

The Passing Parade

By HAROLD S. MAY

● Daily we are asked: "What are we going to do about our schools? It's a good question and one that has puzzled the school people for the past five years. The stern reality of the serious situation is only now being understood by the people in general. As school funds are ear-marked funds and come only from a small amount of ad valorem taxes, the sales tax and income tax in the main, with a small portion of the total coming from other sources also specifically designated, the only real help at this time can come from legislative action first and the taxpayers second. All of us await the school budget with but faint hope that the situation will be aided and little or no hope that a cure will be forthcoming. Proration of school funds for the school year ending a little more than a month away may reach 14 or 15 per cent. What private business could operate successfully if its year's assured income as was promised the schools of the state in their approved budget, was cut 15 per cent? Few, if any, we'd say.

● It takes a truly wise man to distinguish between good, sound reasons and reasons that sound good.

● The rumor is that NASA is taking more and more interest in the possible establishment of a missile plant of some magnitude down in the Black Belt. We certainly hope this jells and real industry comes to those black acres in the plantation area of Alabama. Maybe, who knows, they'd even become interested in reappportionment if their industrial development rivaled the Tennessee Valley.

● We seem to be suffering from insomnia lately — in fact, it has gotten so bad that we can't even sleep when it's time to get up.

● A woman was buying one of those indoor thermometers as a gift for her husband. After listening carefully to the clerk extolling the merits of the various models he carried, she still seemed undecided as to which one she'd buy. Finally she brightened up: "I think I'll take this Fahrenheit one. I know that's a good brand."

● It may be true that money is the root of all evil — but it certainly grows into beautiful shrubbery.

● The Russians are truly breaking all sports records, it seems, and now comes word of another record maker. This young man is reported to have broken all records for the 1,500-meter dash, the five-mile run and the cross-country run. He made these records while dashing up and down steep hills, while fording deep streams, while penetrating into dark forests. But his record will not be made official. Seems that they captured him anyway and took him back to Moscow.

● Today's girl, in order to get her man, must know how to play golf, tennis, bridge and — dumb.

● In court case after court case it has been adjudged that a husband is the head of the family. It has also been decided time after time that the pedestrian has the right-of-way. Both the husband and the pedestrian are safe under the law as long as they don't try to exercise their rights.

● Khrushchev has announced that there is no use to beef about his order that the Russians are to eat horse meat.

● The wedding that Saturday afternoon up in the East Kentucky hills was a real event. Everyone for miles around was there because they just thought that Suzie Mae would never get married and all wanted to see the man she caught. After the ceremony, one of the local citizens spoke to the girl's father: "Zeke," he said, "that was a right pretty wedding but I couldn't help noticing that your new son-in-law marched up to the altar as though he had lead in his pants." Zeke shifted his chaw of tobacco to the opposite side, looked over his glasses and replied: "He did."

● We could never be a space traveller as we don't like sleeping on our back.

● Today, we expect practically every type of service when we drive into a modern service station but an operator in Miami, Fla., has gone a step farther than any customer has a right to expect. This station offers free marriages with the purchase of five or more gallons of gasoline. One of the mechanics is a notary public and therefore is authorized to perform marriage ceremonies.

Contracts Awarded On County School Projects

A contract covering the construction of a new elementary school building at Waterloo has been awarded by the Lauderdale County Board of Education to the T. V. Lloyd Construction Co., Sheffield, who submitted the low base bid of $76,495.

As the low bid was considerably over the sum allotted for this project, following negotiations between Superintendent Allen Thornton, Architects Barr & Tume and Mr. Lloyd, certain changes were made in plans to bring the construction cost within the allotted figures. The new building will have six classrooms, one ceramic room, one bookkeeping room, one typing room, offices, cabinets, toilet facilities, mechanical room and central heating for the new construction as well as the old construction not now served by central heating. With the modified construction, all facilities first planned have been included in the final contract, Mr. Thornton stated.

The board of education at its meeting Thursday also received the following base bids: Bigbee-Morris Construction Co., $84,600; J. M. Massey Construction Co., $79,000; Craig Construction Co., $77,000 and Construction Engineers, $77,977.

Anderson School
It was reported by Superintendent Thornton that after further negotiations with Bigbee-Morris Construction Co., as authorized by the board, that agreement had been reached that will provide for the construction of four new classrooms at Anderson Junior High School, and contract had been awarded.

The Board of Education will meet Saturday, September 2, when the land and building of Palestine School, which has been discontinued, will be offered at public auction at 11 a.m. The board will also meet on Tuesday evening, September 6, to receive bids on improvement.

State's School Situation Critical

LeCroy Says Budget Inadequate To Meet Alabama's Educational Needs

JFK Assures West Berlin 'No Retreat'

Assuring West Berliners that the United States will not retreat President John F. Kennedy Monday broke off plans for signing a commercial air agreement that had been worked out with the Soviets.

The surprise move was announced by the State Department after a month of quiet talks on the proposed air-route joining New York and Moscow. The reason given was because of the international situation "for which the U.S. is not responsible."

Soviet reaction to the move so far has been mild. The Soviet Union's air chief Col. Gen. Yevgeni F. Loginof, voiced regret saying "the step cannot be regarded as improving U.S.-Soviet relations."

This was the second time the proposed air route has become a "cold war" casualty.

Allies Show Might
Following the arrival of 1,500 additional American troops to reinforce the West Berlin garrison, British tanks and infantrymen were deployed over a two-mile area at the border between East and West Berlin where East Germans had started working under guard of Communist militiamen, police and eight armored personnel carriers. The East Germans erected barbed wire barricades to halt the flow of refugees to West Berlin.

Johnson Reports Visit
Vice President Lyndon Johnson who flew to Berlin for conferences with top officials reported to the President for almost an hour Tuesday. After the conference, Mr. Kennedy termed Johnson's mission as "remarkably successful and important." He said Johnson had emphasized the confidence and trust which West Berliners put in America. The President said "this puts a heavy responsibility on all of us."

An Alabama National Guard spokesman said Monday that the period of service for certain soldiers in the guard has been extended by one year as a result of the tension over Berlin.

The spokesman said all guardsmen with ready reserve obligations whose periods of service are scheduled to end between Oct. 1, 1961 and June 30, 1962, will have to serve another year after commitments have expired. The order was issued by Secretary of the Army Elvis Starr on August 17.

Weeden Heights To Get Rec. Center

The Florence City Commission voted, Tuesday, to authorize the completion of plans and specifications for a new city recreation center in Weeden Heights with facilities for both adults and children.

The project will be set on a piece of city-owned property 310 by 450 feet in size, which is about one and half times as large as an ordinary city block.

A preliminary plan submitted by Barr and Tume, Florence architects, had already been authorized.

ASC farmer-committeemen, who will soon be elected by their neighbors for the coming year, have important program responsibilities, according to Joe J. "This makes it all the more important that representative farmers be elected to the job," he declared.

ASC committeemen have charge of the local field administration of such national farm programs as acreage allotments, marketing quotas, commodity loans, the feed grain program, the Sugar Act program, the National Wool program, the Agricultural Conservation Program, the Conservation Reserve Program and farm storage facility loans. Two Years Before Schools Could Be Helped By Bill

Supt. Thornton Explains Permissive Legislation On One-Cent Sales Tax

Allen Thornton, Lauderdale County Superintendent of Education, says that legislation introduced in the Alabama House and Senate, Friday, by members of the Lauderdale legislative delegation to provide relief for the county's financially distressed school system, could not help for at least two years.

State Representative Charles Long and State Senator E. B. Halton, Jr., introduced the identical Senate and House measures in behalf of the schools. The measures would permit the Lauderdale Board of Education to spend funds derived from the special one-cent sales tax now on the books for things "other than school construction" including teacher salaries.

However, Thornton advised the one-cent sales tax, which amounts to approximately $170,000 annually, is already tied up on a two year local loan and couldn't be of any help for at least two years.

The local short-term loan, in the amount of $225,000, was made by the County Board of Education recently to replace the Rogersville Elementary School building which burned last year as well as for remodeling the Lexington High School structure.

