● And the rains came — and stayed. Now for some glorious sunshine, please.

● With the announcement that both the Lauderdale County school system and the City of Florence school system are to be operated the full nine-months-term with all teachers and other employees receiving full salaries as per contracts, every person concerned has heaved a sigh of relief. But although the problem has been met for the moment, the problem is far from being solved. The school officials, superintendents and board members, have extended themselves to meet the situation set up by four consecutive years of prororation of school funds, but each has gone the limit in order that the current school year might be carried out as planned. Should parents, teachers and citizens in general now relax and fall to do their part, there is no telling what might happen to our schools and education in general. To put the board members on the back and say: "Well done," certainly is appreciated, but to say: "We appreciate your problem and the job you have done." Then add: "We will cooperate with your efforts fully and completely and make what sacrifices necessary so that, with your efforts, our children may receive the education due them and not relax until education is made a prime function of our state government," this, too, will be appreciated. Then—and only then—can we be certain that the school crisis, that raises its head year after year, is licked. And licked it must be or else we will lose our respect for so called responsible government.

● The youngster who now feels he is making a terrible sacrifice is often doing nothing but things our parents never had.

● We have often wondered why we spend so much money, time and effort trying to solve the problems of outer space when there are three very old and very simple problems that have not been solved: Blondes, Brunettes and Red-heads.

● Many of us don't know how lucky we were to grow up before adolescence was invented.

● It all started back before World War I when some scientists with the Department of Agriculture were experimenting with the cross-breeding of various shrubs and plants. God, they crossed a hyacinth with spreading lilies. The results: Hyatatus. We understand that the plant is a creeping, virulent, very obnoxious growth.

● Of all human inventions the most worthless is an excuse.

● The story is told of a psychiatrist who was treating an attractive young lady who seemed near a nervous breakdown. After their first session he gave her a list of things to do and not to do and made a weekly appointment with her. Two weeks went by with no second visit to his office, so he called to ask why she failed to keep her appointment. "Well, doctor," she explained, "you told me to stay away from people who irritate me, and I don't know anyone who irritates me more than you do."

● What a lot of women would like to do with their last year's Easter frock—is to get in it.

As a rule we do not go in for poetry in this column but being vitally interested in the boys of our generation, the following appraisal of the father's obligation seems worthy of your reading time. Printed first in the St. Petersburg Times, it was supplied us by a friend who, too, is interested in our youngsters:

IF I HAD A BOY
If I had a boy, I would say to him, Son,
Be fair and be square in the race you must run;
Be brave if you lose, and be meek if you win;
Be better and nobler than I've ever been;
Be honest and fearless in all that you do,
And honor the name I have given to you.

If I had a boy, I would want him to know
We reap in this life just as we sow;
And we get what we earn, be it little or great,
Regardless of luck and regardless of fate.
I would teach him and show the best that I could
That it pays to be honest and upright and good.

I would make him a pal and a partner of mine,
And teach him the things in this world that are fine.
I would warn him of things that are wicked and bad,
For I figure this knowledge should come from his dad.
I would walk with him, talk with him, play with him, too,
And to all of my promises strive to be true.

Eisenhower-Macmillan Study Nuclear Test Ban Strategy For Summit Negotiations Between West And Reds Shaping Up

Agreement on a nuclear weapons test ban is believed possible if Russia accepts the U.S.-British plan issued in a joint statement by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan following their conference Tuesday at Camp David, Md. The compromise proposal, in some ways a concession to the Soviets, includes a short term ban on small underground blasts.

President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan called in their top scientific advisors Tuesday for a conference on a new proposal to ban nuclear weapons testing.

The two leaders were also reported shaping up new strategy for the coming summit meeting with Soviet Russia in their two-power talks at Camp David, Md. Vice President Nixon and Secretary of State Christian Herter flew to the conference by helicopter from Washington for the morning conference Wednesday. They were joined by Dr. George E. Kistiakowsky, the president's science advisor; John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Sir Williams Penney, science advisor to Macmillan; James H. Douglas, deputy secretary of defense; and Philip J. Farley, special assistant to Secretary Herter.

This group worked in Washington after Mr. Eisenhower and the British Prime Minister had arrived at Camp David being engaged in major problems involving the development of a united British-American plan for the next move in the nuclear test talks with the Soviet Union in Geneva.

The President and Macmillan spent more than five hours together Monday afternoon and evening and later visited the President's Gettysburg farm. Press Secretary James Hagerty said they talked about other summit problems in addition to the nuclear test ban. They are to meet with French President Charles de Gaulle and Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Paris on May 16.

Hagerty and Leslie Glass, spokesmen for the British, expressed confidence in the talks of the two leaders. Hagerty indicated however that the details of the talk would not be made public since the object of the plan is to come up with a basis for negotiations with the Soviets at Geneva. Glass said he hoped agreement on most issues would be reached before the Prime Minister returns to London.

It is understood if the Soviet agree to a fully safeguarded treaty prohibiting major nuclear weapons testing, the U.S. and Britain will agree on a short term ban on hard-to-detect underground tests as well.

Chamber Moves To New Building

Announcement has been made by C. Hewlett Jackson, manager of the Florence Chamber of Commerce, that the Chamber will move from its old quarters on East Tennessee Street into its new building on Pine Street today.

Although the new building is not entirely complete and operations will have to be on somewhat of a curtailed basis, it was necessary to get out of the old location immediately to make way for a private business development, Mr. Jackson explained.

