The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

● We are called to task by Mrs. Reeder Clanton (not her husband, that old World War I buddle of ours) that we erred in speaking of a "garage" in the "good old days." It all depends on how far back we must go when we speak of the good old days. That phrase could mean the days around the turn of the century or to a youngster, such as we, merely 10 or 15 years ago. Anyway, it is hard to define the exact era of the "good old days." To the big earner, the phrase means the days before the income tax; to the teen-ager, it means the days before Elvis Presley.

● It has been correctly pointed out that a wife who uses horse sense in her every action never becomes a nag.

● It is unthinkable how the average citizen cares so little for the appearance of his hometown that he (or she) will throw trash hither and yon over the streets, sidewalks and even the well-kept yards as they either walk or drive by. The ads say: "Only you can start a forest fire." Why not a new slogan: "Only you can deface the appearance of our town by the litter you scatter." Not only does this promiscuous scattering of waste paper and such detract from the beauty of the city (and the highways), but it adds to the cost of operating the city. But maybe the litterbugs are not taxpayers and don't care.

● Sign on back of a truck: "Please don't hug me. I'm going steady."

● What year was it that men started the practice of going without hats? The practice soon caused the hat manufacturers to take a leaf out of milady's book and put style changes into men's head-coverings. This move may have stopped the speed of men discarding hats but we find any number of men approaching middle-age who can't remember the last hat they owned (Bald-headed men were not included in this survey).

● Sign on an old Kentucky church: "Prayer Conditioned."

● A New Yorker, planning a vacation in Florida, wrote one of the swankier hotels if dogs were allowed. Promptly he received a reply from the manager, who wrote: "I've been in this business for 30 years. Never have I called on police to eject a disorderly dog. Never has a dog set fire to a bed with a cigarette. I have never found a hotel towel or blanket in a dog's suitcase. Nor a whiskey ring on the dresser. Sure, the dog is welcome." And the following postscript was added: "If the dog will vouch for you, come along, too."

● Hungry persons drive fast and dangerously, says a doctor. He could have added: Also those who are no longer thirsty.

● A certain county agent—who will go nameless—tells us that not long ago he visited a farmer in the far reaches of the county and, after making himself known, asked the farmer if he was having any trouble with the insects in his corn. "Neighbor," he said, "the corn I make dissolves insects."

● A young news reporter was called to task regarding a quote he had made in an article concerning a shooting affair of the day previous. The doctor told the young man that he did not say that the victim had been shot in the woods but that the bullet had entered the lumbar region—and there is a difference.

● Possibly the most discussed matter in the home is: "Can we afford it." But judging from the buying spree that has been going on these many years, the only thing people have trouble affording these days is—the first of the month. And we should know.

Truce Made In Strike At Alloys Plant

The jurisdictional strike at Reynolds Alloys was temporarily patched up at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning when a settlement was reached under the direction of W. S. Pierce, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, Atlanta. The settlement reached followed lengthy telephone discussions by representatives of the two unions and the company and involved differences of opinion as to who would operate certain equipment at the Alloys Plant.

According to reports, Mr. Pierce, a former Florentine, made certain recommendations resulting in a temporary truce, the final telephone discussion taking place at 1:45 on Wednesday morning between Birmingham and Sheffield unions and company representatives in Louisville and Sheffield, in which it was agreed that the equipment in question would be operated for the time being on alternate shifts by members of the two disputing unions claiming jurisdiction, this arrangement to be maintained until a final decision is worked out by top representatives of the two unions.

It was stated that pickets were removed following the discussions. Those participating in the negotiations were: Donald Hipp, manager of Alloys Division; Claude R. Mitchell, Tusculum, representative of the Aluminum Workers International Union; John B. Smith, president of the Tri-Cities Central Labor Union, and business agent of the IBEW Local 558.

Pickets were posted in front of the Alloys plant Tuesday afternoon as the Electrical Workers Union charged violation of Article 5 of their working agreement in assigning overhead cranes to aluminum workers. Electrical workers and other crafts honored the picket line but aluminum workers entered the plant for regular duty.

Mitchell maintained the matter had come before the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in regards to jurisdiction and it had been agreed at that time that each side would operate the cranes until the matter was settled. According to Mitchell, Pete McGavin, assistant to George Meany, AFL-CIO president, a committee was appointed last week to hand down a decision. He charged that Smith would not wait until the agreement or decision had been handed down.

Emergency Aid For Flood Losses Made Available

Loans To Be Obtained By Cloverdale Area Farmers From FHA

Farmers residing in the Cloverdale community and the farm area which drains into Cypress Creek have been made eligible for emergency farm loans through the Lauderdale Farmer's Home Administration to help them overcome losses suffered in a flash flood June 11.

Senators Lister Hill and John Sparkman and Congressman Bob Jones advised The Florence Herald Tuesday in a wire from Washington of the approval of the emergency aid.

Their wire follows: "Happy to advise that Department of Agriculture today approved emergency loans through Farmer's Home Administration for Lauderdale County. Loans may be obtained at low interest through County FHA office by farmers who have suffered from flood emergency of recent months."

Loans will be available until June 30, 1960, and farmers may apply at the Farmer's Home Administration office in the Co-op Building in Florence.

