The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

● The story is told of the visit of a local father to the homecoming festivities of his Alma Mater, where his son was in attendance. One of the features of the occasion was the roving reporter who took pictures of the students and their parents and obtained a brief statement for the school paper. As this father and son posed for their picture, the photographer suggested that the son move closer to his father, then added "and place your arm around his shoulder." "I think it would be more appropriate," said the father, "if he stood with his hand in my pocket."

● TV announcers: "We have just received a bulletin of a catastrophe, the like of which has never been known — but first a word from our sponsor."

● Roadblocks have been set up throughout the western part of Virginia in an effort to apprehend a robber who was reported as driving like mad in an attempt to evade lawmen. Every law enforcement agency in the area was alerted. One conscientious sheriff decided to stop every car on the road and cross-examine its occupants. He had hardly gotten squared-away when a big, black limousine approached. He stopped the car and seated in the back seat was a dowager of some renown in that area. "By what authority do you presume to stop this car?" she demanded angrily. The sheriff took his badge out of his pocket to show the lady — and turned a sickly green. The badge was a tin affair marked: "Space Ship Patrol." His nine-year-old son had switched badges with his dad.

● A smile is nothing more than a curve that sets a lot of things straight.

● A sidewalk superintendent was watching the erection of steel girders in a tall downtown building. His gaze centered on a man walking nonchalantly on a beam some eight or ten stories high. As it was at the end of the work day, he waited as this man reached the sidewalk. "How can you do it? I was amazed at your calmness up there as pneumatic hammers filled the air with noise and compressors shook the entire structures. How did you happen to get into such nerve-shattering work?" he asked. "Well," said the workman, "I used to drive a school bus, but my nerves gave out."

● You know winter is here when the final payment on the lawn mower is due.

● A recent tourist to the western states reports that he chanced upon an old Indian standing on top of a hill overlooking a vast and fertile valley. Beside him stood his young grandson. Said the old Indian: "Some day, my son, all this land will belong to the Indians again. Paleface all go to the moon."

● Of course money can't buy everything. Take poverty, for example.

● Again — and for the umpteenth time — the man was brought before the judge charged with shoplifting. The judge again read him the riot act and sentenced him to 14 days in jail. The prisoner stood around for a minute, first on one foot and then the other, until finally his honor asked him if there was something he wanted to say. "Yes, Judge," he said, "I had hoped that you would have given me a six-months sentence, to see me through the winter."

First National Near End Of Expansion Program

Appreciation Expressed By Officers To Crews For Work On Facility

Completion of the Court Street side of the new expanded main office of the First National Bank, was marked Monday by both bank officials and construction workers as the latter were served coffee and doughnuts at a morning break. Officers of the bank expressed appreciation to the crews for the work that has enabled the removal of barricades from Court Street at this time to facilitate heavy fall business throughout the community. The meeting was held in the original banking house which is being remodeled to become a part of the new facility. Completion of the entire project within the next few weeks is planned.

Steel for the new construction was raised in November 1958 on the site of the old Majestic Theatre which formerly adjoined the bank and which was demolished to permit the expansion. Construction has progressed continuously from that time without interruption in bank operations. The move to the new portion of the building was made in July.

Expanding its Court Street frontage from 40 to 75 feet, the bank presents a modern facade of aluminum, glass and crab orchard stone with working space being more than tripled.

In speaking to the group, W. H. Mitchell, bank president, pointed to the seventy-one year history of the bank as a local institution and thanked the workmen for their part in providing ample space to continue and enlarge the bank's services to the community.

Those in attendance were James Blackstock, Lester Butler, Henry Clemmons, Earl Ellis, M. A. Hassel-vander, Coy Newbern, Earl Owens, Bernard Peters, Aaron Smith, C. E. Warhurst, Lawrence Weddington, T. C. Woods, W. K. Zehner, of Florence; Earl Brand, Carter Brand of Cullman; Lowell Clark of

Strikers Ordered Back To Mills By U.S. Court Order

High Tribunal Uphold Taft-Hartley Injunction Ending 116-Day Strike

BULLETIN
Following a court ordered end of the 116-day nationwide steel strike, steel mills throughout the country hummed with activity Wednesday as the giant industry stepped up operations. It was reported that more than 50 per cent of the basic steel industry's 500,000 workers were back on the job, with the rest expected to be back at work by the weekend.

As a result of the Supreme Court decision which, by a vote of 8-1 upheld the back-to-work injunction in the 116-day-old steel strike, 500,000 steelworkers who quit work July 15 must return to the mills for 80 days under emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, dispatched telegrams last week saying, "The Supreme Court has spoken. As law-abiding citizens, Steelworkers Union, of course, will comply with the court's judgment."

The union may, after the 80-day cooling off period, call another strike. But before that can be done, workers employed by each of the major steel companies will vote by secret ballot on whether to accept or reject management's latest offer.

Military Parade And Address Mark Armed Forces Day

Congressman Bob Jones Speaker; Number Units Appear In Celebration

Armed Forces or Veterans Day, formerly Armistice Day, was appropriately observed Wednesday when a military parade and a patriotic address by the Eighth District's Congressman Robert (Bob) Jones featured the event. Arrangements for the observance was made by an American Legion committee headed by Sheriff Roy L. Call.

The parade, which formed on North Court Street and arrived at the intersection of Tennessee Street a few moments before the hour of 11 a.m., was composed of the Florence State R.O.T.C. units, the R.O.T.C. band, the Lionettes, the Kadets of America unit, National Guard units and a number of military vehicles; Military Police Unit, a Nike Hercules missile from Redstone Arsenal and representative of the American Legion, V. F. W. and V. F. W. Auxiliary.

Promptly at 11 o'clock, the national anthem was played by the band and a bugler of the R.O.T.C. unit sounded taps.

Patriotic Address
Immediately thereafter Congressman Jones was introduced by Harold S. May and he delivered a most inspiring address.

Mr. Jones' remarks, in full, follow:

"Today, we celebrate Veterans Day here in Florence. We have assembled to pay homage and respect to our veterans of all wars. "At 11 o'clock this morning forty-one years ago, an armistice was signed on the battle fields of France bringing an end to the blood bath that had swept across Europe and on the high seas during the four years of World War I. We thought and, indeed, fervently hoped that this armistice would serve to end all wars.

"The hand of the tyrant and the oppressor had been stayed. Millions of lives had been sacrificed that freedom and democracy might live and reign undimmed in our midst.

"Little more than two decades went by before the tyrant's torch was again aflame in the tinder box of Europe and war set in once more around the world. We suddenly woke up to find ourselves in the midst of World War II. Pearl Harbor struck us like a bolt out of the blue.

"Again, we tightened our belts, flexed our sinews and put our hand to the wheel of winning another titanic struggle in order that freedom and the democratic way of life might be preserved and handed down unharmed.

"Millions of lives and countless treasure were again spent that mankind might continue to enjoy and secure for his children the blessing of liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"On September 2, 1945, an armistice was signed aboard the Battleship Missouri, in Tokyo Bay, ending the holocaust of World War II. And, again we thought we had made the world safer for the democratic way of life.

"Hardly had five more years elapsed before the Communist oppressor began to sweep through the world.

"The United States, after the 80-day cooling off period, call another strike. But before that can be done, workers employed by each of the major steel companies will vote by secret ballot on whether to accept or reject management's latest offer.

President Eisenhower, who was arrested in Newark on May 22 when the diamond owned by Mrs. Vera Krupp of Las Vegas was recovered.

Reves has not been tried on the Lexington Bank robbery, but when the case comes up it is scheduled in Federal District Court in Florence. He entered the bank's safety deposit vault area, rifled through a large number of safe deposit boxes and also made his getaway with some $1,200 in cash, property of the Bank.

History Made In Navigation On Tennessee As Lock Is Dedicated

THE RIBBONS ARE CUT—The mayors of the four cities at Muscle Shoals are shown on the deck of the Stanton K. Smith as they cut the ribbons to clusters of balloons as the mark of officially opening the new Wilson Dam lock to navigation. From left, as the four officials stand together, are Mayor E. F. Late News

● The Colbert County League for Legal Control Tuesday filed petitions carrying 2,033 names of voters requesting an election on the legal sale and distribution of alcoholic beverages. The petitions were filed at 2 p.m. Tuesday and at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday. Mrs. J. H. (Jimmie) Thompkins, Judge of Probate, announced that the election had been set for Saturday, December 12.

● The Federal Communications Commission, in its first step toward a possible crackdown on fixed television quiz shows, offensive commercials and other broadcast practices "contrary to the public interest," announced Tuesday a broad new inquiry to determine just what power it has in the field of radio and television programming. It said the study also might lead to proposals for new legislation by Congress. Members of the seven-man commission disagree on the authority granted by present law.

● Officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers Tuesday agreed to an "interim settlement" of the 115-day-old strike at Birmingham's Tennessee Coal and Iron Division of U.S. Steel. Immediately after the agreement was reached, TCI President Arthur V. Wiechel said company employees would be "called to work as promptly as needed." Agreement came after a three-hour session in the office of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Board.

