State. It will prevent loss of cotton acreage, even if individual farmers do not choose to plant cotton. Their acreage will be put in the bank by the County Stabilization Committee and can be allotted to another farmer in the same county who wants to increase his crop.

This also was a victory for our area and our State.

Miss Snell Has Scholarship At David-Lipscomb

Miss Jan Sharon Snell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Snell, Sr., Route 6, Florence, has been awarded an honor scholarship at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tennessee.

A graduate of Mars Hill Bible School, Miss Snell plans to major in English at Lipscomb.

Lipscomb is a fully accredited liberal arts college offering daily Bible study for every student. It is operated, staffed, and supported by members of churches of Christ.

The 145 seniors who received the B.A. or B.S. degree June 1 made a total of 1457 graduates since Lipscomb became a senior college in 1946. These graduates have majored in 24 different fields of study.

Surface drainage refers to the removal of water from the surface of the ground, in contrast to subsurface drainage, which involves lowering the water

Complete Course At Fort Benning

Eleven Students From Lauderdale Among
1500 In Cadet Corps

Eleven Lauderdale County students were among more than 1500 Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets who successfully completed the six-week 1959 Fort Benning ROTC Camp. Closing ceremonies were held Friday, July 31.

The training program was designed to prepare cadets for commissions in the U. S. Army Reserve, by emphasizing leadership and participation in field exercises.

Cadets from this area completing camp were:

Bert M. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Jones, Rt. 5, Florence; Jerome A. Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cook, 228 Norwood Blvd.; George D. Clemons, son of Hugh L. Clemons, Star Rt. 10; Leonard E. Bevis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Bevis, Sr., Howell St.; David A. Bevis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Bevis, Rt. 2.

Lawrence A. Parham, son of Moxell J. Parham, Barton; James R. Eady, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Eady, Rogersville; Carl E. Kelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Kelley, Rogersville; Robert S. Steen, son of William E. Steen, Rogersville; Ronald H. Romine, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Romine, Rogersville; Larry M. Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Garrett, Cloverdale.

One of the first acts of the American Continental Congress was passage of a measure which recommended to "inhabitants of the United English Colonies that all able-bodied, effective men, between 16 and 50 years of age be formed into companies of militia."

Helton Held On Murder Charge

A 21-year-old Florence man has been bound over to action of the Giles County, Tenn., Grand Jury on a first degree murder charge, because of his own freely-given statements to an investigator that he shot and killed 23-year-old Franklin Davis of Athens, August 1.

Grady O. Helton was given a preliminary hearing before General Sessions Judge David Rhea of Pulaski Friday. Bond was set for $5,000.

Four witnesses were called by the district attorney, but none could identify Helton as the man who fired a pistol from some six to eight feet distance into the stomach of Davis, fatally wounding him on his 23rd birthday.

The Grand Jury which meets the third Monday in October in Giles County will get the case for investigation and possible indictment.

Red Cross Begins Life-Saving Class

A senior lifesaving course, sponsored by the Lauderdale County chapter of the American Red Cross, started last night at 6 p.m. at the Municipal Pool in Florence.

The course will be taught by Stewart J. Parker on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Persons 16 years of age and older who are good swimmers can participate in the instruction.

Red Cross officials reminded that all of those interested should be at the Municipal Pool at 6 p.m. each training day. There is no charge for the training.

Hill Would Aid Deaf Children

Bill Is Introduced To Provide More Teachers,
Other Needed Facilities

Senator Lister Hill today introduced a measure designed to relieve a nation-wide shortage of specially trained teachers needed to instruct children handicapped by deafness.

The bill has been referred to the Committee which handles such matters and over which Senator Hill presides.

Senator Hill points out that our nation needs about 500 teachers of the deaf to meet the annual needs of the estimated 30,000 deaf children of school age. "There are less than 150 teachers in training for this specialized work at the time," according to Senator Hill, "and at least six of the institutions accredited for such training have no trainees enrolled in the current academic year."

"With expert help a larger portion of these people can become self-supporting, self-sufficient taxpayers members of their community," said Senator Hill.

He further pointed out that the nation needs 1500 specially trained speech pathologists and audiologists each year as compared to the 400 actually being graduated.

Senator Hill's bill in the form of a joint resolution provides for the creation of an Advisory Council on the Training of Teachers of the Deaf to work with the United States Commissioner of Education in providing grants and scholarships to qualified students and aid to schools to meet their costs of instruction.

A similar Advisory Council on the speech and hearing disabilities would be established under provisions of the bill in the U. S. Office of Vocational Rehabilitation to administer the program for training specialists in these fields.

Representative Carl Elliott (D., Ala.) is submitting a similar measure in the House.