Top soil was washed away from the area around Cypress Creeks according to County Agent L. T. Wagon, who along with Cecil Mixon of the FHA office and other personnel, inspected the area.

Farmers vitally need funds to do work in re-claiming the land, for emergency feed to provide for livestock and to begin planning for next year's farm operations, according to Mr. Wagon.

40th Birthday Florence Legion Post Is Observed

Organization's History Is Given At Thursday's Meet; Committees Named

Florence-Lauderdale Post No. 11, American Legion, observed the fortieth anniversary of its founding at its meeting Thursday night at the Legion Home. Newly installed Post Commander Frank V. Potts directed the program which proved of intense interest and gave information long forgotten by many of the early members.

The American Legion, whose organization was completed in a special conference in St. Louis March 15-17, 1919 was slow in catching on in Alabama and it was not until early fall of that year that actual organization of a state-wide representation was effected. Florence Post No. 11 (then known as Post No. 1) was organized on Saturday, Sept. 20, 1919. Most veterans, fresh from service, were a bit wary of the Legion as they feared it might be just another military organization and many had had enough of military service. Finally, however, this fear was broken down and the local post was one of the first in the state that completed its organization.

Officers were elected and a representative from the post, R. T. Simpson, Jr., was named to represent the post at a meeting the following day in Birmingham of the State Department of the American Legion. The present Supreme Court Justice was named to the state executive committee as the representative of the local area and thus Florence Post No. 11 has the record of having been organized one day prior to the organization of the Department of Alabama.

After giving a run-down on the early history of the post, Harold May, a charter member of the post but not a signer of the charter, read the following account of the organization meeting which appeared in The Thursday, Sept. 25, 1919 issue of The Florence Herald: Post Of American Legion Organized In Florence (Continued on Page 2)

● A series of earthquakes so powerful they crumbled whole mountains struck West Yellowstone, Montana, Tuesday, burying campers alive and trapping other vacationers between landslides and vanished roads. Eighteen persons were reported killed. The three slides just west of Yellowstone National Park. Acres of rock and earth tumbled over camping areas with a terrifying roar and rush of air.

● Congressional associates quoted Rep. Frank Thompson (D-N.J.) Wednesday as reporting acid was thrown on him from a passing automobile Tuesday as he drove to his office. Rep. Stewart Udall (D-Ariz.), a close friend of Thompson's said there was an acid hole through Rep. Thompson's clothing and a burn on his arm about the size of a dime. Thompson was quoted as saying he threw up an arm when he saw the fluid being squirted at him from a syringe, and thereby protected his face.

● The Little Rock Board of Directors Tuesday aligned itself against the segregationist position after almost two years of unyielding neutrality in the integration struggle. The Board said it could find no basis for segregationist charges that police used brutality and violated a constitutional right of peaceful assembly when they squelched an anti-integration demonstration Wednesday at Central High School. The seven-member board said it felt officers acted legally to maintain order and protect life and property.

● Brig. Gen. John D. Sides has been appointed commander general of the 31st National Guard Division by Alabama Gov. John Patterson, ending a long wrangle over the job. Sides, who has been deputy division commander, was promoted to major general at the same time to take charge of the Dixie Division of Alabama and Mississippi troops.

● The Senate passed a new $1,050,000,000 housing bill after refusing to make any substantial concessions on the floor to President Eisenhower's objections Tuesday by a roll call vote of 71-24. The measure now goes to the House which reportedly will not be in a hurry to act on it. There seemed to be a good chance it would not reach the President's desk until near adjournment day. Both Senators Hill and Sparkman voted for the new housing bill.

Efforts Change Type Of Bonds Meets Failure

BULLETIN The Alabama State Senate passed the $304 million school appropriation bill by a unanimous 30-0 vote in action taken Wednesday. The bill is the largest in the history of the State of Alabama.

A Senate committee approved a $100 million bond issue for school construction late Tuesday, but opposition to the bill was expected on the Senate floor.

The bill may be amended to cut it from $100 million to $75 million, or less, change it from revenue bonds to general obligation bonds, thus forcing a vote of the people on the issue, abolish the matching feature of the bill.

As it now stands, some $28.5 million going to public schools would be distributed only if local bonds match state funds dollar for dollar.

The bond issue bill was approved Tuesday by the Senate Finance and Taxation committee by close margins.

There was an effort in the committee to change the issue from revenue to general obligation bonds. Since general obligation bonds are sold at a lower interest rate than revenue bonds, it was estimated that the state would save some $7.5 million by doing this.

Very Close Vote

The effort to change the type of bonds failed in committee by a very close vote. Senators from small counties tried to knock out the matching basis in committee, but without success. They said their counties would not be able to raise funds to match state funds and therefore would lose out on the school construction money. The issue money will be distributed like this under the bill as it now stands: $74 million for public schools, $23.5 million for colleges and universities, and $2.5 million for trade schools.

The $74 million to public schools would go: $250,000 in outright grants to each of the state's 67 counties; some $28.5 million to local boards on a teacher unit basis and some $28.5 million on a matching basis.

The Senate Finance and Taxation Committee approved the $304 million school appropriation bill Monday and the bill got its second reading in the Senate Tuesday. This means that the bill can be voted on in the Senate at once. The bond issue will probably come up for a vote Thursday.