● Gov. John Patterson said Tuesday that he will use his police powers to close a Huntsville school if the Federal Government integrates it. He said at a press conference in Huntsville, "If they integrate a school, there will be violence. Then it ceases to be a school problem . . . and becomes a question of law enforcement." A statement from the U.S. Justice Dept. in Washington saying that efforts would be made to integrate a Huntsville School sent both the Huntsville School Board and the Huntsville City Council into special session Tuesday.

Pair Admit Part Recent Robberies

Kenneth Eugene Crosswhite, 24, 522 Livingston Avenue, Florence, and Raymond Lee Nelson, 22, 519 Livingston, Florence, admitted their parts in four separate burglaries, three at Muscle Shoals Life Insurance Company, after being captured by Florence Police officers Lt. Grady Curtis and Dredland McGee at the life insurance company on the new four-lane highway during early hours Sunday.

The officers noticed a broken window at the insurance company as they patrolled the highway. A short while later, the officers, assisted by Capt. Robert Anderson, arrested Crosswhite and Nelson.

After being questioned for 2½ hours by Detectives Owen King and Earl Romine, the men admitted entering the life insurance building on August 4, September 14, and again this time.

Small Loan Act Called 'Landmark'—Patterson Signed Into Law This Week Bill Provides Strict Supervision Of Rates

Passage of a new "Alabama Small Loan Act" climaxed an historic state legislative session which Gov. John Patterson praised this week as bringing about "more accomplishment than probably any other session in recent history."

The Legislature wound up its 1919 biennial session today (Thursday).

Gov. Patterson lauded the state legislators for approving history-making programs for highway construction, schools and colleges, old age pensioners and mental health institutions as well as enacting the new small loan act. "It has been a momentous year for the people of Alabama," the governor said. Signed into law this week, the new loan act provides effective regulation and supervision on all loan transactions up to $300. The governor called it "as strict as any law in the nation."

The act prescribes conditions under which loans may be made and sets fixed interest rates. It makes violation a criminal offense and

Visiting Notables See Completion Of Great Project

One of the most significant events in the history of the Tennessee Valley took place on Tuesday morning when the world's highest single lift lock was dedicated and formally opened at Wilson Dam. Completion of the $35,000,000 project by the TVA ended a serious river bottleneck on the Tennessee.

Following the invocation by Dr. D. W. Hollingsworth, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church in Florence, Mayor C. L. Beard of Sheffield, chairman of the welcoming committee, and Governor John M. Patterson, welcomed the visiting notables and those present after which Senator Lister Hill introduced the guest of honor, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Laurence B. Robbins.

Robbins dedicated the lock standing in the pilot house of the towboat.

A crowd estimated at between 2,000 and 3,000 people stood on and about the huge lock, the size of a football field, as a towboat, piloted by honorary pilot Captain Conway Graden, entered the lock with loaded barges and was raised to the maximum level. The lower lock gates were opened by TVA Director A. R. Jones.

Speaking from the pilot house of the towboat, Mr. Robbins delivered the address dedicating the lock, telling those present that the knowhow being developed in the Tennessee Valley is helping to promote peace in other parts of the world.

"The dissemination of knowledge," Robbins said, "has profound significance for the future peace of the world." He added that it is in the undeveloped areas that there "exists the greatest human want and the greatest drive toward armed conflict."

Robbins was introduced by Senator Lister Hill, co-author of the bill creating the Tennessee Valley Authority in 1933. Hill lauded the completion of the project, calling it "a perfect symbol of how wise government investment can stimulate and strengthen private enterprise."

The Senator recalled much of the early history of TVA and its struggles for existence. He said the last six-and-a-half years had been the hardest in TVA's existence, culminating in victory however when "we won our four year battle in Congress to obtain a self-financing law for TVA."

Keys to the lock were presented to Brig. Gen. Herbert D. Vogel to Brig. Gen. William W. Lapsley, division engineer, U. S. Army by Brig. Gen. Herbert D. Vogel, (U.S. Army ret.) chairman of the TVA board of directors. The Army engineers will operate the lock.

The upper lock gate was opened by Brooks Hays, TVA director. W. H. Mitchell, Jr., presided at a luncheon at 1 o'clock given the distinguished guests and members of the press at the new Florence Coliseum.

American Education Week

American Education Week has reached its 39th birthday. Because of its public interest in the schools of the nation is beginning to be felt in many ways but most of all in an awakening of the public to its responsibility to education . . . not only the three "R's" but an education for better citizenship, for the full development of the latent talent of the individual.

To accomplish this American Education Week has channeled great interest into constructive and informed support on the local level. Public support now includes more taxes for better schools, more classroom and dormitory space, better equipment and better paid teachers. Much remains to be done but the start has been made and the sponsors of American Education Week can view with pride the results of their endeavor. These sponsors, The National Education Association, The American Legion, the U. S. Office of Education and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, seek no reward save the betterment of education.

Today America is the bulwark of a free society threatened on all sides by nations that have commandeered the talent of the individual and put it to work for the state. We cannot do that and be true to our vision of individual liberty but we must realize that to fail to discover and develop our latent talent, to waste our potentially skilled people, is to threaten our capacity to survive in this era of nuclear weapons capable of wiping out whole nations in a matter of hours.

That is not the only reason however for cultivating the human potential of a free nation. It is important to strengthen the opportunities for the development of individual capacities and to widen and deepen the life purposes of each and every citizen. Through the achievement of such a goal a nation has far less to fear from outside aggression than a nation whose human resources are wasted.

We salute our educators and our teachers . . . education is their business and yours.

More Cleaning Needed

Much has been said in the press about the rigging of the quiz shows but too little perhaps has been said about the shows that are guilty of far greater violations of our social and cultural codes than all the quiz shows combined.

Killing, gambling and barroom brawling is a commonplace occurrence daily on the TV networks, yet killing, gambling and brawling are frowned upon by decent society in everyday life. It isn't that Westerns are bad for grownups but what effect do they have on the younger generations whose Christmas would be incomplete without a Matt Dillon, Paladin or Wyatt Earp holster and gun outfit? Gambling, drinking and barmaids, all part and parcel of the swaggering bravado of the old West not only come to life daily on TV screens but have become a must with the younger set.

This is progress. Nobody wants to return to the old days when kids went behind the barn to read Kit Carson or Buffalo Bill and when Tom Sawyer, Little Women, and the Horatio Alger books were favored by polite society as good reading. But with progress has come widespread juvenile delinquency and sadder perhaps than anything else, reading good books has become a lost art.

Children simply cannot be left to raise themselves on a diet of comic books and television. Unless they are also taught basic values that are found in good books and have the discipline needed to guide them and make them feel the security of a home, then we are surely pushing them down a dangerous and rocky road.

There are some excellent juvenile shows on television that do an excellent job of depicting family life. Educational TV is doing a splendid job with many informative and inspiring programs. TV is being used in various types of educational procedures. Its good uses are legion but in cleaning it up let us not over-emphasize a few rigged quiz shows and overlook the drivel.

TB Seal Sale To Open On Nov. 16

W. T. Watson Is Named Chairman Lauderdale County 1959 Campaign

W. T. Watson of Florence has been named Chairman of the 1959 Christmas Seal Sale in Lauderdale county.

L. O. Brackeen of Auburn, president of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association, in commenting on this appointment said:

"I congratulate Lauderdale county on the fact that Mr. Watson has agreed to lead the fight against Tuberculosis in that county.

"The Christmas Seal Sale will officially open November 16 when Seals will be delivered to practically every home throughout the state.

"Hundreds of volunteer TB association workers in Alabama are behind the move to broaden a program of TB prevention and control. They are determined to stop the steady rise of TB deaths and cases in our state. And volunteers like Mr. Watson and members of the Florence Citizens Club are the strength of the fight against tuberculosis in Alabama.

"The annual Christmas Seal Sale, independent of all other fund-raising campaigns, is the sole support of the TB association's year-round program.

"Every county in Alabama is being infected from active cases of TB. The number of known cases in Lauderdale county are 651 with 101 of those cases newly reported last year. Seven deaths occurred in Lauderdale county last year.

New FFA Members Are Initiated At Lauderdale High

By C. J. PENNINGTON Chapter Advisor

Twenty-two members of the agriculture I class at Lauderdale county High School were initiated into the FFA chapter of Future Farmers of America during the traditional Green Hand Ceremony Tuesday, November 3.

Attending the rank of Green Hand were: Larry Bailey, Larry Belue, Thomas Bradford, Roger Burch, Jerry Camp, Jimmy Embry, Robert D. Harrison, Joel Moody, Farrel Patterson, Richard Roberson, Earl Walton, Bobby Walton, David White, Lindon Michael, Johnny Snoddy, Eugene Ezell, Larry Lovell, James Mason, B. T. Mason, George Mason, Harold M. Connel, and Jessie Comer.