Representative Long said he felt and believed other members of the legislative delegation would concur. "It's more important to have good teachers and school open than to have a little fine glass in the school windows."

Thornton reminded that the tentative opening date for the school opening in Lauderdale county remains September 25, however, it is still subject to change and the schools could start sooner if it was known what the appropriations would be.

State Superintendent of Education, W. A. LeCroy announced Monday that unless the Legislature increases the proposed school appropriation the quality of education available to Alabama youngsters will be drastically reduced. The House Ways and Means committee approved a school budget calling for only a slight increase over the $133 million expected to be spent at the end of the fiscal year. Specifically the bill calls for $137.9 million for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1st and $148 million for the following year.

LeCroy Hits Budget

"Today many people have asked me if the public elementary and high schools can operate within the reduced educational budget which has been reported out of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives. In answer to this question, I must fulfill my obligation to the people and simply state: This appropriation measure places many boards of education in an impossible financial situation unless there is a drastic reduction in teacher units, or in teachers' salaries, or in the length of the school term, or some combination of the three. This is especially true in some fifty-odd rural counties of Alabama. In either event, the quality of education available to the boys and girls of Alabama will be drastically reduced. This Alabama cannot afford at this critical period of our history.

"This is not the type of information about our public schools I would like to report to the citizenry of Alabama but our people, who pay for the educational program and who look forward to its improvement, are entitled to know the facts, and these are the facts.

Budget Too Small

The school budget now before the Legislature is said to be in line with expected tax income and follows Governor John Patterson's recommendations. However it is almost $100 million less than schools asked for for the two-year period.

Included in the budget is a conditional $5,000,000 for each year to be appropriated if tax collections exceed the amount earmarked for education.

AEA Urges More Funds

The AEA Board Monday urged Gov. Patterson and the Legislature to increase appropriations to Alabama schools and to enact revenue measures to support the increase.

The AEA board said its letter distributed to each legislator was in behalf of 22,000 teachers in the state.

Sales Tax Increase Sought

Rep. Sam Nettles of Wilcox County and Rep. Wiley Salter of Conecuh County have introduced a bill to up Alabama's sales tax from three to four cents on the dollar. The bill would provide for an 18 month limitation on the collection of the additional penny tax.

A public hearing on the proposed tax increase has been scheduled by the House Ways and Means Committee today.

The Old Fight Still Rages

Private utilities trying to develop nuclear power plants want and take subsidies from the federal government. This is called "progress" while the same help to public power is called socialism.

Now while the private utilities preach economy in government they do not want to see it practiced. Recently they took a stand, through their power lobby in Washington against the taxpayers. The question Rep. Jones says, was whether heat produced at the atomic energy plant at Hanford, Washington, was to be wasted or turned into electrical power for the Pacific Northwest. The utilities won, choosing to see money go down the drain rather than benefit anybody. That's progress?

We bring this matter up mainly because a prominent figure in American politics, Sen. Barry Goldwater, has disapproved a lot of people by his stand on the matter of public versus private power.

While the battle over the Hanford deal was going on in the House Mr. Goldwater put in his five cents worth in the Senate to wit: "I said once before and I reiterate today that TVA was conceived in socialism, born during a period of economic chaos and has been nurtured and expanded in deceit. President Eisenhower referred to it as 'creeping socialism.' I call it 'galloping socialism.'"

Senator Estes Kefauver's reply to Senator Goldwater is worth reading:

"Senator Goldwater's tune is the same old tired tune," Kefauver said. "I cannot imagine why he has decided to play it again today. He joins again a small group of reactionaries who for one reason or another would call progress for the people galloping socialism and who would keep our nation tied up to the dock while the mainstream of civilization flows by. TVA has paid its way in spite of efforts to disprove this that keep cropping up at the hands of the private power lobby year after year and even in spite of efforts of this lobby inside our very Government to destroy TVA in the notorious Dixon-Yates deal. TVA is an example to the world of how a people working with their government can accomplish the economic development of an entire region. TVA is a living example of a great partnership to the world."

No Surrender

President Kennedy inherited a mess. Day by day more intelligent people come to realize the extent of the bungling done around the world by inept leadership and miscalculation. The great wonder is we avoided war.

Plainly we see now that the Berlin crisis is not something to treat with indifference even though the British and some of our allies view this nation's stand with some reservations. Both the danger of war and the danger of defeat lie within the core of the Berlin situation.

It was through no fault of Mr. Kennedy that Khrushchev caught us and the free world unprepared for his sudden decision to close the East Berlin border to further exodus of Germans to the West. It was hardly something anyone could be prepared for since it followed that Soviet Russia was compelled to make this move in reply to our decision to stand firm.

The full insolence of the Soviets is apparent with this move as well as their traditional disregard for treaties made in good faith.

Khrushchev is using Berlin to sound out this "new and bold" approach of Washington. He is no longer having to listen to excuses but has heard a forthright statement of fact that we will not surrender any part of the free world. This new approach, to put the matter in everyday parlance, bugs Khrushchev. He has been used to having countries prodded and panicked into giving up and while he still professes to believe we are bluffing he now has some strong doubts. His reply to Mr. Kennedy's speech on Berlin indicates this.

One of the primary reasons a surrender of West Berlin would be disastrous is that our only organized defense, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, would disintegrate and worse, there would be a mad scramble to get on the communist bandwagon.

From this observer's view it looks like Berlin is where the free world stands or falls. The hope of the world is that responsible leaders may find a way out.

Late News

● Governor John Patterson thus far has given no indication as to the fate of the "chop-up Jefferson" redistricting bill. He has until next Monday to make up his mind and if the Legislature is not in session on that day he will have two more days. The latest protest was registered by a group of North Alabama editors who conferred with Patterson Wednesday morning.

● Senators Tuesday abandoned for the time being their efforts to pass legislation extending the life of the Civil Rights Commission for two years. An amendment to keep the commission in existence until Sept. 1963 was tacked on to a Federal money bill but the Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland of Miss., failed to act on legislation to extend its life.

Land Reclaimed In Test Project

Nearly fifty persons watched an abandoned gullied field rehabilitated and seeded to pasture at the Johnnie Clemmons farm, Route 1, Florence, Friday.

The Lauderdale County Cooperative, Inc., the Extension Service and other agriculture agencies organized the land reclamation project which is sponsored by the Distributor Demonstration program of the Tennessee Valley Authority in thirty-five states as part of a fertilizer educational program.

Neighborhood farmers arriving early Friday morning saw old terraces knocked down and gullies filled as the first step in the smoothing operation. The field was then plowed, disked, limed and fertilized and that afternoon, grass and clover were planted on the hill side for permanent pasture.

Part of the six-acre field that long ago lost nearly all topsoil was not seeded to pasture. It will be planted with oats and vetch in September and plowed under next spring as a green manure crop, followed by a crop of sericea lespedeza to improve the soil further.

Within three or four years, the badly eroded section should have improved to the point that it, too, can be seeded to pasture.

Two other projects, Elgin School and East End High School, remain to be resolved as bids received a few weeks ago on these additions were far above the amount allotted for their construction. No change in the announced plans of postponing the opening of the 1961-62 school term for one month is now apparent, members of the board state, however it is hoped that the Legislature, now in session, will be able to come up with a budget that will allow an earlier opening date but as of now nothing new has developed, it was pointed out. The board expressed itself as hoping that a full nine-month term can be carried out when schools open and, although the number of teaching personnel must necessarily be cut, every effort will be made to see that each teacher receives full pay and that cuts in salaries will be avoided. Personality Sketches

By ANN SULLIVAN

OKLEY E. BARR

"Public spirited with a very definite interest in politics, Okley Barr has worked hard throughout his life and, deprived of the full formal education he has always desired for his children, he has devoted much of his time and energies for the improvement of education in our county," is the way in which a friend summed up Mr. Barr's record.

Always doing his full share in every effort for the betterment of Lauderdale county, Mr. Barr helped, with manual labor and what funds he could spare, in the construction of the gymnasium at Lexington School, of which he is now a trustee. Regretting the lack of time he could spend with his children in their growing up years he is now finding what he has missed as he finds time to spend with his grandchildren. "I never realized how much I missed until these later years," he said.