Reynolds Alloys Shoals Plant Is Idled By Strike

Pickets Posted Tuesday; 179 Electricians And Crane Operators Out

The labor dispute at Reynolds Alloys Plant still remained unsettled Wednesday as the strike continued to idle some 1500 workers. In a statement issued Wednesday by Reynolds Metals the company said that the question came up last summer and at the time the company agreed to alternate electricians and aluminum workers on lifting equipment then in service.

"The company said it felt it could take no other action in view of the failure of the jurisdictional award board to make a prompt decision as promised by union representatives."

It was announced Tuesday by James H. Haygood, Sheffield, business agent of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local Union 558, that his union has thrown up picket lines and struck the alloys plant of Reynolds Metals Company at Listerhill.

Mr. Haygood reported he ordered pickets posted at the plant at 6:50 Tuesday morning and that he estimated that approximately 170 electricians and crane operators, belonging to the Aluminum Workers International Union, are involved in the dispute.

According to Haygood, the trouble erupted over the ending of a temporary truce between the company and the unions under which overhead cranes have been operating on a basis of the IBEW supplying 50 per cent of the workers and the Aluminum Workers Union supplying the other 50 per cent.

Haygood further claimed that this agreement of workers was to continue until the case was decided by the Jurisdictional Award Board of the AFL-CIO.

The alloys management Monday decided to award two of the overhead cranes full time to the Aluminum Workers, otherwise no working conditions or wages are involved in the dispute, according to Haygood.

Dr. Norton Says College To Operate On Full Schedule

Florence State President E. B. Norton, in a meeting last week, assured the faculty and staff of FSC that all salary commitments will be fulfilled this year.

"This is my thirty-sixth year of 'emergency' situations with the schools in the state of Alabama. Perhaps the real climax has come," he declared.

The president explained that the college budget must be reduced approximately $78,000, as the State of Alabama will pay only about 90% of its appropriations.

Dr. Norton reviewed legal aspects of the emergency facing city and county boards of education as well as colleges throughout the state and discussed various methods that are being sought to provide additional local funds not originally intended for schools.

He commended the faculty on the resolutions passed before the AEA meeting recently in Birmingham and, with humor, invited them to share with him at Florence State his thirty-seventh year of emergency in education.

Joiner Considers Operation Buses

Appearing before the Florence City Commission Tuesday evening to discuss the possibility of taking over local bus service in the district was C. F. Joiner, Florence, who operates local bus service in the Tri-Cities area.

Joiner asked questions of the commissioners about the possibility of his firm replacing Shoals Transit Company which has served notice of its plans to terminate bus service to the Tri-Cities on April 30.

Although he has not revealed any definite plans as yet, Joiner's interest gives a possible answer to retaining the local bus service which has been estimated to carry between 1,300 and 1,500 passengers daily. This number includes some 500 school children during school terms.

● Dr. Werner von Braun disclosed Tuesday that the United States Monday successfully conducted its first ground test firing of the Saturn rocket designed to send space craft to the moon and planets. Von Braun told the Senate Space Committee that the test was carried out at the Civilian Space Agency's George C. Marshall space center in Huntsville. A captive test with four of the engines, each designed to produce 188,000 pounds thrust, will be conducted within a few weeks.

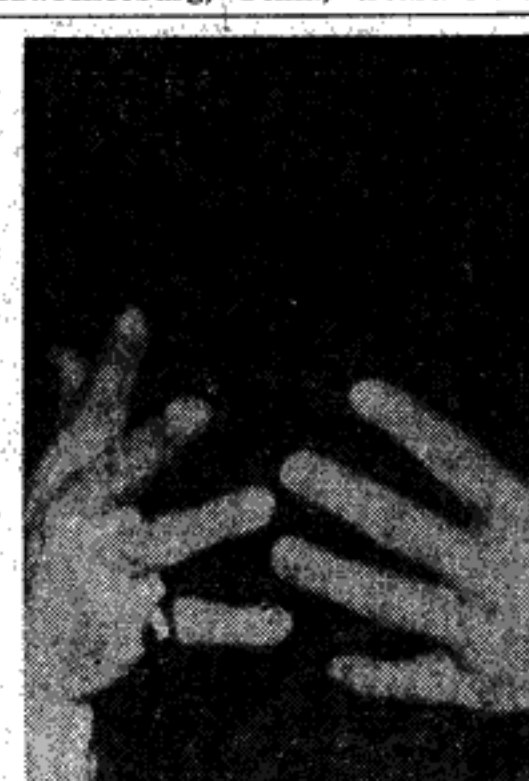

● Some 30,000 South African Negroes marched on the heavily manned Cape Town police station Wednesday and demanded the release of their leaders, recently arrested during mass rioting in that area. After ordering businesses closed officials declared a state of emergency to affect 80 of the nation's 300 magisterial districts. One of the demands made by the Pan African Congress Tuesday was the abolishing of the government's pass system for non-whites.

● Hundreds of families were rendered temporarily homeless when thousands of acres of lowlands in nine states were flooded. Hardest hit were Nebraska and Iowa, the former having seven counties declared a disaster area. Helicopters were sent to the aid of marooned families in Nebraska where 14,000 were trapped at Fremont near Omaha. Other states affected by floods are: Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota and the Dakotas.

SGA OFFICERS NAMED AT FLORENCE STATE

Leading all other late March events on the Florence State campus from the life-of-the-student's point of view is the election of officers for each of the thirty-odd organizations.

Foremost in importance among these groups is the Student Government Association. In an all-student poll, Edwin Gosa, Beaverton, was named President; Charles Weatherbee, Vina, vice-president; Mary Helen Manning, Cullman, secretary; and Rosemary Hampton, Lawrenceburg, Tenn., treasurer.