The Green Hand is the first step in the FFA ranking of members. After a year's study of vocational agriculture and development of a supervised farming program, the member is eligible for the degree of chapter farmer.

The next rank is State Farmer to which only two percent of the membership can be selected. At the top of the ladder is the American Farmer Degree which carries the most rigid requirements in such areas as establishment in farming and leadership abilities.

Mr. H. R. Culver, assistant state supervisor of vocational agriculture, was guest of the chapter during the Green Hand initiation ceremony. Mr. Cuiver encouraged the boys to aim at high goals in their work in vocational agriculture and FFA activities.

Teen-Agers Face Murder Rap

Eight white teen-aged boys were charged with murder Thursday in Corinth, Miss., for the "spite killing" of a Negro youth during a Halloween night escapade. All the boys were charged with murder in the shotgun death of William Roy Prather, 15, because under Mississippi law, "accessories before the fact are charged as though they were principals." The Negro boy was fatally wounded when he and another Negro boy were returning home from a Halloween party at the Negro high school.

Pilot Saves Expensive Jet

During its third powered flight last Thursday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., the X-15 was rocked by an explosion, but Test Pilot Scott Crossfield made a split-second decision to stay with the rocket ship and made a successful emergency landing. This action saved the $5 million experimental craft used in both previous powered flights, although some damage resulted.

Government Re-enters Lynch Case

The Federal Government re-entered the Mack Charles Parker case last week after a Mississippi county grand jury failed to return any indictments in the lynching of the young Negro truck driver last April 25. It was announced by Atty. Gen. Lawrence E. Walsh that the Justice Dept. would take the case before a Federal grand jury. Indictments will be sought from a grand jury of the U. S. Court for the Southern District of Mississippi.

Canal Zone Police Alerted

Regular Canal Zone police were ordered last Thursday to resume control duty of the border. This move was interpreted as a sign that anti-American tension was easing, but friction still remained. U. S. troops took over the border control duty after an outburst of violence last Tuesday and it was not immediately known whether the order meant the troops would be withdrawn.

Victor McLaglen Dies At 72

Victor McLaglen, 72, one of the movie's all-time rough-tough actors and Academy Award winner, died Saturday from heart disease at his home at Newport Beach, outside of Hollywood, after an illness of six weeks. English-born McLaglen won his Oscar in 1935 for one of the screen's classic performances as "The Informer," and had been fairly inactive in recent years.

Oil Fire Kills Captain and Crew

A wall of fire spread by a series of rumbling explosions engulfed the tanker Amoco Virginia at her ship channel berth Sunday, trapping and killing the captain, R. R. Combs, of Kill Devil Hill, N. C., and six crewmen and injuring 25 other persons. The fire broke out less than four hours before the American Oil Co.'s tanker was to sail for Albany, N. Y. The flames fed on 135,000 barrels of high test gasoline and fuel oil in the vessel's bunker and threatened the heart of the nation's biggest oil refining and petrochemical center for some 19 hours before firemen brought it under control.

Randolph Again Heads Alabama Farm Bureau

Fayette County Man Has Served State Organization Twenty Years

Delegates to the 38th annual Alabama Farm Bureau convention in Montgomery Nov. 1-4 re-elected Walter L. Randolph to his 20th year as president, called for support prices equal to 100 per cent of parity for crops controlled by acreage allotments, but re-affirmed strong opposition to any form of government controls and price supports for livestock.

"We resolve to continue our support of economic reward for farmers according to their productivity and initiative which will be reflected by net income for the farm family," delegates declared.

Recognizing, as several delegates said, that there can not be "federal aid" without "federal controls," the convention took a strong stand against "expanded federal aid to public education."

Randolph, a voting resident of Fayette County where he has farming interests, first took the Farm Bureau helm Oct. 29, 1940, and has been re-elected annually since. This year marked the first time he had had a formal opponent. He defeated Herman Vann, of Madison County, by a standing vote of 268 to 71, after a request for a secret ballot was shouted down.

M. C. Stallworth, Jr., of Washington County, and J. Lewis Harper, Tuscaloosa, were re-elected third and fourth vice presidents, respectively. Terms of J. D. Hays, Madison, and H. H. Knowles, Houston, first and second vice presidents, did not expire this year.

The resolution on price supports for various field crops now under controls was opposed by some delegates who warned of further acreage cuts and consequent lower total income, but it was adopted on a voice vote. A special 100 per cent price support resolution from the Alabama Peanut Producers' Association also was approved. The delegates went along with both hog and beef cattle producers against any form of government participation in their business.

In other actions the convention:

1. Urged that a farmer's cotton acreage allotment be recognized as a part of the value of his farm, to use or not as he desires; that Farm Bureau develop a sound and permanent cotton program; that research be expanded in the use of heptachlor, a principal fire ant poison, against the boll weevil, that the two-plan of cotton acreage allotments be discontinued.
2. Declined to approve a recommendation of the resolution committee that the state get out of the public fishing lake business.
3. Recommended continued state and federal appropriations to carry on the fire ant eradication program.
4. Endorsed the "incentive" principle of salaries for teachers, but deplored "laxity" in standards of measurement of ability in the granting of teacher certificates.
5. Commended the American Farm Bureau's establishment of a foreign trade office in Rotterdam to promote sale of farm products.
6. Requested changes in the state textbook laws to provide less duplication, revisions "disguised" as new editions, and emphasis on aptitude tests.

7. Reaffirmed position on segregation and recommended "that equal educational opportunities be made available to all children."

8. Endorsed the principle of voluntary check-offs for the promotion of farm products.

9. Called for increasing the minimum fine for trespassing, such as hunting on land without a permit, from $1 to $25.

10. Asked that cattle rustling be made a felony.

11. Supported the self-financing plan for operation of TVA.

12. Urged studies looking to the development of a system of cooperatives, and pledged continued cooperation with existing co-ops.

13. Commended congress for enacting the Landrum-Griffin labor law, but described it as inadequate and urged further legislation.

14. Recommended that the sales tax on all farm equipment be no higher than that on industrial equipment.

15. Recommended improvements in laws relating to farm-to-market roads.

16. Directed continued studies toward improved health and medical service, including hospital insurance.

17. Opposed importation of fresh chilled or frozen beef from outside the U.S.

18. Urged continued war on screwworm, white fringed beetle, and other animal and plant pests.

Dr. Norvell Sues Bama Company

Docketed for the second week of civil term Circuit Court in Lauderdale County, scheduled to begin Monday, November 16, before Judge Robert M. Hill, is the case of Dr. Lester R. Norvell, Florence surgeon, who is asking $100,000 damages in a suit against The Bama Company and Knox Glass Bottle Company in a suit in which he is represented by Attorney Howell Hefflin of Tusculum, who filed the suit and the firm of Mitchell, Poellnitz and Cox of Florence.

The firms of Bradshaw and Barnett and Andrews and Almon together with E. B. Haltom, Jr., will represent the defendants.

The Florence surgeon contends that he suffered permanent disabling injuries to his left wrist and hand on July 14, 1958 when a jar of blackberry preserves exploded when he opened a jar of blackberry preserves in his home in Florence.

Dr. Norvell, allegedly manufactured by Knox Glass Bottle Company, and used in selling their products by The Bama Company, allegedly caused the injuries.

Sketches From Life

By FRANCES HALL

LOUIS ROSENBAUM

"No man has contributed more of his time and means unselfishly toward aiding the unfortunates of Lauderdale County, as well as contributing to the enlightenment of those seeking to improve their understanding, than has Louis Rosenbaum," is the opinion expressed by a person who has benefitted from his generosity.

Mr. Rosenbaum—a successful businessman, philanthropist and civic leader — has contributed generously to the growth of Florence. He has been a great benefactor to the city as well as the entire Muscle Shoals area since September 1, 1919, the day he opened the Princess Theatre, the forerunner of a chain of theatres he heads.

Louis Rosenbaum came to this country, with his parents, from his native Lublin, Poland, where he was born on May 12, 1887, the son of Samuel and Ida (Edelstein) Rosenbaum. He was married to Anna Block of Denver, in 1910. They have one son, Stanley, who is a partner with his father in the Rosenbaum Theatres. The Stanley Rosenbaums have four sons, David Hiller, Jonathan Daniel, Alvin Robert, and Michael Joseph.

Before entering the motion picture business, Mr. Rosenbaum worked in a haberdashery in Denver. It was in 1915, in Douglas, Wyoming, that he began the career in which he has been so successful.

As a civic leader, Mr. Rosenbaum has rendered outstanding service to the success of the Chamber of Commerce, of which he is president; the Community Chest; and the Society for Crippled Children, of which he is a chairman for Lauderdale County. He has also extended his services to the Tennessee Valley Boy Scouts and the Alabama War Chest. He is state co-chairman of the American Society for Cancer and chairman of the Lauderdale Chapter of the National Foundation.