The appropriation bill and the bond issue bill must be approved by the Senate before next Tuesday, when the regular legislative session is resumed. If they are not, legislative leaders of Gov. John Patterson would have to start all over again on their passage.

New Tax Bills Signed

Three tax bills raising an estimated $30 to $32 million a year in additional school revenue were signed into law by Gov. John Patterson. The governor put his signature on the sales tax bill knocking out most of the present exemptions in the law, a companion use tax measure doing the same for the use tax and a third bill raising the state tax on tobacco.

Racketeering Must Stop

Years ago Government made Big Business smaller by passing anti-monopoly laws. These laws, like the Sherman anti-trust law made big businesses stop gobbling up little businesses and thus protected the owners of little businesses. The Sherman anti-trust law did not make all big business small, it only placed curbs upon it so it could not monopolize a particular field. It and the other laws were not perfect laws but they kept down abuses by Big Business, protecting, not only the general public but the people who worked for and produced the profits for Big Business. Moreover the government taxed away excess profits and thus redistributed the wealth. America has prospered and grown strong because of these protective laws.

Today that same government has placed enormous power into the hands of labor through special laws and exemptions. Labor is now Big Labor. Today we see the same mistake in allowing a concentration of too much power. We see the Congress of the United States defied by arrogant leaders who have no more use for the rank and file members than they have for the government. Respectable leaders of organized labor are embarrassed but are continuing to put up vigorous opposition to the small but all-powerful racketeering element that has invaded the ranks. They, more than anyone else, are anxious to be rid of the hoodlums, racketeers and crooked politicians that have infiltrated the legitimate unions.

The President, in taking to the radio and television last week demonstrated the seriousness of the situation. He called for strong support to an anti-union law based on facts exposed during the last 2½ years by the McClellan Committee. Unions are the playthings of men like Hoffa and the unions as well as the public, are entitled to protection.

Neither Big Business nor Big Labor should ever grow bigger than Government. When this happens the law of the jungle will prevail.

Protect Your Investment

Today's successful farm is a valuable enterprise representing a considerable investment in buildings, equipment and land. It is subject to such hazards as wind, fire, hail or flood and if destroyed there are many things that could not be replaced even with adequate insurance coverage.

It is well for farm owners to take inventory of their farm investment such as machinery, outbuildings, feed and livestock and other equipment, as well as the farm house and its furnishings. This inventory should then be compared with the amount of insurance carried to see if it is adequate. If not the agent should be called and the insurance increased so that there is sufficient coverage. Often it will amount to only a very few more dollars per year and it could mean the difference in being able to substantially replace a valuable investment or sometimes sustaining an irrevocable loss.

The tragedy of a burned out farm dwelling is bad enough but if not insured, a family may never recover from such devastating loss. The chances of a nearby city's fire-fighting equipment reaching the scene in time to save a dwelling or other farm buildings are usually remote.

It is well to remember that fires start small and if discovered can be readily extinguished with a good brand of hand fire extinguisher or a bucket of sand placed in a handy location. If ordinary common sense is used the chances are there will be no fire, but there is no guarantee against it.

Once a dwelling or building is destroyed adequate insurance is the only way the loss may be minimized and the shock lessened.

North Alabama Fair Will Open Monday, Sept. 21

Silver Anniversary Of Annual Event To Have Many Special Features

The North Alabama State Fair, which will begin Monday, Sept. 21, for six days, at the fairgrounds in North Florence, will have the support of Shoals area industrial concerns through special blocks of admission tickets purchased for their employees to use on "Industrial Days" during the week of the Fair.

"Industrial Days" are set aside as a special tribute to the Shoals area's industrial enterprise and the contribution they make to the region's growing economy.

A number of firms have already reserved blocks of tickets and Fair officials expressed appreciation for the support.

Through purchase of these special admission tickets, Shoals industrial employees will be afforded an outstanding opportunity to view the many unusual exhibits and enjoyable entertainment featured at this, the Silver Anniversary edition of the North Alabama State Fair.

The facilities of the fair have been enlarged from time to time and in recent years the remodeling of the large exhibit halls and the additions to the agricultural department have made it possible to present the finest farmers' fair in this section of the country. It ranks second only to the Alabama State Fair at Birmingham.

Conference Held At Belle Mina

Importance Of Land Productivity Stressed At Tuesday Session

Keeping land in production is a major challenge facing agriculture in the future. To do this production must be profitable to farmers. Otherwise they will leave the land and let it revert to less intensive uses.

These thoughts were brought to the attention of fertilizer industry personnel attending the Tuesday afternoon session of the 1959 Fertilizer Conference held at the Tennessee Valley Substation, Belle Mina, by a researcher of the API Agricultural Experiment Station, Dr. J. T. Cope, Jr., associate agronomist, said the fertilizer industry can help agriculture and itself by promoting effective utilization of its products. Although fertilization is one of the most important farm practices, Cope said, its use is tied in with all other management practices. Keeping all practices in harmony is essential for maximum profits, he declared.