HALF OF THOSE WHO GET CANCER COULD BE SAVED—With present methods of diagnosis and treatment, the medical profession could save one out of two persons who develop cancer. The rate of cure now, however, is only one out of three. That the three die needlessly because he or she sees a doctor too late for effective treatment, State Health Officer Dr. D. G. Gill explains these facts to Gov. John Patterson as they discuss the forthcoming April crusade of the American Cancer Society. Gov. Patterson proclaimed April "Cancer Control Month." Volunteers will take life-saving information on cancer into homes throughout the state. Mrs. Lillian G. Meade, of Birmingham, executive director of the ACS Alabama Division, discusses the crusade with Gov. Patterson and Dr. Gill. The crusade poster shows that cancer took the lives of 3,549 Alabamians in 1958.

Census Takers To Begin Task Friday

Law Requires Public To Answer Questions But Replies Confidential

Advance report forms for the 1960 Census of Population and Housing were distributed by the Post Office last week to all households in this area, District Supervisor Robert L. McCaleb announced.

The Advance Report Form is a new census-taking device which is designed to speed up the field canvass and provide more accurate statistics. Distribution of this form before the start of the house-to-house canvass gives the family a chance to assemble information about each member in advance of the census taker's visit. The district supervisor urges all residents to fill out the forms and have them ready for the census takers when they start their rounds on Friday.

The Advance Report Form contains seven questions about every person in the household and six questions about the household's dwelling. The household information asked for is name, address, sex, color of race, month and year of birth, whether married or single, and relationship to head of the household. The information required about the dwelling is the number of rooms, cooking facilities, plumbing, if rented or owned.

At every fourth household, the census taker will seek the answers to additional questions covering population and housing characteristics which are being asked of a 25 percent sample of the nation's population. The sample population questions include inquiries on country of birth, schooling, employment, income, and related items. The additional housing questions relate to rent or value of dwelling, heating equipment, water supply, and other facilities and equipment.

The district supervisor pointed out that information about individuals and their homes furnished to the Census Bureau is kept confidential under Federal law. Only statistical totals and averages are published. No individual person can be identified in published reports and census information cannot be used for regulation, investigation, or taxation. However, Federal law requires that census inquiries be answered completely and accurately.

Any person, over 18, who "refuses or willfully neglects" to answer the census, on conviction, faces a fine of not more than $110, 60 days in jail or both.

A person who "gives willfully false statements," on conviction, faces a fine of not more than $500, a year in prison, or both.

Board Curtails Operating Costs, Bus Purchases

Lauderdale County's rural schools will remain open for a full nine-months term, and all salaries for teachers and other employees of the system will be paid in accordance with current contracts, it was announced following a special called session of the Lauderdale County Board of Education and County Superintendent of Education, Allen Thornton.

The following resolution adopted at the meeting sets forth the conditions of the Board's decision and is self-explanatory:

Resolution
The Lauderdale County Board of Education, Superintendent of Education Allen Thornton, executive secretary of the board, in special called session Saturday afternoon, March 26, 1960 expressed deep appreciation for the concern and numerous offers of assistance from the citizens of various communities served by the Lauderdale County School System during the present school crisis, and the concern of parents regarding the education of their children and their promotion which also is of deep concern of this group.

Over the past few weeks this body and the Superintendent have explored every avenue available in search of funds to continue the 1959-1960 school term for a full nine months with the payment of salaries in full to all teachers and other employees of the Board. It has been an almost impossible task, under the proration just rescinded ordered by Governor John Patterson and the accumulation of prorations for the past three years, however, as a result of the study made in the several sessions and upon the recommendation of Superintendent Thornton the Board announces the following decision:

WHEREAS, after a review of all expenditures by the Lauderdale County Board of Education in comparison with other County Boards, it was determined that payment of the cost of lights and water and other maintenance have generally been met by local communities, it is advised that the offer of aid and assistance by individual communities is accepted with sincere appreciation and that this item can now be assumed by the local communities.

FURTHER, that there will be no purchase of new school buses for the 1960-1961 school term, and

FURTHER, that with the curtailment of other incidentals and operations and a loan against next year's school funds, it is

RESOLVED, that with the faith of the people in general in their school system and the desire of parents, teachers and school officials to continue the present term for a full nine months, it is, therefore, decreed that the 1959-1960 school term of Lauderdale County School System be continued for its scheduled nine months term and that all salaries for teachers and other employees of the Board be paid in full as per current contracts; and that May 26th be and is hereby set as the closing date of the current term.

The above resolution was reduced to writing upon motion of A. D. Ray, Jr., seconded by Mrs. John R. Waddell and with the consent of Crady S. Springer, John H. Haddock, Vice-Chairman, and Harold S. May, Chairman, was given unanimous approval.

National Library Week

Throughout the year there are many special weeks . . . so many that people have grown to accept the fact that scarcely any week in the year escapes being a "week" of some sort. This has tended to lower the rating of some really worthy events, one in particular being National Library Week, observed April 3-9.

National Library Week's theme is "for a better read, better-informed America." The week emphasizes the wonderful new horizons that are opened by reading . . . the challenging new ideas, creative adventures and quiet contemplation. Books offer a personal reading program in one's own choice of subjects and limited only by one's desire for exploring new fields or acquiring new knowledge.

Limited horizons are dangerous for a free people. In America the freedom to read goes hand in hand with freedom to speak, freedom to assemble and freedom to worship.

Let reading open up a wonderful new world for you. Join and support your local library.