Mr. Rosenbaum gives freely of his time to various club activities. He is past president of the Rotary Club, a member of the Elks Club, the Variety Club and other local clubs, fraternal and business organizations. It was during his presidency of the Chamber of Commerce that funds were raised for the first construction of the present Eliza Coffee Memorial Hospital buildings.

He is a leader in the B'nai B'rith Lodge, is co-chairman of the Tri-Cities Jewish Federated Charities and holds an important position in the National Conference of Christians and Jews. He is a loyal member of Temple B'nai Israel, of which he is past president. For his many outstanding services in civic, religious and philanthropic work, his name was rightfully included in "Who's Who In World Jewry" in 1954.

Louis Rosenbaum has always been one to give freely of his time, energy and means to everything he thought was good, honest and worthwhile and would be of benefit to his community and purposes in life. If it were not for his insight of the pressing need for an adequate public library for this area and his generous contribution of some $35,000 for such a project, the erection of the structure which houses the Florence-Lauderdale Public Library would not have been possible.

One project of which Mr. Rosenbaum is justly proud is the annual Rotary Thanksgiving dinner given for underprivileged boys for the past 20 years, which he inaugurated and sponsored.

As an additional service to his beloved city, Mr. Rosenbaum donated the beautiful Rosenbaum Park, located directly across from the ECM Hospital, for the use of the patrons of the hospital.

For his work with the Society for Crippled Children, he received a Certificate of Distinguished Service on January 27, 1955, from the Alabama Society, and in recognition of his many contributions to the welfare and happiness of his community and its people, the name of Louis Rosenbaum was appropriately inscribed in the Florence Exchange Club's "Book of Golden Deeds."

Recognized throughout the area as one of its most progressive citizens, his keen insight and sound advice is repeatedly sought by the leaders of the several communities when plans for the future development in all fields are planned. His willingness, and we might add eagerness, to render constructive aid to all worthwhile programs has long been recognized by the citizens he has so ably served.

"Again, we pledged our lives and treasure, as did other members of the United Nations, to stifle this tide of oppression and tyranny and demonstrate to the world that no longer would any nation be permitted to strangle freedom and run roughshod over a defenseless people unchecked and unchallenged."

"There on the plains and in the mountains of Korea we left many American lives that we might carry on in a freer and happy world today."

"Thus, the valorous and courageous deeds of all our veterans, who have engaged in these bloody struggles in our lifetime, stand before us today as a shining example of devotion and love for a noble cause."

"We would not be true to these veterans nor to their heroic deeds if we do not here and now firmly resolve in our hearts and minds that we shall carry on victoriously this torch of freedom and democracy that they have handed us."

"The world today rests on an uneasy bottom. There are overtures of peace and summit mediations in the air. Let us hope that these overtures are made in good faith and that there is no design to stab us in the back if we become less suspecting."

"Yes, we should seek to talk over and mediate differences between nations because the alternative of war can now be so devastating. Yet, we must continue to speak from a position of strength. We must keep our defenses fully strong and ever ready."

"Moreover, we are now entering a great age of science and space. We cannot afford to play a secondary role to any other nation in this great period of achievement."

"We must ever be a vigorous and forward-moving people. We cannot rest on past achievements alone."

"The future beckons to the stout hearted and courageous. Let us on this Veterans Day of 1959, therefore, renew our determination to be strong, vigorous, and alert and to meet the challenge of this new Age."

informed of the court's decision immediately, expressed hope that the steel mills will get started up again as soon as possible. Press Secretary James Hagerty told newsmen that the President hopes that both sides, "realizing their obligation to the United States," will continue to negotiate and reach a settlement of their differences.

The court's order went into effect immediately but there was no prospect of an early outpouring of steel. It may be two weeks or so before new collective bargaining sessions get underway.

The steel workers will be paid at the old rates of $3.11 during the 60-days of the injunction, unless a new contract calling for different wage rates is negotiated during the period.

It was estimated by steel officials that it will take up to six weeks to get production back to 90 per cent of capacity.

Highlighting the observance of American Education Week in Lauderdale County, November 8-14, was the presentation of "Certificates of Commendation" to Harold S. May, managing editor of the Florence Herald and chairman of the Lauderdale County Board of Education, and Louis A. Eckl, executive editor of the Florence Times. The certificates were signed by William R. Hagood, president of the Lauderdale County Teachers Association and Mrs. Clara Hawk, secretary.

Presentation of the certificates, which were suitably framed, was made Monday by Superintendent of Lauderdale County Schools Allen Thornton accompanied by Mr. Hagood, Mrs. Paul Buettner, vice president, Mr. Hawk and members of the public relations committee of the association.

American Education Week with the theme "Praise and Appraise Our Schools," is in its 39th year. The Week is for the rededication of students, teachers, educators and parents to the basic principles of education and the moral and spiritual values of both home and community life, the committee pointed out.

This major event of the school year is also sponsoring two television interviews over WOWL-TV, the first being today at 5:45 p.m. at which time Supt. Thornton will appear on the popular program "Let's Talk It Over." On Thursday, November 19, Mr. Hagood and a panel will appear on the "Let's Talk It Over" program at the same hour.

The public is urged to tune in these informative programs about the schools of Lauderdale County and learn at first hand what the present educational needs of the county are and also what everyone can do to help the schools expand their services to meet future needs.

Everyone is urged to visit the schools during American Education Week which is sponsored nationally by the National Education Association, The American Legion, The U.S. Office of Education, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

City Schools Participate
Rufus Hibbett, City Superintendent of Schools, pointed out that research studies over many years reveal that men and women with high school and college educations earn 82 per cent of the National income.

He also stated that our schools are a unifying force in the community and that no other institution touches the life of every citizen like the public school.

The Florence City Schools are under the direction of Mrs. Louis England, Public Relations Chairman.

causing the interest to decrease steadily as the size of loan increases.

Thus, a $10 loan would run for 30 days and cost $2 in interest. A loan for $30 would not have to be completely repaid for three months, and the interest would be $6. For a $70 loan, the interest would be $14 and the borrower would have seven months in which to repay it.

On loans from $75.01 to $200, the interest rate on the entire loan is a flat 3 per cent per month. On loans from $200.01 to $300 — the maximum covered under the new law — the interest rate drops to only 2 per cent per month on the entire loan.

This monthly interest is computed on the unpaid balance — not the original amount of loan.

Loans in excess of $300 come under state laws fixing the maximum interest rate at 8 per cent per year.

Morning Ceremony Marks Mitchell-Walter Nuptials

Solemnized in Trinity Episcopal Church, Florence, on Wednesday, November 14, was the marriage of Elizabeth Carolyn Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Irvin Mitchell of 519 Crest Street, and the Reverend Francis Xavier Walter, III, son of Francis Xavier Walter, Jr., of Mobile and the late Mrs. Walter.

The Reverend Edward Gordon Mullen, minister of the church, read the nine o'clock vows, assisted by the Reverend Furman Charles Stough, rector of Grace Episcopal Church of Sheffield. Nuptial selections were presented by Mrs. John den Boer, organist.

Mr. Mitchell gave his daughter in marriage before an altar marked with arrangements of white chrysanthemums and a tracery of ivy. Her wedding gown of white velvet was styled along princess lines and detailed with a deep V neckline and long, tapering sleeves which came to petal-points over the hands. The floor-length skirt extended into a chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion cascaded from a pearl-encrusted cap and she carried a bouquet fashioned of white roses.

Mrs. Malcolm Lawler Marsh, Jr., was her sister's matron of honor and Mrs. Harold Wesley replaced Miss Mary Harwick, maid of honor who was unable to serve. They wore frocks of ivy green velvet with matching velvet headresses and carried bouquets of gold chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids, Miss Phoebe Howell of New York City and Mrs. Willie Von Raney, Jr., of Hattiesburg, Mississippi, were in gold velvet and Nancy Barlan Marsh and Susan Mitchell Marsh, nieces of the bride who served as junior attendants, were attired in moss green. Their matching headresses and flowers were identical to the honor attendants.

The Reverend Louis Tonsmeire of Birmingham was best man and ushers included the Reverend Joel Wilson Pugh of Little Rock, Ark., the Reverend Charles Scott May of Newport, Ark., and the Reverend Walter Peterson of De Funiak Springs, Fla.

Mrs. Mitchell chose for her daughter's wedding an embroidered gown of dusty blue worn with a cluster of white blossoms at her shoulder and Mrs. Frederick C. Marsh of Mobile, grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a black model and a white orchid corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained with a wedding breakfast at Rogers Hall. Assisting were Mrs. James H. Sloan, Miss Elizabeth Sloan, Mrs. Thomas J. Makel, Mrs. Clyde F. Jackson, Mrs. William J. Rhoads, Mrs. Wayne Christeson, Mrs. William F. McDonald, Mrs. Joseph M. Ware, Mrs. Stanley Rosenbaum, Mrs. Morris Klibanoff, Mrs. Harry Herndon, Mrs. Teel Vay and Mrs. Henry W. Cheney.