Okley E. Barr was born in Rogersville, January 13, 1897, the son of Willis Freeman (Bill) and Kizzie Ann McKee Barr. He attended elementary school at Rogersville for a short time, when the family moved to Lexington. He finished his formal education at Lexington.

Following the completion of grammar school, Mr. Barr began his farming career. He was so engaged for the next six years.

In 1915, Mr. Barr was married to Verna Duke of Lexington. They have five daughters: Mrs. Agnes B. Glasscock, Mrs. Ann Rogers, Mrs. Doris Taylor, all of Florence; Mrs. Marilyn Moore, a senior at Florence State College, and Jane Barr, a 1961 graduate of Coffee High School; one son, Harold D. Barr, who resides in Lexington.

In 1922, Mr. Barr became associated with D. T. Wilcoxson in the mercantile business at Lexington. He continued in that connection until August, 1939, when he and Mr. Wilcoxson organized the Florence Implement Company. The company was first located on West College Street. In 1940, the firm moved to Tombigbee and Pine Streets where it continued operations until 1955. At that time, Mr. Barr and Mr. Wilcoxson moved the business to its present spacious location on Florence Boulevard.

Mr. Barr moved from Lexington to Florence in 1942 and has made his home here since. However, he has continued his farming operations, specializing in the production of grade cattle. His farm is located near Lexington.

He is a director of the O. K. Wholesale Grocery Company; is immediate past president and now secretary of Lauderdale County Farm Equipment Dealers Association, and a member of the Alabama Farm Equipment Dealers Association.

Referendum Set Today On Quotas For Wheat Crop

The support price for the 1962 wheat crop will be a minimum national average of $2 per bushel with wheat marketing quotas in effect, L. H. Rickard Office Manager Lauderdale County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. This price reflects 84.4 percent of the August 1961 parity price. The 1961 support rate was $1.79 per bushel, or about 75 percent of parity.

A referendum for producers will be held August 24 to determine whether or not marketing quotas will apply to the 1962 wheat crop. At least two-thirds of all eligible growers voting must approve the quotas if they are to become effective, the manager pointed out.

If more than one-third of the growers oppose the quotas, there will be no restriction on wheat marketing, but allotments will remain in effect as a condition for support price at 50 percent of parity. Currently, parity is $2.37 per bushel.

Only producers who have raised more than 13.5 acres of wheat on a farm in any one of the 3 years 1959, 1960, or 1961 and will be engaged in the production of more than 13.5 acres of wheat for harvest on a farm in 1962, will be eligible to vote.

In previous years, individual farm allotments have been determined on the basis of a minimum national wheat allotment of 55 million acres. However, under a recent change in the law, all farm wheat allotments are reduced by 10 percent, Mr. Rickard explained. To qualify for price support and wheat stabilization payments—available only if quotas are approved, producers must divert acreage represented by this 10-percent reduction to conservation uses.

Stabilization payments for the 10-percent reduction would be made in cash or in wheat equal to 45 percent of the 1962 basic county support price rate for wheat, multiplied by the adjusted yield per acre for the farm, multiplied by the number of diverted acres.

In addition, if marketing quotas are approved, producers could di-

Alabama School Construction Is Pushed Forward

Alabama's huge $100 million school-building program, now in full swing, will provide scores of new schools and school additions in time for use during the fall term.

By Sept. 1, a total of 775 new classrooms will be ready for classes in elementary and high schools and in the next year and a half almost 4,000 will have been added.

In addition to boosting education appropriations by $20 million, the Legislature approved the issuance of $100 million in revenue bonds for a statewide school construction program. It was Alabama's first state bond issue for education.

To date, $95 million of the construction funds had been allocated to various school projects.

The Alabama Education Authority, passes on the projects, has authorized the construction of high school facilities providing 2,383 new classrooms. Of this number, a total of 473 has been completed.

This includes 318 regular classrooms, 14 home economics rooms, 12 vocational agriculture rooms, 8 band rooms, 3 choral rooms, 15 libraries, 23 special classrooms, 6 multi-purpose rooms, 21 kitchens, 20 cafeterias, 10 auditoriums, 17 gymnasiums and 6 science rooms.

In elementary schools, a total of 1,515 classrooms was authorized and 302 have been completed. This includes 262 regular classrooms, 4 special classrooms, 3 multi-purpose rooms, 13 kitchens, 11 cafeterias, 4 auditoriums, 1 gymnasium and 4 libraries.

In the past 10 years the nation's farmers have increased their per man output by an average of nine per cent annually.

vert an additional 30 percent of the farm wheat acreage to conservation uses. Payment for this diversion would be based on 80 percent of the adjusted yield per acre, and payment would be made in cash or in wheat.

Growers producing between 10 and 15 acres in the last 3 years may be paid on as much as 10 acres voluntarily retired to conservation use.

Sparkman Backs Plan To Store Wheat In State

Fair To Feature Gertrudis Cattle; Office Now Open

Twenty-Seventh Edition Promises To Be Finest Ever Seen In Valley

Beginning Monday, September 18 and ending Saturday night, September 23, the 27th edition of the North Alabama State Fair in Florence promises to be one of the finest and most colorful ever seen in the Tennessee Valley.

Unique among the extensive livestock exhibits will be the showing of a herd of Santa Gertrudis cattle for the first time in the area. Many other breeds of cattle and livestock, from the finest herds in the Southeast will be shown as well as products of the farm and factory from over a wide area.

Many improvements have been made in the fair for the safety and convenience of its patrons as well as bringing to the area the very finest in entertainment. Breath-taking acts by the world's greatest artists are featured in the fine two-hour grandstand show matinee and night. These will include the internationally famous Hanniford's recently seen on the Ed Sullivan Show, Slivers Johnson, "crown prince of the comedy Ford," the Olympic Sky Divers and others.

B. L. Nabors, vice president of the Fair Association, is in charge of the office at the fairgrounds which is now open for the transaction of business.

A proposal by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to develop a national defense food policy has received the strong support of Senator John Sparkman.

Sparkman pointed out that in many respects the Freeman proposal seeks the same goals which Sparkman's bill to establish survival depots seeks. Sparkman is sponsoring a bill which would establish survival depots at strategic points adjacent to nuclear target areas. Stored in these depots would be surplus foods which could be used to feed survivors of a nuclear attack.

Sparkman said President Kennedy has sent to the Congress a request for a Department of Agriculture supplemental appropriation of $47.2 million. With this money Agriculture would provide for the relocation of 126,000,000 bushels of Federally owned wheat from current sites to areas where food shortages could exist following an attack.

"Under this proposal $1,829,000 bushels of wheat would be stored in Alabama," Sparkman said. "This would be enough to supply a four-month requirement to each person in Alabama target areas."

The Senator pointed out that under the Department of Agriculture plan wheat would be stored in and near the following Alabama cities: Birmingham, 879,000 bushels; Huntsville, 127,000; Mobile, 452,000; Montgomery, 241,000; and Tuscaloosa, 130,000.

A fourth of the grain supply for each metropolitan district would be located within the city area while the remainder would be placed in bins in a perimeter area approximately 25 miles from the center of the city.

Greater Alabama Offices Leased To Bureau Of Roads

The Greater Alabama Building will soon house the Tri-Cities headquarters of the Bureau of Public Roads, it was announced jointly by James A. Lane, Huntsville, chairman of the board and George Lewis Bailes, Jr., president.

An entire floor of this new and modern office building has been leased to the U. S. Government on a long term agreement at an annual rental of $12,000 a year.

Directors of the Greater Alabama Corporation with home offices in Huntsville, have voted to withdraw the present issue of the corporation's common stock from public sale after Saturday night, September 30. Another issue of Greater Alabama stock will go on sale soon, Lane and Bailes also announced.

The present issue of $1.00 per value stock is selling at $2.50 per share.

The Greater Alabama Corporation was founded by Lane in November of 1959. Purpose of the organization is to sell stock to residents of Alabama and, in turn, invest the revenues in Alabama enterprises.