It Is Up To The Parents

Elvis is back. Teen-agers have started to swoon again and it follows that the sexy, swivel-hipped idol will continue to amass more money in a month on his unintelligible gibbering under the guise of music than a dozen college professors make in a year.

There is nothing wrong with Presley making a living or anyone else for that matter but there is a bad imbalance in our economics when a delicious youngster plunking a guitar and making sounds that certainly cannot be called singing, is worth so much more than any individual's cultural attainments.

But something is wrong and it is so wrong it is saddening. It indicates a decadence in our social standards beginning in the home. Social popularity has become the adolescent goal because there is nothing else. The automobile is a must and the teen-ager with a car immediately becomes the center of attraction.

Nothing is more harmful than this spurious popularity and unfortunately it is too often aided and abetted by parents. Many mothers, in fact, think it is a major tragedy if their teenage daughter has fewer dates than their neighbor's daughter. What can be done when such an attitude exists in the home? What has become of the old standards that placed enough restraint on teen-agers to give them a modicum of security and appreciation of their homelife?

Actually today they are looking for the security they do not find in the home. So they subordinate their uniqueness in gang life and to gang ideals. In many cases it is the beginning of juvenile delinquency.

The problem will never be solved until a beginning is made at the source . . . in the home. It is up to the parents of America. Teen-agers cannot do it for themselves.

Veterans' Column

State Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

Officials of the rapidly-growing newest veterans organization, the "Veterans of World War One," state that thirty-five other Congressmen have introduced measures identical to the one dropped into the legislative hopper back in the early days of January.

By way of explanation—General Service Pension—as distinguished from disability pensions now being paid many War One and War Two veterans, are based only on service within a specific wartime period, without regard to age or outside income received by the veteran. Spanish-American War veterans now receive a general service pension—and have received it for many years.

Supporters of the "parity measure" for veterans of the first World War say it is long overdue, and cite that the average World War One veteran is much older now than were Spanish War veterans when their general service pension was granted some years ago. The bill now being studied, if passed and signed by the President, would provide a monthly pension of $100 to any honorable discharged veteran with at least 90 days of service during World War One without regard to his annual income from such sources as social security, railroad retirement, company pensions, annuities and so forth.

Stockholders Land Bank Hold Meet

Association's Value To Farmers Pointed Out By Regional Manager

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Federal Land Bank Association of Florence was held as planned at the Franklin County Courthouse on Thursday, March 24 according to L. N. Thompson, manager. Presiding was W. G. Burch, President of the Board of Directors. All of the directors were present.

Due to recent consolidation of the two associations formerly serviced by the Florence office, terms of all five directors expired. W. G. Burch and John D. Streit were elected for a three-year term. John C. Hardin and Henderson King were elected for a two-year term and J. O. Philpot was elected for a one-year term. Mr. Burch was elected to represent the association at the District Stockholders' meeting and Ray Massey was elected alternate.

The principal speaker, James L. Dailey, Regional Manager of the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, gave an interesting talk. He discussed the change that is taking place in agriculture in Alabama and pointed out that the trend of fewer farmers and larger farms is quite evident in the state as well as the nation. Mr. Dailey also pointed out that farming today must be treated and operated as a business and that the efficient and well managed farm would survive and be profitable. He discussed the way in which the Federal Land Bank Associations and the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans assist farmers in meeting the economic change by furnishing a source of capital with long term low interest.

E. E. Alexander, Secretary-Treasurer of the Russellville Production Credit Association was also a guest speaker. In discussing the tight money situation, Mr. Alexander explained efforts of our Farm Credit Agencies in assisting farmers with their financial problems.

A number of members won some very nice and useful door prizes. For safety's sake, be sure that self-polishing waxes are thoroughly dry before you walk on them. Twenty minutes is usually allowed for drying—30 minutes in humid weather.

A witness reported that the two men and several others who were attending services rushed from the synagogue when the bomb exploded and were fired upon by the assailants. Police picked up 16-year-old Jerry Earl Hunt in a Gadsden downtown hotel. The boy told police he began planning the attack several weeks ago when he and two Jewish boys exchanged sharp words over a Nazi armband Hunt wears. Hunt described himself as a student of Nazism.

Prisoners Give Up Hostages

Robert Rivera, 24, and Raymond Farra, 25, two armed and dangerous convicts of Tennessee Penitentiary in Nashville, last Thursday gave up 19 hostages, including three women, they had held in a captured prison office for 25 hours and surrendered after wringing a compromise agreement from state officials who agreed to transfer the two to the Davidson county jail "unharmed, unmolested and unharassed" until the courts can act on their petitions for writ of habeas corpus.

Soviet Spy Loses Freedom Bid

Soviet Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, called the highest-ranking spy ever caught in this country, lost out in the Supreme Court Monday in a bid to obtain freedom by a vote of 5-4. ### Washington Representative Dies

Russell Vernon Mack (R., Wash.) 68, Monday collapsed in the House and died minutes later of a coronary occlusion. At the time of his death, he was talking to Rep. Henry Dixon (R., Utah) and Rep. Thomas M. Pelly (R., Wash.).

SALE OF COLORED EASTER CHICKS PROHIBITED BY LAW

Dear Editor: This year Easter-time will find Alabama rid of a thoughtless and cruel practice of year's past: the sale or giveaway of baby chicks, baby ducks, and baby rabbits as living toys for children to torture to death. In a few weeks after Easter the great majority of these animals have died from neglect, starvation, or child-like brutality.

Last summer, to Alabama's credit, the Legislature passed the following law prohibiting the practice:

"It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to display, sell, offer for sale, barter, or give away any baby rabbits, baby chicks, or ducklings as pets or novelties."