Dr. Cope named land selection and preparation, crop selection, rotations, timing, time of planting, variety, seed treatment, spacing, weather, cultivation and weed control, insect and disease control, and harvesting for quality as some other ingredients going into production of farm crops. Since any one of these factors can limit production, he advised the industry representatives to sell the use of all desirable practices while promoting use of correct kinds and amounts of fertilizer.

Even though the smallest of the Tri-Cities Reserve Units this unit is one of the most active of its type and has several superior ratings to its credit. It works with all types of military postal operations. The unit is under the command of 1st Lt. Curtis Ikard.

well as handling their other products here is very gratifying to all," was the comment of Ben Craig, Florence Chamber president.

C. H. Jackson, Manager of the Chamber, revealed that the campaign to locate St. Croix here began several months ago when the Chamber was asked by a Wisconsin law firm to furnish certain information on Florence "to be used by one of our clients."

After several weeks and further correspondence, it became clear that Florence was being actively considered for this new development and we were most pleased when Mr. Osten and James Ruhl, Attorney for St. Croix, came to Florence in July for several days of inspection and negotiation. Naturally, we are still more pleased at the result.

Chamber officials expressed appreciation for the assistance of North Alabama Associates, whose representative in the Tri-Cities area compiled maps and economic studies for use by the Flambeau Corporation representatives.

Earnings Shown By Flagg-Utica

Shipments In Excess Of Same Period in '58; Dividend Due Oct. 1

Shipments for the first 28 weeks in 1959 of the Flagg-Utica Corporation and Subsidiary have exceeded those of last year for the same period by $1,661,552 (44.43%) and the corporation earned $292,116 net after all taxes, or 52 cents per share.

These figures were announced by J. T. Flagg, president. The surplus mill properties at Florence have been sold in a transaction in which the corporation acquired a piece of property in part-payment.

At the annual meeting of stockholders held June 22, the elimination of the prior preferred stock from the authorized capital of the corporation was voted. Appropriate action has been taken to accomplish this so that the common stock is now the only equity in the corporation.

Common stock dividends of five cents per share have been paid for two quarters of this year and the directors have declared a dividend in like amount for payment Oct. 1.

Cotton was first used in England late in the 12th Century, primarily for candle wicks.

Stereo Sound On TV Cable Success

To Be Regular Sunday Presentation; Other Features Are Planned

"Greatest music we've ever heard in Muscle Shoals!"

"Magnificent sound!"

"Thoroughly enjoyed it!"

"Best thing we've ever heard!"

Bill Mays, the general manager of Muscle Shoals TV Cable Corporation, feels his company turned a pretty profit when it conducted a three-hour long experiment in stereophonic sound last Sunday, with the cooperation of Radio Station WYNA—even though "Stereo Sunday" wasn't a commercial venture, by conventional standards.

Mays is counting his returns in telephone calls, several hundred of them he says he's received from listeners who enjoyed—and then some—the opportunity to hear what the cable calls "living sound" in their living rooms.

"Stereo Sunday" also appears to have demonstrated, once and for all, how wrong it is to assume that "good" music—including so-called "serious" music—doesn't have a large following in Muscle Shoals.

Now to be a regular Sunday afternoon presentation of Muscle Shoals TV Cable Corporation and WYNA, the program was broadcast simultaneously on the radio station's frequency and on television Channel 5, a channel now in use but soon to be utilized as a "picture" channel by the cable.

Stereophonic recordings were played, and listeners were instructed beforehand how to position their sets—radio on one side of the room, and TV set on the other—so as to hear the music just about as "live" listeners would hear it in a concert hall or nightclub.

Channel 5 on the cable now has become a hi-fi music channel altogether. Music from the WYNA studios is piped into it all day, and during the night, too. The cable company manager emphasized that hi-fi and stereophonic music won't come to an end when a television picture—possibly that of Channel 10, educational TV—is put on Channel 5 later this year.

With the addition of hi-fi music on Channel 5, the cable currently is distributing signals on five channels. WYNA-TV was added last Monday, and is Channel 3 on the cable. Channel 2 is still WAPI-TV Birmingham (NBC); Channel 4 is WSIX-TV, Nashville (ABC); and Channel 6 is WBRC-TV, Birmingham (CBS).

"We think we've arrived at a pretty well-rounded lineup of entertainment," said Mays. "Cable subscribers presently have access to programs of all three national television networks, local television shows of WOWL-TV, and closed-circuit music, at no extra cost. I'm happy to be able to say we aren't stopping here—that there's much more to come."

Mays expressed appreciation for making the Sunday afternoon stereophonic music broadcasts possible to James A. Hall, Elus Whitehead, and Lynn McMoran, of WYNA; and to the engineering and technical staffs of Southern Bell.

Charles H. Young, Manager of Chemical Engineering, TVA, Wilson Dam, recently received the U. S. Army's Patriotic Civilian Service Award.