The Corporation recently signed a lease with a motel operating firm of Atlanta which will manage the Birmingham Cabana, a new luxury motel to be built on Birmingham's 20th Street by Greater Alabama. Final plans for the new motel are now in preparation.

Jimmy Jones Waddell Takes Mississippi Bride

Solemnized in Tate Baptist Church, Corinth, Mississippi, on Sunday, August twentieth, was the marriage of Joan Lula Stanford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Stanford of that city, and Jimmy Jones Waddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Helon Waddell of Rogersville. Brother Huckleberry, minister of Corinth First Christian Church and longtime family friend, read the mid-afternoon vows.

Mrs. Gary Cosby of Florence, sister of the bridegroom, presented an organ prelude.

Before an altar setting of all-white flowers and greenery, Mr. Stanford gave his daughter in marriage. Her ballerina-length gown of bridal lace was distinguished by a scalloped neckline and a crushed cummerbund of satin which extended to form self-roses at either side of the back waistline. Her brief veil was caught to a pearl-encrusted headband and with her white prayer book she carried a white orchid encircled by white carnations.

Miss Jean Stanford was dressed in blue lace to serve as her twin sister's honor attendant; bridesmaids were Miss Billie Harris of Corinth and Miss Barbara Martin of Savannah, Tennessee, who wore frocks of pink pima mist with matching lace overskirts. Their headbands and nosegays of feathered carnations were also of matching hue.

Johnny Ross of Rogersville was best man for the bridegroom and ushers were Gary Cosby, Florence, and Jerry Gurley, Corinth.

Mrs. Stanford, mother of the bride, wore a blue organza gown with matching hat and a corsage of white carnations; Mrs. Waddell, the bridegroom's mother, was in mauve sheer with hat of the identical shade and she, too, wore white carnations.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride's parents were reception hosts in the church parlors. Assisting were Miss Rita Flanagan and Miss Dianne Pratt, both of Corinth.

When the couple left in the late afternoon for a wedding trip to the Smokies, the bride was wearing a dark transition cotton, two-piece, with Fall accessories and, at her shoulder, the orchid from her bouquet.

Upon return, they will be at home in Rogersville.

In addition to the bridegroom's parents and his sister and brother-in-law, wedding and reception guests included another sister, Bitsey Waddell, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Waddell and Mrs. Cora Jones, Mr. and Mrs. George Tucker and Miss Jane Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. James Waddell, Mrs. Oswald Waddell, Miss Mary Lou Waddell and Bo Waddell, all of Rogersville; Mrs. Dwight Plott (Ramsey Waddell) and little son of Indianapolis, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Fuqua of Florence.

From Cherokee Lake Honeymoon

Following their marriage of Friday, August eleventh, in Stony Point Church of Christ, and their subsequent honeymoon on Cherokee Lake in Tennessee, Mr. and Mrs. William Derrell Davis have returned and will, after tomorrow, be at home at 1123 Belvedere Drive in Nashville.

The bride is the former Nola Laverne Hips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delma Morris Hips of Cloverdale Road, and the bridegroom's parents are Mrs. M. A. McGarity and the late Walter W. Davis of Florence.

Greenery entwined an arch at the church's altar center and the candelabra where tall, blue tapers burned, and arrangements of white gladioli and tuberoses completed the setting before which the wedding tableau formed.

Claude Lewis officiated in the half past six o'clock nuptials after appropriate wedding music was presented by the minister and Mrs. Lewis.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Of Chantilly lace, silk organza and tulle over bridal taffeta, her gown was designed with close-fitting bodice distinguished by a scalloped Sabrina neckline which dipped to a V in the back, long sleeves featuring hand points and tiny self-covered buttons, and a floor-length, very full skirt with front panel of lace and lace appliques. A headband of matching lace re-embroidered with pearls held her shoulder-length veil of double illusion and her bouquet was of tuberoses and feathered white carnations.

Mrs. Howard May was her sister's honor attendant; Misses Rita and Nita Hips; twin sisters of the bride, Mrs. Harold Pigg, the bridegroom's sister, and Miss Jean Simmons were bridesmaids. They wore shaded blue sheath frocks of lace, matching tulle mitts and veiled headresses. Mrs. May carrying a crescent of white feathered carnations and the 'maids, nosegays of white pompons. Flower girl Martha Pigg, niece of the bridegroom, wore powder blue organza and scattered rose petals from a dainty basket.

The bridegroom asked his brother-in-law, Harold Pigg, to be his best man; ushers were Charles McClure, a cousin, David Sharp, Richard Hunnicut, Cherokee, N. C., and Reed Bursleson, Dexter, Mo.

Mrs. Hips, mother of the bride, wore navy nylon lace over taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations; Mrs. McGarity, the bridegroom's mother, was also in blue lace, a lighter shade worn with white accessories and white carnations.

Evening Ceremony Unites Miss Rinks, Mr. Womble

Against an ivy-etched background, tall green ferns and arrangements of white gladioli decorated the candlelight altar before which Barbara Ann Rinks exchanged nuptial vows with Kenneth Gene Womble on Saturday evening, August nineteenth, in Highland Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rinks, 507 East Lelia Street, and the bridegroom's parents are Mrs. L. E. Womble, James Street, and the late Mr. Womble.

Following a musical presentation by Mrs. Earl Trent and Corvill Horton, the Reverend Trent officiated in the seven o'clock ceremony. William Russell Womble, brother of the bridegroom, and Michael McBride served as candlelighters.

Mr. Rinks gave his daughter in marriage. Her wedding gown of lace over bridal taffeta featured a rounding neckline, long sleeves which tapered to points over the hands and a full, floor-length skirt marked at the back waistline by a wide self-bow. Her fingertip length veil was caught to a crown of pearls and with her white satin Bible she carried a single white orchid encircled with fleurs d'amour.

Miss Carolyn Hunter was the bride's only attendant. Her dress of green silk organza was identical in design to the bride's and she wore a matching veiled head-dress and carried a bouquet of yellow mums.

Kenneth Doyle Staggs was Mr. Womble's best man; ushers were Paul Sanderson and Larry Winters.

Mrs. Rinks chose for her daughter's wedding, and for the reception which followed in the church parlors, a sheath dress of beige silk with overskirt of lace and a corsage of yellow pompons; Mrs. Womble, mother of the bridegroom, wore mauve lace and a white glameilla corsage.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Rinks, reception hosts, were Miss Brenda Conner, Mrs. Robert Moore, Mrs. J. W. Winters, Mrs. William Howard Stricklin, Mrs. Eugene Townsend, Mrs. Bob R. Stricklin, Miss Faye Leatherwood, and Mrs. William Edwin Rinks.

THE SPILLWAY

When Fame and Fortune make FAMOUS men, It's fun to say "I knew him when."

WHICH HAS HAPPENED TO US several times this past week . . . Maybe you saw in a recent issue of Time magazine under "Wall Street" a (most complicated to a NON-financier) detailed article concerning "I.D.S." — which means, we learned upon investigation, Investors Diversified Services. And the point where the article "hit home" was in the mention of Grady Clark, the chief executive officer, formerly of Sheffield. All this was (specially interesting because Grady's wife, Mary Frances (Moore) was at one time the very beautiful (and we understand that she still is) fashion coordinator for a local department store . . . Browsing still further, we spied a ("Journal Closeup" in Montgomery's Alabama Journal of none other than "Sheriff" Louise (Barnett) Todd (daughter of Andy and Ella Barnett — quite a long "journal," and the more we read, the louder we said "We knew her when." Louise has just resigned her post as executive secretary of the Alabama Sheriffs' Association, because hubby-Don has been transferred to Tuscaloosa, where they have purchased a large home, and where Louise plans to spend her time "just being housewife and mother" . . . And finally, in a last week's edition of Memphis' Commercial Appeal, we came upon a lengthy and interesting write-up about "our" Mary Ellen (Roberts) Haley. The writer of the article was as impressed as we've ALWAYS been with Mary Ellen — about the numerous roles she plays while summering at Montecage, where she and Charles have a summer home. Among these roles are mentioned: hostess to a young Cuban sub-deb, secretary for the home owners association, promoter of the Montecage Mountain Market and Art Show, organizer of a writers' colony, and homemaker . . . All this ended with the description of an invasion by a colony of hornets there, and "this was about the only activity on the mountain not directed and engineered by Mary Ellen Haley."