After today, the Reverend and Mrs. Walter will be at home in Eufaula where he is rector of Saint James Episcopal Church.

At noon on the wedding day, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were luncheon hosts at The Town Club. Their guests were wedding attendants, family members and out-of-town wedding guests including Miss Wanda Harris, Wallace Meadows, Mrs. Cecil McMillian, Dr. and Mrs. James Ratliff, Mrs. E. K. Henson and Jack Williamson, all of Decatur; Francis X. Walter, Jr., David M. Walter, Mrs. Frederick C. Marsh, Mrs. C. W. Hempstead, Mrs. Elizabeth McAdams, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver P. Dix, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Von Raney, Jr., all of Mobile; the Reverend and Mrs. Louis Tonsmeire and Miss Peggy Horn of Birmingham; Mrs. Clyde P. Jackson, Sr., of Sherman, Tex.; Mrs. Harold Wesley of Greenville, the Reverend Charles McKimmon, Jr., of Huntsville; Miss Nancy M. Redpath of South Orange, N. J.; Miss Phoebe E. Howell of New York City; the Reverend Joel Wilson Pugh of Little Rock; the Reverend Charles Scott May of Newport, Ark.; the Reverend Walter Peterson of De Funiak Springs, Fla.; Mrs. Thomas J. Makel, Sr., of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. H. Levern Regar of Eufaula.

Jones-Levy Vows Said In Huntsville

Marked by a mid-afternoon ceremony in the chapel at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Patricia Peterson Jones, of Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Peterson of Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, exchanged vows with Gilbert Paul Levy, Lieutenant Colonel, United States Army, on Sunday, November eighth. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Rose Levy of Huntsville and Newark, New Jersey, and the late Abraham Levy.

The Reverend Edward Mullen, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church of Florence, officiated in the three o'clock ceremony following nuptial selections by Mrs. William Boyd of Huntsville, organist, and W. O. Horton of Florence, vocalist.

The bride wore a two-piece afternoon gown of Dior blue faille with portrait collar enhanced by a rose of matching material and a sheath skirt. Her small hat was veiled and she carried a prayer book and a cluster of white orchids. Her ornaments were a single strand of pearls and matching earrings, gifts of the bridegroom and his mother.

Mrs. James Harwood Johnson was her cousin's only attendant, wearing a beige sheath of wool jersey with matching organdie jacket. Her accessories were brown and her flowers, green cymbidium orchids.

Lt. Col. Nathan I. Reiter was best man for the bridegroom.

An arch of crossed swords spanned the aisle as the wedding party left the chapel.

A reception in the Officer's Club followed the ceremony. Assisting were Mrs. Walter Bell, Mrs. Frank Mosier, Mrs. Clarence Ellis, Mrs. Tom E. Smith, Mrs. Wyatt Simpson, Mrs. Robert Osborn, Mrs. Fred McCallum, Mrs. P. E. Sealy and Mrs. James White, all of Florence.

Before leaving for their honeymoon, the bride changed to a green tulle suit with matching coat, with which she wore brown furs, derby hat and alligator accessories. The orchids from her bouquet were her corsage.

Col. and Mrs. Levy will be at home after November twentieth at 17 Ripley Drive, Huntsville.

Miss Bobbie Sue Watkins Bride Of Robert Thompson

Marked by an evening ceremony in Mt. Zion Church of Christ, Miss Bobbie Sue Watkins, daughter of Mrs. A. H. Watkins and the late Mr. Watkins of Florence, exchanged nuptial vows with Robert E. Thompson, son of W. K. Thompson, also of Florence, on Friday, November sixth.

Aldon Hendrix, minister, read the service following appropriate choral selections by Mrs. and Mrs. Claude Lewis, Mrs. Martha Emmons and Linville Hanback.

A white wrought iron arch entwined with greenery spanned the altar and was flanked by baskets of white chrysanthemums and branched candelabra of burning tapers. Shirley and Betty Thompson, sisters of the bridegroom, were candlelighters.

Wearing white lace and tulle over a blue gown, the bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Don Pollard. Distinguishing features of her wedding gown were a molded bodice with portrait neckline, sleeves which tapered to points over the hands and a voluminous, floor-length skirt.

A cap of tulle and lace re-embroidered with pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion and with her white Bible she carried a white orchid showered with tuberoses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Shirley Mozella Behel, maid of honor, and bridesmaids Mrs. Don Pollard and Mrs. Dan Pollard, sisters of the bride, wore pastel frocks and carried cascade bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Judy Stults, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Howard Thompson was his brother's best man and ushers included Grant Wilkes, also a cousin of the bride, and Casper Behel. Charles Watkins, brother of the bride, served as ring bearer.

Immediately after the ceremony, the Watkins family home was the setting for the wedding reception. Assisting were Miss Bonnie Lebeck, Miss Faye McDonald, Miss Rebecca Swenka, Miss Rhoda Wilkes and Mrs. Gladys Wilson.

For travel, Mrs. Thompson wore a suit of avocado green wool complemented by brown accessories and a white orchid corsage.

They have now returned from a honeymoon in the Smokies and are at home in Woodlawn Trailer Park, Florence.

Murphy-Darby Vows Recently Announced

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Hob Murphy of Cloverdale of the marriage of their daughter, Mary Frances, to Paul Aaron Darby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Darby of Cypress Inn, Tennessee.

Pledges were said on October twenty-ninth, with Theodore Norred, minister, officiating at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Darby are at home in Cypress Inn.

Glenda Arlene Perkins, Robert Frost Say Vows

The altar of North Wood Methodist Church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and pink chrysanthemums interspersed with greenery for the exchange of vows between Glenda Arlene Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellice L. Perkins of Florence, and Robert Carmon Frost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmon A. Frost of Sheffield, on Friday, November sixth.

Branched candelabra of white tapers lighted the scene as the Reverend E. M. Barnes, Jr., read the six o'clock vows following nuptial selections by Mrs. Earl Beasley, organist, and Miss Sue Lovelace, vocalist.

Jack Hayes, cousin of the bride, served as candlelighter.

Mr. Perkins escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown of antique taffeta was designed with a fitted bodice detailed with appliques of Chantilly lace embroidered with sequins at the neckline and long sleeves which came to points over the hands. Ruffles of net and lace circled the full, floor-length skirt, worn over period hoops.

A crown of seed pearls held her fingertip veil of silk illusion and her white Bible was marked with a white orchid showered with stephanos and ribbon streamers.

Miss Brenda Sailors was the bride's only attendant. Her Paris pink frock of misty organza was fashioned with a snug bodice, scooped neckline and wide cummerbund. Her headpiece was a band of pink satin and rosebuds with a wisp of pink veiling and, at her shoulder, she wore a cluster of white gladioli.

Eddie Frost was best man for his brother and ushers included Charles Beck and Ronald Pace, all of Sheffield.

Mrs. Perkins, mother of the bride, wore a gown of pink wool and Mrs. Frost, the bridegroom's mother, chose a blue wool sheath.

Matching hats and white carnation corsages complemented their attire. A reception in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. John R. Oliver, followed the ceremony and Mrs. Ruth Haynes, also an aunt of the bride, assisted with the courtesies.

Before leaving for their wedding trip, Mrs. Frost changed to a suit of brown wool with fur trim with which she wore brown accessories and, at her shoulder, the orchid from her bouquet.

Upon their return, they will be at home in the Martin Apartments on Sannomer Street.

Myrtle Elizabeth Fisher To Wed Raymond Richey

Announcement has been made by C. M. Fisher of the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Myrtle Elizabeth, to Raymond Richey, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Richey, all of Florence.

Both the bride-elect, daughter of the late Mrs. Fisher, and her fiancé were graduated from Coffey High School. Miss Fisher now has a position in Florence and Mr. Richey, in Chicago.

The wedding date will be announced.

Mrs. Wade, Mrs. Kyle Hostess UDC Meeting

Sixteen members were present for the regular monthly meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy when Mrs. Alex C. Wade and Mrs. Elmer Kyle entertained at the Wade home, 1925 Hickory Hills Road.

Mrs. Donald White, Chapter president, presided during the business hour and Mrs. Elmer Russell was appointed in charge of reservations for the joint Christmas luncheon with the Tusculum Chapter members. Those who plan to attend are asked to contact her.

For the program, Mrs. Evans Kelsey read the prize-winning essay written by Bessie Mae McKenzie, a seventh grade student of Knoxville, Tennessee, entitled "Sam Davis, Boy Hero of the Confederacy." The UDC annual scholarship was awarded to the youthful author.

Mrs. Russell assisted the hostesses at tea time.

Miss Nancy Hale, Miss Janelle Holley, Jimmy Gullett and Wayne Christeson are in New York City to represent Florence State College at meetings of the National Association of College Publications.

Pat Patton, student at UA in Tusculum, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Patton, Old Jackson Road.