We trust this will serve as ample reminder, so that no one so inclined can plead ignorance of the law as extenuation. Violations should not be condoned. A few children may be disappointed, but it can hardly be argued that this law which outlaws commercialized cruelty to animals is a deprivation of good, clean fun.

Sincerely,

Mrs. David W. Crossland,

"Dr. Norton is recognized throughout Alabama and the nation as one of the foremost educators. Dynamic and resourceful in his educational leadership, he knows what is right and just and best for our youth and leaves no stone unturned in his determined efforts to bring about the God-given right of personal advancement to everyone," is the description given of the president of Florence State College by a local educator.

"Outstanding in his training, experience and devotion to the young people of our country, Dr. Norton is a recognized leader in the progress of education and is appreciated by educators as a person of understanding and sympathy with all school problems," he added.

Albert B. Norton was born in Jefferson County in 1902, the son of the late Rev. E. B. and Grace Myatt Norton. The elder Mr. Norton was a Methodist minister and also an instructor at Birmingham Southern College for a number of years. He was at one time pastor of the First Methodist Church in Florence and later served as presiding elder of the Florence District.

The family moved to Hartselle when Dr. Norton was seven years old, and also resided for a short time in Decatur, Talladega, Huntsville, Sylacauga and Ensley. The Nortons came to Florence around 1916 when the Rev. Mr. Norton became presiding elder of the district.

Dr. Norton attended Kilby Training School and was graduated from Birmingham Southern in 1923, where he received his B.A. degree. He also holds the honorary degrees of L.H.D., which he received from Auburn, and L.L.D. from Birmingham Southern.

Dr. Norton began his teaching career at Pike Road, in Montgomery County in September, 1924, where he coached and taught science and mathematics. He was married to the former Laura Cowart of Troy, in 1926. They have three children: Robert McCain Norton, who is teaching art and English at Tarrant City High School; E. B. Norton, Jr., a Second Lieutenant in the Army, stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., and Mrs. James Daniel (Betty) Darby, of Florence. There are two grandchildren.

In 1934, Dr. Norton was elected to the position of Superintendent of Education in Covington County and later was elected State Superintendent of Education and for four years assumed this important state office. The family then made its home in Montgomery.

Appreciated throughout the area for his many contributions of time and effort in every phase of civic endeavor, Dr. Norton is recognized both for these activities and as a very worthwhile citizen of the community.

In 1946, Dr. Norton was appointed to the office of Deputy U.S. Commissioner of Education with headquarters in Washington, D.C. He later resigned this post to accept the position of the first Executive Secretary of the National Commission of Chief School Officers, thus establishing that office in the organization.

In the latter part of 1946, Dr. Norton was a member of the U.S. Education Mission to Japan, being one of 27 United States educators to visit Japan to confer with General Douglas MacArthur and to survey the school situation there. In 1948, Dr. Norton was elected by the State Board of Education to succeed the late Dr. J. A. Keller as president of Florence State College.

Dr. Norton is a past president of the Alabama Education Association, of which he is now a trustee; a past president of the Alabama School Administrators and has served on the executive committees of the American Association for Teacher Education and the National Commission on Accrediting.

Known well for his leadership in philanthropic endeavors, Dr. Norton has just completed a term as president of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults. He served as chairman of the Red Cross while residing in Covington. Presently, he is serving as a member of the Board of Directors of the Lauderdale County United Fund.

Land Preparation Behind Schedule

First Good Weather In Weeks See Start Of Intensive Cultivating

Land preparation was general on upland soils over the State during the week as farmers took advantage of the longest period of open weather in months. Lowland areas continued too wet, however, and spring plowing is still far behind schedule for this date. Precipitation was confined to light showers, mostly in southern areas. Temperatures averaged above normal at the end of the period but were below normal for several days earlier in the week.

Corn planting was stepped up in southern counties and first fields of cotton were planted. Many acres of small grains were top-dressed with nitrogen, after much delay. Gardening was general and planting of Irish potatoes was underway in north Alabama.

Peach trees have begun to bloom in central areas. In early areas pears were damaged by cold weather earlier. Peaches, however, remained dormant throughout the State and have thus far escaped damage.

Small grains and cover crops showed improvement during the week but growth continued short. Many fields of the latter have already been turned under in southern counties.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE DELEGATES . . . Weldon Cole and Janice Johnson who were selected as Florence State College representatives for the Golden Anniversary White House Conference in Washington. Here they are shown opening their invitations from the White House.

Grazing crops improved with warmer weather but feeding was still necessary on most farms. Feed supplies, particularly hay, have become short throughout the State. Many cattle were being fed limited rations to hold down the feed bill or to stretch home-grown supplies. Cattle are thin on many farms and a few counties report losses above usual for the date.

Alsop Pictures Party Hopefuls

Sees Kennedy As Top Demo Candidate And Nixon As GOP Choice

If speakers were given to Enrico, Stewart Alsop would have required a full repertoire last Friday night. He was a guest of Florence State College, lecturing on the Danforth Foundation series, in Coffee Auditorium. Mr. Alsop was introduced by Dean Turner Allen, Florence State College.

Dispensing with the usual "very happy to be here with you tonight" opening, Mr. Alsop went straight to the heart of his speech, stating that he would talk about six men—each of whom hopes to wake up one morning next January and find himself President of the United States; and, the unique position of the one man who will, in fact, wake up one morning next January and find himself President of the United States.

Stating that, with the exception of Adlai Stevenson, he knows each of the presidential hopefuls fairly well, the speaker proceeded to give what he termed "My mental image of them as men."