SPEAKING OF INVASIONS, a very pleasant one our fair town has just enjoyed was by the District Kiwanians with their Kiwanians . . . Hear that there was much pleasure and activity — that the "Anns" even had a luncheon at Skypark Supper Club and witnessed a command performance of the Starmakers' final summer production "Dark of the Moon."

ATTENDING JACQUELINE'S PARTY . . . but we hasten to add not as a guest . . . was Cpl. Alfred McCroskey, Jr., of the United States Marines, who was a member of the Honor Guard on hand for the reception given at Mt. Vernon by the President and his Lady for the President of Pakistan and his retinue. The Marine, son of Mary Lou and Alfred McCroskey, of Shades Ave., reports that the party was "really something" . . .

ADDED TO THE GAITY of our young marrieds who're pleased to welcome Jane (Harris) and Goodloe Pride, Jr. to their local ranks . . . Understand that "Bud" is to be associated with Reynolds here. DIDN'T THINK HE COULD . . . Those in the position to know say that Thomas Reeder is the very home-lovin' person about . . . and have been taking bets on how long he'd stay on the vacation he and Nell are now taking . . . But they did make it all the way to Montgomery to join Douglas and Eloise Jackson for a trip to Florida to visit Frances (Moore) and Earl Jackson, and sons . . . And they must be having "a wonderful time" since Thomas has stayed away from home longer than anyone thought he would. Speaks pretty well for Frances and Earl as hosts.

POOLING THEIR RESOURCES and ending up with a gayer-than-gay (we have it on good authority) party last week were the John Hutchinsons and the Ben Craigs . . . inspired by the arrivals in town of (Doc) "Ham" and Laura Hutchinson to visit brother-John and Irene — and of Craig and Sue Jackson — and of Frances (Craig) and Newton Wiggins (and family) and of Elizabeth (Craig) Hood (with her three young ones here to visit the Craigs including mama-Emma) . . . Added local friends — and much fun was had by many in the Hutchinsons' lovely yard.

Banks Lead All Other Groups In Aid To Farmers

Alabama banks were serving farmers with more credit and other financial services than any institutional group of lenders at the beginning of this year, according to A. D. Ray, president of Farmers & Merchants Bank of Waterloo, who represents the Alabama Bankers' Association as Lauderdale County Key Banker. During 1960, the state's banks maintained their leadership in agricultural credit services.

Based on the 20th annual farming summary of the Agricultural Committee of The American Bankers Association, Mr. Ray reported that at the beginning of the year, Alabama banks were helping farmers with $75 million in loans, 6 per cent more than a year previous. This total included $43 million in production loans and $32 million in farm mortgages.

Mr. Ray believes that "farmers and bankers working together in this way help make Alabama agriculture more prosperous." He reported that 98 per cent of the insured commercial banks in the state are serving agriculture's credit needs.

Annual Retreat To Be Held Sept. 4-7 At Camp Hillcrest

Leadership Discussions
Scheduled By Faculty And Student Presidents

Florence State College will hold its Fifth Annual Leadership Retreat at Camp Hillcrest, September 4-7, the week prior to the opening of school.

According to Miss Pauline Gravlee, Dean of Women, and Abel F. DeWitt, Dean of Men, and faculty co-chairmen of the Retreat, the general theme of the four-day conference will be "Needs of a Leader."

Attending the Leadership Retreat will be the president of each of the student organizations at Florence State and one delegate-at-large from each organization.

Larry Sparks, Russellville, student chairman of the retreat planning committee, has announced that the emphasis of the week's encampment will be placed on the responsibilities, techniques, and personal needs of the effective and democratic leader.

Don Patterson, Florence attorney, will be the featured speaker at the leadership training conference.

The new band program will be discussed with Kenneth W. Large, Florence State band director. The director of the recently completed Student Union, Edward Lowe, will be at the camp to discuss the entire Union program with the students.

President E. B. Norton and Dean Turner W. Allen will be on hand for an evening session to conduct an "Ask Us" panel. Dr. Norton will also address the student leaders, using his topic, "Looking Ahead."

Other Florence State faculty and staff undertaking leading roles at the Retreat will be W. T. McElhenry, Dean of Student Affairs; Mort Smith, chairman of the art department; and Miss Nancy Coe Vance, instructor in health and physical education.

Faculty leaders for the discussion groups will be Miss Julia Neal, associate professor of English; Mrs. Maureen Maness, associate professor of history; Bernarr Cresap, chairman of the department of history; and Luckey Crocker, professor of psychology.

Florence State College Supports Blood Program

The 1960-61 Red Cross year was a good one for the Red Cross Blood Program, both locally and nationwide, according to Aaron M. Lynch, Chairman, and Mrs. Charles E. Nance, Executive Secretary of the Lauderdale Red Cross Chapter.

In Lauderdale County, 957 pints of blood were collected in six bloodmobile visits, for an average of 151 pints per visit.

Florence State College is the most prolific source of blood for the local chapter. In the two bloodmobile visits to the college last year, 610 pints were collected. In urging continued strong public support of the blood program, the local Red Cross leaders stated that more than eight bottles of blood are used in this country every minute of every day to treat the ill and the injured. They added that of the nearly 5 million pints collected in the nation each year, Red Cross supplies almost 2 1/2 million pints.

All types of blood are needed. Any persons between the ages of 18 and 60 may donate. Donor pledge cards may be secured at the Red Cross office in the Elks Building.

Haltom Ability Shown In Fight To Reapportion

The widely-publicized Haltom Reapportionment Bill, hotly debated for weeks and now buried in its grave, was authored by Senator Bert Haltom of Florence, known as a young man going places in politics.

Now just thirty-eight, Haltom is a man of unusual ability as an orator, skillful at parliamentary maneuvering and knows his way around in the field of practical politics. He possesses an air of an extremely attractive political personality, an attraction particularly appealing to the party loyalist ranks from whence he comes.

Finds Self In Trap

For a man with future political operations glory, Haltom a few days ago found himself in a position of great vulnerability, the central figure in what has been described as a true political paradox. To his credit, however, he was able to extricate himself from the trap to some degree, which is explained as follows.

Haltom had been working for legislative reapportionment since the day he took his seat in the House in 1955. Promoted two years ago by his constituents to the Senate, he decided to bear down even harder on reapportionment, making it the number one item on his personal legislative program. Introduced as Senate Bill No. 1, it commanded the backing of the Patterson administration and carried the name of Haltom the length and breadth of the state.

He worked unceasingly for his bill, an identical version of which went down to defeat three consecutive times in the house, however, the senator persisted in his drive to get the bill before the Senate for a formal vote.

Special Calendar Proposed

On the crucial 24th legislative day, the Senate Rules Committee met and proposed a special order calendar, with the Haltom Reapportionment Bill at the top of the heap. Haltom formerly moved that the committee's recommendation be tossed right back to the committee.

Haltom was trying to forestall consideration of his own bill, his long-fought reapportionment bill, because he knew why the Rules Committee put his measure at the top. They had put it on top to get it out of the way to clear the decks for the Ferguson-Givhan bill. Not wanting to see his bill go down the drain in such fashion, and being avowed foe of Ferguson-Givhan, Haltom put in his motion to recommit the Rules Committee action and then used that motion as the vehicle to launch a filibuster against the redistricting bill.

Ferguson-Givhan Scrapped

As the matter turned out, its backers scrapped Ferguson-Givhan the following day in favor of a plan to chop up Jefferson County as the Ninth Congressional District. Haltom teamed up with Sens. Larry Dumas of Birmingham and Ryan deGraffenried of Tuscaloosa to filibuster the plan, a decision that brought Haltom partial recovery from his sustained effort to keep his own reapportionment bill bottled up.