Holland To Take Course Of Study

Assistant Professor Of Science At FSC Given
Year's Leave Absence

An assistant professor in the Department of Science at Florence State College has been granted a year's leave of absence for graduate study at Ohio State University at Columbus. This announcement is made by Dr. Turner W. Allen, dean of Florence State College.

John W. Holland, Jr., will receive a course of study at the Academic Year Institute for Teachers of Science and Mathematics at Ohio State. This is a program of graduate study in the science and mathematics intended for college teachers of science and math. It is being made possible through a grant from the National Science Foundation. Mr. Holland is one of only eight teachers throughout the country selected for the course during the academic year 1959-60.

During his year at Ohio State, Mr. Holland, along with others attending the program, will be concerned primarily with preparing himself for helping future high school teachers to more effectively teach science to their students. The design of the program is to enable college teachers to improve their academic standing in order to prepare college students for classroom teaching. At the Institute, Mr. Holland will have the opportunity to meet and work with fifty high school teachers of science and mathematics.

A Sheffieldian by birth, Mr. Holland is a graduate of Florence State. He took his Masters degree from Peabody College in Nashville and did further graduate work there.

With Mrs. Holland and their two children, he will leave for Ohio about September 1.

Civil Defense Staff College Is Scheduled

Impressive Faculty Being Formed
To Teach Various Training Features

Civil Defense education is a paramount need of the civilian population of the United States and will be the keynote for the Civil Defense Staff College Administration Course to be conducted in Birmingham, Alabama, during the entire week of August 17-21. The Staff College is being authorized and scheduled by Joe S. Foster, Director, Civil Defense Department of the State of Alabama, and will be under the direction of Paul R. Brunson, Civil Defense Executive of the State Civil Defense Department.

An impressive faculty, composed of prominent educators and outstanding Civil Defense authorities, is being assembled to conduct the training features involved in the various phases of the Civil Defense educational program.

The auditorium in the Chamber of Commerce building has been secured for use as headquarters for the Staff College, and classes will be conducted there during daytime only, with each evening being set aside for various and appropriate recreational, social and entertainment features.

The basic objectives incorporated in the Staff College Administration Course may be summed up somewhat as follows:

1. To provide the latest information concerning Civil Defense operational techniques and give necessary training for developing a protection program.
2. To outline Civil Defense responsibilities during natural disasters.
3. To present facts relative to constant and continuing dangers of an enemy attack upon the United States.
4. To plan for better and more efficient utilization of resources by existing organizations, institutions and individual citizens.
5. To further develop organization and training at the community level as an integral part of the overall Alabama Operational Survival Plan.
6. To emphasize support, both fixed and mobile, as a means of insuring aid and assistance to every county in Alabama.
7. To assist all Civil Defense organizations in the transition from the "planning stages" to one of "operational readiness."

Director Foster declared that every organized Civil Defense unit in Alabama should select one, or more, members to register and attend the Staff College in Birmingham, and that application for registration should be made immediately to the Civil Defense Department of the State of Alabama, Room 652, Administrative Building, Montgomery, Alabama, or telephone AMherst 5-2341, Extension 2441. There is no charge for registration, although each person attending will bear their own expenses for the week.

Mrs. Stanley Romine entertained

ed informally on Wednesday afternoon after 1:30 when guests were invited to call to meet Mrs. J. M. Whitehead who with her husband and little daughter moved to Rogersville several weeks ago from Sheffield.

Mrs. Romine used an arrangement of orange gladioli on the coffee table.

For the occasion Mrs. Whitehead wore a black and white print.

Foods of the Future

Although "a good HOT meal" is a grimly joking description of dangerous radioactive contaminated food, researchers are perfecting a process to irradiate foods by radioactive materials to keep them fresh and safe without refrigeration.

Next year the Army starts irradiating foods in California. Animal and human tests show that irradiated foods are not harmful — and are tasty and delicious! Before long, such foods will be available at supermarkets.

Scientific nutrition of the future will bring new methods of food preservation, but Americans' preference for BEER and ALE won't change with the new food trends.

Beer belongs... Enjoy it

Come to Church for Services

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER — STAYS TOGETHER"

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Have you ever been deep in a woodland, where it is so dark that you think light can never enter? Then suddenly a shaft of sunlight strikes through the trees, and you find yourself standing in unexpected beauty.

Life can be like that, too. At the darkest moment, suddenly there can be light—if you have the power to see it. But that's an important "if." So many of us fumble through the days and years when the greatest candle of all, the Church, stands ready to light our path.