Starting with Senator John Kennedy, because, he explained, the youthful senator is definitely the front runner for the Democratic nomination, he described Kennedy as "new, exciting, intelligent." "He out-eggheads Adlai Stevenson hands down," Mr. Alsop declared.

Contrary to popular opinion, Alsop believes that Kennedy's religion may be an asset.

"If he loses the nomination," Alsop said, "Catholics are going to thin it's because he is Catholic; as it may well be, and they're going to be resentful. And then how much will the nomination be worth?"

The speaker disposed of the next two men on his list in short order. Hubert Humphrey, he said, is considered a radical, though Alsop termed this an "unfair assessment," and said an examination of the senator's voting record would prove his point.

And, Mr. Alsop added, "I believe that if a vote were taken among the senators on Capitol Hill to find the most intelligent senator, Hubert Humphrey would be in the top three."

Not a man to laugh at his own sallies, Mr. Alsop permitted himself a faint smile when he referred to Stuart Symington as "The Missouri Compromise."

"He's the man nobody loves very much, and nobody hates very much," Alsop said. "However," he added, "he may receive the nomination as a compromise."

The speaker reserved his only acidulous remarks for Senator Lyndon Johnson, but conversely, stated his belief that Johnson would be, perhaps, a great president.

Alsop concluded his analysis of Johnson by stating that the senator is a very, very vain man, but immediately added that he has a lot about which to be vain.

Mr. Alsop dwelt for a moment on the great intelligence of Adlai Stevenson, but said he has a weakness, particularly in these times that could be a very great weakness. "He has genuine difficulty in making up his mind," Alsop said.

said, "Is the kind of man to 'Go for Broke'?"

Mr. Alsop's entire speech was delivered in a conversational tone, somewhat as if he faced his audience across a coffee table in a friend's living room.

Concluding his speech with an account of a luncheon meeting with the then Prime Minister Winston Churchill and his son, Randolph Churchill, at which only the three were present, Mr. Alsop made use of his famous imitative art.

Sounding astonishingly like Sir Winston, Mr. Alsop quoted the statesman thusly: "The United States . . . a great and powerful country . . . like a strong horse, pulling the forlorn out of the mire and mire into a world of peace and prosperity."

A pause, and then, still Mr. Churchill—"But will America stay the course?"

THOMAS THIGPEN RE-ENLISTS U.S. FORCES, FRANCE—Specialist Four Thomas O. Thigpen, son of Mrs. Roena Thigpen, Route 1, Lexington, recently re-enlisted for six years in the Regular Army while serving with the U.S. Army General Depot in Tigrandes, France.

A warehouse foreman in the depot's Detachment B, Thigpen entered the Army in January 1957 and arrived overseas the following June.

The 24-year-old soldier attended Lexington High School.

PICTURE OF DEATH—One of these pictures may lead police to the murderer of three women who were slain in Starved Rock State Park, Ill. The shots were taken just before they died, and the killer's picture, detectives think, is on them.

FSC Will Conduct Research On TV

Project To Determine Television's Usefulness In Literacy Program

A thirteen-month research project to determine the extent to which television can be used effectively in reducing adult illiteracy will be carried on by Florence State College, Dr. E. B. Norton, president of the college, announced today.

The project is titled: An Experiment in the Eradication of Adult Illiteracy by Use of Televised Instruction over a State Educational Network Supplemented by Supervised Group Viewing and by the Related Use of Project-Supplied Materials of Instruction.

Miss Nell Pearson, former faculty member at Florence State, and until recently Director of the Literacy Center at Koinonia Foundation, Baltimore, Maryland, is chief investigator for the study and project director.

The purpose of the project is to apply an adaptation of the Laubach method of teaching reading and writing to illiterate adults through statewide television instruction (98 programs); to provide supplementary group instruction in approximately 60 centers; and to evaluate the effectiveness of this instruction.

According to Dr. Lawrence G. Derthick, U.S. Commissioner of Education, a grant by the United States Office of Education under Title VII of the National Defense Education Act will help make this study possible. The grant is one of seventeen recently awarded under Title VII to study effective means of using new educational media in elementary and secondary schools and in institutions of higher learning throughout the nation. It is being administered by the Educational Media Branch. The total amount of the grant is $66,205.

WHAT A TV SET COST 25 YEARS AGO . . .

If someone complains that a television set costs more today than it did 25 years ago, you'd lift an eyebrow. A quarter-century back, there were no television sets to be had — at any price. The same logic applies to the statement that "prescriptions cost more today than they used to cost." The drugs you now get didn't even exist until recent years. So the benefits these drugs bring . . . the rapid cures, the lives saved . . . could not be bought at any price. That's why we say . . .

Come to Church for Services

"A FAMILY THAT WORSHIPS TOGETHER — STAYS TOGETHER"

The Golden Time

When Mom and I got married, golden weddings seemed just as remote to us as they probably do to you. Matter of fact, folks celebrating them seemed like museum pieces!