Haltom, indeed, was ensnared in the grips of a paradox, a political dilemma and fought out the best way he knew how.

Few legislators have the capabilities of Haltom. Perhaps he will emerge from the fracas with no lasting scars. Certainly Haltom hopes so, for he is a possible candidate for statewide office, that of lieutenant governor.

A VACATION

Everyone should take a vacation. No matter how well-liked or pleasant the job, an individual needs to get away from it for a time. Sticking close to the task day in and day out takes its unconscious toll in the form of restlessness, irritation, "snapping" disposition, and a fatigue and boredom that, if ignored, will do harm not only to the worker but to the job itself. Effective results cannot be accomplished when one is tired or bored.

Vacations should be planned with care so that they do not become a burden financially. One who spends everything he possesses on a vacation will return to his job morose and wondering just how the bills will be met.
Make your plans fit your means.
Travel accommodations are available that will meet your individual pocketbook.

Maybe your "change of scene"
means leisure time for reading, puttering in your garden, or doing a hundred little things for which you have no time in your work-a-day year. It doesn't make much difference what the change is, provided it meets the objective of getting away from routine.

If your plans include automobile or camping trips, be alert to safety measures in driving and caution in the selection of camping sites.
Many a family has started out with happiness in their hearts, only to have accident or disease return them to their homes.

By all means take a vacation.
Plan it with the interest and enthusiasm that fit your individual desires. Guard your health by avoiding insanitary eating places, excessive exercise, or wearing yourself out by crowding too many activities into a limited period.

Use discretion when you leave the work-a-day world temporarily. Do the things you want to in moderation. Have fun and relax. Hake your "change of pace" count. Don't leave wisdom at home in your search of change, for it is wisdom that will return you to your job with renewed zest and happiness.

BOUTWELL COMMENTS HERALD FOR COVERAGE

Editor: I have just finished reading my latest copy of the Florence Herald. The pleasure of finding familiar names and activities is a little like making another visit to the Florence community, — a thing I would like to do more often if the demands of my office and a necessary law practice did not so frequently interfere.

The Florence Herald is keeping its readers informed and alert. As its editors you are aware of the responsibility of public officers to keep themselves equally well informed. I know of no more accurate and responsible source of communication with the people and the affairs of the Lauderdale area than the Florence Herald has proved to be.

Readers sometimes are prone to take their familiar home newspaper for granted. The people of the Lauderdale County area and their neighbors can take considerable pride in how well the Florence Herald reflects their growth and influence in Alabama affairs. The Herald is an accurate mirror and a clearly audible voice of its people and for that fact I am grateful to all of you who have a part in its publication.

I have enjoyed my every visit to your area and whenever opportunity permits I look forward to coming your way again.

Very sincerely yours,
Albert Boutwell,
Lt. Governor of Alabama

Ray McCorkle

Mr. McCorkle Says:

Yes, Folks, our buyers have recently been to the Dallas and Atlanta furniture markets. Our credit was too good and we overbought. If you don't believe we have the furniture, we invite you to come in and see for yourself—if you can get in. We are going all out to out-discount the discounters, and under-sell the so called wholesalers. These sale prices are good in both of our stores on Court Street and in East Florence. Mr. White Says:

I have never seen and delivered so much furniture. We keep two trucks busy all the time.

Steve Masterson

Thos. J. Fontana Named Secretary Of Flagg-Utica

The election of Thomas J. Fontana as secretary of Flagg-Utica Corporation was announced yesterday by Jewett T. Flagg, Chairman of the Board. Mr. Fontana was with the firm of Cravath, Swaine and Moore from 1950 to 1960. For the past year he has been an attaché of the appellate division of the New York State Supreme Court.

Mr. Flagg stated that the appointment was made to strengthen his main office organization and was part of his expansion program.

Veterans' Column State Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

Speaking of pensions, a subcommittee of the House Veterans Affairs Committee has opened hearings on a number of bills dealing with the subject of pensions for veterans with non-service-connected disabilities.

Seventeen members of Congress stressed that pensions for aging World War I veterans are long past due and every effort should be made to adopt suitable legislation before "Father Time" catches up with these men whose average age is now past 66 years. A spokesman for the World War One Veterans of the U.S.A. said that there was a long precedent to grant pensions to war veterans in this Nation and that there was not the slightest reason for further discrimination against War One veterans in this connection.

He pointed out that of any pension payments made, the Federal Government would recover some 30 per cent of such payments in taxes and that otherwise, many of these men would become public charges and be thrown on state, county and city relief agencies for help. He urged committee members to give favorable consideration to pension bills so that these aging veterans could have some sense of security in their declining years.

REPRESENTATIVE

This year of 1961 possibly will be known by historians as the year of the great decisions.

Leadership of the free world has been thrust on the United States. Its burdens and responsibilities and its challenges to hold and increase this leadership are being felt, not only throughout our government, but among individual citizens.

Our country is truly on the march to meet its challenges. The international situations at Berlin, Cuba, Laos and Latin America have taken the headlines. This often obscures what we are doing at home on the domestic front. The Congress truly represents the aspirations and the activities of our citizens. What goes on in the Congress reflects what the nation is doing.

This has been the busiest session since I entered Congress.

Up to date, a total of 12,300 different pieces of legislation have been introduced in the House and Senate. There were 9,700 given to the House and 2,600 given to the Senate. Each one had to be considered by some committee and acted upon and this required months of work. In addition to legislation, the Congress had to pass on presidential nominations, which amounted to over 43,600 persons in the military, courts, post offices and other governmental posts.

It has been seven and a half months of work under tension and stress. Congress has been well aware that every move it makes can have some echo around the world.

Congress has plenty of work ahead of it: Nobody can predict when this session will end. Still to be decided are issues which promise much debate and controversy. Ahead of us is legislation on military, decision on whether the government shall transmit publicly-produced power and many other issues which will deal with the explosive situation abroad, especially at Berlin.

It Will Pay You To Check Your Social Security

Is retirement just around the corner for you? Or is it a matter of years? In either case, be sure to include social security as a basic part of your retirement plan. Mrs. Mary King Temple, Manager of the Sheffield District Office stated that she is surprised by the number of people who let social security "take care of itself" until they have retired. Then, if there is trouble in getting needed information and evidence, the first benefit check will be late. Mrs. Temple suggests that each worker check on his social security account every three years. Then, any errors in his record can be easily corrected.

Another suggestion from Mrs. Temple was that people planning to retire should visit the social security office two or three months before they quit work. She said her office would explain what is needed to get their social security checks started promptly.

New Method Of Coding Voice Is Bell Invention

Talking over the telephone in the language of computers — a mathematical code of high speed electronic pulse — is the newest marvel in telephony.

In the experimental stage, the new method of voice transmission is being tried out between Newark and Passaic by Bell Telephone Laboratories in cooperation with the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company. A coded signal — in the usual "voices" — goes over the wires. At the destination end of the line the signals are rebuilt into voices and transmitted to the hearer.

The principle is called "pulse coded modulation," or simply "PCM." Instead of sending a continuous voice signal, the system takes samples of the speaker's voice very rapidly — about 8,000 times a second. These samples are encoded into a series of pulses, and the pulses are sent out over the wires. At intervals of approximately 6,000 feet, the coded signals are reconstructed and sent on to the next repeater point.

The system sends pulses over the wires so fast — one and one-half million per second — the cores of many different voices can be interlaced on the same wires, thus increasing the message capacity of the wires.

The new system is expected to be particularly useful in large cities where congestion below ground has often made it difficult to find room for additional telephone conduit.

Fewer Benefits To Be Withheld

A beneficiary who earns $1,200 or less in a year can receive all of his social security benefits. If earnings are over $1,200, some money is withheld from the benefits.

Under the old law, for each $2 earned between $1,200 and $1,500, $1 in benefits was withheld. For each $1 earned over $1,500, $1 in benefits was withheld.

Under the new law, $1 will be withheld for each $2 earned from $1,200 to $1,700 and $1 withheld for each $1 earned over $1,700.

This means that a beneficiary, generally speaking, can now get more in combined earnings and benefits then he would have had under the old law.