The official citation accompanying the Certificate of Appreciation which was signed by Wilbur M. Brucker, secretary of the Army, and Major General Marshall Stubbs, Chief Chemical Officer, U. S. Army, read as follows:

"The Chief Chemical Officer takes pride in presenting the Certificate of Appreciation on behalf of the Secretary of the Army to Charles H. Young, Manager of Chemical Engineering, Tennessee Valley Authority, for services as set forth in the following citation:

Mr. Charles H. Young for exceptional patriotic civilian service contributing to the mission of United States Army Chemical Corps Phosphate Development Works, a vital National Defense installation jointly operated by the U. S. Army Chemical Corps and Tennessee Valley Authority's Office of Chemical Engineering at Muscle Shoals, Alabama. Mr. Young's keen personal interest in the work of the Corps and the efforts he directed toward the solution of major PDW problems were salient factors in the installation's achievements. His personal as well as official support of the Commanding Officer and of the installation as a whole richly deserve this expression of appreciation by the Department of the Army.

Lt. Col. Serge Tonetti, Commanding Officer, U. S. Army Chemical Corps Phosphate Development Works, made the presentation. Col. Tonetti will be transferred to a new classified U. S. Army Chemical which will be constructed at Newport, Ind. He and his family plan to leave this area on Aug. 26.

th, according to Dr. Burton. The board got its authority from Sub Section 1 of Section 8 of Title 22, of the 1940 Code of Alabama.

In addition to polio immunizations, it will also be mandatory in the future for children to be vaccinated against smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Several states have already made it a state law for the polio immunizations to be taken before children enter school, Dr. Burton advised.

Parents are urged to keep a record of their children's transfer as well as for regular registration.

Pupil Population Changes Reported In County Schools

Board Of Education Working Constantly To Handle This Situation

There has been a considerable change in the pupil population of some Lauderdale County schools within the past 10 years. This information is taken from the annual report to the State Department of Education of the number of pupils on rolls at the close of the last month in 1949 and 1959.

As a result of this change, the Lauderdale County Board of education has constantly had to meet crises created by loss of personnel, lack of funds and buildings.

The following schools have shown the following increase in pupil population between 1949-59:

Rogers—Elementary, 156 more; High School, 368 more; total, 524.

Central—Elementary, 53 more; High School, 204; total, 257.

Wilson—Elementary, 164 more; Underwood—Elementary, 144 more.

Rogersville—high School, 94 more.

Waterloo—high School, 63 more; Killen—Elementary, 103 more; Junior High, 33 more; total, 136.

Oakland—Elementary, 21 more; Junior High, 4 more.

Grassy—Elementary, 11 more.

Elgin Cross Roads—Elementary, 1 more.

Palestine—Elementary, 1 more.

The following schools have shown a decrease in the same period as above:

Anderson—Elementary, 127 less; Junior High, 32 less; total, 159 less.

Threeets—Elementary, 66 less.

Springfield—Elementary, 53 less.

Waterloo—Elementary, 144 less.

Lexington—Elementary, 16 less.

High School, 28 less; total 44 less.

Rhodesville—Elementary, 41 less.

Powell—Elementary, 31 less.

Ebenezer—Elementary, 30 less.

McGee—Elementary—26 less.

Whitehead—Elementary, 15 less.

Sweetgum—Elementary, 12 less.

Cloverdale—Elementary, 12 less; Junior High, 16 less; total 28 less.

It is not possible to show the increase and decrease in pupil population for the past 10 year period. Within this period six one-teacher Negro schools have been consolidated and one 12 grade school has been established for each area of the county, West End and East End. Before the establishment of these schools, most senior high students were transported to the Florence city high school during part of this 10 year period.

There has been a decrease of 111 pupils enrolled in Negro county schools within the past 10 years.

Plan To Conclude C of C Fund Drive

Time Element Important As Present Building Must Be Vacated By Feb. 1

A meeting will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce building of the building committee to map plans for bringing the campaign for funds to a successful conclusion as quickly as possible.

To date, 138 members have pledged a total of $8,362.00, while only three who have responded, have refused. Twenty-one have pledged amounts exceeding the quota. The amount pledged added to the surplus of $8,000 makes a total of $16,362.00.

The time element is important in view of the fact that the present Chamber offices must be abandoned by Feb. 1, 1960 to make room for a new business development on that and adjoining property.

The building committee today will discuss plans for carrying on the campaign through personal solicitation of all members who have not responded so far in order to finish the campaign and get construction under way.

Members of the building committee are T. M. Rogers, Jr., chairman; Luther H. Baker, Marshall Smith, Frank Crow, Fred Moore, Horace Springer, and William F. Baker.

AIRBORNE GROUND VEHICLE—"Levacar" is the name of the strange-looking device being examined by House space committee chairman, Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.), in Washington. One of several vehicles-of-the-future shown in model form to the space committee members, it rides on a thin cushion of air instead of conventional wheels. Predicted top speed: 500 m.p.h. Hose attached to vehicle at extreme left supplies compressed air to the working model. Self-contained blowers would do the job in the actual machine.

Under present laws, State Revenue Commissioner Harry Haden has the power to do this and he has said he will do it. He can overrule local tax assessors. He has set up an arbitrary increase for every county in Alabama. If local assessors and local Boards of Equalization do not do his bidding, he has the power to overrule decisions of these Boards and make the assessment anything he pleases.

Do you want the State Commissioner of Revenue to overrule your local Tax Assessor and Board of Equalization in order to squeeze more money out of you? Do you want your taxes to go to an all-time high? Do you want your property to be assessed on its replacement value? Do you want the assessment on your property to be based on present inflated values that will catch you with no way to pay taxes should a depression come with its disastrous deflation? Would you want your property to be sold for taxes because you were unable to pay exorbitant taxes?