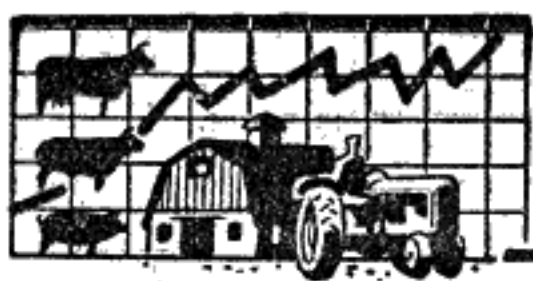

If you have been depriving yourself of the guiding strength of the Church, start now attending its services. It will help you find your way both in sunlight and in shadow.

Corner on Cotton
BY BOB COLLINS

What about cotton acreage allotments next year?? ... about all that we can say for certain is that there'll be some changes ... the House of Representatives has passed a bill that would cause the farmer to plant his allotment or release it (or that part he doesn't plant) to someone else or lose part of it ... the Senate has also passed a bill about allotments ... this one would allow a farmer to lease his allotment to someone who wished more acreage ... there will be some kind of law along these lines, but we don't dare predict what kind.

Another bill recently passed by the Senate is the "Industrial Use" bill which would create departments for agricultural research and industrial administration within the USDA and would have power to carry on research toward new uses ... still has to be acted on by the House.

Why Exports Down??

In 1958 there was a drop of $652 million in U. S. farm product exports ... of this figure cotton accounted for about 60% ... why? ... the USDA says two items contributed: greater competition and weaker demand ... foreign demand for U. S. cotton lessened when it became apparent that more cotton was being grown in foreign countries ... while the price of both U. S. and foreign growths was down, the increased spread between the two gave a price advantage to the foreign growths ... also the textile depression meant much less demand ... the decline of exports in U. S. cotton was about 37%.

CCC Takes Stock
The CCC took over ownership of 6,039,100 bales of 1958 loan cotton as the new cotton year started on August 1 ... this brought the CCC owned stocks up to 7,017,100 bales ... last year the CCC took over 2,506,000 bales at the end of the season to bring CCC owned cotton up to a total of 2,979,589.

Greatest Yet!!
Cotton is used by more people for more different reasons than any other fiber ... oh yes, it grows over a larger area than any other fiber, too ... and it probably has been grown longer than any other vegetable fiber ... we know it was grown and used 5,000 years ago.

August Garden Jobs

Although the summer growing season is about over, there are a number of jobs for the gardener who wants a continuous supply of vegetables.

1. Plant bunch snap beans, limas, cucumbers, and squash in early August and they will make a crop before frost.
2. Plant fall crops such as turnips, kale, carrots, lettuce, beets, and collards while there is moisture in the ground.
3. Keep crops growing by side-dressing with a complete fertilizer or nitrogen.
4. Continue weekly applications of garden dust to control insects and diseases.
5. Cover tomato vines with dirt about a foot from the end of the branch and apply fertilizer. They will develop roots and make a fall crop.
6. Keep vegetables like okra, beans, pepper, and cucumbers harvested as they are ready for use. If allowed to mature and produce seed, they stop bearing.
7. Clean up and burn old vines of beans, squash, tomatoes, etc., to destroy insects and diseases.
8. Plant vetch, clover, or rye on part of the garden or on a new area to be used for the garden next spring. Most garden soils in Alabama need organic matter.

Counteract with Better Management

The cost-price squeeze has been with us for some time. And chances are that it's here to stay, at least for the next year or two. Farm legislation may help alleviate this situation on a broad scale, but the individual farmer can do much to keep profits up.

One method of counteracting the cost-price squeeze is to pay close attention to costs. Trimming costs is profitable if you are trimming the right costs. It can be just as unprofitable if you are trimming the wrong ones. In other words, more expenditures make the farmer money while others simply narrow his profit margin.

It's efficient management to know which investments are giving the highest return. Sometimes the return is in the form of more leisure, family satisfactions, or other things that may not have a dollar and cent value. However, you can still determine how these investments would have affected profits if the same money had been spent for production. For example, with only $50 to spend, this money used for a labor-saving gadget may free 100 hours of time the use somewhere else. But the same $50 spent on insecticides may return $300 to profits. Therefore, the labor saved by the gadget would have to return $300 per hour to economically justify its purchase. The same principle applies to all expenditures.

The profit guide for handling costs is to keep fixed costs down and channel funds to the variable costs giving the highest return.

Fixed costs include machinery and building depreciation, taxes, insurance, cash rent, and interest payments for a farm. These costs are called fixed because they do not change with output. They remain unchanged whether there are bumper yields or complete crop loss.

Variable costs do change with output. Seed, fertilizer, insecticides, weed spray, fuel, feed, and feeder stock represent variable costs because the amount spent on each item varies with production.