There is no change in the provision that, regardless of how much a beneficiary earns in a year, he will get a benefit check for any month in which he neither earns more than $100 in wages nor performs substantial services in self-employment. Beneficiaries aged 72 or over will continue to receive their benefits regardless of their earnings.

For more information about changes in the social security law, get in touch with your social security district office. The local office is located at 204 Annopolis Avenue, Sheffield, Alabama.

Telephone Talk

FORREST W. BRICE
Your Telephone Manager

YOU WOULDN'T THINK of building a new home with exposed electric wiring, exposed plumbing pipes or ducts on the outside of walls. By the same reasoning, why not plan to have concealed telephone wiring? More and more home builders are demanding this type service—why not you? We can wire your home for the number of telephones you'll need now and later. It also makes arrangements for our new Home Interphone service nicer. Call us about pre-wiring and the Home Interphone today!

HAVE YOU EVER NOTICED how much quicker your long distance calls go through when you know the telephone number? Nowadays it's important that you know the Area Code of that number. Just jot it down along with your list of telephone numbers. The Area Code in Alabama is 205 (you don't need to give us this if you're calling within Alabama, but any of your friends, relatives or business connections out-of-state should know it). Here are other examples of the Area Codes:

Memphis, Tenn is 901
Nashville, Tenn is 615
Atlanta, Georgia is 404
Corinth, Miss is 601

Look in your directory for others.

P. S. The presence of an area code on stationery letterheads lends a real professional touch.

Chisholm Road To Be Widened

The State Highway Department has approved the widening of Chisholm Road from Seven Points to Fairground Road, in Florence. The cost of the proposed improvements along Chisholm Road is to be divided as follows:

The city will move and modify all utilities along the route, do grading work, place all base materials and grade and shape the base. The state will furnish labor and materials for all paving; Property owners will pay for curbs and drainage.

Chisholm Road is the only main route into Florence which has not had major attention in the past few years, and it is handling more traffic daily as the city grows in a northwardly direction. City officials said they felt a first-class street would be obtained at a nominal cost to all if property owners approve their share of the cost.

Stockholders Land Bank Hold Meet

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. King, Jr., have returned from a trip to Edgewater Park, Miss. where they attended a meeting of the stockholders of the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans. Mr. King, a director of the Federal Land Bank Association of Florence, stated that the stockholders representing associations in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi unanimously adopted a resolution asking that the bank's loan limit be increased from 65 to 75 per cent of the normal agricultural value. It was the feeling of the group that with the higher investment required of farmers this increase is necessary to adequately serve the needs of agriculture.

Mr. King also reported that Vernon P. Crockett, who is also a member of the Federal Land Bank Association of Florence, was elected by the attending delegation to represent over 6500 members in North Alabama district, which includes seven Federal Land Banks Association offices, on the Committee of 9 to the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans. Mr. Crockett was elected for a three year term.

October Deadline To Claim Refund

The deadline is nearing for farm operators to claim a federal tax refund on gasoline used for farm purposes during the period of July 1, 1960, through June 30, 1961.

Foy Helms, Auburn Extension Service economist points out that the deadline for filing the federal gasoline tax refund claim is October 2.

A refund for four cents a gallon may be claimed on all gasoline used between July 1, 1960, and June 30, 1961, Helms states.

The deadline is also nearing for filing claims for a state gasoline tax refund. The state law requires that to be eligible for payment, claims must be received by the Commissioner of Revenue by September 30, 1961, he points out.

Helms adds that forms for filing these claims can be obtained either from the county agent's office or from the State Department of Revenue in Montgomery.

Come to Church for Services

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER — STAYS TOGETHER"

WHO does not marvel at the flight of a bird? The roaring jet does not seem such a miracle. It cannot fly with the same grace and beauty and ease.

Every bird must learn to fly. The mother bird pushes her fledgling out of the nest. The young bird falls helplessly until its wings discover the invisible support of the air.

If our lives are to rise beyond frail human nature, we too must learn to fly . . . on wings of faith. We must discover the invisible support of God's presence and power.

Come to Church next Sunday. You can find there the invisible support of God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. With a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four main reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

FHA Loans Show Increase During Past Fiscal Year

Robert H. Howard, chairman of the Lauderdale County committee of the Farmers Home Administration at Florence, has announced that a total of $369,310 was loaned during the past fiscal year to farmers served by the local office, a 53 percent increase over the amount advanced last year.

The loans were made to 97 local farm families after they were declared eligible to receive credit by the county committee who reviewed a total of 136 applications.

Operating loans accounted for thirty percent of the total, with an important share of these funds used to buy high quality livestock for improved beef, swine, and dairy production. The loans were also used to buy improved seed and fertilizer, to purchase modern machinery to increase the efficiency of farm operations and to finance other farm and home operating expenses.

The remaining seventy percent was used for real estate loans with a good portion of the sum going toward the purchase of additional acreage for farm expansion and improvement. Several of the borrowers improved their pastures or carried out major soil conservation practices. Many farm homes and buildings were built, modernized or enlarged and some borrowers refinanced farm debts with the FHA credit.

A total of $217,250 was repaid on loans previously made, some of which were amortized over several years but repaid ahead of schedule. During the year, 25 farmers repaid their loans in full to the FHA and now obtain the credit they need through banks and other local lenders.

FHA supervised credit is designed to help each farmer establish a sound farming operation, raise his income and make a full contribution to the strength of the nation's economy. Lauderdale county farmers may apply for the loans through the office of Cecil C. Mixon, County Supervisor, at Florence.

Good Silage Keeps Milk Produce High

Good silage can do more to keep milk production high during next month than any crop that can be grown at that time, says Sam Jones, Auburn Extension Service dairyman.

Summer pastures will be gone. Permanent pastures will have reached the mature stage and will be worth very little in stimulating milk production, he notes.

"It is important to hold milk production as high as possible during this time since it is the start of the base period," Jones says. "And silage can do the job."

Save money by buying mild cheese instead of sharp. Add a little Worcestershire sauce to the recipe, and it will taste about the same.

Safety Activity Among Projects Of 4-H Members

VIP in the 4-H roster can be found under the heading of Safety. VIP in this case means "very important project." Spelled backwards it could mean "people in vehicles."

Either way, the combination alerts more young people to the importance of safety than does any other 4-H endeavor. Some 900,000 boys and girls are participating in a 4-H safety activity or project in which they help to lessen dangers on highways, farms, in homes and communities, reports the Cooperative Extension Service.

The death toll among rural people is exceptionally high, according to the safety council. Over the last 10 years, 58,000 rural residents died and two million were injured on the highway. Fatal accidents for the decade increased 26 percent. Tractor fatalities climbed 50 percent over the last eight years.

Specific rewards provided for the 17th consecutive year by General Motors consist of scholarships, educational trips, certificates and honor medals for outstanding 4-Hers who have made safety their No. 1 crop. Training aids for local club leaders and members are also made available by GM.

Next November, eight top-ranking 4-Hers will be named national safety champions and receive $400 scholarships. State winners will enjoy a free trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago where they will join 1500 fellow-members as guests of GM at a gala luncheon honoring all winners, club leaders and friends of 4-H.

Farm Facts

"Actually," Secretary of Agriculture Freeman pointed out in a recent speech, "the real cost of food in this country—the cost in terms of how much labor it takes to buy it—is lower than anywhere else in the world—1/5 of our take-home pay."

Compared with the Russians, our farmers annually produce some 80% more output on 1/3 fewer planted acres—and with only 1/8 of the number of the workers employed in agriculture.

"This is a comparison of almost staggering significance. That some 6 million persons working on U. S. farms should produce 80% more than 48 million persons working in Russian agriculture is almost unbelievable, but it is true."

"Our farmers have achieved for us the dream that man has sought through the centuries. For the first time, we in the United States can produce enough food and fiber to meet all our needs, with vast quantities left over to help supply the needs of millions throughout the world."

BETTER FARMING MEANS BETTER LIVING

There's a lot more to selling hogs than loading them up for delivery to the nearest market, we are told by Ray Cavender, Auburn Extension Service meats marketing specialist.