Literary Clubs Meet In Homes Of Members

The CURRENT BOOK CLUB met on Monday evening, November second, in the home of Mrs. Gerald N. Wade, 703 Sherrod Ave., with Mrs. William E. Holloway giving the program.

"Lorena," a story of Civil War days in the South, by Frank P. Slaughter, was Mrs. Holloway's choice for reviewing. The plot reveals the boundless courage of the heroine, Lorena Selby, as she struggled to save her family's plantation, and the deep devotion which she later developed for a Union Officer.

Mrs. Holloway also called to attention a book recently edited by Robert West Howard entitled "This Is The South," a compilation from thirty-two authors.

Following the program, refreshments were served to conclude the meeting.

Mrs. H. H. Bradford, program chairman for last week's meeting of THURSDAY STUDY CLUB, gave a review of "Poetry of America," a compilation of the letters of Henry Sienkiewicz, Polish writer and author of "Quo Vadis," who visited America in 1876-78. A young man at the time, he pictured an America that is young, virile and determined to succeed.

Mrs. W. M. Sloan presided and, during the business period, plans were discussed for the Christmas banquet.

Twenty-one members were present and Mrs. Roy Cole, hostess at her home on Malone Circle, was assisted at the table by Mrs. Ralph Smith and Miss Tera Hitchcock.

The next meeting will take place at The Town Club on November nineteenth with Mrs. Hugh Porter, hostess.

Members of the HYPATIAN CLUB gathered on Thursday afternoon, November fifth, at the home of Mrs. Morton Southall, 209 East Tusculosa Street. Mrs. Phillip King, the hostess' mother, was an additional guest.

Delightful entertainment was presented by Mrs. Wesley Patton, program chairman, in a review of Robert Christen's "The Great Impostor," a remarkable account of America's great impostor, Ferdinand Waldo Demaree, thirty-seven year old alter-egoist who has assumed and lived thirty-six characters varying from Trappist Monk to assistant warden in one of the toughest maximum security prisons in the country. During his personification of a Lt. Surgeon in the Royal Canadian Navy, the unprepared high school under-graduate performed many intricate operations including heart surgery.

Mrs. Robert Martin assisted Mrs. Southall with teatime courtesies.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuten Mark Golden Wedding At Home

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tuten of Rogersville, Route Two, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary a few days in advance of its arrival when they entertained at their home on Sunday, November first.

More than thirty family members and friends were present for the luncheon served on the lawn where a tiered and decorated cake centered the luncheon table.

Their daughters, Mrs. L. D. Newton and Mrs. Travis Newton, both of Rogersville, Route Two, and their son, Milton Tuten of Florence were present for the occasion. The couple also has six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

District Meeting WSCS To Be In Tusculum

The district meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service will take place at the First Methodist Church of Tusculum on November 17th, beginning promptly at 9:30 a.m.

Theme: "Prepare Ye The Way." The devotional will be brought by the Reverend James R. Wood of Edgemont Methodist Church.

Mrs. Thomas Duffy of Birmingham will be Conference speaker and the main address will be given by Miss Marilyn Terry of Langdale, Ala. Miss Terry has been in Korea as a K.3. (student missionary in Korea for three years) and will leave again in January as a missionary to Korea.

Lunch will be served by the ladies of the church.

Mrs. Ben W. Cunningham has been a patient at ECM Hospital since Sunday.

In Florence recently to attend the funeral of B. A. England were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hughes of Lacey Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde England of West Palm Beach, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Anderson and Mrs. R. O. Mills of Chattanooga, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McElroy, Mrs. Buster McElroy, the Reverend Barton Novak, Mrs. Bryson Shirley and Mrs. Forest Grisham, all of Baldwin, Miss.

Here for a recent visit in the C. L. Blackwell home at 402 West Tombigbee St., were Mrs. A. C. Rolen, Jr., and son of Murray, Ky., and Mrs. Rolen's father, H. R. Ray of Waynesboro, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schuessler and Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Hestlington were in Birmingham Saturday to witness the Auburn-Mississippi State football game.

Mrs. Ethel Hall has returned to her home in Montgomery after a stay with her sister, Mrs. N. L. Worcester, and Mr. Worcester, at their home on Riverview Drive.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Kelley (Carolyn Young) and little daughter, Kem, in Marshall, Texas, are Mr. and Mrs. Max Hall and son, Tim, of 246 Lucas Street. Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. Cheney emplaned yesterday for a few days in New York City and Smoke Rise, N. J. In New York, Mrs. Cheney will attend meetings of the National Association of College Publications as adviser of the Flor-Ala, FSC student paper, while Dr. Cheney is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Swett, Mr. Swett, and their family in Smoke Rise. They expect to return at week's end.

Weekend guests of the Reverend and Mrs. Robert H. Crumby were his sister, Mrs. Jack Whitaker, Mr. Whitaker, and children, Linda and Jimmy, his brother, William O. Crumby, Jr., and Mrs. Crumby, all of Memphis. They were present on Sunday for the dedication in Westminster Presbyterian Church of the Emma Crumby Memorial, given in memory of their mother.

Scrubbing keeps natural gas the cleanest fuel in town...

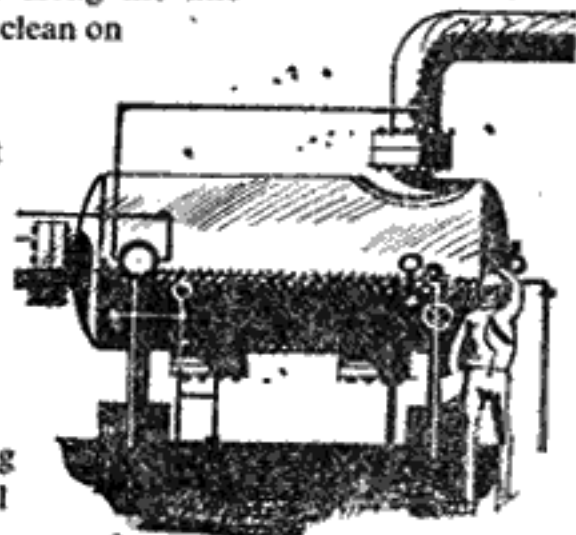

Suspended in natural gas, as it comes from the wellhead, are a variety of hydrocarbon liquids, water and fine particles released from the deep-down formations of the earth. These are removed, for the most part, when the gas passes through processing plants before being delivered into our pipelines.

But, some minute particles linger on. And as the gas moves through the pipeline, it can pick up added foreign solids and liquid condensate in the pipe.

So, to filter out these elements, we "scrub" the gas at compressor stations along the line to assure that it will be clean on delivery. That means frequent "scrubbings" in tank-like devices that are called—aptly enough—"scrubbers."

There are three types of scrubbers. The "dry" scrubber (at top) is a 40-inch diameter tank containing a hundred or more small tubes through which the gas is whirled. As the gas goes through, foreign particles and liquids, being heavier, separate and drop out. The horizontal scrubber (just above) uses oil-coated metal surfaces to trap foreign matter—plus a section that works on the dry scrubber principle.

The third is a three-phase oil-bath separator, in which the gas is first bubbled through an oil bath, then spun dry in a centrifugal separator, and, finally, passed through a mist extractor.

Scrubbed and rescrubbed many times, the gas we deliver to our customers—utility companies in a dozen or more states—can truly be said to be the "cleanest gas in town."

Group Completes Evaluation LCHS

Encouraging Report Of Committee To Be Made Available For Study

By MRS. OSWALD WADDELL
Assembled in the Lauderdale County High School auditorium on Friday morning were the committee, faculties of both high school and elementary school, guests from out-of-town and local patrons to hear report of the finding of the Evaluation Committee after it had studied the schools from every angle for the week.

Dr. Morrison McCall from the State Department of Education in Montgomery served as coordinator for the committee, but was unable to be present for Friday's report. Mr. Marvin Vines of West Jefferson High School, Quinton, Ala., served in his place.

The committee made its study and evaluated the school in the light of these 8 basic educational needs of youth and how our school was meeting them: 1. The child needs to learn to live with other human beings. 2. To attain sound mental and physical health. 3. To learn to live in natural and scientific environment. 4. They need sound guidance. 5. To learn to think logically and express themselves clearly. 6. To prepare for work or further education. 7. To use their leisure time well. 8. To learn to live esthetically.

Reports were given with commendations on outstanding features in each group followed by recommendations.

Patrons and faculty were pleased to note the numerous commendations included in each report. Recommendations were of such a nature as to cast no reflection on the school program, its methods or faculty but were needs already noted and recommended by principal and faculty but due to lack of some several hundred thousand dollars had not previously been added.

Most encouraging and complimentary remarks, apart from the report, were frequently made concerning the beauty of the classrooms, the spirit of cooperation between faculty and students, school and patrons and good teaching methods used.

Copies of the self-evaluation made by faculty and the report of the committee will be available at a near date for the patrons who are urged to study this report to know what the school is doing, what it wants to do and how you can help.