DO YOU WANT NEW INDUSTRY TO BE SCARED AWAY FROM ALABAMA BECAUSE OF HIGHER TAXES?

OR—Do you want to keep the tax assessment powers in your own county where you can talk in a friendly manner with a Board of Equalization you know, with men who understand local problems, with men who are experts on judging local property values?

If you want assessments to be made by your county assessor and the local Board of Equalization, then ask your State Senators to vote for Senate Bills # 62 and 63 and your House Members to vote for House Bills #19 and 20. These bills take away from the State Revenue Commissioner the power to overrule property assessments made by County Boards of Equalization. There will be a committee hearing in Montgomery on these Bills August 27th. Let your State Legislators know that you are for these bills.

Telephone Talk

FORREST W. BRICE
 Your Telephone Manager

THE CALENDAR tells me there's a holiday ahead—the Labor Day weekend. And this makes me think of two things—a good time (which I'm sure we're all planning) and safety.

SAFETY ON THE HIGHWAY will be especially important this year. There are more cars on the roads today than ever before in history—and you can count on it that most of them will be out over Labor Day. So, take care and drive carefully. You'll have a happier holiday if you do.

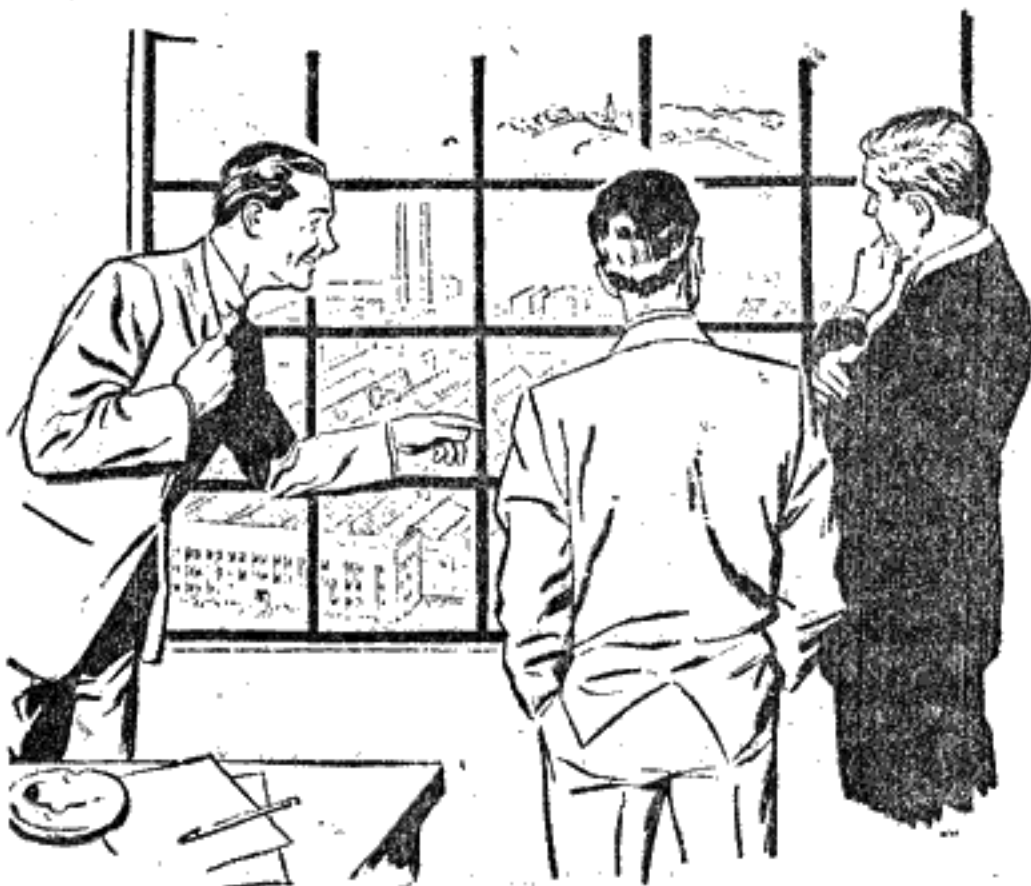

AND ON THE LIGHTER SIDE of safety and warning, if you're going away for Labor Day, "play it safe" and "warn" folks of your arrival. A Long Distance call will reserve accommodations, help you plan your visit with out-of-town friends and family. Remember when calling Long Distance, it's cheaper to call station-to-station—faster when you know the number.

THE REASON I'm so safety conscious is because we at the telephone company are continually aware of safety's importance—especially on the job. Because of this, we regularly conduct classes in safety and first aid. This knowledge helps protect us at work, and many times it's enabled us to help others in emergencies—even save lives. That's why I never underestimate the rules of safety, and I hope you won't either.

OUR RENTAL PLAN

Prior to reporting to his present post, Cdr. Matthews was commanding officer of the destroyer Boxer, the attack cargo ship Seminole, and various minesweepers and minelayers. A graduate of the Navy General Line School, Newport, R. I., Sdr. Matthews has also served in various instructor capacities with Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps units.