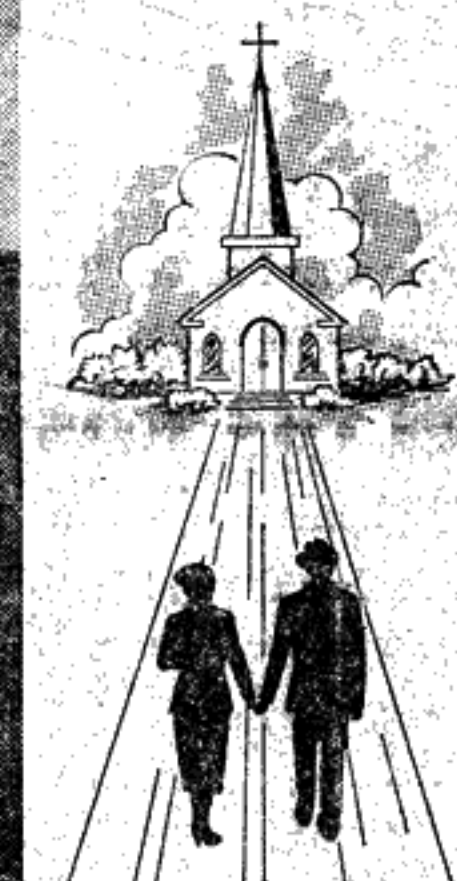

Now here we are, posing for our fiftieth anniversary picture! Funny part of it is that we don't feel a bit like "old folks!"

Still, a couple can't be married for half a century without putting in a lot of living. Mom and I have. There were times when we were so happy we thought we'd burst . . . other times when it didn't seem as if we could find the strength to keep going another minute.

Through it all, we've had our church. It's hard to put into words how important that's been. Maybe you'll get an idea when I tell you this. When Mom asked me what I'd like to do to celebrate our anniversary, I said, "First of all, let's go to Church. I want to say a little prayer of thanks."

Mom smiled at me. "So do I," she told me.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own life. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read four Bible daily.

Farm Review and Forecast

Ninety Families Plan Operations

Approximately 90 farm families, representing a good proportion of those using Farmers Home Administration credit in Lauderdale county, are planning their 1959 operations and to make 1960 plans.

Mr. Mixon said this year-end analysis is a service given by the agency which makes loans to eligible farmers to operate, improve, or enlarge family-type farms.

As a result of this study of their farm operations, Mr. Mixon said, some of the better practices that farmers here are working into their 1960 plans include (1) raising hogs on legume pasture for cheaper gains, (2) balanced rations, (3) farrowing stalls to save more pigs per litter and planning two litters per year, (4) culling herds and flocks, (5) testing soils, (6) terracing, (7) better gardens and canning and storing, and (8) using adequate equipment.

Farm families in Lauderdale county now using FHA credit include 65 with operating loans, 90 with farm ownership loans, 74 with loans to build or repair houses or other farm buildings.

Loans totaling $185,000.00 have been made to farmers in this area in an eight-month period since June 30, 1959. Of this amount, approximately $80,000.00 has been for acquiring equipment, livestock, seed, feed, fertilizer, and paying other operating costs, and paying for labor and materials in connection with housing and other improvements. This money, and the extra money from increased income, circulate through local trade channels.

Good farm planning and record keeping are carried on throughout the year and play an important part in operations financed with FHA credit. As proof that good practices pay off, Mr. Mixon pointed out that during fiscal 1959 fourteen borrowers repaid their loans in full and are now obtaining their necessary credit from local banks or other lenders.

High Producing Cows Live Longer

Have you ever heard the theory that high-producing cows burn themselves out and have a shorter life than their low-producing sisters.

According to a recent report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, 40 years of research show that this is not so. In fact, higher-producing cows tend to stay in the herd longer than low producers even when no selection is made on the basis of production.

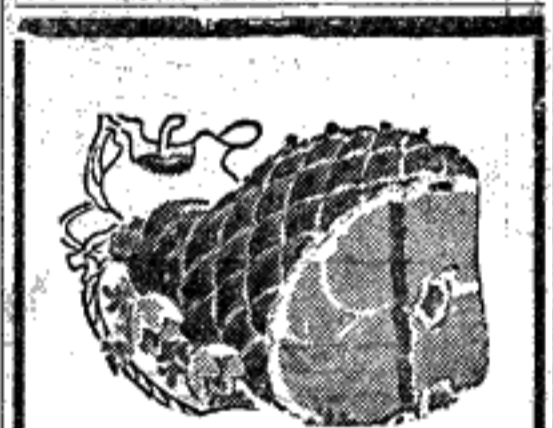

The average cow stops producing or breeding at about six years of age, points out Auburn Extension Dairyman John Parrish. It might be desirable to lengthen the life of the individual cow, but records show that this would probably be extremely difficult. Parrish explains that this is because long life has a very low level of heritability. Also, according to reports made by the Agricultural Research Service, nature's automatic selection for long life is already so high that it would be practically impossible to exceed it by deliberate effort.

NEW SYNTHETIC FOAM IS GAINING IN POPULARITY

Polyurethane foam is becoming more and more popular for use in upholstered furniture.

This synthetic foam is rapidly replacing foam rubber, reports Auburn Extension Home Furnishings Specialist Alice Peavy. The product is rigid, but it is also very comfortable, lightweight, holds its shape indefinitely, and it doesn't break away at the edges.

It's better to select closely woven fabrics for slip covers because they give greater protection against dust, hold their shape better, wear longer, and tailor more easily than loosely woven materials.

How To Increase Larger Corn Crops

Corn growers should use hybrids and plenty of nitrogen to get good stands.

Auburn Extension Service Agronomist Melvin Moore urges farmers not to use crib corn seed from corn grown last year but to use a hybrid that has been tested by the Auburn Experiment Station.

Farmers must have good, regular stands properly spaced to make high yields, says Moore. And rows should be spaced 33 to 40 inches apart. Plant the two-earred or prolific varieties so that the stalks will stand 18 to 24 inches apart in the rows and the one-earred varieties so that the stalks will be 12 to 18 inches apart.