At the conclusion of the meeting all were invited to the cafeteria for a lunch deliciously prepared, attractively served and heartily enjoyed.

Among the guests were several principals from the county, teachers from an out-of-county school preparing to be evaluated at an early date, and county office personnel.

On the committee were: Dr. Morrison McCall, Miss Martha Smith,

Trace Bridge To Eliminate Hazard

The Department of the Interior announced recently that a contract for construction for a grade separation and other work at the junction of Tennessee Route 20 and Natchez Trace Parkway in Lewis County, Tennessee, has been awarded jointly to John Martin Inc., and The Mountain City Company of Chattanooga, Tennessee.

The contract calls for a reinforced concrete arch construction 155 feet long to carry Route 20 traffic over the parkway. Other work includes grading and base coursing a relocated portion of Route 20.

The Mission 68 program proposed the work to eliminate a hazardous crossing that has existed at the parkway's junction with Route 20. The project is located on a 15-mile unit of the parkway on which construction is in progress between U. S. Highway 64 and Meriwether Lewis National Monument.

To mince or chop onions, make a checkerboard of cuts into the surface of a cut onion. Then cut across and the pieces will fall out easily.

Foods of the Future

INSTANT SHRIMP?

When the atomic submarine NAUTILUS sailed under the North Pole, the galley had various experimental dehydrated foods that were rated by the crew. New dehydrated shrimp ranked near the top of the list of foods that taste "excellent," said the submariners.

Although dried eggs and other dehydrated foods left a bad taste with many World War II servicemen, food research continued improving processes until most instant foods and drinks now defy comparison with the original products.

Thanks to nutrition and food scientists, you'll have many new and interesting foods in the future, to be enjoyed with two tried-and-true "old favorites"—BEER and ALE. Changing styles in foods won't change America's preference for these two wholesome beverages!

Sparkman Speaks To Board Realtors At Country Club

Lands Real Estate Dealers For Increase In Home Ownership

Speaking to the Muscle Shoals Board of Realtors and their guests Tuesday noon at the Florence Golf and Country Club, Senator John Sparkman reviewed the progress made in housing over the nation during the past ten years. He said as reflected in an increase of from 51 to 58 per cent in home ownership. He said much of this progress was due to the efforts of realtors everywhere.

Senator Sparkman was introduced by Louis A. Eckl, executive editor of the Florence Times. Albert W. Darby, Jr., president of the Board of Realtors, presided. The Senator, who is chairman of the housing subcommittee of the Senate, revealed that he had an intimate knowledge of housing and housing needs and is the author of important housing legislation. One is a bill providing direct loans to veterans in rural and semi-rural areas where other money is not available.

"One of the strong factors making for good citizenship is home ownership," Senator Sparkman declared, adding that this philosophy dates back to Thomas Jefferson.

The Senator said we have been building about a million housing units a year but he doubted if this would be enough for future needs. He said the population of the United States will be double the present figure by the year 2000. He said at one time that looked like a long way off but now it was "only a mortgage away."

"We must build 48,000,000 dwelling units during the next 40 years," he said. He explained that this figure was plus all the replacements necessary during that period for homes that wear out or are destroyed by one means or another. Actually he pointed out that 1,500,000 should be built annually because 13,000,000 homes, according to the Census Bureau, are unfit for human habitation.

He said the goal today is a "decent home in decent surroundings for every American family."

He warned against rising interest rates, however, and said if the government did not apply the brakes this effect on housing in the next year or two.

Number Honored At Alumni Meet

Gerald Wade Elected President Foundation At Florence State College

The Alumni Foundation of Florence State College, at their first annual meeting, presented framed Honorary Membership certificates to Dr. E. B. Norton, President of the college, Otis L. Peacock, Director of Extension, and liaison representative to the Foundation, and Malcolm Smith of Northington, Smith & Kranert who designed the official crest of the Alumni Foundation.

Others named to Honorary Membership were Dr. Turner Allen, Dean of Florence State, and W. H. Isbell, Russellville, Class of 1888, one of the first to respond to the Foundation's membership campaign. Both were unable to be present.

Foundation President Wayne Rutledge, Class of '52, presided at the meeting and made the presentation after reporting on the organization's first year of activities.

The general meeting was followed by a business session and election of officers for 1960. New officers are Gerald Wade, president; Aaron Wilson, vice-president; Jim Easter, secretary; Evan McCauley, treasurer.

Visit your schools during American Education Week Nov. 8-14. Democracy functions around the principle that every child's birthright is that of a sound, well-rounded education. This nation's progress and existence depend upon education. The teachers and educators are entrusted with the greatest and most important job in the world—that of moulding our future scientists and leaders in all fields.

Education is their business and yours. It is your tax money that pays the teachers and keeps the schools operating. It is your tax money that builds new schools and buys new equipment. Good schools mean higher incomes, greater purchasing power, better citizens. To keep the county, state and nation prosperous it is everybody's job to work for the improvement of our public schools.

Keep Root Crops In Storage Cellar

A storage cellar is an ideal place to keep root crops such as carrots, beets, turnips, rutabagas, and persimmons for use during the winter. However, these crops can also be kept on the ground, says Auburn University Extension Horticulturist John Bagby. Select a well drained spot, and clean and level the ground. Then place a three-inch layer of pine, oat, or what straw on the leveled area. According to Bagby, the roots should be piled in a pyramid on top of the straw. Then cover the vegetables with a thick layer of straw and about three inches of soil. The horticulturist warns against putting root crops in storage too early. Wait until the roots are thoroughly chilled by cool weather. Then leave about an inch of stem on the roots when preparing them for storage.

October Wettest Month On Record

Greatest Rainfall In Valley For Same Period Since Recording Data

TVA said today that last month was the eighth wettest October in the Tennessee Valley since recording of rainfall data started in 1890. An average of 5.06 inches fell, compared with the long-range average for the basin of 2.83 inches.

October's rainfall was the highest since 1949 when 5.99 inches fell over the Valley. The two highest October rainfalls of record were 7.54 inches in 1925 and 7.50 inches in 1918.

Runoff, too, was higher than normal both at Chattanooga and at Kentucky Dam. At Chattanooga it measured 1.33 inches, compared with a long-range average of 0.79 inch. At Kentucky Dam it was 0.88 inch, whereas the long-range average is 0.61 inch. For the first 10 months of 1959 runoff still is deficient at both places.

TVA said that the October rains will provide water to generate more than 750,000,000 kilowatt-hours on the TVA hydro system; this is nearly 500,000,000 kilowatt-hours more than would normally be expected from rainfall in this period.

Good rains at this time are especially valuable for power production as this is normally the driest season of the year. Also ample space is available to store the runoff from the rains since water levels behind the dams are gradually being lowered to provide flood control storage for the heavy rains expected during the winter.

As a result of the recent October rains total water in storage in TVA's reservoirs is now about what is normally expected at this time of year despite less than normal rainfall and streamflow during the earlier months of the year. TVA estimated that the hydro power which will result from the favorable October rains could save as much as 300,000 tons of coal and $1,500,000 compared to the alternative of generating this power at its steam plants.

November Time For Landscaping

November begins the season for landscaping and revamping old plantings.

Auburn University Extension Ornamental Horticulturist Troy Keeble points out that each home has a different situation. Therefore, shrubs and trees should be carefully selected to complement the area to be landscaped.

According to Keeble, the style of the house, structural materials, soil, exposure, finances, preferences, and other factors must be considered before landscaping. Some houses need extensive plantings of shrubs and trees to provide a beautiful landscape. Still other homes need only a few plantings to create an equally pleasing effect.

For COLDS take 666

Cotton men from over the nation are seeking ways to keep the cotton futures markets operating... destruction of futures markets would add considerable to the overall marketing cost if U. S. cotton ever does return to normal channels of trade...

Runoff, too, was higher than normal both at Chattanooga and at Kentucky Dam. At Chattanooga it measured 1.33 inches, compared with a long-range average of 0.79 inch. At Kentucky Dam it was 0.88 inch, whereas the long-range average is 0.61 inch. For the first 10 months of 1959 runoff still is deficient at both places.

Cautions Urged In Planting Grasses

Over Use Of Italian Rye And Other Winter Grasses Hurts Lawns

S. M. Eich, Jr., Assistant County Agent. Many home owners would like to have a green lawn during the winter season. Such lawns are possible, but several considerations should be made prior to undertaking such a project.

First, there is the question of over-planting the permanent lawn grasses with Italian rye grass, and other so-called winter grasses. Rye grasses create very strong competition with permanent grasses. They have very extensive and fibrous root systems which compete for the fertilizer elements as well as space.

All permanent lawn grasses suffer from over-planting with rye grass. Bermuda grass probably is less affected but will suffer to a certain degree. The spring growth of such grasses as zoysia will be greatly reduced.