While commanding the destroyer Boxer, during the Quemoy crisis, Cdr. Matthews and his ship were on continuous patrol in the Formosa Strait for 41 days.

A high school athletic coach for four years before entering the Navy, he is a graduate of Florence State College. He resides with his wife, the former Helen Genevieve

Alabama Timber Production High

It's a commonly known fact that Alabama rates high in the timber industry, but do you know exactly how high?

According to API Extension Forester Ike Martin, about 64 percent or 20 million acres of Alabama's total land is in trees. And of this number, farmers and other small landowners control nearly 60 percent. In fact, only two counties in the state, Limestone and Madison, have two-thirds of their land cleared.

Martin further explained that all except 11 counties in Alabama have at least one-half of their area in woodland. You may be surprised to know that Jefferson County, which is our most highly industrialized area, is 70 percent forested. In the South and West Alabama counties of Bibb, Chocoma, Clarke, Conecuh, Escambia, Tuscaloosa, and Washington, forests cover four-fifths, or 80 percent, of the total land.

The specialist also mentioned some interesting facts about Alabama's timber enterprise. For example, Martin pointed out that there are nearly seven acres of woodland for each man, woman, and child in the state. As for our lumber production, each year enough lumber is sawed to pave Birmingham's Third Avenue with wood six inches thick. And this wooden road would begin at Twentieth Street in Birmingham and extend to Tulsa, Oklahoma.

The forester added that our annual pulpwood production, which is one of Alabama's main industries, could fill a string of pulpwood cars from Montgomery to Montreal, Canada.

Objective of the National Cotton Council is increased consumption of cotton, cottonseed and their products. Cotton was grown commercially in South Carolina in 1666, and in Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana in 1728.

It was his first trip to Washington. He was only six. Everything had to be analyzed by the standards of a first-grader!

Tell him it's the Washington Monument... he still thinks of it as "The Pencil." Time for his parents to learn a lesson:

Suppose he had never seen a pencil. What would it have meant to him then? Probably nothing!

A child needs standards by which to measure all he encounters. The standards may be simple—but he uses them. With them he associates the things he wants to remember.

The Church provides your child with simple religious standards. He still needs your help to grasp the truth he must master. But the standards you and he learn at Church are the foundation of his character... the inspiration of your own. In his terms: the pencil with which tomorrow is written.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Chiggers, Ticks Offer Problem

Most homeowners are faced with the problem of controlling chiggers and ticks during this season of the year.

The presence of these pests in and around homes and in recreation areas is not only a nuisance, but their attacks are often the primary cause for infectious wounds. According to API Extension Survey Entomologist Walter Grimes, it's not necessary to tolerate these pests any longer. Practical and safe insecticidal applications are now available for use in controlling them.

The entomologist recommends controlling chiggers by thoroughly dusting infested areas with 20 per cent toxaphene, one per cent lindane, or 10 per cent chlordane. Ticks can be controlled by dusting infested areas with five per cent DDT. If it is necessary to control ticks in the home, Grimes advises the use of a household spray that contains five per cent DDT.

If your pets have access to the house, it is essential that all ticks be removed from them to prevent reinfestation in the home. After the ticks have been removed, the entomologist recommends treating the pets with one per cent rotenone or five per cent malathion. Another effective method is washing pets in a mixture containing one ounce of 57 per cent emulsifiable malathion in one gallon of water.

Agricultural Reminders

Assistant County Agent

In checking over Lauderdale County we find several fields of cotton which may need to be defoliated a little later in the season. The exact time to defoliate needs to be determined by the

Care Machinery Pays Good Profit

The current trend is to "think big" when it comes to farm machinery. But is this always the best way to look at it?

"Bigger machinery isn't always the best answer," says API Extension Engineer J. T. Gaillard. "In many cases heavy machinery you may have come closer to the solution. Since the machinery used in operating a farm these days represents a substantial investment, it's particularly important to manage this investment well."

According to the engineer, the best size for any farm machine is the one which gives the greatest return over the cost of buying, operating, and maintenance. This does not mean the size which appears to give the maximum total return on the surface. Also, the capacity of a farm machine for doing work does not increase in direct proportion to its size. Often you can gain more by streamlining the method of operating a machine than you can by getting a larger one.

"Good care and maintenance are important in extending the useful life of farm machinery," points out Gaillard. "This means lowering the annual depreciation and, therefore, the costs of your machinery." A convenient way to think of cost is on a yearly basis—all of the money required to own, operate, and maintain the machine for one year. And the most important of these yearly costs is depreciation. Other so-called "hidden" costs may include taxes, insurance, and housing. Some of these costs vary with size.

If a machine is too large, says the engineer, you feel it through the price you pay. But labor cost is usually higher for a small machine than a large one. Therefore, on the basis of cost alone, it's most desirable to own a machine near the minimum-cost size.

Insecticides Stop Mole Damage

The use of insecticides to control white grubs and other small animals that provide food for ground moles may be as effective as killing the moles themselves.

There are several long lasting soil insecticides that will kill these animals and deprive the mole of his favorite food. API Extension Entomologist W. A. Ruffin says that the ground mole's diet consists almost entirely of animal matter in the soil.

Since moles dig constantly for food, they expose roots, raise unsightly ridges about plants and through lawns, and lift young plants. Mice may frequently take over the mole's tunnel and do considerable damage.