Plenty of nitrogen is necessary to have a good crop of corn. Use 250 pounds of 4-12-12 per acre before planting and side-dress with about 65 pounds of nitrogen 30 days after planting.

Improved Pasture Conserves Land

Nature's way of conserving the soil is a blanket of green or other thick cover. And farmers uphold nature's practice by sodding pastures in legumes and grasses.

On the other hand, points out Extension Soils Specialist Walter Sowell, saving soil by thick cover and making pastures pay by grazing are sometimes in conflict. The Auburn University leader says the answer is to hit a happy medium by using methods that increase production of grasses and legumes but which also improve conservation.

Such requirements include a good stand to protect every inch of soil; lime and fertilizer to make more feed and thicker cover; grasses and clovers adapted to the soil, especially perennials; and regulated grazing to make sure there is always a good growth for better grazing.

Finally, avoid trampling the pasture while it is wet, as hoofs damage grass and pack the soil, allowing more water runoffs, adds Sowell.

Use Tractor In Power Failure

The recent electric power failure caused by the ice and snow in North Alabama made it necessary for some dairymen to milk their cows by hand.

Auburn Extension Engineer J. T. Gaillard offers a helpful suggestion to these dairymen. He says the farm tractor may be pulled along the side of the milking barn wall near a window. Then a heavy duty hose can be used to connect the intake manifold and the suction line of the milking machine. The hose should be the length of the milking machine hose so that it won't collapse under pressure.

It may take a little time to find out the correct speed to run the tractor motor. Therefore, the engine should be started before the manifold and suction lines are connected. Also, the motors of some tractors may not operate but one milking unit at a time, adds Gaillard.

TWO CLASSES ONIONS GROWN IN U.S.

Two classes of onions are grown in the United States.

According to Extension Consumer Education Specialist Dorothy Overby, these are the large, mild flavored onions and those of medium size with a stronger flavor. She states that onions grown in cold weather are usually stronger flavored than those grown in warmer climates.

Usually, the onions grown West of the Rockies are milder and sweeter than those grown in the East. However, onions of any class or flavor should be chosen because they are bright, clean, hard, well shaped, and mature with dry, crackly skins. The Auburn University specialist says to avoid those with sprouts, cracks, cuts, and root growths.

Serve sticks of peppermint or lemon candy with cups of steaming tea. Guest will stir, sweeten, and flavor tea all at once and there are no spoons to wash. Peppermint or molasses sticks are also good with hot coco.

Farm Fire Losses $156 Million In '58

Farm fires in 1958, the last year of record, took 3,000 lives, destroyed $156,000,000 in rural property.

Combustible substances such as hay, straw, gasoline, lightning, sparks from machinery, and carelessly discarded lighted cigarettes and matches combine to increase the danger of fire on the farm. In addition, many farms are in isolated areas not quickly reached by fire-fighters.

Because of these things the International Association of Fire Chiefs, in cooperating with the nation's spring clean-up activities, is urging the farmer to take necessary fire safety precautions.

SAFE USE OF PESTICIDES ON ALABAMA FARMS URGED

Pesticides are dangerous to have around the house if they are not properly labeled and stored. Four simple practices will insure safety for your children and pets, says Extension Service Entomologist Jerry Ruffin.

Read the label on the container and carefully follow the instructions. Store pesticides in a place where children, pets, and irresponsible people can't get into them. Remember to keep them in their original, labeled containers. And, adds Ruffin, dispose of the empty container where it cannot harm humans, animals, or plants.

P.T.A.

Frank Crumbley, president, introduced Rev. T. A. Duke, pastor of the Anderson Baptist church, at the meeting of the Rogersville Parent-Teacher Association on Thursday evening, to give the opening devotional.

In a striking illustration a little boy asked his father what he was going to do with his world. From this beginning Brother Duke proposed a better rule to govern our conduct, that of giving thought to the other person rather than all to self and suggested that the teachers place themselves in the "shoes" of the parents and the parents in the "shoes" of the teachers and both parents and teachers in the "shoes" of the child, thus reaching a better understanding of the hopes, ambitions and problems of the other.

Hubert Greene, chairman of the Finance Committee, presented plans for the dinner to be served at the school cafeteria on Thursday evening from 5:30 to 7:00 with the candidates speaking afterward. Mr. W. C. Hannah, principal, spoke to the large group in attendance concerning the situation the school systems find themselves in and explained causes reverting several years which have brought it about.

After open discussion the group gave its support to the stand taken by the teachers.

Mrs. R. H. Myers underwent surgery at the Baptist Hospital in Memphis last Friday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Ishmael Perry, and Mrs. Myers two daughters, Yvonne and Ruth Ann, were in Memphis on Friday.

A little son was born on the 18th to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cosby. He has been named David Jeff. Guests in the Pennington home for the week end were Mrs. Charlie Martin, Jr., and their son, Gerald Wayne, of Caledonia, Miss. Mrs. Emma Thompson of Anderson, who has been convalescing in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Florence Long, has returned to her home.

"ORTHOCIDE" SOIL TREATER X GAVE ME A STRONG, UNIFORM STAND

A. E. Yelvington of Clarendon, Ark. says, "Even with low germination seed, I got a strong uniform stand using ORTHOCIDE Soil Treater X. I left 8 rows untreated and you could really see the difference. In the early stages these 8 rows had more skips and dying cotton. In spite of the fact that we planted 3 or 4 days later than the year before, the cotton was a good 3 weeks earlier." ORTHOCIDE Soil Treater X creates a protected zone in the furrow—allows tender seedlings to develop normally despite cold, wet, infected soil.