Winter grasses fill the need of many home grounds. They act as a soil-holding agent or a newly graded lawn. Topsoil erosion can be prevented during the winter by planting rye grass at the rate of one-half pound per 100 square feet of area during October and November. The seed should be worked lightly into the soil, although this is not essential.

A soil test prior to planting will greatly improve the appearance and growth of a winter lawn. Remember, these grasses use large quantities of fertilizers in producing the green of winter lawns. Also, consult the Experiment Station's circular number 85, "The Planting and Maintenance of Lawns," for further information on winter grasses.

Baby Pigs May Become Crippled

Young pigs may become crippled in the farrowing house.

This crippling usually occurs in seven to ten-day-old pigs and may be in the form of swollen joints, knots on the elbow and other joints, or lameness and death. Auburn University Extension Hog Production Specialist G. B. Phillips explains that the common name for this condition is navel joint disease. It is caused by germs that enter the pig's body through the navel soon after birth.

To prevent this disease, a rigid sanitation program should be followed. Clean the farrowing house before the sow enters it. Also, Phillips recommends painting the navel of the pigs with tincture of iodine soon after birth. The navel cord should be clipped and treated with iodine immediately after birth.

These germs can also enter the baby pig's body through broken places in the skin. Animals in farrowing houses with concrete floors and no bedding often skin their knees while nursing. To prevent this from occurring, use shavings or other bedding on concrete or wooden floors. And if the knees are skinned, treat them immediately with iodine.

When disease symptoms are found, inject one cc of penicillin into the muscle each day. Do this for three consecutive days, says Phillips.

The baby pigs should be fed a fortified, sugared pellet pig starter as soon as they will begin nibbling on it. This will help to build strength and resistance to infection.

Remove eggs from the refrigerator about 45 minutes before using, and take only the number of eggs needed. The separation of yolks from whites is quicker and better if eggs are brought to about 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

channels the machinery and know-how for the buying and selling of cotton futures will have deteriorated... then the cotton buyer (whether merchant or mill) must work on wider margins, since there can be no hedging (and hedging is nothing except price insurance) ... and the grower would have to sell for less than he would if there were futures markets.

Cotton TV. A gin in California is using television to improve ginning techniques... a couple of TV cameras (one in the gin and the other in the gin yard) help the operator keep close tab on all operations without leaving his chair.

Up And Down. Farm production is up... number of farm workers is down... in the past score of years the farm out-put in the United States has gone up more than 50 per cent and the number of farm workers is down about 33 per cent... fewer acres, too.

Red Cotton Down. Sometime ago Red China was boasting of an estimated cotton production of about 16 million bales... now claim is production of about 9.5 million bales and some experts say claim is still too high.

To H.D. Agents. Just a suggestion to Home Demonstration Agents: how about demonstrating some cotton Christmas gifts that can be made at home? ... we understand some agents have started this and some H.D. clubs are hard at work making their gifts.

Cotton Grade Is Damaged By Rain

Wagon Urges Farmers To Take Soil Samples As Soon As Possible

With the 1959 cotton harvest in Lauderdale County almost complete, farmers are now turning their attention to planting the 16,800-acre wheat crop for harvest in 1960.

It was estimated Monday by county farm agents that the cotton harvest was between 85 and 90 per cent complete with the remainder of the crop being widely scattered and of generally lower grade than that harvested earlier.

In Lauderdale and Lawrence counties, a county-wide allotment of 9,667 acres had been distributed among farmers who are planting or have planted wheat. It was indicated that quite a bit of the crop has been planted with some still to be put in the soil.

The 15-acre provision whereby any farmer can plant 15 acres of wheat whether or not he has an allotment remains in effect.

L. T. Wagon, Lauderdale County agent, said, "Our progress last week was pretty slow due to October conditions. There is still some cotton to be picked, and grain such as corn and corn sorghum to be harvested."

Wagon added that the cotton yield is good but the grade has fallen considerably due to recent rains.

The county agent urged farmers to take soil samples as soon as possible and to bring them by the County Agent's office, where material can be obtained for mailing.

Hay By-Product Of Peanut Crop

Peanut hay is one of the numerous by-products of the peanut crop. For best quality, peanut hay should be baled and stored immediately after threshing. According to Auburn University Extension Agronomist Jasper Jernigan, how and when it's harvested and how it's cured determines its quality.

When the hay is left in the field and exposed to weather, it quickly loses its value. Jernigan adds that hay from vines treated with copper sulfur is usually higher in quality than hay from untreated plants. This is because the treated vines contain more leaves. Hay yields from runner peanuts are usually about 1½ to two tons of hay per ton of nuts.

For a new treat, boil sweet potatoes in their skins until tender. Remove the skins, mash, and season with salt and butter. Form a ball and place a marshmallow in the center. Roll the potato in cereal flakes and place in the oven to brown.

Farms Should Have Floodlights

Every farm needs flood lights. Make a list where these lights should be installed, says Auburn University Extension Engineer Bill Cox. And list the areas in the order that they are most needed. Then install each one when money and time are available.

The engineer recommends mounting the fixtures 15 to 20 feet above the ground. Be sure that the fixture or lamp will direct the light downward, and keep flood light clear of trees to avoid shading large areas. Cox points out that a fixture on the corner of a building will light two sides of the structure as well as the surrounding yard.

Fresh pork should be loosely wrapped in waxed paper and stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Cheese rose to an all time high consumption rate of 8.6 pounds per person last year, reports the National Dairy Council. This was about a one-pound increase over 1957.

News Of GREENHILL
By Mrs. Mary McLaurine

The Lauderdale County "School of Instruction" No. 1, and the official visit of the Grand Officers of the Eastern Star of Alabama was held at the Masonic Hall Tuesday night with Lou White Chapter 475 as hostess, and Lexington 94 and Killen 328 assisting as co-hostesses. The hall was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers, baskets of mums being used in the East where Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron; Ida and William Thornton welcomed their honored guests. The officials present were:

Mrs. Ruth Clifford, Worthy Grand Matron; Herschel Foutch, P. Grand Patron; Mrs. Moselle Legg, Grand Con.; Mrs. Florence Simms, Grand Chaplin; Mrs. Mary Nell Riley, Grand Organist. Visitors were present from Sheffield, Florence, Tusculumbia, and Silver Springs, Colo.

After the Worthy Grand Matron was introduced her special song, "Getting To Know You" was sung by Mrs. Sandra Wilson, assisted by Mrs. Mary Nell Riley at the piano.

Worthy Matron Ida Thornton was assisted in the School of Instruction by Worthy Matrons, Bessie Newton of Lexington and Ruby Hurst of Killen.

At the close of the school a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments being served from a tastefully appointed table. Mrs. Era Green presided at the punch bowl while Mrs. Bessie Newton poured coffee.

Rev. William Smith has announced that he will hold the first service in the New Harrison's Chapel Methodist Church on the 5th Sunday in November.

The Art Class will meet Monday night November 16 at 6:30 p.m. at Rogers School.

The November meeting of the P.T.A. will be Tuesday, Nov. 17 at 7:00 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Shirley Mozella Behel, daughter of Mrs. Charlie Behel, Florence, Route 5, has been named Miss Citizenship of 1959-60 at T. M. Rogers High School.

We extend our sympathy to the family of Kaye Barnett. Kaye passed away at ECM Hospital Sunday after an extended illness. Funeral services were held Monday at 3:00 in the Rogers High School Auditorium. Burial was in the Center Hill cemetery.

Despite The Poets Moon Is Arid
The poet who first rhymed moon with June, spoon and croon could have been the same man who named the bumps and holes on earth's natural satellite.

The first rocket ship to the moon may well land in the Sea of Tranquility, for example. If it misses that mark, it could land in the Sea of Crises.

From that point, a spaceman could walk north to investigate the Sea of Fertility and the Sea of Nectar. Hopping across a mountain range and the Catharina crater, he would come to the Sea of Clouds, just west of the Sea of Moisture. He might want to bypass the Ocean of Storms and stroll South between Copernicus and Kepler—both craters named for scientists—to the Bay of Dew.

On his way back to the spaceship, he might look over the Lake of the Sleepers and the Lake of the Dead.

Of course, these names—translated into English from Latin—might confuse a spaceman with no poetry in his soul. There is no water on the moon... and the "seas" and "oceans" are just dry plains.

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER — STAYS TOGETHER"

Horn of PLENTY

This great land of ours has been blessed with the riches of the earth and with the freedoms, the rights, to enjoy them. But does the mere ownership of these goods guarantee our happiness?

All of us have experienced a disappointment at finally possessing some much-desired article. After weeks and sometimes years of looking forward to it, we find that the actual ownership brings little pleasure.

Could the fault lie with the gift itself? No, apparently it is within ourselves. Our own attitudes, our own relationships, our own understanding have certainly much more to do with our final satisfaction.

How then are we to derive the greatest blessings from the goods which have been put at our disposal? The best place to begin is in the Church. Here, in a personal search for God and our own understanding of Him, we may achieve a spiritual harmony, which will bless our lives and those of our fellow men.