Wise hog producers check market reports when their hogs are nearing finished weight, says Cavender. There are many sources of reports available—newspaper, radio and television.

One market may be offering a better price for a particular quality of hogs than another, and by knowing how the market is running, producers may take advantage of sudden highs and avoid sudden drops, he adds.

Another example of wise selling, says the specialist, is knowing the value of hogs. Producers looking for profits find out how their market hogs stack up with present market demand from buyers and packers.

Also, Cavender says that attending educational meetings and demonstrations on grading and marketing improve the pork producer's ability to estimate the value of his hogs.

Cavender also points out that most markets provide good services and have enough buyers present at the sales to have competitive bidding. "However," he says, "if as a producer, you become dissatisfied, the thing to do is shop around. Many producers can conveniently sell at two or more markets. At different times each market may offer the seller a price advantage. A quarter-of-a-cent per pound can make a difference in the size of the check on a load of hogs."

Last, but not least, says the specialist, is the importance of selling at correctly finished weights (200-220 pounds). Nothing will assist the producer more in proper sorting and selling as a pair of scales, he adds. "They will pay for themselves in the long run."

Plant Fall Crops

Cool weather is just around the corner, and all the summer vegetables will soon be gone.

Just the same, says John Bagby, Auburn Extension Service commercial horticulturist, the family can still have fresh vegetables through the fall and winter months if they plant during the next few weeks. Plant vegetables early enough to make the most of their growth before cold weather begins, he says.

Cabbage, turnips, collards and broccoli are some of the cool season crops that do better during the fall and spring than in the summer months.

Other vegetables that can be planted for the fall garden are green onions, carrots, beets, radishes, kale, mustard and kohlrabi, adds Bagby. These vegetables are loaded with minerals and vitamins, and will give the family a variety of good wholesome food, the specialist says.

Wafer Tested As Survival Food

A new whole-grain wheat wafer has been developed and tested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as a basic survival food for people confined to fallout shelters following nuclear attack.

Fariss Prickett, Auburn Extension Service foods and nutrition specialist, says the wafer will keep for five years or more if properly made and packaged. They are parboiled, dried, puffed, then crumbled, and finally made into a wafer.

"The wheat wafers are good to eat plain, and neutral enough in flavor to blend with a variety of other foods," she says.

The wafers do not measure up to a well balanced diet, explains Miss Prickett, but during an estimated shelter stay of two weeks, human survival and health would not be affected.

COCHRAN RE-ELECTED TO WOODMEN POST

John N. Cochran, formerly a Florence resident, was recently re-elected executive vice-president of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society.

He was re-elected to serve for the next biennium by the delegates of the Society at their national convention in Los Angeles, Calif.

Sick Plants Cost Alabama Millions

Sick plants are costing Alabamians millions of dollars annually. Dr. Norman E. McGlohon, Auburn Extension Service plant pathologist, says plant diseases cost state cotton farmers $15 to $20 million each year, and loss to the peanut crop is set at another $7 to $8 million.

In many cases, he says, good management practices such as crop rotation, use of disease resistant varieties and seed treatment can greatly reduce plant disease damage.

But most controls are preventive measures and not cures, he points out.

He says farmers should seek expert help through their county agent's office before their crops are planted.

"Since plants cannot be cured of a disease, don't wait until a disease is present to try a control," he explains.

Summer Sheep Care Important

Wise sheep owners are beginning to make plans now for the fat lambs they will sell next May.

Bob Farquhar, Auburn Extension Service sheep marketing specialist, recommends allowing one acre of winter grazing for five or more ewes and their lambs. And when adequate soil moisture is present, break and fallow the ground for winter grazing, he adds. Sheep owners are reminded by the specialist that summer flock management includes hoof trimming to help control foot rot.

Also, he says, check and drench carryover lambs constantly, alternating with phenothiazine and Cu-Nic (copper sulphate-nicotine sulphate mixture).

Cotton Industry Protests Increase In Differential

Beginning today, the differential between domestic and foreign prices for American-grown upland cotton jumps from 6 to 8 1/2 cents per pound, or $42.50 per identical bale.

The differential is the amount paid by the United States to encourage foreign purchases of government-supported American cotton, which is higher priced than foreign growths because of the commodity support program. The cotton export subsidies have been in effect since August 1, 1956, and have ranged from a low of six cents per pound in 1960-1961 to the record high 8 1/2 cents per pound for the cotton crop year which begins today.

At least one of the effects of the higher differential and increased support prices for domestic cotton will be "to further complicate the already-difficult American position" in international trade of cotton and cotton products, according to L. G. Hardman, Jr., of Commerce, Ga., chairman of the Cotton Committee of the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute (ACMI). Mr. Hardman is a former president of ACMI, central trade association for the American textile industry.

"American plants will find themselves at an even greater disadvantage in direct competition with low-wage foreign goods because of the $42.50 per bale price differential," Mr. Hardman said. "The program of subsidies has worked well for foreign buyers and has helped to reduce stocks of old cotton. But, at the same time, the program has placed American plants in an unfair competitive position."

Mr. Hardman added, "Since the export subsidy program has been in effect, record-setting totals of textile imports have been shipped into the United States. It is obvious that these goods replace goods which might be produced by the American textile industry, which is the best customer of American cotton farmers."

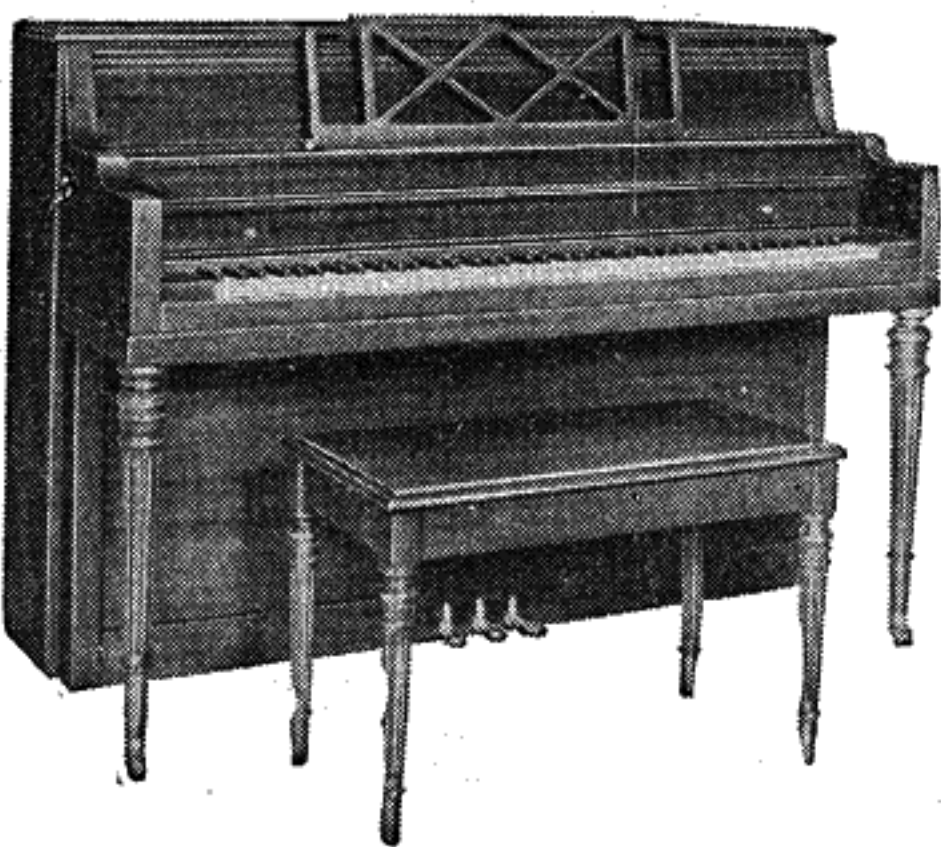

American textile plants each year consume from two-thirds to three-fourths of the American cotton crop. Less than a day's supply of raw upland-type cotton is imported each year, under terms of rigid raw cotton import quotas imposed in 1939.