Some variable costs increase production more than others. And increased production can mean lower costs per unit of output or more profit. For example, a corn yield of 50 bushels per acre requires the same amount of land, tractor depreciation, taxes, and other fixed costs as a corn yield of 25 bushels per acre. The 50-bushel yield requires one-half as much fixed cost per bushel of output as the 25-bushel yield. In this example, the additional variable costs for increasing the yield from 25 to 50 bushels must be figured. If this added cost is less than the added return for the extra 25 bushels, the total per unit cost of output will be reduced because of increased production.

With falling prices and rising costs, the range of profitable production levels become narrower. Maximum production can be as unprofitable as low production. But on most Alabama farms, increasing variable costs for higher production is needed to maintain farm income. Helping farm families sharpen their management by greater attention to cost details may be highly rewarding to them in terms of profits.

Asks Members To Erect Building

The Board of Directors of the Florence Chamber of Commerce has appealed in letters to the organization's membership to join in a program to build a new Chamber of Commerce building on South Pine Street.

4-H's Aid In Census Of Farms

Accurate Records 'Must' For Club Members In All Work On Projects

When the census taker knocks on the door of a 4-H farm family this fall he can be pretty sure that the younger members of the household had a hand in rounding up the required information, points out Norman C. Mindrum, director, National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

Answers will be needed to questions involving number of acres in crops or pasture; kind and number of livestock and poultry; kind and quantity of farm products produced and sold; cost of gasoline and oil; breakdown of man-hours spent on and off the farm.

Keeping accurate records in relation to 4-H project work is a "must" for club members, Mr. Mindrum says, so they learn early how to go about gathering statistics relating to production, costs, sales and the like. As a matter of fact, the 4-H record book is an important item in judging annual 4-H award winners, he contends.

Most 4-H's throughout the country have had considerable experience in keeping tabs on farm operation and personal activities while successfully fulfilling the requirements of 4-H programs in achievement and leadership, according to the Cooperative Extension Service which directs the work.

Members who do an outstanding job in these areas look forward to competing for one of several awards provided each year.

Better Profit In Brood Cow Herd

Beef cattle producers should constantly strive to up-grade the quality of the brood cow herd.

According to A. P. Extension Livestockman Bob Farquhar, this requires the yearly practice of saving replacement heifers from top-producing cows. Cattleman should not interrupt this good management practice because of the present beef cattle prices.

Farquhar points out that during the last rise in beef cattle prices in the early 1950's, many cattlemen were inclined to overlook this phase of management. Consequently, the drastic market slump during the latter part of 1953 and through 1954 and 1955 found many farmers producing calves for only one source of buyer. This was the butcher buyer.

At the present time, cattlemen throughout Alabama who produce quality calves are finding a ready market from both the butcher buyer and the feeder demand, says the specialist. This feeder demand has come from cattle feeders in Alabama and from out-of-state orders.

"Cattle that have left Alabama and gone to some of the feed-lot areas have proven satisfactory," states Farquhar. "And this demand will continue to grow if commercial cattlemen will keep on producing the quality calves desired."

The specialist states that these calves must come from good brood cows. And these brood cows must be selected from the top replacement heifers each year. "In order to hold this established market," warns Farquhar, "we must continue to do a good job of producing our own replacements."

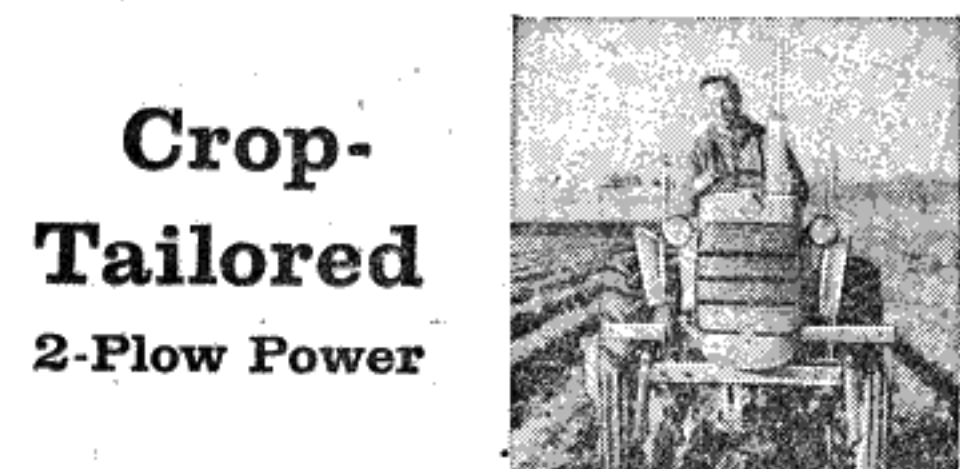

Continental Marines participated in their first naval engagement April 6, 1776, when the small vessels of the American squadron, enroute from the Bahamas, engaged a British man-of-war. They also suffered their first casualties in this battle; two officers and five enlisted Marines killed, and 10 wounded.