White grubs are a favorite food of the mole, and Ruffin recommends controlling them with two pounds of aldrin, heptachlor, or dieldrin or four pounds of chlordane. These may be applied as sprays, granules, or dusts or in fertilizer. Ruffin adds that the treatments are effective for three to five years.

According to Ruffin, don't expect an immediate reduction of moles after treatment. To be really effective, treat an area larger than the lawn or area that needs protection.

individual farmer. A dust containing Calcium Cyanamide is the most satisfactory material for general use in this area when dew is present. Spray materials work best on drought-stressed cotton or during extremely dry weather when dew does not occur daily. Follow directions of the manufacturer when using defoliants.

Removal of leaves before harvest has the following advantages:

1. In rank growth it reduces loss from boll rot.
2. Boll weevils and other insects may leave the field.
3. It prevents heavy aphid (plant lice) population which may stain cotton and reduce yield.
4. Bolls will open earlier.
5. Loss of yield and quality caused by excessive rain may be reduced or prevented.
6. Dry-leaf stain is reduced, this raising the grade.

Handpickers prefer defoliated cotton because it picks easier, and they can get started in the morning. Generally, defoliation also means more efficient use of machines, if cotton is harvested with mechanical pickers.

Use Place Mats For Convenience

One of the most popular and convenient types of table coverings are place mats.

These save time, energy, and money for the busy homemaker and can be used for almost every occasion, states API Extension Home Furnishing Specialist Alice Peavy. Among the wide variety of materials from which you can choose are plastic, cork, linen, lace, rayon, cotton, and homespun fiber. And since place mats come in a wide range of prices, it is often less expensive to buy the material and make them.

The specialist points out that sources for linen and cotton materials. To make fringed place mats and matching or contrasting napkins, use a single row of machine stitching one inch from the edge to provide a stay finish. Then, pull out the threads for the one-inch fringed border.

To make mats with a bright border, burlap, monks cloth, and coarse woven materials may have threads pulled and bright colored yarns drawn through to replace them. To make fringed place mats, hand-worked monograms take more time and patience but always add a touch of elegance. The monograms may be deeper or lighter than the color of the cloth, but should harmonize with the material in design and color.

For outdoor parties, the specialist suggests a striped decorative fabric with solid colored napkins picking up a key hue. A leaf or palm tree applique repeating a second stripe makes an interesting color scheme. Six mats can be made from three-fourths yard of 52-inch striped material. Three-fourths yard of 36-inch solid color material will make the napkins.

Flea Beetles Are Causing Damage To Sweet Potatoes

Damage from flea beetles may cause sweet potatoes to look like they have been shot with fine pellets.

During some seasons sweet potatoes are covered with surface pits and pinholes, reports API Extension Entomologist Jerry Ruffin. Actually, he says, this type of injury is rather new and the cause was unknown until a few years ago. Observations and tests conducted during the growing season showed that the larvae of the elongate flea beetle — tiny, long worm — caused the injury.

The specialist points out that the Latin name for the beetle is Systena elongata, and it is from one-eighth to three-sixteenths of an inch long with two narrow white stripes on its back. The larvae do not remain in the potato after feeding, but return to the soil.

The larvae, or worms, cause black tunnels that are found by cutting open a sweet potato. According to Ruffin, these holes make the appearance of the potatoes unsightly, and they are less marketable if there are many. Also, storage rot seems to begin more often around feeding punctures than in the sound areas of the potato.

The adult beetles lay their eggs on weeds in the early spring, explains the entomologist. Then the larvae mature late in May and the adults appear in early June. These lay their eggs in the soil where larvae may be found under the potatoes during August and early September. And Ruffin adds that sweet potato farmers can expect more damage during summers of heavy rainfall.

Soil insecticides are being used to control the larvae while clean cultivation will partly control the beetles. Experiments are now underway for testing heptachlor and dieldrin on these pests, says Ruffin.

Selective Service is one of America's oldest institutions — traced back to Colonial times, when the early settlers brought over the English militia system, founded on the principal that every able-bodied citizen was obligated to keep himself armed and ready to fight the common foe.

Prevent Gullies From Forming

Proper use of the land can prevent gullies from forming.

API Extension Engineer Lawrence Ennis points out that gullies are easier to prevent than control. When they have formed, it takes a lot of work and time to apply control measures. So be sure not to overgraze pastures or plow and cultivate up and down the slope of the land.

To control the gully, the specialist advises eliminating the flow of water in the gully as the first objective. One way to accomplish this is to construct diversion terraces at the head of the ravine to divert the water. Another way to keep excess water away is by terracing and running contour furrows on the land.

A series of dams made of rubble or rock may help to stabilize the amount of erosion occurring during periods of excessive runoff. This can be very effective if the gully is not too large, explains Ennis. Another effective stabilization is the planting of trees and shrubs. When severe gullies have been treated, fence them to keep out livestock and give the vegetation a chance to grow.

"There are only a few of the many control measures which can be used," points out Ennis. If you have a gully problem on your farm, he advises asking your county Extension Service agent or the local Soil Conservation Service technician for help. Also, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and the Farmers Home Administration are other agencies which provide aid.
